DEDICATION OF THE STATE BUILDINGS.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1892.

In addition to the vast structures erected for the international purposes of the Exposition, many of the states and territories have erected buildings of their own, destined to serve as headquarters, common gathering places for their own citizens, and for a fuller illustration of the natural resources and of the commercial and social progress of the individual parts of this country. Several of these buildings are of very considerable size and pretension, as will be seen from the dimensions given below. The total area thus added to the space under roof, in connection with the Exposition, is about ten acres.

On Saturday, between the hours of 10 and 2, formal exercises of dedication will be conducted at most of them, by the governors and representative officials of the several states and territories erecting them.

Following is a list of the buildings, together with their dimensions and cost.

Hal - le - lu - jah!

Detailed description: This system contains the first vocal entries and the beginning of the piano accompaniment. The vocal parts (Soprano, Alto, Tenor, Bass) are in G major and common time. The piano part features a rhythmic accompaniment of eighth and sixteenth notes. The lyrics 'Hal - le - lu - jah!' are written under each vocal line.

MACHINERY HALL.

Including annex, is 1,396 feet long by 490 feet wide, or 15.8 acres. Architects, Peabody & Stearns, of Boston. Cost of building, $1,000,000.

MANUFACTURES AND LIBERAL ARTS BUILDING.

This is the largest building ever constructed for exposition purposes, and will doubtless be regarded as the chief architectural marvel of the Exposition. Rectangular in shape, its dimensions in feet are: Length 1,687, width 787, height of walls 66, height of four center pavilions 120, height of apex of roof 245.6. The interior is divided into surrounding aisles 107 feet wide, and a great central hall 352 by 1,280 feet and 201 feet high. This hall alone contains more than ten acres and within this vast area there are no supporting pillars for the roof which covers it. The steel trusses, 27 in number, which support the roof, are far the largest ever made. They span 380 feet and rise 211 feet from the floor. Each one is 14 feet wide at the base, 30 at hip, 10 at apex, and weighs 300,000 pounds, or with purlines 400,000 pounds. This immense building covers an area of 30.5 acres. Its total space, including galleries, is 44 acres. Its construction required 17,000,000 feet of lumber, 12,000,000 pounds of steel and 2,000,000 pounds of iron. The floor above contains 7,000,000 feet, or 215 car loads of lumber, and five car loads of nails were required to nail it to the joists. The cost of the building is a little over $1,600,000. Architect, George B. Post, of New York.

MINES AND MINING BUILDING.

700 feet long by 350 feet wide, or 5.6 acres. Architect, S. S. Beeman, of Chicago. Cost of building, $266,000.

TRANSPORTATION BUILDING.

960 feet long by 260 feet wide, with an annex 900 feet long by 425 feet wide, or 14.4 acre. Architects, Adler & Sullivan, of Chicago. Cost of building, $370,000.

UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT BUILDING.

415 feet long by 345 feet wide, or 3.3 acres. Cost of building, $400,000.

WOMAN'S BUILDING.

388 feet long by 199 feet wide, or 1.8 acres. Architect, Miss Sophia G. Hayden, of Boston. Cost of building, $138,000.
