PREFACE.

BUT few can realize the task involved in the publication of a work of this kind. We have to contend against ignorance, prejudice and selfishness. Ignorance of some people as to our objects, many refusing to give their names, for fear they will be used for some swindling purpose; or their politics, lest it be used to their discredit; or how much property they own, fearing it is to increase their taxes. Prejudice of people who have subscribed through agents for publications, and not having received what they expected, have forever thereafter sworn warfare against all agents, without discriminating, or taking into consideration the absolute necessity of employing men under certain circumstances as the media between publisher and people. Selfishness by citizens who expect to have published, gratuitously, every thing they see fit to send us, which usually is of a personal nature, or not relevant matter, and if published would be of no general interest, therefore we deem best to suppress it, thereby receiving their outspoken enmity. For this work we do not claim perfection; that would be an impossibility. Most townships have been gone over thoroughly, but still there are undoubtedly errors, mostly in spelling names and in dates. We have several cases in Henry County where members of the same family spell their names in different ways, and a number of cases where the dates of births, of marriages, or when they came into the county, were improbable, and when brought to their notice, they had made a mistake generally of ten years in calculation. We give our agents the most positive instructions to be especially careful in getting names and dates, but oftentimes men are indifferent in giving required information, and when met on the road, at the thrashing machine, or in the rain or cold, the information is given hurriedly or carelessly, and our agents are obliged to put it down as given them, and when copied, mistakes necessarily occur.

We have endeavored to get the names of all tax-payers and voters. We have about 8,300 names, the vote being about 5,500, which shows we could not have missed many. In our History of the County we have endeavored to give an interesting, condensed and correct sketch. Our History of Illinois will give the reader some interesting and valuable historical facts. Our Laws should be carefully read by every business man and farmer; they contain invaluable information. In fact we have toiled long and at great expense, and have far exceeded our promises to make every thing in these pages interesting and valuable, and all you could expect or wish, and in your criticisms, please to bear in mind that in gathering, compiling and publishing a volume of this kind, perfection would be an impossibility.

We wish to extend our sincere and warmest thanks to the citizens of Henry County for their kind treatment, and for assistance rendered us in furnishing information for this work. They are too numerous to here name, but to the press and early settlers in particular we are grateful for their labors in aiding us to gather the material for the History of the County. The Cambridge Chronicle furnished us with its files of 1858 and 1859, which contained a series of articles by Dr. A. A. Dunn, its editor, on the early settlement of the county, and from them we have taken much of our early History.

HISTORY OF ILLINOIS.

The name of this beautiful Prairie State is derived from Illini, a Delaware word signifying Superior Men. It has a French termination, and is a symbol of how the two races—the French and the Indians—were intermixed during the early history of the country.

The appellation was no doubt well applied to the primitive inhabitants of the soil whose prowess in savage warfare long withstood the combined attacks of the fierce Iroquois on the one side, and the no less savage and relentless Sacs and Foxes on the other. The Illinois were once a powerful confederacy, occupying the most beautiful and fertile region in the great Valley of the Mississippi, which their enemies coveted and struggled long and hard to wrest from them. By the fortunes of war they were diminished in numbers, and finally destroyed. “Starved Rock,” on the Illinois River, according to tradition, commemorates their last tragedy, where, it is said, the entire tribe starved rather than surrender.

EARLY DISCOVERIES.

The first European discoveries in Illinois date back over two hundred years. They are a part of that movement which, from the beginning to the middle of the seventeenth century, brought the French Canadian missionaries and fur traders into the Valley of the Mississippi, and which, at a later period, established the civil and ecclesiastical authority of France from the Gulf of St. Lawrence to the Gulf of Mexico, and from the foot-hills of the Alleghanies to the Rocky Mountains.

The great river of the West had been discovered by DeSoto, the Spanish conqueror of Florida, three quarters of a century before the French founded Quebec in 1608, but the Spanish left the country a wilderness, without further exploration or settlement within its borders, in which condition it remained until the Mississippi was discovered by the agents of the French Canadian government, Joliet and Marquette, in 1673. These renowned explorers were not the first white visitors to Illinois. In 1671—two years in advance of them—came Nicholas Perrot to Chicago. He had been sent by Talon as an agent of the Canadian government to call a great peace convention of Western Indians at Green Bay, preparatory to the movement for the discovery of the Mississippi. It was deemed a good stroke of policy to secure, as far as possible, the friendship and co-operation of the Indians, far and near, before venturing upon an enterprise which their hostility might render disastrous, and which their friendship and assistance would do so much to make successful; and to this end Perrot was sent to call together in council the tribes throughout the Northwest, and to promise them the commerce and protection of the French government. He accordingly arrived at Green Bay in 1671, and procuring an escort of Pottawattamies, proceeded in a bark canoe upon a visit to the Miamis, at Chicago. Perrot was therefore the first European to set foot upon the soil of Illinois.

Still there were others before Marquette. In 1672, the Jesuit missionaries, Fathers Claude Allouez and Claude Dablon, bore the standard of the Cross from their mission at Green Bay through western Wisconsin and northern Illinois, visiting the Foxes on Fox River, and the Masquottines and Kikapoos at the mouth of the Milwaukee. These missionaries penetrated on the route afterwards followed by Marquette as far as the Kikapoo village at the head of Lake Winnebago, where Marquette, in his journey, secured guides across the portage to the Wisconsin.

The oft-repeated story of Marquette and Joliet is well known. They were the agents employed by the Canadian government to discover the Mississippi. Marquette was a native of France, born in 1637, a Jesuit priest by education, and a man of simple faith and of great zeal and devotion in extending the Roman Catholic religion among the Indians. Arriving in Canada in 1666, he was sent as a missionary to the far Northwest, and, in 1668, founded a mission at Sault Ste. Marie. The following year he moved to La Pointe, in Lake Superior, where he instructed a branch of the Hurons till 1670, when he removed south, and founded the mission at St. Ignace, on the Straits of Mackinaw. Here he remained, devoting a portion of his time to the study of the Illinois language under a native teacher who had accompanied him to the mission from La Pointe, till he was joined by Joliet in the Spring of 1673. By the way of Green Bay and the Fox and Wisconsin Rivers, they entered the Mississippi, which they explored to the mouth of the Arkansas, and returned by the way of the Illinois and Chicago Rivers to Lake Michigan.

On his way up the Illinois, Marquette visited the great village of the Kaskaskias, near what is now Utica, in the county of LaSalle. The following year he returned and established among them the mission of the Immaculate Virgin Mary, which was the first Jesuit mission founded in Illinois and in the Mississippi Valley. The intervening winter he had spent in a hut which his companions erected on the Chicago River, a few leagues from its mouth. The founding of this mission was the last act of Marquette's life. He died in Michigan, on his way back to Green Bay, May 18, 1675.

FIRST FRENCH OCCUPATION.

The first French occupation of the territory now embraced in Illinois was effected by LaSalle in 1680, seven years after the time of Marquette and Joliet. LaSalle, having constructed a vessel, the "Griffin," above the falls of Niagara, which he sailed to Green Bay, and having passed thence in canoes to the mouth of the St. Joseph River, by which and the Kankakee he reached the Illinois, in January, 1680, erected Fort Crevecœur, at the lower end of Peoria Lake, where the city of Peoria is now situated. The place where this ancient fort stood may still be seen just below the outlet of Peoria Lake. It was destined, however, to a temporary existence. From this point, LaSalle determined to descend the Mississippi to its mouth, but did not accomplish this purpose till two years later—in 1682. Returning to Fort Frontenac for the purpose of getting materials with which to rig his vessel, he left the fort in charge of Tonti, his lieutenant, who during his absence was driven off by the Iroquois Indians. These savages had made a raid upon the settlement of the Illinois, and had left nothing in their track but ruin and desolation. Mr. Davidson, in his History of Illinois, gives the following graphic account of the picture that met the eyes of LaSalle and his companions on their return :

"At the great town of the Illinois they were appalled at the scene which opened to their view. No hunter appeared to break its death-like silence with a salutatory whoop of welcome. The plain on which the town had stood was now strewn with charred fragments of lodges, which had so recently swarmed with savage life and hilarity. To render more hideous the picture of desolation, large numbers of skulls had been placed on the upper extremities of lodge-poles which had escaped the devouring flames. In the midst of these horrors was the rude fort of the spoilers, rendered frightful by the same ghastly relics. A near approach showed that the graves had been robbed of their bodies, and swarms of buzzards were discovered glutting their loathsome stomachs on the reeking corruption. To complete the work of destruction, the growing corn of the village had been cut down and burned, while the pits containing the products of previous years, had been rifled and their contents scattered with wanton waste. It was evident the suspected blow of the Iroquois had fallen with relentless fury."

Tonti had escaped LaSalle knew not whither. Passing down the lake in search of him and his men, LaSalle discovered that the fort had been destroyed, but the vessel which he had partly constructed was still on the stocks and but slightly injured. After further fruitless search, failing to find Touti, he fastened to a tree a painting representing himself and party sitting in a canoe and bearing a pipe of peace, and to the painting attached a letter addressed to Touti.

Touti had escaped, and, after untold privations, taken shelter among the Pottawattamies near Green Bay. These were friendly to the French. One of their old chiefs used to say, "There were but three great captains in the world, himself, Touti and LaSalle."

GENIUS OF LASALLE.

We must now return to LaSalle, whose exploits stand out in such bold relief. He was born in Rouen, France, in 1643. His father was wealthy, but he renounced his patrimony on entering a college of the Jesuits, from which he separated and came to Canada a poor man in 1666. The priests of St. Sulpice, among whom he had a brother, were then the proprietors of Montreal, the nucleus of which was a seminary or convent founded by that order. The Superior granted to LaSalle a large tract of land at LaChine, where he established himself in the fur trade. He was a man of daring genius, and outstripped all his competitors in exploits of travel and commerce with the Indians. In 1669, he visited the headquarters of the great Iroquois Confederacy, at Onondaga, in the heart of New York, and, obtaining guides, explored the Ohio River to the falls at Louisville.

In order to understand the genius of LaSalle, it must be remembered that for many years prior to his time the missionaries and traders were obliged to make their way to the Northwest by the Ottawa River (of Canada) on account of the fierce hostility of the Iroquois along the lower lakes and Niagara River, which entirely closed this latter route to the Upper Lakes. They carried on their commerce chiefly by canoes, paddling them through the Ottawa to Lake Nipissing, carrying them across the portage to French River, and descending that to Lake Huron. This being the route by which they reached the Northwest, accounts for the fact that all the earliest Jesuit missions were established in the neighborhood of the Upper Lakes. LaSalle conceived the grand idea of opening the route by Niagara River and the Lower Lakes to Canadian commerce by sail vessels, connecting it with the navigation of the Mississippi, and thus opening a magnificent water communication from the Gulf of St. Lawrence to the Gulf of Mexico. This truly grand and comprehensive purpose seems to have animated him in all his wonderful achievements and the matchless difficulties and hardships he surmounted. As the first step in the accomplishment of this object he established himself on Lake Ontario, and built and garrisoned Fort Frontenac, the site of the present city of Kingston, Canada. Here he obtained a grant of land from the French crown and a body of troops by which he beat back the invading Iroquois and cleared the passage to Niagara Falls. Having by this masterly stroke made it safe to attempt a hitherto untried expedition, his next step, as we have seen, was to advance to the Falls with all his outfit for building a ship with which to sail the lakes. He was successful in this undertaking, though his ultimate purpose was defeated by a strange combination of untoward circumstances. The Jesuits evidently hated LaSalle and plotted against him, because he had abandoned them and co-operated with a rival order. The fur traders were also jealous of his superior success in opening new channels of commerce. At LaChine he had taken the trade of Lake Ontario, which but for his presence there would have gone to Quebec. While they were plodding with their bark canoes through the Ottawa he was constructing sailing vessels to command the trade of the lakes and the Mississippi. These great plans excited the jealousy and envy of the small traders, introduced treason and revolt into the ranks of his own companions, and finally led to the foul assassination by which his great achievements were prematurely ended.

In 1682, LaSalle, having completed his vessel at Peoria, descended the Mississippi to its confluence with the Gulf of Mexico. Erecting a standard on which he inscribed the arms of France, he took formal possession of the whole valley of the mighty river, in the name of Louis XIV., then reigning, in honor of whom he named the country LOUISIANA.

LaSalle then went to France, was appointed Governor, and returned with a fleet and immigrants, for the purpose of planting a colony in Illinois. They arrived in due time in the Gulf of Mexico, but failing to find the mouth of the Mississippi, up which LaSalle intended to sail, his supply ship, with the immigrants, was driven ashore and wrecked on Matagorda Bay. With the fragments of the vessel he constructed a stockade and rude huts on the shore for the protection of the immigrants, calling the post Fort St. Louis. He then made a trip into New Mexico, in search of silver mines, but, meeting with disappointment, returned to find his little colony reduced to forty souls. He then resolved to travel on foot to Illinois, and, starting with his companions, had reached the valley of the Colorado, near the mouth of Trinity river, when he was shot by one of his men. This occurred on the 19th of March, 1687.

Dr. J. W. Foster remarks of him: "Thus fell, not far from the banks of the Trinity, Robert Cavalier de la Salle, one of the grandest characters that ever figured in American history—a man capable of originating the vastest schemes, and endowed with a will and a judgment capable of carrying them to successful results. Had ample facilities been placed by the King of France at his disposal, the result of the colonization of this continent might have been far different from what we now behold."

EARLY SETTLEMENTS.

A temporary settlement was made at Fort St. Louis, or the old Kaskaskia village, on the Illinois River, in what is now LaSalle County, in 1682. In 1690, this was removed, with the mission connected with it, to Kaskaskia, on the river of that name, emptying into the lower Mississippi in St. Clair County. Cahokia was settled about the same time, or at least, both of these settlements began in the year 1690, though it is now pretty well settled that Cahokia is the older place, and ranks as the oldest permanent settlement in Illinois, as well as in the Mississippi Valley. The reason for the removal of the old Kaskaskia settlement and mission, was probably because the dangerous and difficult route by Lake Michigan and the Chicago portage had been almost abandoned, and travelers and traders passed down and up the Mississippi by the Fox and Wisconsin River route. They removed to the vicinity of the Mississippi in order to be in the line of travel from Canada to Louisiana, that is, the lower part of it, for it was all Louisiana then south of the lakes.

During the period of French rule in Louisiana, the population probably never exceeded ten thousand, including whites and blacks. Within that portion of it now included in Indiana, trading posts were established at the principal Miami villages which stood on the head waters of the Maumee, the Wea villages situated at Oniatenon, on the Wabash, and the Piankeshaw villages at Post Vincennes; all of which were probably visited by French traders and missionaries before the close of the seventeenth century.

In the vast territory claimed by the French, many settlements of considerable importance had sprung up. Biloxi, on Mobile Bay, had been founded by D'Iberville, in 1699; Antoine de Lamotte Cadillac had founded Detroit in 1701; and New Orleans had been founded by Bienville, under the auspices of the Mississippi Company, in 1718. In Illinois also, considerable settlements had been made, so that in 1730 they embraced one hundred and forty French families, about six hundred "converted Indians," and many traders and voyageurs. In that portion of the country, on the east side of the Mississippi, there were five distinct settlements, with their respective villages, viz.: Cahokia, near the mouth of Cahokia Creek and about five miles below the present city of St. Louis; St. Philip, about forty-five miles below Cahokia, and four miles above Fort Chartres; Fort Chartres, twelve miles above Kaskaskia; Kaskaskia, situated on the Kaskaskia River, five miles above its confluence with the Mississippi; and Prairie du Roher, near Fort Chartres. To these must be added St. Genevieve and St. Louis, on the west side of the Mississippi. These, with the exception of St. Louis, are among the oldest French towns in the Mississippi Valley. Kaskaskia, in its best days, was a town of some two or three thousand inhabitants. After it passed from the crown of France its population for many years did not exceed fifteen hundred. Under British rule, in 1773, the population had decreased to four hundred and fifty. As early as 1721, the Jesuits had established a college and a monastery in Kaskaskia.

Fort Chartres was first built under the direction of the Mississippi Company, in 1718, by M. de Boisbriant, a military officer, under command of Bienville. It stood on the east bank of the Mississippi, about eighteen miles below Kaskaskia, and was for some time the headquarters of the military commandants of the district of Illinois.

In the Centennial Oration of Dr. Fowler, delivered at Philadelphia, by appointment of Gov. Beveridge, we find some interesting facts with regard to the State of Illinois, which we appropriate in this history:

In 1682 Illinois became a possession of the French crown, a dependency of Canada, and a part of Louisiana. In 1765 the English flag was run up on old Fort Chartres, and Illinois was counted among the treasures of Great Britain.

In 1779 it was taken from the English by Col. George Rogers Clark. This man was resolute in nature, wise in council, prudent in policy, bold in action, and heroic in danger. Few men who have figured in the history of America are more deserving than this colonel. Nothing short of first-class ability could have rescued Vincennes and all Illinois from the English. And it is not possible to over-estimate the influence of this achievement upon the republic. In 1779 Illinois became a part of Virginia. It was soon known as Illinois County. In 1784 Virginia ceded all this territory to the general government, to be cut into States, to be republican in form, with "the same right of sovereignty, freedom, and independence as the other States."

In 1787 it was the object of the wisest and ablest legislation found in any merely human records. No man can study the secret history of

and not feel that Providence was guiding with sleepless eye these unborn States. The ordinance that on July 13, 1787, finally became the incorporating act, has a most marvelous history. Jefferson had vainly tried to secure a system of government for the northwestern territory. He was an emancipationist of that day, and favored the exclusion of slavery from the territory Virginia had ceded to the general government; but the South voted him down as often as it came up. In 1787, as late as July 10, an organizing act without the anti-slavery clause was pending. This concession to the South was expected to carry it. Congress was in session in New York City. On July 5, Rev. Dr. Manasseh Cutler, of Massachusetts, came into New York to lobby on the northwestern territory. Everything seemed to fall into his hands. Events were ripe.

The state of the public credit, the growing of Southern prejudice, the basis of his mission, his personal character, all combined to complete one of those sudden and marvelous revolutions of public sentiment that once in five or ten centuries are seen to sweep over a country like the breath of the Almighty. Cutler was a graduate of Yale—received his A.M. from Harvard, and his D.D. from Yale. He had studied and taken degrees in the three learned professions, medicine, law, and divinity. He had thus America's best indorsement. He had published a scientific examination of the plants of New England. His name stood second only to that of Franklin as a scientist in America. He was a courtly gentleman of the old style, a man of commanding presence, and of inviting face. The Southern members said they had never seen such a gentleman in the North. He came representing a company that desired to purchase a tract of land now included in Ohio, for the purpose of planting a colony. It was a speculation. Government money was worth eighteen cents on the dollar. This Massachusetts company had collected enough to purchase 1,500,000 acres of land. Other speculators in New York made Dr. Cutler their agent (lobbyist). On the 12th he represented a demand for 5,500,000 acres. This would reduce the national debt. Jefferson and Virginia were regarded as authority concerning the land Virginia had just ceded. Jefferson's policy wanted to provide for the public credit, and this was a good opportunity to do something.

Massachusetts then owned the territory of Maine, which she was crowding on the market. She was opposed to opening the northwestern region. This fired the zeal of Virginia. The South caught the inspiration, and all exalted Dr. Cutler. The English minister invited him to dine with some of the Southern gentlemen. He was the center of interest.

The entire South rallied round him. Massachusetts could not vote against him, because many of the constituents of her members were interested personally in the western speculation. Thus Cutler, making friends with the South, and, doubtless, using all the arts of the lobby, was enabled to command the situation. True to deeper convictions, he dictated one of the most compact and finished documents of wise statesmanship that has ever adorned any human law book. He borrowed from Jefferson the term "Articles of Compact," which, preceding the federal constitution, rose into the most sacred character. He then followed very closely the constitution of Massachusetts, adopted three years before. Its most marked points were:

1. The exclusion of slavery from the territory forever.
2. Provision for public schools, giving one township for a seminary, and every section numbered 16 in each township; that is, one-thirty-sixth of all the land, for public schools.

3. A provision prohibiting the adoption of any constitution or the enactment of any law that should nullify pre-existing contracts.

Be it forever remembered that this compact declared that "Religion, morality, and knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall always be encouraged."

Dr. Cutler planted himself on this platform and would not yield. Giving his unqualified declaration that it was that or nothing—that unless they could make the land desirable they did not want it—he took his horse and buggy, and started for the constitutional convention in Philadelphia. On July 13, 1787, the bill was put upon its passage, and was unanimously adopted, every Southern member voting for it, and only one man, Mr. Yates, of New York, voting against it. But as the States voted as States, Yates lost his vote, and the compact was put beyond repeal.

Thus the great States of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin—a vast empire, the heart of the great valley—were consecrated to freedom, intelligence, and honesty. Thus the great heart of the nation was prepared for a year and a day and an hour. In the light of these eighty-nine years I affirm that this act was the salvation of the republic and the destruction of slavery. Soon the South saw their great blunder, and tried to repeal the compact. In 1803 Congress referred it to a committee of which John Randolph was chairman. He reported that this ordinance was a compact, and opposed repeal. Thus it stood a rock, in the way of the on-rushing sea of slavery.

With all this timely aid it was, after all, a most desperate and protracted struggle to keep the soil of Illinois sacred to freedom. It was the natural battle-field for the irrepressible conflict. In the southern end of the State slavery preceded the compact. It existed among the old French settlers, and was hard to eradicate. The southern part of the State was settled from the slave States, and this population brought their laws, customs, and institutions with them. A stream of population from the North poured into the northern part of the State. These sections misunderstood and hated each other perfectly. The Southerners regarded the Yankees as a skinning, tricky, penurious race of peddlers, filling the country with tinware, brass clocks, and wooden nutmegs. The Northerner thought of the Southerner as a lean, lank, lazy creature, burrowing in a hut, and rioting in whisky, dirt and ignorance. These causes aided in making the struggle long and bitter. So strong was the sympathy with slavery that, in spite of the ordinance of 1787, and in spite of the deed of cession, it was determined to allow the old French settlers to retain their slaves. Planters from the slave States might bring their slaves, if they would give them a chance to choose freedom or years of service and bondage for their children till they should become thirty years of age. If they chose freedom they must leave the State in sixty days or be sold as fugitives. Servants were whipped for offenses for which white men are fined. Each lash paid forty cents of the fine. A negro ten miles from home without a pass was whipped. These famous laws were imported from the slave States just as they imported laws for the inspection of flax and wool when there was neither in the State.

These Black Laws are now wiped out. A vigorous effort was made to protect slavery in the State Constitution of 1817. It barely failed. It was renewed in 1825, when a convention was asked to make a new constitution. After a hard fight the convention was defeated. But slaves did not disappear from the census of the State until 1850. There were mobs and murders in the interest of slavery. Lovejoy was added to the list of martyrs—a sort of first-fruits of that long life of immortal heroes who saw freedom as the one supreme desire of their souls, and were so enamored of her that they preferred to die rather than survive her.

The population of 12,282 that occupied the territory in A.D. 1800, increased to 45,000 in A.D. 1818, when the State Constitution was adopted, and Illinois took her place in the Union, with a star on the flag and two votes in the Senate.

Shadrach Bond was the first Governor, and in his first message he recommended the construction of the Illinois and Michigan Canal.

The simple economy in those days is seen in the fact that the entire bill for stationery for the first Legislature was only $13.50. Yet this simple body actually enacted a very superior code.

There was no money in the territory before the war of 1812. Deer skins and coon skins were the circulating medium. In 1821, the Legislature ordained a State Bank on the credit of the State. It issued notes in the likeness of bank bills. These notes were made a legal tender for every thing, and the bank was ordered to loan to the people $100 on personal security, and more on mortgages. They actually passed a resolution requesting the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States to receive these notes for land. The old French Lieutenant Governor, Col. Menard, put the resolution as follows: “Gentlemen of the Senate: It is moved and seconded dat de notes of dis bank be made land-office money. All in favor of dat motion say aye; all against it say no. It is decided in de affirmative. Now, gentlemen, I bet you one hundred dollar he never be land-office money!” Hard sense, like hard money, is always above par.

This old Frenchman presents a fine figure up against the dark background of most of his nation. They made no progress. They clung to their earliest and simplest implements. They never wore hats or caps.

They pulled their blankets over their heads in the winter like the Indians, with whom they freely intermingled.

Demagogism had an early development. One John Grammar (only in name), elected to the Territorial and State Legislatures of 1816 and 1836, invented the policy of opposing every new thing, saying, "If it succeeds, no one will ask who voted against it. If it proves a failure, he could quote its record." In sharp contrast with Grammar was the character of D. P. Cook, after whom the county containing Chicago was named. Such was his transparent integrity and remarkable ability that his will was almost the law of the State. In Congress, a young man, and from a poor State, he was made Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. He was pre-eminent for standing by his committee, regardless of consequences. It was his integrity that elected John Quincy Adams to the Presidency. There were four candidates in 1824, Jackson, Clay, Crawford, and John Quincy Adams. There being no choice by the people, the election was thrown into the House. It was so balanced that it turned on his vote, and that he cast for Adams, electing him; then went home to face the wrath of the Jackson party in Illinois. It cost him all but character and greatness. It is a suggestive comment on the times, that there was no legal interest till 1830. It often reached 150 per cent., usually 50 per cent. Then it was reduced to 12, and now to 10 per cent.

PHYSICAL FEATURES OF THE PRAIRIE STATE.

In area the State has 55,410 square miles of territory. It is about 150 miles wide and 400 miles long, stretching in latitude from Maine to North Carolina. It embraces wide variety of climate. It is tempered on the north by the great inland, saltless, tideless sea, which keeps the thermometer from either extreme. Being a table land, from 600 to 1,600 feet above the level of the sea, one is prepared to find on the health maps, prepared by the general government, an almost clean and perfect record. In freedom from fever and malarial diseases and consumptions, the three deadly enemies of the American Saxon, Illinois, as a State, stands without a superior. She furnishes one of the essential conditions of a great people—sound bodies. I suspect that this fact lies back of that old Delaware word, Illini, superior men.

The great battles of history that have been determinative of dynasties and destinies have been strategical battles, chiefly the question of position. Thermopylæ has been the war-cry of freemen for twenty-four centuries. It only tells how much there may be in position. All this advantage belongs to Illinois. It is in the heart of the greatest valley in the world, the vast region between the mountains—a valley that could feed mankind for one thousand years. It is well on toward the center of the continent. It is in the great temperate belt, in which have been found nearly all the aggressive civilizations of history. It has sixty-five miles of frontage on the head of the lake. With the Mississippi forming the western and southern boundary, with the Ohio running along the southeastern line, with the Illinois River and Canal dividing the State diagonally from the lake to the Lower Mississippi, and with the Rock and Wabash Rivers furnishing altogether 2,000 miles of water-front, connecting with, and running through, in all about 12,000 miles of navigable water.

But this is not all. These waters are made most available by the fact that the lake and the State lie on the ridge running into the great valley from the east. Within cannon-shot of the lake the water runs away from the lake to the Gulf. The lake now empties at both ends, one into the Atlantic and one into the Gulf of Mexico. The lake thus seems to hang over the land. This makes the dockage most serviceable; there are no steep banks to damage it. Both lake and river are made for use.

The climate varies from Portland to Richmond; it favors every product of the continent, including the tropics, with less than half a dozen exceptions. It produces every great nutriment of the world except bananas and rice. It is hardly too much to say that it is the most productive spot known to civilization. With the soil full of bread and the earth full of minerals; with an upper surface of food and an under layer of fuel; with perfect natural drainage, and abundant springs and streams and navigable rivers; half way between the forests of the North and the fruits of the South; within a day's ride of the great deposits of iron, coal, copper, lead, and zinc; containing and controlling the great grain, cattle, pork, and lumber markets of the world, it is not strange that Illinois has the advantage of position.

This advantage has been supplemented by the character of the population. In the early days when Illinois was first admitted to the Union, her population were chiefly from Kentucky and Virginia. But, in the conflict of ideas concerning slavery, a strong tide of emigration came in from the East, and soon changed this composition. In 1870 her non-native population were from colder soils. New York furnished 133,290; Ohio gave 162,623; Pennsylvania sent on 98,352; the entire South gave us only 206,734. In all her cities, and in all her German and Scandinavian and other foreign colonies, Illinois has only about one-fifth of her people of foreign birth.

PROGRESS OF DEVELOPMENT.

One of the greatest elements in the early development of Illinois is the Illinois and Michigan Canal, connecting the Illinois and Mississippi Rivers with the lakes. It was of the utmost importance to the State. It was recommended by Gov. Bond, the first governor, in his first message. In 1821, the Legislature appropriated $10,000 for surveying the route. Two bright young engineers surveyed it, and estimated the cost at $600,000 or $700,000. It finally cost $8,000,000. In 1825, a law was passed to incorporate the Canal Company, but no stock was sold. In 1826, upon the solicitation of Cook, Congress gave 800,000 acres of land on the line of the work. In 1828, another law—commissioners appointed, and work commenced with new survey and new estimates. In 1834–35, George Farquhar made an able report on the whole matter. This was, doubtless, the ablest report ever made to a western legislature, and it became the model for subsequent reports and action. From this the work went on till it was finished in 1848. It cost the State a large amount of money; but it gave to the industries of the State an impetus that pushed it up into the first rank of greatness. It was not built as a speculation any more than a doctor is employed on a speculation. But it has paid into the Treasury of the State an average annual net sum of over $111,000.

Pending the construction of the canal, the land and town-lot fever broke out in the State, in 1834–35. It took on the malignant type in Chicago, lifting the town up into a city. The disease spread over the entire State and adjoining States. It was epidemic. It cut up men's farms without regard to locality, and cut up the purses of the purchasers without regard to consequences. It is estimated that building lots enough were sold in Indiana alone to accommodate every citizen then in the United States.

Towns and cities were exported to the Eastern market by the ship-load. There was no lack of buyers. Every up-ship came freighted with speculators and their monty.

This distemper seized upon the Legislature in 1836–37, and left not one to tell the tale. They enacted a system of internal improvement without a parallel in the grandeur of its conception. They ordered the construction of 1,300 miles of railroad, crossing the State in all directions. This was surpassed by the river and canal improvements. There were a few counties not touched by either railroad or river or canal, and those were to be comforted and compensated by the free distribution of $200,000 among them. To inflate this balloon beyond credence it was ordered that work should be commenced on both ends of each of these railroads and rivers, and at each river-crossing, all at the same time. The appropriations for these vast improvements were over $12,000,000, and commissioners were appointed to borrow the money on the credit of the State. Remember that all this was in the early days of railroading, when railroads were luxuries; that the State had whole counties with scarcely a cabin; and that the population of the State was less than 400,000, and you can form some idea of the vigor with which these brave men undertook the work of making a great State. In the light of history I am compelled to say that this was only a premature throb of the power that actually slumbered in the soil of the State. It was Hercules in the cradle.

At this juncture the State Bank loaned its funds largely to Godfrey Gilman & Co., and to other leading houses, for the purpose of drawing trade from St. Louis to Alton. Soon they failed, and took down the bank with them.

In 1840, all hope seemed gone. A population of 480,000 were loaded with a debt of $14,000,000. It had only six small cities, really only towns, namely: Chicago, Alton, Springfield, Quincy, Galena, Nauvoo. This debt was to be cared for when there was not a dollar in the treasury, and when the State had borrowed itself out of all credit, and when there was not good money enough in the hands of all the people to pay the interest of the debt for a single year. Yet, in the presence of all these difficulties, the young State steadily refused to repudiate. Gov. Ford took hold of the problem and solved it, bringing the State through in triumph.

Having touched lightly upon some of the more distinctive points in the history of the development of Illinois, let us next briefly consider the MATERIAL RESOURCES OF THE STATE.

It is a garden four hundred miles long and one hundred and fifty miles wide. Its soil is chiefly a black sandy loam, from six inches to sixty feet thick. On the American bottoms it has been cultivated for one hundred and fifty years without renewal. About the old French towns it has yielded corn for a century and a half without rest or help. It produces nearly everything green in the temperate and tropical zones. She leads all other States in the number of acres actually under plow. Her products from 25,000,000 of acres are incalculable. Her mineral wealth is scarcely second to her agricultural power. She has coal, iron, lead, copper, zinc, many varieties of building stone, fire clay, cuma clay, common brick clay, sand of all kinds, gravel, mineral paint—every thing needed for a high civilization. Left to herself, she has the elements of all greatness. The single item of coal is too vast for an appreciative handling in figures. We can handle it in general terms like algebraical signs, but long before we get up into the millions and billions the human mind drops down from comprehension to mere symbolic apprehension.

When I tell you that nearly four-fifths of the entire State is underlaid with a deposit of coal more than forty feet thick on the average (now estimated, by recent surveys, at seventy feet thick), you can get some idea of its amount, as you do of the amount of the national debt. There it is! 41,000 square miles—one vast mine into which you could put any of the States; in which you could bury scores of European and ancient empires, and have room enough all round to work without knowing that they had been sepulchered there.

Put this vast coal-bed down by the other great coal deposits of the world, and its importance becomes manifest. Great Britain has 12,000 square miles of coal; Spain, 3,000; France, 1,719; Belgium, 578; Illinois about twice as many square miles as all combined. Virginia has 20,000 square miles; Pennsylvania, 16,000; Ohio, 12,000. Illinois has 41,000 square miles. One-seventh of all the known coal on this continent is in Illinois.

Could we sell the coal in this single State for one-seventh of one cent a ton it would pay the national debt. Converted into power, even with the wastage in our common engines, it would do more work than could be done by the entire race, beginning at Adam's wedding and working ten hours a day through all the centuries till the present time, and right on into the future at the same rate for the next 600,000 years.

Great Britain uses enough mechanical power to-day to give to each man, woman, and child in the kingdom the help and service of nineteen untiring servants. No wonder she has leisure and luxuries. No wonder the home of the common artisan has in it more luxuries than could be found in the palace of good old King Arthur. Think, if you can conceive of it, of the vast army of servants that slumber in the soil of Illinois, impatiently awaiting the call of Genius to come forth to minister to our comfort.

At the present rate of consumption England's coal supply will be exhausted in 250 years. When this is gone she must transfer her dominion either to the Indies, or to British America, which I would not resist; or to some other people, which I would regret as a loss to civilization.

COAL IS KING.

At the same rate of consumption (which far exceeds our own) the deposit of coal in Illinois will last 120,000 years. And her kingdom shall be an everlasting kingdom.

Let us turn now from this reserve power to the annual products of the State. We shall not be humiliated in this field. Here we strike the secret of our national credit. Nature provides a market in the constant appetite of the race. Men must eat, and if we can furnish the provisions we can command the treasure. All that a man hath will he give for his life.

According to the last census Illinois produced 30,000,000 of bushels of wheat. That is more wheat than was raised by any other State in the Union. She raised last year 130,000,000 of bushels of corn—twice as much as any other State, and one-sixth of all the corn raised in the United States. She harvested 2,747,000 tons of hay, nearly one-tenth of all the hay in the Republic. It is not generally appreciated, but it is true, that the hay crop of the country is worth more than the cotton crop. The hay of Illinois equals the cotton of Louisiana. Go to Charleston, S. C., and see them peddling handfuls of hay or grass, almost as a curiosity, as we regard Chinese gods or the cryolite of Greenland; drink your coffee and condensed milk; and walk back from the coast for many a league through the sand and burs till you get up into the better atmosphere of the mountains, without seeing a waving meadow or a grazing herd; then you will begin to appreciate the meadows of the Prairie State, where the grass often grows sixteen feet high.

The value of her farm implements is $211,000,000, and the value of her live stock is only second to the great State of New York. Last year she had 25,000,000 hogs, and packed 2,113,845, about one-half of all that were packed in the United States. This is no insignificant item. Pork is a growing demand of the old world. Since the laborers of Europe have gotten a taste of our bacon, and we have learned how to pack it dry in boxes, like dry goods, the world has become the market.

The hog is on the march into the future. His nose is ordained to uncover the secrets of dominion, and his feet shall be guided by the star of empire.

Illinois marketed $57,000,000 worth of slaughtered animals—more than any other State, and a seventh of all the States.

Be patient with me, and pardon my pride, and I will give you a list of some of the things in which Illinois excels all other States.

Depth and richness of soil; per cent. of good ground; acres of improved land; large farms—some farms contain from 40,000 to 60,000 acres of cultivated land, 40,000 acres of corn on a single farm; number of farmers; amount of wheat, corn, oats and honey produced; value of animals for slaughter; number of hogs; amount of pork; number of horses—three times as many as Kentucky, the horse State.

Illinois excels all other States in miles of railroads and in miles of postal service, and in money orders sold per annum, and in the amount of lumber sold in her markets.

Illinois is only second in many important matters. This sample list comprises a few of the more important: Permanent school fund (good for a young state); total income for educational purposes; number of publishers of books, maps, papers, etc.; value of farm products and implements, and of live stock; in tons of coal mined.

The shipping of Illinois is only second to New York. Out of one port during the business hours of the season of navigation she sends forth a vessel every ten minutes. This does not include canal boats, which go one every five minutes. No wonder she is only second in number of bankers and brokers or in physicians and surgeons.

She is third in colleges, teachers and schools; cattle, lead, hay, flax, sorghum and beeswax.

She is fourth in population, in children enrolled in public schools, in law schools, in butter, potatoes and carriages.

She is fifth in value of real and personal property, in theological seminaries and colleges exclusively for women, in milk sold, and in boots and shoes manufactured, and in book-binding.

She is only seventh in the production of wood, while she is the twelfth in area. Surely that is well done for the Prairie State. She now has much more wood and growing timber than she had thirty years ago.

A few leading industries will justify emphasis. She manufactures \$205,000,000 worth of goods, which places her well up toward New York and Pennsylvania. The number of her manufacturing establishments increased from 1860 to 1870, 300 per cent.; capital employed increased 350 per cent., and the amount of product increased 400 per cent. She issued 5,500,000 copies of commercial and financial newspapers—only second to New York. She has 6,759 miles of railroad, thus leading all other States, worth \$636,458,000, using 3,245 engines, and 67,712 cars, making a train long enough to cover one-tenth of the entire roads of the State. Her stations are only five miles apart. She carried last year 15,795,000 passengers, an average of $36\frac{1}{2}$ miles, or equal to taking her entire population twice across the State. More than two-thirds of her land is within five miles of a railroad, and less than two per cent. is more than fifteen miles away.

The State has a large financial interest in the Illinois Central railroad. The road was incorporated in 1850, and the State gave each alternate section for six miles on each side, and doubled the price of the remaining land, so keeping herself good. The road received 2,595,000 acres of land, and pays to the State one-seventh of the gross receipts. The State receives this year $350,000, and has received in all about $7,000,000. It is practically the people's road, and it has a most able and gentlemanly management. Add to this the annual receipts from the canal, $111,000, and a large per cent. of the State tax is provided for.

THE RELIGION AND MORALS

of the State keep step with her productions and growth. She was born of the missionary spirit. It was a minister who secured for her the ordinance of 1787, by which she has been saved from slavery, ignorance, and dishonesty. Rev. Mr. Wiley, pastor of a Scotch congregation in Randolph County, petitioned the Constitutional Convention of 1818 to recognize Jesus Christ as king, and the Scriptures as the only necessary guide and book of law. The convention did not act in the case, and the old Covenanters refused to accept citizenship. They never voted until 1824, when the slavery question was submitted to the people; then they all voted against it and cast the determining votes. Conscience has predominated whenever a great moral question has been submitted to the people.

But little mob violence has ever been felt in the State. In 1817 regulators disposed of a band of horse-thieves that infested the territory. The Mormon indignities finally awoke the same spirit. Alton was also the scene of a pro-slavery mob, in which Lovejoy was added to the list of martyrs. The moral sense of the people makes the law supreme, and gives to the State unruffled peace.

With $22,300,000 in church property, and 4,298 church organizations, the State has that divine police, the sleepless patrol of moral ideas, that alone is able to secure perfect safety. Conscience takes the knife from the assassin's hand and the bludgeon from the grasp of the highwayman. We sleep in safety, not because we are behind bolts and bars—these only fence against the innocent; not because a lone officer drowns on a distant corner of a street; not because a sheriff may call his posse from a remote part of the county; but because conscience guards the very portals of the air and stirs in the deepest recesses of the public mind. This spirit issues within the State 9,500,000 copies of religious papers annually, and receives still more from without. Thus the crime of the State is only one-fourth that of New York and one-half that of Pennsylvania.

Illinois never had but one duel between her own citizens. In Belleville, in 1820, Alphonso Stewart and William Bennett arranged to vindicate injured honor. The seconds agreed to make it a sham, and make them shoot blanks. Stewart was in the secret. Bennett mistrusted something, and, unobserved, slipped a bullet into his gun and killed Stewart. He then fled the State. After two years he was caught, tried, convicted, and, in spite of friends and political aid, was hung. This fixed the code of honor on a Christian basis, and terminated its use in Illinois.

The early preachers were ignorant men, who were accounted eloquent according to the strength of their voices. But they set the style for all public speakers. Lawyers and political speakers followed this rule. Gov.

Ford says: "Nevertheless, these first preachers were of incalculable benefit to the country. They inculcated justice and morality. To them are we indebted for the first Christian character of the Protestant portion of the people."

In education Illinois surpasses her material resources. The ordinance of 1787 consecrated one thirty-sixth of her soil to common schools, and the law of 1818, the first law that went upon her statutes, gave three per cent. of all the rest to EDUCATION INSTEAD OF HIGHWAYS.

The old compact secures this interest forever, and by its yoking morality and intelligence it precludes the legal interference with the Bible in the public schools. With such a start it is natural that we should have 11,050 schools, and that our illiteracy should be less than New York or Pennsylvania, and only about one-half of Massachusetts. We are not to blame for not having more than one-half as many idiots as the great States. These public schools soon made colleges inevitable. The first college, still flourishing, was started in Lebanon in 1828, by the M. E. church, and named after Bishop McKendree. Illinois College, at Jacksonville, supported by the Presbyterians, followed in 1830. In 1832 the Baptists built Shurtleff College, at Alton. Then the Presbyterians built Knox College, at Galesburg, in 1838, and the Episcopalians built Jubilee College, at Peoria, in 1847. After these early years colleges have rained down. A settler could hardly encamp on the prairie but a college would spring up by his wagon. The State now has one very well endowed and equipped university, namely, the Northwestern University, at Evanston, with six colleges, ninety instructors, over 1,000 students, and $1,500,000 endowment.

Rev. J. M. Peek was the first educated Protestant minister in the State. He settled at Rock Spring, in St. Clair County, 1820, and left his impress on the State. Before 1837 only party papers were published, but Mr. Peek published a Gazetteer of Illinois. Soon after John Russell, of Bluffdale, published essays and tales showing genius. Judge James Hall published The Illinois Monthly Magazine with great ability, and an annual called The Western Souvenir, which gave him an enviable fame all over the United States. From these beginnings Illinois has gone on till she has more volumes in public libraries even than Massachusetts, and of the 44,500,000 volumes in all the public libraries of the United States, she has one-thirteenth. In newspapers she stands fourth. Her increase is marvelous. In 1850 she issued 5,000,000 copies; in 1860, 27,590,000; in 1870, 113,140,000. In 1860 she had eighteen colleges and seminaries; in 1870 she had eighty. That is a grand advance for the war decade.

This brings us to a record unsurpassed in the history of any age,

THE WAR RECORD OF ILLINOIS.

I hardly know where to begin, or how to advance, or what to say. I can at best give you only a broken synopsis of her deeds, and you must put them in the order of glory for yourself. Her sons have always been foremost on fields of danger. In 1832-33, at the call of Gov. Reynolds, her sons drove Blackhawk over the Mississippi.

When the Mexican war came, in May, 1846, 8,370 men offered themselves when only 3,720 could be accepted. The fields of Buena Vista and Vera Cruz, and the storming of Cerro Gordo, will carry the glory of Illinois soldiers along after the infamy of the cause they served has been forgotten. But it was reserved till our day for her sons to find a field and cause and foemen that could fitly illustrate their spirit and heroism. Illinois put into her own regiments for the United States government 256,000 men, and into the army through other States enough to swell the number to 290,000. This far exceeds all the soldiers of the federal government in all the war of the revolution. Her total years of service were over 600,000. She enrolled men from eighteen to forty-five years of age when the law of Congress in 1864—the test time—only asked for those from twenty to forty-five. Her enrollment was otherwise excessive. Her people wanted to go, and did not take the pains to correct the enrollment. Thus the basis of fixing the quota was too great, and then the quota itself, at least in the trying time, was far above any other State.

Thus the demand on some counties, as Monroe, for example, took every able-bodied man in the county, and then did not have enough to fill the quota. Moreover, Illinois sent 20,844 men for ninety or one hundred days, for whom no credit was asked. When Mr. Lincoln's attention was called to the inequality of the quota compared with other States, he replied, "The country needs the sacrifice. We must put the whip on the free horse." In spite of all these disadvantages Illinois gave to the country 73,000 years of service above all calls. With one-thirteenth of the population of the loyal States, she sent regularly one-tenth of all the soldiers, and in the peril of the closing calls, when patriots were few and weary, she then sent one-eighth of all that were called for by her loved and honored son in the white house. Her mothers and daughters went into the fields to raise the grain and keep the children together, while the fathers and older sons went to the harvest fields of the world. I knew a father and four sons who agreed that one of them must stay at home; and they pulled straws from a stack to see who might go. The father was left. The next day he came into the camp, saying: "Mother says she can get the crops in, and I am going, too." I know large Methodist churches from which every male member went to the army. Do you want to know what these heroes from Illinois did in the field? Ask any soldier with a good record of his own, who is thus able to judge, and he will tell you that the Illinois men went in to win. It is common history that the greater victories were won in the West. When everything else looked dark Illinois was gaining victories all down the river, and dividing the confederacy. Sherman took with him on his great march forty-five regiments of Illinois infantry, three companies of artillery, and one company of cavalry. He could not avoid

GOING TO THE SEA.

If he had been killed, I doubt not the men would have gone right on. Lincoln answered all rumors of Sherman's defeat with, "It is impossible; there is a mighty sight of fight in 100,000 Western men." Illinois soldiers brought home 300 battle-flags. The first United States flag that floated over Richmond was an Illinois flag. She sent messengers and nurses to every field and hospital, to care for her sick and wounded sons. She said, "These suffering ones are my sons, and I will care for them."

When individuals had given all, then cities and towns came forward with their credit to the extent of many millions, to aid these men and their families.

Illinois gave the country the great general of the war—Ulysses S. Grant—since honored with two terms of the Presidency of the United States.

One other name from Illinois comes up in all minds, embalmed in all hearts, that must have the supreme place in this story of our glory and of our nation's honor; that name is Abraham Lincoln, of Illinois.

The analysis of Mr. Lincoln's character is difficult on account of its symmetry.

In this age we look with admiration at his uncompromising honesty. And well we may, for this saved us. Thousands throughout the length and breadth of our country who knew him only as "Honest Old Abe," voted for him on that account; and wisely did they choose, for no other man could have carried us through the fearful night of the war. When his plans were too vast for our comprehension, and his faith in the cause too sublime for our participation; when it was all night about us, and all dread before us, and all sad and desolate behind us; when not one ray shone upon our cause; when traitors were haughty and exultant at the South, and fierce and blasphemous at the North; when the loyal men here seemed almost in the minority; when the stoutest heart quailed, the bravest cheek paled; when generals were defeating each other for place, and contractors were leeching out the very heart's blood of the prostrate republic: when every thing else had failed us, we looked at this calm, patient man standing like a rock in the storm, and said: "Mr. Lincoln is honest, and we can trust him still." Holding to this single point with the energy of faith and despair we held together, and, under God, he brought us through to victory.

His practical wisdom made him the wonder of all lands. With such certainty did Mr. Lincoln follow causes to their ultimate effects, that his foresight of contingencies seemed almost prophetic.

He is radiant with all the great virtues, and his memory shall shed a glory upon this age that shall fill the eyes of men as they look into history. Other men have excelled him in some point, but, taken at all points, all in all, he stands head and shoulders above every other man of 6,000 years. An administrator, he saved the nation in the perils of unparalleled civil war. A statesman, he justified his measures by their success. A philanthropist, he gave liberty to one race and salvation to another. A moralist, he bowed from the summit of human power to the foot of the Cross, and became a Christian. A mediator, he exercised mercy under the most absolute abeyance to law. A leader, he was no partisan. A commander, he was untainted with blood. A ruler in desperate times, he was unsullied with crime. A man, he has left no word of passion, no thought of malice, no trick of craft, no act of jealousy, no purpose of selfish ambition. Thus perfected, without a model, and without a peer, he was dropped into these troubled years to adorn and embellish all that is good and all that is great in our humanity, and to present to all coming time the representative of the divine idea of free government.

It is not too much to say that away down in the future, when the republic has fallen from its niche in the wall of time; when the great war itself shall have faded out in the distance like a mist on the horizon; when the Anglo-Saxon language shall be spoken only by the tongue of the stranger; then the generations looking this way shall see the great president as the supreme figure in this vortex of history

CHICAGO.

It is impossible in our brief space to give more than a meager sketch of such a city as Chicago, which is in itself the greatest marvel of the Prairie State. This mysterious, majestic, mighty city, born first of water, and next of fire; sown in weakness, and raised in power; planted among the willows of the marsh, and crowned with the glory of the mountains; sleeping on the bosom of the prairie, and rocked on the bosom of the sea; the youngest city of the world, and still the eye of the prairie, as Damascus, the oldest city of the world, is the eye of the desert. With a commerce far exceeding that of Corinth on her isthmus, in the highway to the East; with the defenses of a continent piled around her by the thousand miles, making her far safer than Rome on the banks of the Tiber; with schools eclipsing Alexandria and Athens; with liberties more conspicuous than those of the old republics; with a heroism equal to the first Carthage, and with a sanctity scarcely second to that of Jerusalem—set your thoughts on all this, lifted into the eyes of all men by the miracle of its growth, illuminated by the flame of its fall, and transfigured by the divinity of its resurrection, and you will feel, as I do, the utter impossibility of compassing this subject as it deserves. Some impression of her importance is received from the shock her burning gave to the civilized world.

When the doubt of her calamity was removed, and the horrid fact was accepted, there went a shudder over all cities, and a quiver over all lands. There was scarcely a town in the civilized world that did not shake on the brink of this opening chasm. The flames of our homes reddened all skies. The city was set upon a hill, and could not be hid. All eyes were turned upon it. To have struggled and suffered amid the scenes of its fall is as distinguishing as to have fought at Thermopylæ, or Salamis, or Hastings, or Waterloo, or Bunker Hill.

Its calamity amazed the world, because it was felt to be the common property of mankind.

The early history of the city is full of interest, just as the early history of such a man as Washington or Lincoln becomes public property, and is cherished by every patriot.

Starting with 560 acres in 1833, it embraced and occupied 23,000 acres in 1869, and, having now a population of more than 500,000, it commands general attention.

The first settler—Jean Baptiste Pointe au Sable, a mulatto from the West Indies—came and began trade with the Indians in 1796. John Kinzie became his successor in 1804, in which year Fort Dearborn was erected.

A mere trading-post was kept here from that time till about the time of the Blackhawk war, in 1832. It was not the city. It was merely a cock crowing at midnight. The morning was not yet. In 1833 the settlement about the fort was incorporated as a town. The voters were divided on the propriety of such corporation, twelve voting for it and one against it. Four years later it was incorporated as a city, and embraced 560 acres.

The produce handled in this city is an indication of its power. Grain and flour were imported from the East till as late as 1837. The first exportation by way of experiment was in 1839. Exports exceeded imports first in 1842. The Board of Trade was organized in 1848, but it was so weak that it needed nursing till 1855. Grain was purchased by the wagon-load in the street.

I remember sitting with my father on a load of wheat, in the long line of wagons along Lake street, while the buyers came and untied the bags, and examined the grain, and made their bids. That manner of business had to cease with the day of small things. Now our elevators will hold 15,000,000 bushels of grain. The cash value of the produce handled in a year is $215,000,000, and the produce weighs 7,000,000 tons or 700,000 car loads. This handles thirteen and a half ton each minute, all the year round. One tenth of all the wheat in the United States is handled in Chicago. Even as long ago as 1853 the receipts of grain in Chicago exceeded those of the goodly city of St. Louis, and in 1854 the exports of grain from Chicago exceeded those of New York and doubled those of St. Petersburg, Archangel, or Odessa, the largest grain markets in Europe.

The manufacturing interests of the city are not contemptible. In 1873 manufactories employed 45,000 operatives; in 1876, 60,000. The manufactured product in 1875 was worth $177,000,000.

No estimate of the size and power of Chicago would be adequate that did not put large emphasis on the railroads. Before they came thundering along our streets canals were the hope of our country. But who ever thinks now of traveling by canal packets? In June, 1852, there were only forty miles of railroad connected with the city. The old Galena division of the Northwestern ran out to Elgin. But now, who can count the trains and measure the roads that seek a terminus or connection in this city? The lake stretches away to the north, gathering in to this center all the harvests that might otherwise pass to the north of us. If you will take a map and look at the adjustment of railroads, you will see, first, that Chicago is the great railroad center of the world, as New York is the commercial city of this continent; and, second, that the railroad lines form the iron spokes of a great wheel whose hub is this city. The lake furnishes the only break in the spokes, and this seems simply to have pushed a few spokes together on each shore. See the eighteen trunk lines, exclusive of eastern connections.

Pass round the circle, and view their numbers and extent. There is the great Northwestern, with all its branches, one branch creeping along the lake shore, and so reaching to the north, into the Lake Superior regions, away to the right, and on to the Northern Pacific on the left, swinging around Green Bay for iron and copper and silver, twelve months in the year, and reaching out for the wealth of the great agricultural belt and isothermal line traversed by the Northern Pacific. Another branch, not so far north, feeling for the heart of the Badger State. Another pushing lower down the Mississippi—all these make many connections, and tapping all the vast wheat regions of Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, and all the regions this side of sunset. There is that elegant road, the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, running out a goodly number of branches, and reaping the great fields this side of the Missouri River. I can only mention the Chicago, Alton & St. Louis, our Illinois Central, described elsewhere, and the Chicago & Rock Island. Further around we come to the lines connecting us with all the eastern cities. The Chicago, Indianapolis & St. Louis, the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago, the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, and the Michigan Central and Great Western, give us many highways to the seaboard. Thus we reach the Mississippi at five points, from St. Paul to Cairo and the Gulf itself by two routes. We also reach Cincinnati and Baltimore, and Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, and New York. North and south run the water courses of the lakes and the rivers, broken just enough at this point to make a pass. Through this, from east to west, run the long lines that stretch from ocean to ocean.

This is the neck of the glass, and the golden sands of commerce must pass into our hands. Altogether we have more than 10,000 miles of railroad, directly tributary to this city, seeking to unload their wealth in our coffers. All these roads have come themselves by the infallible instinct of capital. Not a dollar was ever given by the city to secure one of them, and only a small per cent. of stock taken originally by her citizens, and that taken simply as an investment. Coming in the natural order of events, they will not be easily diverted.

There is still another showing to all this. The connection between New York and San Francisco is by the middle route. This passes inevitably through Chicago. St. Louis wants the Southern Pacific or Kansas Pacific, and pushes it out through Denver, and so on up to Cheyenne. But before the road is fairly under way, the Chicago roads shove out to Kansas City, making even the Kansas Pacific a feeder, and actually leaving St. Louis out in the cold. It is not too much to expect that Dakota, Montana, and Washington Territory will find their great market in Chicago.

But these are not all. Perhaps I had better notice here the ten or fifteen new roads that have just entered, or are just entering, our city. Their names are all that is necessary to give. Chicago & St. Paul, looking up the Red River country to the British possessions; the Chicago, Atlantic & Pacific; the Chicago, Decatur & State Line; the Baltimore & Ohio; the Chicago, Danville & Vincennes; the Chicago & LaSalle Railroad; the Chicago, Pittsburgh & Cincinnati; the Chicago and Canada Southern; the Chicago and Illinois River Railroad. These, with their connections, and with the new connections of the old roads, already in process of erection, give to Chicago not less than 10,000 miles of new tributaries from the richest land on the continent. Thus there will be added to the reserve power, to the capital within reach of this city, not less than $1,000,000,000.

Add to all this transporting power the ships that sail one every nine minutes of the business hours of the season of navigation; add, also, the canal boats that leave one every five minutes during the same time—and you will see something of the business of the city.

THE COMMERCE OF THIS CITY has been leaping along to keep pace with the growth of the country around us. In 1852, our commerce reached the hopeful sum of $20,000,000. In 1870 it reached $400,000,000. In 1871 it was pushed up above $450,000,000. And in 1875 it touched nearly double that.

One-half of our imported goods come directly to Chicago. Grain enough is exported directly from our docks to the old world to employ a semi-weekly line of steamers of 3,000 tons capacity. This branch is not likely to be greatly developed. Even after the great Welland Canal is completed we shall have only fourteen feet of water. The great ocean vessels will continue to control the trade.

The banking capital of Chicago is $24,431,000. Total exchange in 1875, $659,000,000. Her wholesale business in 1875 was $294,000,000. The rate of taxes is less than in any other great city.

The schools of Chicago are unsurpassed in America. Out of a population of 300,000 there were only 186 persons between the ages of six and twenty-one unable to read. This is the best known record.

In 1831 the mail system was condensed into a half-breed, who went on foot to Niles, Mich., once in two weeks, and brought back what papers and news he could find. As late as 1846 there was often only one mail a week. A post-office was established in Chicago in 1833, and the post-master nailed up old boot-legs on one side of his shop to serve as boxes for the nabobs and literary men.

It is an interesting fact in the growth of the young city that in the active life of the business men of that day the mail matter has grown to a daily average of over 6,500 pounds. It speaks equally well for the intelligence of the people and the commercial importance of the place, that the mail matter distributed to the territory immediately tributary to Chicago is seven times greater than that distributed to the territory immediately tributary to St. Louis.

The improvements that have characterized the city are as startling as the city itself. In 1831, Mark Beaubien established a ferry over the river, and put himself under bonds to carry all the citizens free for the privilege of charging strangers. Now there are twenty-four large bridges and two tunnels.

In 1833 the government expended $30,000 on the harbor. Then commenced that series of manœuvres with the river that has made it one of the world's curiosities. It used to wind around in the lower end of the town, and make its way rippling over the sand into the lake at the foot of Madison street. They took it up and put it down where it now is. It was a narrow stream, so narrow that even moderately small crafts had to go up through the willows and cat's tails to the point near Lake street bridge, and back up one of the branches to get room enough in which to turn around.

In 1844 the quagmires in the streets were first pontooned by plank roads, which acted in wet weather as public squirt-guns. Keeping you out of the mud, they compromised by squirting the mud over you. The wooden-block pavements came to Chicago in 1857. In 1840 water was delivered by peddlers in carts or by hand. Then a twenty-five horse-power engine pushed it through hollow or bored logs along the streets till 1854, when it was introduced into the houses by new works. The first fire-engine was used in 1835, and the first steam fire-engine in 1859. Gas was utilized for lighting the city in 1850. The Young Men's Christian Association was organized in 1858, and horse railroads carried them to their work in 1859. The museum was opened in 1863. The alarm telegraph adopted in 1864. The opera-house built in 1865. The city grew from 560 acres in 1833 to 23,000 in 1869. In 1834, the taxes amounted to $48.90, and the trustees of the town borrowed $60 more for opening and improving streets. In 1835, the legislature authorized a loan of $2,000, and the treasurer and street commissioners resigned rather than plunge the town into such a gulf.

Now the city embraces 36 square miles of territory, and has 30 miles of water front, besides the outside harbor of refuge, of 400 acres, inclosed by a crib sea-wall. One-third of the city has been raised up an average of eight feet, giving good pitch to the 263 miles of sewerage. The water of the city is above all competition. It is received through two tunnels extending to a crib in the lake two miles from shore. The closest analysis fails to detect any impurities, and, received 35 feet below the surface, it is always clear and cold. The first tunnel is five feet two inches in diameter and two miles long, and can deliver 50,000,000 of gallons per day. The second tunnel is seven feet in diameter and six miles long, running four miles under the city, and can deliver 100,000,000 of gallons per day. This water is distributed through 410 miles of water-mains.

The three grand engineering exploits of the city are: First, lifting the city up on jack-screws, whole squares at a time, without interrupting the business, thus giving us good drainage; second, running the tunnels under the lake, giving us the best water in the world; and third, the turning the current of the river in its own channel, delivering us from the old abominations, and making decency possible. They redound about equally to the credit of the engineering, to the energy of the people, and to the health of the city.

That which really constitutes the city, its indescribable spirit, its soul, the way it lights up in every feature in the hour of action, has not been touched. In meeting strangers, one is often surprised how some homely women marry so well. Their forms are bad, their gait uneven and awkward, their complexion is dull, their features are misshapen and mismatched, and when we see them there is no beauty that we should desire them. But when once they are aroused on some subject, they put on new proportions. They light up into great power. The real person comes out from its unseemly ambush, and captures us at will. They have power. They have ability to cause things to come to pass. We no longer wonder why they are in such high demand. So it is with our city.

There is no grand scenery except the two seas, one of water, the other of prairie. Nevertheless, there is a spirit about it, a push, a breadth, a power, that soon makes it a place never to be forsaken. One soon ceases to believe in impossibilities. Balaams are the only prophets that are disappointed. The bottom that has been on the point of falling out has been there so long that it has grown fast. It can not fall out. It has all the capital of the world itching to get inside the corporation.

The two great laws that govern the growth and size of cities are, first, the amount of territory for which they are the distributing and receiving points; second, the number of medium or moderate dealers that do this distributing. Monopolists build up themselves, not the cities. They neither eat, wear, nor live in proportion to their business. Both these laws help Chicago.

The tide of trade is eastward—not up or down the map, but across the map. The lake runs up a wingdam for 500 miles to gather in the business. Commerce can not ferry up there for seven months in the year, and the facilities for seven months can do the work for twelve. Then the great region west of us is nearly all good, productive land. Dropping south into the trail of St. Louis, you fall into vast deserts and rocky districts, useful in holding the world together. St. Louis and Cincinnati, instead of rivaling and hurting Chicago, are her greatest sureties of dominion. They are far enough away to give sea-room,—farther off than Paris is from London,—and yet they are near enough to prevent the springing up of any other great city between them.

St. Louis will be helped by the opening of the Mississippi, but also hurt. That will put New Orleans on her feet, and with a railroad running over into Texas and so West, she will tap the streams that now crawl up the Texas and Missouri road. The current is East, not North, and a seaport at New Orleans can not permanently help St. Louis.

Chicago is in the field almost alone, to handle the wealth of one-fourth of the territory of this great republic. This strip of seacoast divides its margins between Portland, Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Savannah, or some other great port to be created for the South in the next decade. But Chicago has a dozen empires casting their treasures into her lap. On a bed of coal that can run all the machinery of the world for 500 centuries; in a garden that can feed the race by the thousand years; at the head of the lakes that give her a temperature as a summer resort equaled by no great city in the land; with a climate that insures the health of her citizens; surrounded by all the great deposits of natural wealth in mines and forests and herds, Chicago is the wonder of to-day, and will be the city of the future.

MASSACRE AT FORT DEARBORN.

During the war of 1812, Fort Dearborn became the theater of stirring events. The garrison consisted of fifty-four men under command of Captain Nathan Heald, assisted by Lieutenant Helm (son-in-law of Mrs. Kinzie) and Ensign Ronan. Dr. Voorhees was surgeon. The only residents at the post at that time were the wives of Captain Heald and Lieutenant Helm, and a few of the soldiers, Mr. Kinzie and his family, and a few Canadian voyageurs, with their wives and children. The soldiers and Mr. Kinzie were on most friendly terms with the Pottawattamies and Winnebagos, the principal tribes around them, but they could not win them from their attachment to the British.

One evening in April, 1812, Mr. Kinzie sat playing on his violin and his children were dancing to the music, when Mrs. Kinzie came rushing into the house, pale with terror, and exclaiming: "The Indians! the Indians!" "What? Where?" eagerly inquired Mr. Kinzie. "Up at Lee's, killing and scalping," answered the frightened mother, who, when the alarm was given, was attending Mrs. Barnes (just confined) living not far off. Mr. Kinzie and his family crossed the river and took refuge in the fort, to which place Mrs. Barnes and her infant not a day old were safely conveyed. The rest of the inhabitants took shelter in the fort. This alarm was caused by a scalping party of Winnebagos, who hovered about the fort several days, when they disappeared, and for several weeks the inhabitants were undisturbed.

On the 7th of August, 1812, General Hull, at Detroit, sent orders to Captain Heald to evacuate Fort Dearborn, and to distribute all the United States property to the Indians in the neighborhood—a most insane order. The Pottawattamie chief, who brought the dispatch, had more wisdom than the commanding general. He advised Captain Heald not to make the distribution. Said he: "Leave the fort and stores as they are, and let the Indians make distribution for themselves; and while they are engaged in the business, the white people may escape to Fort Wayne."

Captain Heald held a council with the Indians on the afternoon of the 12th, in which his officers refused to join, for they had been informed that treachery was designed—that the Indians intended to murder the white people in the council, and then destroy those in the fort. Captain Heald, however, took the precaution to open a port-hole displaying a cannon pointing directly upon the council, and by that means saved his life.

Mr. Kinzie, who knew the Indians well, begged Captain Heald not to confide in their promises, nor distribute the arms and munitions among them, for it would only put power into their hands to destroy the whites. Acting upon this advice, Heald resolved to withhold the munitions of war; and on the night of the 13th, after the distribution of the other property had been made, the powder, ball and liquors were thrown into the river, the muskets broken up and destroyed.

Black Partridge, a friendly chief, came to Captain Heald, and said: "Linden birds have been singing in my ears to-day: be careful on the march you are going to take." On that dark night vigilant Indians had crept near the fort and discovered the destruction of their promised booty going on within. The next morning the powder was seen floating on the surface of the river. The savages were exasperated and made loud complaints and threats.

On the following day when preparations were making to leave the fort, and all the inmates were deeply impressed with a sense of impending danger, Capt. Wells, an uncle of Mrs. Heald, was discovered upon the Indian trail among the sand-hills on the borders of the lake, not far distant, with a band of mounted Miamis, of whose tribe he was chief, having been adopted by the famous Miami warrior, Little Turtle. When news of Hull's surrender reached Fort Wayne, he had started with this force to assist Heald in defending Fort Dearborn. He was too late. Every means for its defense had been destroyed the night before, and arrangements were made for leaving the fort on the morning of the 15th.

It was a warm bright morning in the middle of August. Indications were positive that the savages intended to murder the white people; and when they moved out of the southern gate of the fort, the march was like a funeral procession. The band, feeling the solemnity of the occasion, struck up the Dead March in Saul.

Capt. Wells, who had blackened his face with gun-powder in token of his fate, took the lead with his band of Miamis, followed by Capt. Heald, with his wife by his side on horseback. Mr. Kinzie hoped by his personal influence to avert the impending blow, and therefore accompanied them, leaving his family in a boat in charge of a friendly Indian, to be taken to his trading station at the site of Niles, Michigan, in the event of his death.

The procession moved slowly along the lake shore till they reached the sand-hills between the prairie and the beach, when the Pottawattamie escort, under the leadership of Blackbird, fled to the right, placing those hills between them and the white people. Wells, with his Miamis, had kept in the advance. They suddenly came rushing back, Wells exclaiming, "They are about to attack us; form instantly." These words were quickly followed by a storm of bullets, which came whistling over the little hills which the treacherous savages had made the covert for their murderous attack. The white troops charged upon the Indians, drove them back to the prairie, and then the battle was waged between fifty-four soldiers, twelve civilians and three or four women (the cowardly Miamis having fled at the outset) against five hundred Indian warriors. The white people, hopeless, resolved to sell their lives as dearly as possible. Ensign Ronan wielded his weapon vigorously, even after falling upon his knees weak from the loss of blood. Capt. Wells, who was by the side of his niece, Mrs. Heald, when the conflict began, behaved with the greatest coolness and courage. He said to her, "We have not the slightest chance for life. We must part to meet no more in this world. God bless you." And then he dashed forward. Seeing a young warrior, painted like a demon, climb into a wagon in which were twelve children, and tomahawk them all, he cried out, unmindful of his personal danger, "If that is your game, butchering women and children, I will kill too." He spurred his horse towards the Indian camp, where they had left their squaws and papooses, hotly pursued by swift-footed young warriors, who sent bullets whistling after him. One of these killed his horse and wounded him severely in the leg. With a yell the young braves rushed to make him their prisoner and reserve him for torture. He resolved not to be made a captive, and by the use of the most provoking epithets tried to induce them to kill him instantly. He called a fiery young chief a squaw, when the enraged warrior killed Wells instantly with his tomahawk, jumped upon his body, cut out his heart, and ate a portion of the warm morsel with savage delight!

In this fearful combat women bore a conspicuous part. Mrs. Heald was an excellent equestrian and an expert in the use of the rifle. She fought the savages bravely, receiving several severe wounds. Though faint from the loss of blood, she managed to keep her saddle. A savage raised his tomahawk to kill her, when she looked him full in the face, and with a sweet smile and in a gentle voice said, in his own language, "Surely you will not kill a squaw!" The arm of the savage fell, and the life of the heroic woman was saved.

Mrs. Helm, the step-daughter of Mr. Kinzie, had an encounter with a stout Indian, who attempted to tomahawk her. Springing to one side, she received the glancing blow on her shoulder, and at the same instant seized the savage round the neck with her arms and endeavored to get hold of his scalping knife, which hung in a sheath at his breast. While she was thus struggling she was dragged from her antagonist by another powerful Indian, who bore her, in spite of her struggles, to the margin of the lake and plunged her in. To her astonishment she was held by him so that she would not drown, and she soon perceived that she was in the hands of the friendly Black Partridge, who had saved her life.

The wife of Sergeant Holt, a large and powerful woman, behaved as bravely as an Amazon. She rode a fine, high-spirited horse, which the Indians coveted, and several of them attacked her with the butts of their guns, for the purpose of dismounting her; but she used the sword which she had snatched from her disabled husband so skillfully that she foiled them; and, suddenly wheeling her horse, she dashed over the prairie, followed by the savages shouting, "The brave woman! the brave woman! Don't hurt her!" They finally overtook her, and while she was fighting them in front, a powerful savage came up behind her, seized her by the neck and dragged her to the ground. Horse and woman were made captives. Mrs. Holt was a long time a captive among the Indians, but was afterwards ransomed.

In this sharp conflict two-thirds of the white people were slain and wounded, and all their horses, baggage and provision were lost. Only twenty-eight straggling men now remained to fight five hundred Indians rendered furious by the sight of blood. They succeeded in breaking through the ranks of the murderers and gaining a slight eminence on the prairie near the Oak Woods. The Indians did not pursue, but gathered on their flanks, while the chiefs held a consultation on the sand-hills, and showed signs of willingness to parley. It would have been madness on the part of the whites to renew the fight; and so Capt. Heald went forward and met Blackbird on the open prairie, where terms of surrender were soon agreed upon. It was arranged that the white people should give up their arms to Blackbird, and that the survivors should become prisoners of war, to be exchanged for ransoms as soon as practicable. With this understanding captives and captors started for the Indian camp near the fort, to which Mrs. Helm had been taken bleeding and suffering by Black Partridge, and had met her step-father and learned that her husband was safe.

A new scene of horror was now opened at the Indian camp. The wounded, not being included in the terms of surrender, as it was interpreted by the Indians, and the British general, Proctor, having offered a liberal bounty for American scalps, delivered at Malden, nearly all the wounded men were killed and scalped, and the price of the trophies was afterwards paid by the British government.

ABSTRACT OF ILLINOIS STATE LAWS.

BILLS OF EXCHANGE AND PROMISSORY NOTES.

No promissory note, check, draft, bill of exchange, order, or note, negotiable instrument payable at sight, or on demand, or on presentment, shall be entitled to days of grace. All other bills of exchange, drafts or notes are entitled to three days of grace. All the above mentioned paper falling due on Sunday, New Years' Day, the Fourth of July, Christmas, or any day appointed or recommended by the President of the United States or the Governor of the State as a day of fast or thanksgiving, shall be deemed as due on the day previous, and should two or more of these days come together, then such instrument shall be treated as due on the day previous to the first of said days. No defense can be made against a negotiable instrument (assigned before due) in the hands of the assignee without notice, except fraud was used in obtaining the same. To hold an indorser, due diligence must be used by suit, in collecting of the maker, unless suit would have been unavailing. Notes payable to person named or to order, in order to absolutely transfer title, must be indorsed by the payee. Notes payable to bearer may be transferred by delivery, and when so payable every indorser thereon is held as a guarantor of payment unless otherwise expressed.

In computing interest or discount on negotiable instruments, a month shall be considered a calendar month or twelfth of a year, and for less than a month, a day shall be figured a thirtieth part of a month. Notes only bear interest when so expressed, but after due they draw the legal interest, even if not stated.

INTEREST.

The legal rate of interest is six per cent. Parties may agree in writing on a rate not exceeding ten per cent. If a rate of interest greater than ten per cent. is contracted for, it works a forfeiture of the whole of said interest, and only the principal can be recovered.

DESCENT.

When no will is made, the property of a deceased person is distributed as follows :

First. To his or her children and their descendants in equal parts; the descendants of the deceased child or grandchild, taking the share of their deceased parents in equal parts among them.

Second. When there is no child of the intestate, nor descendant of such child, and no widow or surviving husband, then to the parents, brothers or sisters of the deceased, and their descendants, in equal parts among them, allowing to each of the parents, if living, a child's part, or to the survivor of them if one be dead, a double portion; and if there is no parent living, then to the brothers and sisters of the intestate, and their descendants.

Third. When there is a widow or surviving husband, and no child or children, or descendants of a child or children of the intestate, then (after the payment of all just debts) one-half of the real estate and the whole of the personal estate shall descend to such widow or surviving husband as an absolute estate forever.

Fourth. When there is a widow or surviving husband, and also a child or children, or descendants of such child or children of the intestate, the widow or surviving husband shall receive as his or her absolute personal estate, one-third of all the personal estate of the intestate.

Fifth. If there is no child of the intestate, or descendant of such child, and no parent, brother or sister, or descendant of such parent, brother or sister, and no widow or surviving husband, then such estate shall descend in equal parts to the next of kin to the intestate, in equal degree (computing by the rules of the civil law), and there shall be no representation among collaterals, except with the descendants of brothers and sisters of the intestate; and in no case shall there be any distinction between the kindred of the whole and the half blood.

Sixth. If any intestate leaves a widow or surviving husband and no kindred, his or her estate shall descend to such widow or surviving husband.

WILLS AND ESTATES OF DECEASED PERSONS.

No exact form of words are necessary in order to make a will good at law. Every male person of the age of twenty-one years, and every female of the age of eighteen years, of sound mind and memory, can make a valid will; it must be in writing, signed by the testator or by some one in his or her presence and by his or her direction, and attested by two or more credible witnesses. Care should be taken that the witnesses are not interested in the will. Persons knowing themselves to have been named in the will or appointed executor, must within thirty days of the death of deceased cause the will to be proved and recorded in the proper county, or present it, and refuse to accept; on failure to do so are liable to forfeit the sum of twenty dollars per month. Inventory to be made by executor or administrator within three months from date of letters testamentary or of administration. Executors' and administrators' compensation not to exceed six per cent. on amount of personal estate, and three per cent. on money realized from real estate, with such additional allowance as shall be reasonable for extra services. Appraisers' compensation $2 per day.

Notice requiring all claims to be presented against the estate shall be given by the executor or administrator within six months of being qualified. Any person having a claim and not presenting it at the time fixed by said notice is required to have summons issued notifying the executor or administrator of his having filed his claim in court; in such cases the costs have to be paid by the claimant. Claims should be filed within two years from the time administration is granted on an estate; as after that time they are forever barred, unless other estate is found that was not inventoried. Married women, infants, persons insane, imprisoned or without the United States, in the employment of the United States, or of this State, have two years after their disabilities are removed to file claims.

Claims are classified and paid out of the estate in the following manner:

First. Funeral expenses.

Second. The widow's award, if there is a widow; or children if there are children, and no widow.

Third. Expenses attending the last illness, not including physician's bill.

Fourth. Debts due the common school or township fund.

Fifth. All expenses of proving the will and taking out letters testamentary or administration, and settlement of the estate, and the physician's bill in the last illness of deceased.

Sixth. Where the deceased has received money in trust for any purpose, his executor or administrator shall pay out of his estate the amount received and not accounted for.

Seventh. All other debts and demands of whatsoever kind, without regard to quality or dignity, which shall be exhibited to the court within two years from the granting of letters.

Award to Widow and Children, exclusive of debts and legacies or bequests, except funeral expenses:

First. The family pictures and wearing apparel, jewels and ornaments of herself and minor children.

Second. School books and the family library of the value of $100.

Third. One sewing machine.

Fourth. Necessary beds, bedsteads and bedding for herself and family.

Fifth. The stoves and pipe used in the family, with the necessary cooking utensils, or in case they have none, $50 in money.

Sixth. Household and kitchen furniture to the value of $100.

Seventh. One milch cow and calf for every four members of her family.

Eighth. Two sheep for each member of her family, and the fleeces taken from the same, and one horse, saddle and bridle.

Ninth. Provisions for herself and family for one year.

Tenth. Food for the stock above specified for six months.

Eleventh. Fuel for herself and family for three months.

Twelfth. One hundred dollars worth of other property suited to her condition in life, to be selected by the widow.

The widow if she elects may have in lieu of the said award, the same personal property or money in place thereof as is or may be exempt from execution or attachment against the head of a family.

TAXES.

The owners of real and personal property, on the first day of May in each year, are liable for the taxes thereon.

Assessments should be completed before the fourth Monday in June, at which time the town board of review meets to examine assessments, hear objections, and make such changes as ought to be made. The county board have also power to correct or change assessments.

The tax books are placed in the hands of the town collector on or before the tenth day of December, who retains them until the tenth day of March following, when he is required to return them to the county treasurer, who then collects all delinquent taxes.

No costs accrue on real estate taxes till advertised, which takes place the first day of April, when three weeks' notice is required before judgment. Cost of advertising, twenty cents each tract of land, and ten cents each lot.

Judgment is usually obtained at May term of County Court. Costs six cents each tract of land, and five cents each lot. Sale takes place in June. Costs in addition to those before mentioned, twenty-eight cents each tract of land, and twenty-seven cents each town lot.

Real estate sold for taxes may be redeemed any time before the expiration of two years from the date of sale, by payment to the County Clerk of the amount for which it was sold and twenty-five per cent. thereon if redeemed within six months, fifty per cent. if between six and twelve months, if between twelve and eighteen months seventy-five per cent., and if between eighteen months and two years one hundred per cent., and in addition, all subsequent taxes paid by the purchaser, with ten per cent. interest thereon, also one dollar each tract if notice is given by the purchaser of the sale, and a fee of twenty-five cents to the clerk for his certificate.

JURISDICTION OF COURTS.

Justices have jurisdiction in all civil cases on contracts for the recovery of moneys for damages for injury to real property, or taking, detaining, or injuring personal property; for rent; for all cases to recover damages done real or personal property by railroad companies, in actions of replevin, and in actions for damages for fraud in the sale, purchase, or exchange of personal property, when the amount claimed as due is not over $200. They have also jurisdiction in all cases for violation of the ordinances of cities, towns or villages. A justice of the peace may orally order an officer or a private person to arrest any one committing or attempting to commit a criminal offense. He also upon complaint can issue his warrant for the arrest of any person accused of having committed a crime, and have him brought before him for examination.

COUNTY COURTS

Have jurisdiction in all matters of probate, settlement of estates of deceased persons, appointment of guardians and conservators, and settlement of their accounts; all matters relating to apprentices; proceedings for the collection of taxes and assessments, and in proceedings of executions, administrators, guardians and conservators for the sale of real estate. In law cases they have concurrent jurisdiction with Circuit Courts in all cases where Justices of Peace now have when the amount claimed shall not exceed $500, and in all criminal offenses where the punishment is not imprisonment in the penitentiary or death, but no appeal is allowed from Justice of the Peace to County Courts.

Circuit Courts—Have unlimited jurisdiction.

LIMITATION OF ACTION.

Accounts five years. Notes and written contracts ten years. Judgments twenty years. Partial payments or new promise in writing, within or after said period, will revive the debt. Absence from the State deducted, and when the cause of action is barred by the law of another State, it has the same effect here. Slander and libel, one year. Personal injuries, two years. To recover land or make entry thereon, twenty years. Action to foreclose mortgage or trust deed, or make a sale, within ten years.

All persons in possession of land, and paying taxes for seven consecutive years, with color of title, and all persons paying taxes for seven consecutive years, with color of title, on vacant land, shall be held to be the legal owners to the extent of their paper title.

MARRIED WOMEN

May sue and be sued. Husband and wife not liable for each other's debts, either before or after marriage, but both are liable for expenses and education of the family.

She may contract the same as if unmarried, except that in a partnership business she can not, without consent of her husband, unless he has abandoned or deserted her, or is idiotic or insane, or confined in penitentiary; she is entitled and can recover her own earnings, but neither husband nor wife is entitled to compensation for any services rendered for the other. At the death of the husband, in addition to widow's award, a married woman has a dower interest (one-third) in all real estate owned by her husband after their marriage, and which has not been released by her, and the husband has the same interest in the real estate of the wife at her death.

EXEMPTIONS FROM FORCED SALE.

Home worth $1,000, and the following Personal Property: Lot of ground and buildings thereon, occupied as a residence by the debtor, being a householder and having a family, to the value of $1,000. Exemption continues after the death of the householder for the benefit of widow and family, some one of them occupying the homestead until youngest child shall become twenty-one years of age, and until death of widow. There is no exemption from sale for taxes, assessments, debt or liability incurred for the purchase or improvement of said homestead. No release or waiver of exemption is valid, unless in writing, and subscribed by such householder and wife (if he have one), and acknowledged as conveyances of real estate are required to be acknowledged. The following articles of personal property owned by the debtor, are exempt from execution, writ of attachment, and distress for rent: The necessary wearing apparel of every person; one sewing machine; the furniture, tools and implements necessary to carry on his trade or business, not exceeding $100 in value; the implements or library of any professional man, not exceeding $100 in value; materials and stock designed and procured for carrying on his trade or business, and intended to be used or wrought therein, not exceeding $100 in value; and also, when the debtor is the head of a family and resides with the same, necessary beds, bedsteads, and bedding, two stoves and pipe, necessary household furniture not exceeding in value $100, one cow, calf, two swine, one yoke of oxen, or two horses in lieu thereof, worth not exceeding $200, with the harness therefor, necessary provisions and fuel for the use of the family three months, and necessary food for the stock hereinbefore exempted for the same time; the bibles, school books and family pictures; the family library, cemetery lots, and rights of burial, and tombs for the repositories of the dead; one hundred dollars' worth of other property, suited to his condition in life, selected by the debtor. No personal property is exempt from sale for the wages of laborers or servants. Wages of a laborer who is the head of a family can not be garnisheed, except the sum due him be in excess of $25.

DEEDS AND MORTGAGES.

To be valid there must be a valid consideration. Special care should be taken to have them signed, sealed, delivered, and properly acknowledged, with the proper seal attached. Witnesses are not required. The acknowledgement must be made in this state, before Master in Chancery, Notary Public, United States Commissioner, Circuit or County Clerk, Justice of Peace, or any Court of Record having a seal, or any Judge, Justice, or Clerk of any such Court. When taken before a Notary Public, or United States Commissioner, the same shall be attested by his official seal, when taken before a Court or the Clerk thereof, the same shall be attested by the seal of such Court, and when taken before a Justice of the Peace residing out of the county where the real estate to be conveyed lies, there shall be added a certificate of the County Clerk under his seal of office, that he was a Justice of the Peace in the county at the time of taking the same. A deed is good without such certificate attached, but can not be used in evidence unless such a certificate is produced or other competent evidence introduced. Acknowledgements made out of the state must either be executed according to the laws of this state, or there should be attached a certificate that it is in conformity with the laws of the state or country where executed. Where this is not done the same may be proved by any other legal way. Acknowledgments where the Homestead rights are to be waived must state as follows: "Including the release and waiver of the right of homestead."

Notaries Public can take acknowledgements any where in the state.

Sheriffs, if authorized by the mortgagor of real or personal property in his mortgage, may sell the property mortgaged.

In the case of the death of grantor or holder of the equity of redemption of real estate mortgaged, or conveyed by deed of trust where equity of redemption is waived, and it contains power of sale, must be foreclosed in the same manner as a common mortgage in court.

ESTRAYS.

Horses, mules, asses, neat cattle, swine, sheep, or goats found straying at any time during the year, in counties where such animals are not allowed to run at large, or between the last day of October and the 15th day of April in other counties, the owner thereof being unknown, may be taken up as estrays.

No person not a householder in the county where estray is found can lawfully take up an estray, and then only upon or about his farm or place of residence. Estrays should not be used before advertised, except animals giving milk, which may be milked for their benefit.

Notices must be posted up within five (5) days in three (3) of the most public places in the town or precinct in which estray was found, giving the residence of the taker up, and a particular description of the estray, its age, color, and marks natural and artificial, and stating before what justice of the peace in such town or precinct, and at what time, not less than ten (10) nor more than fifteen (15) days from the time of posting such notices, he will apply to have the estray appraised.

A copy of such notice should be filed by the taker up with the town clerk, whose duty it is to enter the same at large, in a book kept by him for that purpose.

If the owner of estray shall not have appeared and proved ownership, and taken the same away, first paying the taker up his reasonable charges for taking up, keeping, and advertising the same, the taker up shall appear before the justice of the peace mentioned in above mentioned notice, and make an affidavit as required by law.

As the affidavit has to be made before the justice, and all other steps as to appraisement, etc., are before him, who is familiar therewith, they are therefore omitted here.

Any person taking up an estray at any other place than about or upon his farm or residence, or without complying with the law, shall forfeit and pay a fine of ten dollars with costs.

Ordinary diligence is required in taking care of estrays, but in case they die or get away the taker is not liable for the same.

GAME.

It is unlawful to hunt, kill or in any manner interfere with deer, wild turkey, prairie chicken, partridge or pheasants between the first day of January and the fifteenth day of August; or any quail, between the first day of January and the first day of October; or any woodcock, between the first day of January and the first day of July; or any wild goose, duck, Wilson snipe brandt, or other water fowl, between the fifteenth day of April and the fifteenth day of August, in each and every year. Penalty: Fine not less than $10 nor more than $25, and costs of suit, and shall stand committed to county jail until fine is paid, but not exceeding ten days.

It is unlawful to hunt with gun, dog or net, within the inclosed grounds or lands of another, without permission. Penalty: Fine not less than $3 and not exceeding $100, to be paid into school fund.

Penalty for giving less than the above standard is double the amount of property wrongfully not given, and ten dollars addition thereto.

MILLERS.

The owner or occupant of every public grist mill in this state shall grind all grain brought to his mill in its turn. The toll for both steam and water mills, is, for grinding and bolting wheat, rye, or other grain, one eighth part; for grinding Indian corn, oats, barley and buckwheat not required to be bolted, one seventh part; for grinding malt, and chopping all kinds of grain, one eighth part. It is the duty of every miller when his mill is in repair, to aid and assist in loading and unloading all grain brought to him to be ground, and he is also required to keep an accurate half bushel measure, and an accurate set of toll dishes or scales for weighing the grain. The penalty for neglect or refusal to comply with the law is $5, to the use of any person to sue for the same, to be recovered before any justice of the peace of the county where penalty is incurred. Millers are accountable for the safe keeping of all grain left in his mill for the purpose of being ground, with bags or casks containing same (except it results from unavoidable accidents), provided that such bags or casks are distinctly marked with the initial letters of the owner's name.

MARKS AND BRANDS.

Owners of cattle, horses, hogs, sheep or goats may have one ear mark and one brand, but which shall be different from his neighbor's, and may be recorded by the county clerk of the county in which such property is kept. The fee for such record is fifteen cents. The record of such shall be open to examination free of charge. In cases of disputes as to marks or brands, such record is prima facie evidence. Owners of cattle, horses, hogs, sheep or goats that may have been branded by the former owner, may be re-branded in presence of one or more of his neighbors, who shall certify to the facts of the marking or branding being done, when done, and in what brand or mark they were re-branded or re-marked, which certificate may also be recorded as before stated.

ADOPTION OF CHILDREN.

Children may be adopted by any resident of this state, by filing a petition in the Circuit or County Court of the county in which he resides, asking leave to do so, and if desired may ask that the name of the child be changed. Such petition, if made by a person having a husband or wife, will not be granted, unless the husband or wife joins therein, as the adoption must be by them jointly.

The petition shall state name, sex, and age of the child, and the new name, if it is desired to change the name. Also the name and residence of the parents of the child, if known, and of the guardian, if any, and whether the parents or guardians consent to the adoption.

The court must find, before granting decree, that the parents of the child, or the survivors of them, have deserted his or her family or such child for one year next preceding the application, or if neither are living, the guardian; if no guardian, the next of kin in this state capable of giving consent, has had notice of the presentation of the petition and consents to such adoption. If the child is of the age of fourteen years or upwards, the adoption can not be made without its consent.

SURVEYORS AND SURVEYS.

There is in every county elected a surveyor known as county surveyor, who has power to appoint deputies, for whose official acts he is responsible. It is the duty of the county surveyor, either by himself or his deputy, to make all surveys that he may be called upon to make within his county as soon as may be after application is made. The necessary chainmen and other assistance must be employed by the person requiring the same to be done, and to be by him paid, unless otherwise agreed; but the chainmen must be disinterested persons and approved by the surveyor and sworn by him to measure justly and impartially.

The County Board in each county is required by law to provide a copy of the United States field notes and plats of their surveys of the lands in the county to be kept in the recorder's office subject to examination by the public, and the county surveyor is required to make his surveys in conformity to said notes, plats and the laws of the United States governing such matters. The surveyor is also required to keep a record of all surveys made by him, which shall be subject to inspection by any one interested, and shall be delivered up to his successor in office. A certified copy of the said surveyor's record shall be prima facie evidence of its contents.

The fees of county surveyors are six dollars per day. The county surveyor is also ex officio inspector of mines, and as such, assisted by some practical miner selected by him, shall once each year, inspect all the mines in the county, for which they shall each receive such compensation as may be fixed by the County Board, not exceeding $5 a day, to be paid out of the county treasury.

ROADS.

Where practicable from the nature of the ground, persons traveling in any kind of vehicle, must turn to the right of the center of the road, so as to permit each carriage to pass without interfering with each other. The penalty for a violation of this provision is $5 for every offense, to be recovered by the party injured; but to recover, there must have occurred some injury to person or property resulting from the violation. The owners of any carriage traveling upon any road in this State for the conveyance of passengers who shall employ or continue in his employment as driver any person who is addicted to drunkenness, or the excessive use of spiritous liquors, after he has had notice of the same, shall forfeit, at the rate of $5 per day, and if any driver while actually engaged in driving any such carriage, shall be guilty of intoxication to such a degree as to endanger the safety of passengers, it shall be the duty of the owner, on receiving written notice of the fact, signed by one of the passengers, and certified by him on oath, forthwith to discharge such driver. If such owner shall have such driver in his employ within three months after such notice, he is liable for $5 per day for the time he shall keep said driver in his employment after receiving such notice.

Persons driving any carriage on any public highway are prohibited from running their horses upon any occasion under a penalty of a fine not exceeding $10, or imprisonment not exceeding sixty days, at the discretion of the court. Horses attached to any carriage used to convey passengers for hire must be properly hitched or the lines placed in the hands of some other person before the driver leaves them for any purpose. For violation of this provision each driver shall forfeit twenty dollars, to be recovered by action, to be commenced within six months. It is understood by the term carriage herein to mean any carriage or vehicle used for the transportation of passengers or goods or either of them.

The commissioners of highways in the different towns have the care and superintendence of highways and bridges therein. They have all the powers necessary to lay out, vacate, regulate and repair all roads, build and repair bridges, divide their respective towns into as many road districts as they shall think convenient. This is to be done annually, and ten days before the annual town meeting. In addition to the above, it is their duty to erect and keep in repair at the forks or crossing-place of the most important roads post and guide boards with plain inscriptions, giving directions and distances to the most noted places to which such road may lead; also to make provisions to prevent thistles, burdock, and cockle burrs, mustard, yellow dock, Indian mallow, and jessamine weed from seeding, and to extirpate the same as far as practicable, and to prevent all rank growth of vegetation on the public highways, so far as the same may obstruct public travel, and it is in their discretion to erect watering places for public use for watering teams at such points as may be deemed advisable. Every able-bodied male inhabitant, being above the age of twenty-one years, and under the age of fifty, excepting paupers, idiots, lunatics, trustees of schools and school directors, and such others as are exempt by law, is required to labor on highways in their respective road districts, not less than one or more than three days in each and every year. Three days' notice must be given by the overseer of the time and place he requires such road labor to be done. The labor must be performed in the road district in which the person resides. Any person may commute for such labor by paying at the rate of $1.50 per day, if done within the three days' notice, but after that time the rate is $2 per day.

Any person liable for work on highways who has been assessed two days or more and has not commuted, may be required to furnish team, or a cart, wagon or plow, with a pair of horses or oxen and a man to manage them, for which he will be entitled to two days for each day's work. Eight hours is a day's work on the roads, and there is a penalty of twenty-five cents an hour against any person or substitute who shall neglect or refuse to perform. Any person remaining idle, or does not work faithfully or hinders others from doing so, forfeits to the town $2.

Every person assessed and duly notified, who has not commuted and refuses or neglects to appear, shall forfeit to the town for every day's refusal or neglect, the sum of $2; if he was required to furnish a team, carriage, man or implement, and neglects or refuses to comply, he is liable to the following fines:

First. For wholly failing to comply, $4 each day.

Second. For omitting to furnish a pair of horses or oxen, $1.50 each day.

Third. For omitting to furnish a man to manage team, $2 each day.

Fourth. For omitting to furnish a wagon, cart or plow, 75 cents each day.

The Commissioners estimate and assess the highway labor and road tax. The road tax on real and personal property can not exceed forty cents on each hundred dollars' worth. The labor or road tax in villages, towns or cities, is paid over to the corporate authorities of such, for the improvement of streets, roads and bridges within their limits. Commissioners' compensation $1.50 per day. The Treasurer, who is one of their number, is entitled to 2 per cent. on all moneys he may receive and pay out.

Overseers. Their duties are to repair and keep in order the highways in their districts; to warn persons to work out their road tax at such time and place as they think proper; to collect fines and commutation money, and execute all lawful orders of the Commissioners of Highways; also make list, within sixteen days after their election, of the names of all inhabitants in his road district liable to work on highways. For refusal to perform any of his duties, he is liable to a fine of $10. The compensation of overseers is $1.50 a day, the number of days to be audited by the Highway Commissioners.

As all township and county officers are familiar with their duties, it is only intended to give the points of the law that the public should be familiar with. The manner of laying out, altering or vacating roads, etc., will not be here stated, as it would require more space than is contemplated in a work of this kind. It is sufficient to state that, the first step is by petition, addressed to the Commissioners, setting out what is prayed for, giving the names of the owners of lands if known, if not known so state, over which the road is to pass, giving the general course, its place of beginning, and where it terminates. It requires not less than twelve freeholders residing within three miles of the road who shall sign the petition. Public roads must not be less than fifty feet wide, nor more than sixty feet wide. Roads not exceeding two miles in length, if petitioned for, may be laid out, not less than forty feet. Private roads for private and public use, may be laid out of the width of three rods, on petition of the person directly interested; the damage occasioned thereby shall be paid by the premises benefited thereby, and before the road is opened. If not opened in two years, the order shall be considered rescinded. Commissioners in their discretion may permit persons who live on or have private roads, to work out their road tax thereon. Public roads must be opened in five days from date of filing order of location, or be deemed vacated.

DRAINAGE.

Whenever one or more owners or occupants of land desire to construct a drain or ditch across the land of others for agricultural or sanitary purposes, the proceedings are as follows:

1st. File a petition with the clerk of the town board of auditors in counties where there is township organization, or in counties not so organized with the clerk of the County Court, stating the necessity of the same, its starting point, route and terminus ; and if it shall be deemed necessary for successful drainage that a levee or other work be constructed, a general description of the same shall be made.

2d. After filing, two weeks' notice must be given by posting notices in three of the most public places in such township through which the drain, ditch or other work is proposed to be constructed ; and also, by publishing a copy thereof in some newspaper published in the county in which petition is filed, at least once each week for two successive weeks. The notice must state when and before what board such petition is filed, the starting point, route, terminus and description of the proposed work. On receipt of the petition by the clerk of either board as before mentioned, it is his duty to immediately give notice to the board of which he is clerk, of the fact, and that a meeting of the board will be held on a day to be fixed not later than sixty days after the filing of said petition, to consider the prayer of the same ; and it is further the duty of the clerk, to publish a notice of the filing of the petition and the meeting of the board to consider it, by posting the same in the three most public places in the township or county. On the hearing, all parties may contest the matter, and if it shall appear to the board that the work contemplated is necessary, or is useful for the drainage of the land for agricultural and sanitary purposes, they shall so find and shall file their petition in the County Court, reciting the original petition and stating their finding, and pray that the costs of the improvement be assessed, and for that purpose three commissioners be appointed to lay out and construct the work. The costs of the hearing before the town board is to be paid by the petitioners. After commissioners are appointed, they organize and proceed to examine the work ; and if they find the benefits greater than the cost and expense of the work, then it is their duty to have the surveyor's plans and specifications made, and when done report the same to the court, before which parties can be heard prior to confirmation. The commissioners are not confined to the route or plan of the petition, but may change the same. After report of commissioners is confirmed, then a jury assess the damages and benefits against the land damaged or benefited.

As it is only contemplated in a work of this kind to give an abstract of the laws, and as the parties who have in charge the execution of the further proceedings are likely to be familiar with the requirements of the statute, the necessary details are not here inserted.

PAUPERS.

Every poor person who shall be unable to earn a livelihood in consequence of any bodily infirmity, idiocy, lunacy or unavoidable cause, shall be supported by the father, grand-father, mother, grand-mother, children, grand-children, brothers or sisters of such poor person, if they or either of them be of sufficient ability; but if any of such dependent class shall have become so from intemperance, or other bad conduct, they shall not be entitled to support from any relation except parent or child.

The children shall first be called on to support their parents, if they are able; but if not, the parents of such poor person shall then be called on, if of sufficient ability; and if there be no parents or children able, then the brothers and sisters of such dependent person shall be called upon; and if there be no brothers or sisters of sufficient ability, the grand-children of such person shall next be called on; and if they are not able, then the grand-parents. Married females, while their husbands live, shall not be liable to contribute for the support of their poor relations except out of their separate property. It is the duty of the state's (county) attorney, to make complaint to the County Court of his county against all the relatives of such paupers in this state liable to his support and prosecute the same. In case the state's attorney neglects, or refuses, to complain in such cases, then it is the duty of the overseer of the poor to do so. The person called upon to contribute shall have at least ten days' notice of such application by summons. The court has the power to determine the kind of support, depending upon the circumstances of the parties, and may also order two or more of the different degrees to maintain such poor person, and prescribe the proportion of each, according to their ability. The court may specify the time for which the relative shall contribute—in fact has control over the entire subject matter, with power to enforce its orders. Every county (except those in which the poor are supported by the towns, and in such cases the towns are liable) is required to relieve and support all poor and indigent persons lawfully resident therein. Residence means the actual residence of the party, or the place where he was employed; or in case he was in no employment, then it shall be the place where he made his home. When any person becomes chargeable as a pauper in any county or town who did not reside at the commencement of six months immediately preceding his becoming so, but did at that time reside in some other county or town in this state, then the county or town, as the case may be, becomes liable for the expense of taking care of such person until removed, and it is the duty of the overseer to notify the proper authorities of the fact. If any person shall bring and leave any pauper in any county in this state where such pauper had no legal residence, knowing him to be such, he is liable to a fine of $100. In counties under township organization, the supervisors in each town are ex-officio overseers of the poor. The overseers of the poor act under the directions of the County Board in taking care of the poor and granting of temporary relief; also, providing for non-resident persons not paupers who may be taken sick and not able to pay their way, and in case of death cause such person to be decently buried.

FENCES.

In counties under township organization, the town assessor and commissioner of highways are the fence-viewers in their respective towns. In other counties the County Board appoints three in each precinct annually. A lawful fence is four and one-half feet high, in good repair, consisting of rails, timber, boards, stone, hedges, or whatever the fence-viewers of the town or precinct where the same shall lie, shall consider equivalent thereto, but in counties under township organization the annual town meeting may establish any other kind of fence as such, or the County Board in other counties may do the same. Division fences shall be made and maintained in just proportion by the adjoining owners, except when the owner shall choose to let his land lie open, but after a division fence is built by agreement or otherwise, neither party can remove his part of such fence so long as he may crop or use such land for farm purposes, or without giving the other party one year's notice in writing of his intention to remove his portion. When any person shall enclose his land upon the enclosure of another, he shall refund the owner of the adjoining lands a just proportion of the value at that time of such fence. The value of fence and the just proportion to be paid or built and maintained by each is to be ascertained by two fence-viewers in the town or precinct. Such fence-viewers have power to settle all disputes between different owners as to fences built or to be built, as well as to repairs to be made. Each party chooses one of the viewers, but if the other party neglects, after eight days' notice in writing, to make his choice, then the other party may select both. It is sufficient to notify the tenant or party in possession, when the owner is not a resident of the town or precinct. The two fence-viewers chosen, after viewing the premises, shall hear the statements of the parties, in case they can't agree, they shall select another fence-viewer to act with them, and the decision of any two of them is final. The decision must be reduced to writing, and should plainly set out description of fence and all matters settled by them, and must be filed in the office of the town clerk in counties under township organization, and in other counties with the county clerk.

Where any person is liable to contribute to the erection or the repairing of a division fence, neglects or refuses so to do, the party injured, after giving sixty days notice in writing when a fence is to be erected, or ten days when it is only repairs, may proceed to have the work done at the expense of the party whose duty it is to do it, to be recovered from him with costs of suit, and the party so neglecting shall also be liable to the party injured for all damages accruing from such neglect or refusal, to be determined by any two fence-viewers selected as before provided, the appraisement to be reduced to writing and signed.

Where a person shall conclude to remove his part of a division fence, and let his land lie open, and having given the year's notice required, the adjoining owner may cause the value of said fence to be ascertained by fence-viewers as before provided, and on payment or tender of the amount of such valuation to the owner, it shall prevent the removal. A party removing a division fence without notice is liable for the damages accruing thereby.

Where a fence has been built on the land of another through mistake, the owner may enter upon such premises and remove his fence and material within six months after the division line has been ascertained. Where the material to build such a fence has been taken from the land on which it was built, then before it can be removed, the person claiming must first pay for such material to the owner of the land from which it was taken, nor shall such a fence be removed at a time when the removal will throw open or expose the crops of the other party; a reasonable time must be given beyond the six months to remove crops.

The compensation of fence-viewers is one dollar and fifty cents a day each, to be paid in the first instance by the party calling them, but in the end all expenses, including amount charged by the fence-viewers, must be paid equally by the parties, except in cases where a party neglects or refuses to make or maintain a just proportion of a division fence, when the party in default shall pay them.

DAMAGES FROM TRESPASS.

Where stock of any kind breaks into any person's enclosure, the fence being good and sufficient, the owner is liable for the damage done; but where the damage is done by stock running at large, contrary to law, the owner is liable where there is not such a fence. Where stock is found trespassing on the enclosure of another as aforesaid, the owner or occupier of the premises may take possession of such stock and keep the same until damages, with reasonable charges for keeping and feeding and all costs of suit, are paid. Any person taking or rescuing such stock so held without his consent, shall be liable to a fine of not less than three nor more than five dollars for each animal rescued, to be recovered by suit before a justice of the peace for the use of the school fund. Within twenty-four hours after taking such animal into his possession, the person taking it up must give notice of the fact to the owner, if known, or if unknown, notices must be posted in some public place near the premises.

LANDLORD AND TENANT.

The owner of lands, or his legal representatives, can sue for and recover rent therefor, in any of the following cases:

First. When rent is due and in arrears on a lease for life or lives.

Second. When lands are held and occupied by any person without any special agreement for rent.

Third. When possession is obtained under an agreement, written or verbal, for the purchase of the premises and before deed given, the right to possession is terminated by forfeiture on non-compliance with the agreement, and possession is wrongfully refused or neglected to be given upon demand made in writing by the party entitled thereto. Provided that all payments made by the vendee or his representatives or assigns, may be set off against the rent.

Fourth. When land has been sold upon a judgment or a decree of court, when the party to such judgment or decree, or person holding under him, wrongfully refuses, or neglects, to surrender possession of the same, after demand in writing by the person entitled to the possession.

Fifth. When the lands have been sold upon a mortgage or trust deed, and the mortgagor or grantor or person holding under him, wrongfully refuses or neglects to surrender possession of the same, after demand in writing by the person entitled to the possession.

If any tenant, or any person who shall come into possession from or under or by collusion with such tenant, shall willfully hold over any lands, etc., after the expiration the term of their lease, and after demand made in writing for the possession thereof, is liable to pay double rent. A tenancy from year to year requires sixty days notice in writing, to terminate the same at the end of the year; such notice can be given at any time within four months preceding the last sixty days of the year.

A tenancy by the month, or less than a year, where the tenant holds over without any special agreement, the landlord may terminate the tenancy, by thirty days notice in writing.

When rent is due, the landlord may serve a notice upon the tenant, stating that unless the rent is paid within not less than five days, his lease will be terminated; if the rent is not paid, the landlord may consider the lease ended. When default is made in any of the terms of a lease, it shall not be necessary to give more than ten days notice to quit or of the termination of such tenancy; and the same may be terminated on giving such notice to quit, at any time after such default in any of the terms of such lease; which notice may be substantially in the following form, viz:

To —, You are hereby notified that, in consequence of your default in (here insert the character of the default), of the premises now occupied by you, being etc. (here describe the premises), I have elected to determine your lease, and you are hereby notified to quit and deliver up possession of the same to me within ten days of this date (dated, etc.)

The above to be signed by the lessor or his agent, and no other notice or demand of possession or termination of such tenancy is necessary.

Demand may be made, or notice served, by delivering a written or printed, or partly either, copy thereof to the tenant, or leaving the same with some person above the age of twelve years residing on or in possession of the premises; and in case no one is in the actual possession of the said premises, then by posting the same on the premises. When the tenancy is for a certain time, and the term expires by the terms of the lease, the tenant is then bound to surrender possession, and no notice to quit or demand of possession is necessary.

Distress for rent.—In all cases of distress for rent, the landlord, by himself, his agent or attorney, may seize for rent any personal property of his tenant that may be found in the county where the tenant resides; the property of any other person, even if found on the premises, is not liable.

An inventory of the property levied upon, with a statement of the amount of rent claimed, should be at once filed with some justice of the peace, if not over $200; and if above that sum, with the clerk of a court of record of competent jurisdiction. Property may be released, by the party executing a satisfactory bond for double the amount.

The landlord may distrain for rent, any time within six months after the expiration of the term of the lease, or when terminated.

When rent is payable wholly or in part, in specific articles of property, or products of the premises, or labor, the landlord may distrain for the value of the same.

Landlords have a lien upon the crops grown or growing upon the demised premises for the rent thereof, and also for the faithful performance of the terms of the lease.

In all cases where the premises rented shall be sub-let, or the lease assigned, the landlord shall have the same right to enforce lien against such lessee or assignee, that he has against the tenant to whom the premises were rented.

When a tenant abandons or removes from the premises or any part thereof, the landlord, or his agent or attorney, may seize upon any grain or other crops grown or growing upon the premises, or part thereof so abandoned, whether the rent is due or not. If such grain, or other crops, or any part thereof, is not fully grown or matured, the landlord, or his agent or attorney, shall cause the same to be properly cultivated, harvested or gathered, and may sell the same, and from the proceeds pay all his labor, expenses and rent. The tenant may, before the sale of such property, redeem the same by tendering the rent and reasonable compensation for work done, or he may replevy the same.

Exemption.—The same articles of personal property which are by law exempt from execution, except the crops as above stated, is also exempt from distress for rent.

LIENS.

Any person who shall by contract, express or implied, or partly both, with the owner of any lot or tract of land, furnish labor or material, or services as an architect or superintendent, in building, altering, repairing or ornamenting any house or other building or appurtenance thereto on such lot, or upon any street or alley, and connected with such improvements, shall have a lien upon the whole of such lot or tract of land, and upon such house or building and appurtenances, for the amount due to him for such labor, material or services. If the contract is expressed, and the time for the completion of the work is beyond three years from the commencement thereof; or, if the time of payment is beyond one year from the time stipulated for the completion of the work, then no lien exists. If the contract is implied, then no lien exists, unless the work be done or material is furnished within one year from the commencement of the work or delivery of the materials. As between different creditors having liens, no preference is given to the one whose contract was first made; but each shares pro-rata. Incumbrances existing on the lot or tract of the land at the time the contract is made, do not operate on the improvements, and are only preferred to the extent of the value of the land at the time of making the contract. The above lien can not be enforced unless suit is commenced within six months after the last payment for labor or materials shall have become due and payable. Sub-contractors, mechanics, workmen and other persons furnishing any material, or performing any labor for a contractor as before specified, have a lien to the extent of the amount due the contractor at the time the following notice is served upon the owner of the land who made the contract:

To —, You are hereby notified, that I have been employed by— (here state whether to labor or furnish material, and substantially the nature of the demand) upon your (here state in general terms description and situation of building), and that I shall hold the (building, or as the case may be), and your interest in the ground, liable for the amount that may (is or may become) due me on account thereof. Signature, —

If there is a contract in writing between contractor and sub-contractor, a copy of it should be served with above notice, and said notice must be served within forty days from the completion of such sub-contract, if there is one; if not, then from the time payment should have been made to the person performing the labor or furnishing the material. If the owner is not a resident of the county, or can not be found therein, then the above notice must be filed with the clerk of the Circuit Court, with his fee, fifty cents, and a copy of said notice must be published in a newspaper published in the county, for four successive weeks.

When the owner or agent is notified as above, he can retain any money due the contractor sufficient to pay such claim; if more than one claim, and not enough to pay all, they are to be paid pro rata.

The owner has the right to demand in writing, a statement of the contractor, of what he owes for labor, etc., from time to time as the work progresses, and on his failure to comply, forfeits to the owner $50 for every offense.

The liens referred to cover any and all estates, whether in fee for life, for years, or any other interest which the owner may have.

To enforce the lien of sub-contractors, suit must be commenced within three months from the time of the performance of the sub-contract, or during the work or furnishing materials.

Hotel, inn and boarding-house keepers, have a lien upon the baggage and other valuables of their guests or boarders, brought into such hotel, inn or boarding-house, by their guests or boarders, for the proper charges due from such guests or boarders for their accommodation, board and lodgings, and such extras as are furnished at their request.

Stable-keepers and other persons have a lien upon the horses, carriages and harness kept by them, for the proper charges due for the keeping thereof and expenses bestowed thereon at the request of the owner or the person having the possession of the same.

Agisters (persons who take care of cattle belonging to others), and persons keeping, yarding, feeding or pasturing domestic animals, shall have a lien upon the animals agistered, kept, yarded or fed, for the proper charges due for such service.

All persons who may furnish any railroad corporation in this state with fuel, ties, material, supplies or any other article or thing necessary for the construction, maintenance, operation or repair of its road by contract, or may perform work or labor on the same, is entitled to be paid as part of the current expenses of the road, and have a lien upon all its property. Sub-contractors or laborers have also a lien. The conditions and limitations both as to contractors and sub-contractors, are about the same as herein stated as to general liens.

DEFINITION OF COMMERCIAL TERMS.

$— means dollars, being a contraction of U. S., which was formerly placed before any denomination of money, and meant, as it means now, United States Currency.

£— means pounds, English money.

@ stands for at or to. lb for pound, and bbl. for barrel; ¢ for per or by the. Thus, Butter sells at 20@30c ¢ lb, and Flour at $8@12 ¢ bbl.

% for per cent and # for number.

May 1.—Wheat sells at $1.20@1.25, “seller June.” Seller June means that the person who sells the wheat has the privilege of delivering it at any time during the month of June.

Selling short, is contracting to deliver a certain amount of grain or stock, at a fixed price, within a certain length of time, when the seller has not the stock on hand. It is for the interest of the person selling "short," to depress the market as much as possible, in order that he may buy and fill his contract at a profit. Hence the "shorts" are termed "bears."

Buying long, is to contract to purchase a certain amount of grain or shares of stock at a fixed price, deliverable within a stipulated time, expecting to make a profit by the rise of prices. The "longs" are termed "bulls," as it is for their interest to "operate" so as to "toss" the prices upward as much as possible.

NOTES.

Form of note is legal, worded in the simplest way, so that the amount and time of payment are mentioned.

ARTICLES OF AGREEMENT.

An agreement is where one party promises to another to do a certain thing in a certain time for a stipulated sum. Good business men always reduce an agreement to writing, which nearly always saves misunderstandings and trouble. No particular form is necessary, but the facts must be clearly and explicitly stated, and there must, to make it valid, be a reasonable consideration.

GENERAL FORM OF AGREEMENT.

THIS AGREEMENT, made the Second day of October, 1876, between John Jones, of Aurora, County of Kane, State of Illinois, of the first part, and Thomas Whiteside, of the same place, of the second part —

WITNESSETH, that the said John Jones, in consideration of the agreement of the party of the second part, hereinafter contained, contracts and agrees to and with the said Thomas Whiteside, that he will deliver, in good and marketable condition, at the Village of Batavia, Ill., during the month of November, of this year, One Hundred Tons of Prairie Hay, in the following lots, and at the following specified times; namely, twenty-five tons by the seventh of November, twenty-five tons additional by the fourteenth of the month, twenty-five tons more by the twenty-first, and the entire one hundred tons to be all delivered by the thirtieth of November.

And the said Thomas Whiteside, in consideration of the prompt fulfillment of this contract, on the part of the party of the first part, contracts to and agrees with the said John Jones, to pay for said hay five dollars per ton, for each ton as soon as delivered.

In case of failure of agreement by either of the parties hereto, it is hereby stipulated and agreed that the party so failing shall pay to the other, One Hundred Dollars, as fixed and settled damages.

In witness whereof, we have hereunto set our hands the day and year first above written.

JOHN JONES,

THOMAS WHITESIDE.

AGREEMENT WITH CLERK FOR SERVICES.

THIS AGREEMENT, made the first day of May, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, between Reuben Stone, of Chicago, County of Cook, State of Illinois, party of the first part, and George Barclay, of Englewood, County of Cook, State of Illinois, party of the second part —

WITNESSETH, that said George Barclay agrees faithfully and diligently to work as clerk and salesman for the said Reuben Stone, for and during the space of one year from the date hereof, should both live such length of time, without absenting himself from his occupation;

during which time he, the said Barclay, in the store of said Stone, of Chicago, will carefully and honestly attend, doing and performing all duties as clerk and salesman aforesaid, in accordance and in all respects as directed and desired by the said Stone.

In consideration of which services, so to be rendered by the said Barclay, the said Stone agrees to pay to said Barclay the annual sum of one thousand dollars, payable in twelve equal monthly payments, each upon the last day of each month; provided that all dues for days of absence from business by said Barclay, shall be deducted from the sum otherwise by the agreement due and payable by the said Stone to the said Barclay.

Witness our hands.

BILLS OF SALE.

A bill of sale is a written agreement to another party, for a consideration to convey his right and interest in the personal property. The purchaser must take actual possession of the property. Juries have power to determine upon the fairness or unfairness of a bill of sale.

COMMON FORM OF BILL OF SALE.

KNOW ALL MEN by this instrument, that I, Louis Clay, of Princeton, Illinois, of the first part, for and in consideration of Five Hundred and Ten dollars, to me paid by John Floyd, of the same place, of the second part, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, have sold, and by this instrument do convey unto the said Floyd, party of the second part, his executors, administrators, and assigns, my undivided half of ten acres of corn, now growing on the farm of Thomas Tyrrell, in the town above mentioned; one pair of horses, sixteen sheep, and five cows, belonging to me, and in my possession at the farm aforesaid; to have and to hold the same unto the party of the second part, his executors and assigns, forever. And I do, for myself and legal representatives, agree with the said party of the second part, and his legal representatives, to warrant and defend the sale of the afore-mentioned property and chattels unto the said party of the second part, and his legal representatives, against all and every person whatsoever.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto affixed my hand, this tenth day of October, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six.

LOUIS CLAY.

BONDS.

A bond is a written admission on the part of the maker in which he pledges a certain sum to another, at a certain time.

COMMON FORM OF BOND.

KNOW ALL MEN by this instrument, that I, George Edgerton, of Watska, Iroquois County, State of Illinois, am firmly bound unto Peter Kirchoff, of the place aforesaid, in the sum of five hundred dollars, to be paid to the said Peter Kirchoff, or his legal representatives; to which payment, to be made, I bind myself, or my legal representatives, by this instrument.

Sealed with my seal, and dated this second day of November, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four.

The condition of this bond is such that if I, George Edgerton, my heirs, administrators, or executors, shall promptly pay the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars in three equal annual payments from the date hereof, with annual interest, then the above obligation to be of no effect; otherwise to be in full force and valid.

CHATTEL MORTGAGES.

A chattel mortgage is a mortgage on personal property for payment of a certain sum of money, to hold the property against debts of other creditors. The mortgage must describe the property, and must be acknowledged before a justice of the peace in the township or precinct where the mortgagee resides, and entered upon his docket, and must be recorded in the recorder's office of the county.

GENERAL FORM OF CHATTEL MORTGAGE.

THIS INDENTURE, made and entered into this first day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five, between Theodore Lottinville, of the town of Geneseo in the County of Henry, and State of Illinois, party of the first part, and Paul Henshaw, of the same town, county, and State, party of the second part.

Witnesseth, that the said party of the first part, for and in consideration of the sum of one thousand dollars, in hand paid, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, does hereby grant, sell, convey, and confirm unto the said party of the second part, his heirs and assigns forever, all and singular the following described goods and chattels, to wit:

Two three-year old roan-colored horses, one Burdett organ, No. 987, one Brussels carpet, 15x20 feet in size, one marble-top center table, one Home Comfort cooking stove, No. 8, one black walnut bureau with mirror attached, one set of parlor chairs (six in number), upholstered in green rep, with lounge corresponding with same in style and color of upholstery, now in possession of said Lottinville, at No. 4 Prairie Ave., Geneseo, Ill.;

Together with all and singular, the appurtenances thereunto belonging, or in any wise appertaining; to have and to hold the above described goods and chattels, unto the said party of the second part, his heirs and assigns, forever.

Provided, always, and these presents are upon this express condition, that if the said Theodore Lottinville, his heirs, executors, administrators, or assigns, shall, on or before the first day of January, A.D., one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, pay, or cause to be paid, to the said Paul Ranslow, or his lawful attorney or attorneys, heirs, executors, administrators, or assigns, the sum of One Thousand dollars, together with the interest that may accrue thereon, at the rate of ten per cent. per annum, from the first day of January, A.D. one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five, until paid, according to the tenor of one promissory note bearing even date herewith for the payment of said sum of money, that then and from thenceforth, these presents, and everything herein contained, shall cease, and be null and void, anything herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

Provided, also, that the said Theodore Lottinville may retain the possession of and have the use of said goods and chattels until the day of payment aforesaid; and also, at his own expense, shall keep said goods and chattels; and also at the expiration of said time of payment, if said sum of money, together with the interest as aforesaid, shall not be paid, shall deliver up said goods and chattels, in good condition, to said Paul Ranslow, or his heirs, executors, administrators, or assigns.

And provided, also, that if default in payment as aforesaid, by said party of the first part, shall be made, or if said party of the second part shall at any time before said promissory note becomes due, feel himself unsafe or insecure, that then the said party of the second part, or his attorney, agent, assigns, or heirs, executors, or administrators, shall have the right to take possession of said goods and chattels, wherever they may or can be found, and sell the same at public or private sale, to the highest bidder for cash in hand, after giving ten days' notice of the time and place of said sale, together with a description of the goods and chattels to be sold, by at least four advertisements, posted up in public places in the vicinity where said sale is to take place, and proceed to make the sum of money and interest promised as aforesaid, together with all reasonable costs, charges, and expenses in so doing; and if there shall be any overplus, shall pay the same without delay to the said party of the first part, or his legal representatives.

In testimony whereof, the said party of the first part has hereunto set his hand and affixed his seal, the day and year first above written.

Signed, sealed and delivered in

SAMUEL J. TILDEN.

LEASE OF FARM AND BUILDINGS THEREON.

THIS INDENTURE, made this second day of June, 1875, between David Patton of the Town of Bisbee, State of Illinois; of the first part, and John Doyle of the same place, of the second part,

Witnesseth, that the said David Patton, for and in consideration of the covenants hereinafter mentioned and reserved, on the part of the said John Doyle, his executors, administrators, and assigns, to be paid, kept, and performed, hath let, and by these presents doth grant, demise, and let, unto the said John Doyle, his executors, administrators, and assigns, all that parcel of land situate in Bisbee aforesaid, bounded and described as follows, to wit:

[Here describe the land.]

Together with all the appurtenances appertaining thereto. To have and to hold the said premises, with appurtenances thereto belonging, unto the said Doyle, his executors, administrators, and assigns, for the term of five years, from the first day of October next following, at a yearly rent of Six Hundred dollars, to be paid in equal payments, semi-annually, as long as said buildings are in good tenantable condition.

And the said Doyle, by these presents, covenants and agrees to pay all taxes and assessments, and keep in repair all hedges, ditches, rail, and other fences; (the said David Patton, his heirs, assigns and administrators, to furnish all timber, brick, tile, and other materials necessary for such repairs.)

Said Doyle further covenants and agrees to apply to said land, in a farmer-like manner, all manure and compost accumulating upon said farm, and cultivate all the arable land in a husbandlike manner, according to the usual custom among farmers in the neighborhood; he also agrees to trim the hedges at a seasonable time, preventing injury from cattle to such hedges, and to all fruit and other trees on the said premises. That he will seed down with clover and timothy seed twenty acres yearly of arable land, ploughing the same number of acres each Spring of land now in grass, and hitherto unbroken.

It is further agreed, that if the said Doyle shall fail to perform the whole or any one of the above mentioned covenants, then and in that case the said David Patton may declare this lease terminated, by giving three months' notice of the same, prior to the first of October of any year, and may distrain any part of the stock, goods, or chattels, or other property in possession of said Doyle, for sufficient to compensate for the non-performance of the above written covenants, the same to be determined, and amounts so to be paid to be determined, by three arbitrators, chosen as follows: Each of the parties to this instrument to choose one, and the two so chosen to select a third ; the decision of said arbitrators to be final.

In witness whereof, we have hereto set our hands and seals.

Signed, sealed, and delivered

JAMES WALDRON.

FORM OF LEASE OF A HOUSE.

THIS INSTRUMENT, made the first day of October, 1875, witnesseth that Amos Griest of Yorkville, County of Kendall, State of Illinois, hath rented from Aaron Young of Logansport aforesaid, the dwelling and lot No. 13 Ohio Street, situated in said City of Yorkville, for five years from the above date, at the yearly rental of Three Hundred dollars, payable monthly, on the first day of each month, in advance, at the residence of said Aaron Young.

At the expiration of said above mentioned term, the said Griest agrees to give the said Young peaceable possession of the said dwelling, in as good condition as when taken, ordinary wear and casualties excepted.

In witness whereof, we place our hands and seals the day and year aforesaid.

NICKOLAS SCHUTZ,

AARON YOUNG. [L.S.]

LANDLORD'S AGREEMENT.

THIS certifies that I have let and rented, this first day of January, 1876, unto Jacob Schmidt, my house and lot, No. 15 Erie Street, in the City of Chicago, State of Illinois, and its appurtenances ; he to have the free and uninterrupted occupation thereof for one year from this date, at the yearly rental of Two Hundred dollars, to be paid monthly in advance ; rent to cease if destroyed by fire, or otherwise made untenable.

PETER FUNK.

TENANT'S AGREEMENT.

THIS certifies that I have hired and taken from Peter Funk, his house and lot, No. 15 Erie Street, in the City of Chicago, State of Illinois, with appurtenances thereto belonging, for one year, to commence this day, at a yearly rental of Two Hundred dollars, to be paid monthly in advance ; unless said house becomes untenable from fire or other causes, in which case rent ceases ; and I further agree to give and yield said premises one year from this first day of January 1876, in as good condition as now, ordinary wear and damage by the elements excepted.

Given under my hand this day.

JACOB SCHMIDT.

NOTICE TO QUIT.

TO F. W. ARLEN,

Sir: Please observe that the term of one year, for which the house and land, situated at No. 6 Indiana Street, and now occupied by you, were rented to you, expired on the first day of October, 1875, and as I desire to repossess said premises, you are hereby requested and required to vacate the same.

Respectfully Yours,

P. T. BARNUM.

LINCOLN, NEB., October 4, 1875.

TENANT'S NOTICE OF LEAVING.

DEAR SIR:

The premises I now occupy as your tenant, at No. 6 Indiana Street, I shall vacate on the first day of November, 1875. You will please take notice accordingly.

Dated this tenth day of October, 1875.

F. W. ARLEN.

REAL ESTATE MORTGAGE TO SECURE PAYMENT OF MONEY.

THIS INDENTURE, made this sixteenth day of May, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two, between William Stocker, of Peoria, County of Peoria, and State of Illinois, and Olla, his wife, party of the first part, and Edward Singer, party of the second part.

Whereas, the said party of the first part is justly indebted to the said party of the second part, in the sum of Two Thousand dollars, secured to be paid by two certain promissory notes (bearing even date herewith) the one due and payable at the Second National Bank in Peoria, Illinois, with interest, on the sixteenth day of May, in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three; the other due and payable at the Second National Bank at Peoria, Ill., with interest, on the sixteenth day of May, in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

Now, therefore, this indenture witnesseth, that the said party of the first part, for the better securing the payment of the money aforesaid, with interest thereon, according to the tenor and effect of the said two promissory notes above mentioned; and, also in consideration of the further sum of one dollar to them in hand paid by the said party of the second part, at the delivery of these presents, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, have granted, bargained, sold, and conveyed, and by these presents do grant, bargain, sell, and convey, unto the said party of the second part, his heirs and assigns, forever, all that certain parcel of land, situate, etc.

[Describing the premises.]

To have and to hold the same, together with all and singular the Tenements, Hereditaments, Privileges and Appurtenances thereunto belonging or in any wise appertaining. And also, all the estate, interest, and claim whatsoever, in law as well as in equity which the party of the first part have in and to the premises hereby conveyed unto the said party of the second part, his heirs and assigns, and to their only proper use, benefit and behoof. And the said William Stocker, and Olla, his wife, party of the first part, hereby expressly waive, relinquish, release, and convey unto the said party of the second part, his heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, all right, title, claim, interest, and benefit whatever, in and to the above described premises, and each and every part thereof, which is given by or results from all laws of this state pertaining to the exemption of homesteads.

Provided always, and these presents are upon this express condition, that if the said party of the first part, their heirs, executors, or administrators, shall well and truly pay, or cause to be paid, to the said party of the second part, his heirs, executors, administrators, or assigns, the aforesaid sums of money, with such interest thereon, at the time and in the manner specified in the above mentioned promissory notes, according to the true intent and meaning thereof, then in that case, these presents and every thing herein expressed, shall be absolutely null and void.

In witness whereof, the said party of the first part hereunto set their hands and seals the day and year first above written.

Signed, sealed and delivered in presence of

JAMES WHITEHEAD,

FRED. SAMUELS.

WARRANTY DEED WITH COVENANTS.

THIS INDENTURE made this sixth day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two, between Henry Best of Lawrence, County of Lawrence, State of Illinois, and Belle, his wife, of the first part, and Charles Pearson of the same place, of the second part.

Witnesseth, that the said party of the first part, for and in consideration of the sum of Six Thousand dollars in hand paid by the said party of the second part, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, have granted, bargained, and sold, and by these presents do grant, bargain, and sell, unto the said party of the second part, his heirs and assigns, all the following described lot, piece, or parcel of land, situated in the City of Lawrence, in the County of Lawrence, and State of Illinois, to wit:

[Here describe the property.]

Together with all and singular the hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in any wise appertaining, and the reversion and reversions, remainder and remainders, rents, issues, and profits thereof; and all the estate, right, title, interest, claim, and demand whatsoever, of the said party of the first part, either in law or equity, of, in, and to the above bargained premises, with the hereditaments and appurtenances. To have and to hold the said premises above bargained and described, with the appurtenances, unto the said party of the second part, his heirs and assigns, forever. And the said Henry Best, and Belle, his wife, parties of the first part, hereby expressly waive, release, and relinquish unto the said party of the second part, his heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, all right, title, claim, interest, and benefit whatever, in and to the above described premises, and each and every part thereof, which is given by or results from all laws of this state pertaining to the exemption of homesteads.

And the said Henry Best, and Belle, his wife, party of the first part, for themselves and their heirs, executors, and administrators, do covenant, grant, bargain, and agree, to and with the said party of the second part, his heirs and assigns, that at the time of the ensealing and delivery of these presents they were well seized of the premises above conveyed, as of a good, sure, perfect, absolute, and indefeasible estate of inheritance in law, and in fee simple, and have good right, full power, and lawful authority to grant, bargain, sell, and convey the same, in manner and form aforesaid, and that the same are free and clear from all former and other grants, bargains, sales, liens, taxes, assessments, and encumbrances of what kind or nature soever; and the above bargained premises in the quiet and peaceable possession of the said party of the second part, his heirs and assigns, against all and every person or persons lawfully claiming or to claim the whole or any part thereof, the said party of the first part shall and will warrant and forever defend.

In testimony whereof, the said parties of the first part have hereunto set their hands and seals the day and year first above written.

[NOTARIAL
SEAL]

I, George Saxton, a Notary Public in and for said county, in the state aforesaid, do hereby certify that Peter Ahlund, personally known to me as the same person whose name is subscribed to the foregoing Release, appeared before me this day in person, and acknowledged that he signed, sealed, and delivered the said instrument of writing as his free and voluntary act, for the uses and purposes therein set forth.

Given under my hand and seal, this second day of November, A. D. 1874.

GEORGE SAXTON, N. P.

GENERAL FORM OF WILL FOR REAL AND PERSONAL PROPERTY.

I, Charles Mansfield, of the Town of Salem, County of Jackson, State of Illinois, being aware of the uncertainty of life, and in failing health, but of sound mind and memory, do make and declare this to be my last will and testament, in manner following, to wit:

First. I give, devise and bequeath unto my oldest son, Sidney H. Mansfield, the sum of Two Thousand Dollars, of bank stock, now in the Third National Bank of Cincinnati, Ohio, and the farm owned by myself in the Town of Buskirk, consisting of one hundred and sixty acres, with all the houses, tenements, and improvements thereunto belonging; to have and to hold unto my said son, his heirs and assigns, forever.

Second. I give, devise and bequeath to each of my daughters, Anna Louise Mansfield and Ida Clara Mansfield, each Two Thousand dollars in bank stock, in the Third National Bank of Cincinnati, Ohio, and also each one quarter section of land, owned by myself, situated in the Town of Lake, Illinois, and recorded in my name in the Recorder's office in the county where such land is located. The north one hundred and sixty acres of said half section is devised to my eldest daughter, Anna Louise.

Third. I give, devise and bequeath to my son, Frank Alfred Mansfield, Five shares of Railroad stock in the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and my one hundred and sixty acres of land and saw mill thereon, situated in Manistee, Michigan, with all the improvements and appurtenances thereunto belonging, which said real estate is recorded in my name in the county where situated.

Fourth. I give to my wife, Victoria Elizabeth Mansfield, all my household furniture, goods, chattels, and personal property, about my home, not hitherto disposed of, including Eight Thousand dollars of bank stock in the Third National Bank of Cincinnati, Ohio, Fifteen shares in the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and the free and unrestricted use, possession, and benefit of the home farm, so long as she may live, in lieu of dower, to which she is entitled by law; said farm being my present place of residence.

Fifth. I bequeath to my invalid father, Elijah H. Mansfield, the income from rents of my store building at 145 Jackson Street, Chicago, Illinois, during the term of his natural life. Said building and land therewith to revert to my said sons and daughters in equal proportion, upon the demise of my said father.

Sixth. It is also my will and desire that, at the death of my wife, Victoria Elizabeth Mansfield, or at any time when she may arrange to relinquish her life interest in the above mentioned homestead, the same may revert to my above named children, or to the lawful heirs of each.

And lastly. I nominate and appoint as executors of this my last will and testament, my wife, Victoria Elizabeth Mansfield, and my eldest son, Sidney H. Mansfield.

I further direct that my debts and necessary funeral expenses shall be paid from moneys now on deposit in the Savings Bank of Salem, the residue of such moneys to revert to my wife, Victoria Elizabeth Mansfield, for her use forever.

In witness whereof, I, Charles Mansfield, to this my last will and testament, have hereunto set my hand and seal, this fourth day of April, eighteen hundred and seventy-two.

Signed, sealed, and declared by Charles Mansfield, as and for his last will and testament, in the presence of us, who, at his request, and in his presence, and in the presence of each other, have subscribed our names hereunto as witnesses thereof.

PETER A. SCHENCK, Sycamore, Ills.
FRANK E. DENT, Salem, Ills.

CHARLES MANSFIELD. [L.S.]

CODICIL.

Whereas I, Charles Mansfield, did, on the fourth day of April, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two, make my last will and testament, I do now, by this writing, add this codicil to my said will, to be taken as a part thereof.

Whereas, by the dispensation of Providence, my daughter, Anna Louise, has deceased November fifth, eighteen hundred and seventy-three, and whereas, a son has been born to me, which son is now christened Richard Albert Mansfield, I give and bequeath unto him my gold watch, and all right, interest, and title in lands and bank stock and chattels bequeathed to my deceased daughter, Anna Louise, in the body of this will.

In witness whereof, I hereunto place my hand and seal, this tenth day of March, eighteen hundred and seventy-five.

Signed, sealed, published, and declared to us by the testator, Charles Mansfield, as and for a codicil to be annexed to his last will and testament. And we, at his request, and in his presence, and in the presence of each other, have subscribed our names as witnesses thereto, at the date hereof.

CHURCH ORGANIZATIONS

May be legally made by electing or appointing, according to the usages or customs of the body of which it is a part, at any meeting held for that purpose, two or more of its members as trustees, wardens or vestrymen, and may adopt a corporate name. The chairman or secretary of such meeting shall, as soon as possible, make and file in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county, an affidavit substantially in the following form:

STATE OF ILLINOIS, }
 ——— County. } ss.

I, ———, do solemnly swear (or affirm, as the case may be), that at a meeting of the members of the (here insert the name of the church, society or congregation as known before organization), held at (here insert place of meeting), in the County of ———, and State of Illinois, on the ——— day of ———, A.D. 18—, for that purpose, the following persons were elected (or appointed) [here insert their names] trustees, wardens, vestrymen, (or officers by whatever name they may choose to adopt, with powers similar to trustees) according to the rules and usages of such (church, society or congregation), and said ——— adopted as its corporate name (here insert name), and at said meeting this affiant acted as (chairman or secretary, as the case may be).

Subscribed and sworn to before me, this ____ day of ____, A.D. 18--.

Name of Affiant ____

which affidavit must be recorded by the recorder, and shall be, or a certified copy made by the recorder, received as evidence of such an incorporation.

No certificate of election after the first need be filed for record.

The term of office of the trustees and the general government of the society can be determined by the rules or by-laws adopted. Failure to elect trustees at the time provided does not work a dissolution, but the old trustees hold over. A trustee or trustees may be removed, in the same manner by the society as elections are held by a meeting called for that purpose. The property of the society vests in the corporation. The corporation may hold, or acquire by purchase or otherwise, land not exceeding ten acres, for the purpose of the society. The trustees have the care, custody and control of the property of the corporation, and can, when directed by the society, erect houses or improvements, and repair and alter the same, and may also when so directed by the society, mortgage, encumber, sell and convey any real or personal estate belonging to the corporation, and make all proper contracts in the name of such corporation. But they are prohibited by law from encumbering or interfering with any property so as to destroy the effect of any gift, grant, devise or bequest to the corporation; but such gifts, grants, devises or bequests, must in all cases be used so as to carry out the object intended by the persons making the same. Existing societies may organize in the manner herein set forth, and have all the advantages thereof.

SUGGESTIONS TO THOSE PURCHASING BOOKS BY SUBSCRIPTION.

The business of publishing books by subscription having so often been brought into disrepute by agents making representations and declarations not authorized by the publisher; in order to prevent that as much as possible, and that there may be more general knowledge of the relation such agents bear to their principal, and the law governing such cases, the following statement is made:

A subscription is in the nature of a contract of mutual promises, by which the subscriber agrees to pay a certain sum for the work described; the consideration is concurrent that the publisher shall publish the book named, and deliver the same, for which the subscriber is to pay the price named. The nature and character of the work is described in the prospectus and by the sample shown. These should be carefully examined before subscribing, as they are the basis and consideration of the promise to pay, and not the too often exaggerated statements of the agent, who is merely employed to solicit subscriptions, for which he is usually paid a commission for each subscriber, and has no authority to change or alter the conditions upon which the subscriptions are authorized to be made by the publisher. Should the agent assume to agree to make the subscription conditional or modify or change the agreement of the publisher, as set out by prospectus and sample, in order to bind the principal, the subscriber should see that such conditions or changes are stated over or in connection with his signature, so that the publisher may have notice of the same.

All persons making contracts in reference to matters of this kind, or any other business, should remember that the law as to written contracts is, that they can not be varied, altered or rescinded verbally, but if done at all, must be done in writing. It is therefore important that all persons contemplating subscribing should distinctly understand that all talk before or after the subscription is made, is not admissible as evidence, and is no part of the contract.

Persons employed to solicit subscriptions are known to the trade as canvassers. They are agents appointed to do a particular business in a prescribed mode, and have no authority to do it in any other way to the prejudice of their principal, nor can they bind their principal in any other matter. They can not collect money, or agree that payment may be made in anything else but money. They can not extend the time of payment beyond the time of delivery, nor bind their principal for the payment of expenses incurred in their business.

It would save a great deal of trouble, and often serious loss, if persons, before signing their names to any subscription book, or any written instrument, would examine carefully what it is; if they can not read themselves, should call on some one disinterested who can.

INTEREST TABLE.

A SIMPLE RULE FOR ACCURATELY COMPUTING INTEREST AT ANY GIVEN PER CENT. FOR ANY LENGTH OF TIME.

Multiply the principal (amount of money at interest) by the time reduced to days : then divide this product by the quotient obtained by dividing 360 (the number of days in the interest year) by the per cent. of interest, and the quotient thus obtained will be the required interest.

ILLUSTRATION.

Require the interest of $462.50 for one month and eighteen days at 6 per cent. An interest month is 30 days ; one month and eighteen days equal 48 days. $462.50 multiplied by .48 gives 222,0000 ; 360 divided by 6 (the per cent. of interest) gives 60, and $222.0000 divided by 60 will give you the exact interest, which is $3.70. If the rate of interest in the above example were 12 per cent., we would divide the $222.0000 by 30 (because 360 divided by 12 gives 30) ; if 4 per cent., we would divide by 90 ; if 8 per cent., by 45 ; and in like manner for any other per cent.

Solution.

CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, AND ITS AMENDMENTS.

We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquillity, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

ARTICLE I.

SECTION 1. All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives.

SEC. 2. The House of Representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several states, and the electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the State Legislature.

No person shall be a representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years, and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state in which he shall be chosen.

Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states which may be included within this Union, according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons. The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the Congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of Representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty thousand, but each state shall have at least one Representative; and until such enumeration shall be made the State of New Hampshire shall be entitled to choose three, Massachusetts eight, Rhode Island and Providence Plantations one, Connecticut five, New York six, New Jersey four, Pennsylvania eight, Delaware one, Maryland six, Virginia ten, North Carolina five, and Georgia three.

When vacancies happen in the representation from any state, the Executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies.

The House of Representatives shall choose their Speaker and other officers, and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

SEC. 3. The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each state, chosen by the Legislature thereof for six years; and each Senator shall have one vote.

Immediately after they shall be assembled in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the Senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year, of the second class at the expiration of the fourth year, and of the third class at the expiration of the sixth year, so that one-third may be chosen every second year; and if vacancies happen by resignation or otherwise, during the recess of the Legislature of any state, the Executive thereof may make temporary appointments until the next meeting of the Legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies.

No person shall be a Senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state for which he shall be chosen.

The Vice-President of the United States shall be President of the Senate, but shall have no vote unless they be equally divided.

The Senate shall choose their other officers, and also a President pro tempore, in the absence of the Vice-President, or when he shall exercise the office of President of the United States.

The Senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments. When sitting for that purpose they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the President of the United States is tried the Chief Justice shall preside. And no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

Judgment, in cases of impeachment, shall not extend further than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust, or profit under the United States; but the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment, and punishment according to law.

SEC. 4. The times, places and manner of holding elections for Senators and Representatives shall be prescribed in each state by the Legislature thereof; but the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing Senators.

The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

SEC. 5. Each house shall be the judge of the election, returns, and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members in such manner and under such penalties as each house may provide.

Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member.

Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such parts as may, in their judgment, require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house on any question shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

Neither house, during the session of Congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

SEC. 6. The Senators and Representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the treasury of the United States. They shall in all cases, except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either house they shall not be questioned in any other place.

No Senator or Representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time; and no person holding any office under the United States, shall be a member of either house during his continuance in office.

SEC. 7. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives; but the Senate may propose or concur with amendments as on other bills.

Every bill which shall have passed the House of Representatives and the Senate, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the President of the United States; if he approve he shall sign it; but if not he shall return it, with his objections, to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of that house, it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the President within ten days (Sundays excepted), after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Congress, by their adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

Every order, resolution, or vote to which the concurrence of the Senate and House of Representatives may be necessary (except on a question of adjournment), shall be presented to the President of the United States, and before the same shall take effect shall be approved by him, or, being disapproved by him, shall be re-passed by two-thirds of the Senate and House of Representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

SEC. 8. The Congress shall have power—

To lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises, to pay the debts, and provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States; but all duties, imposts, and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States;

To borrow money on the credit of the United States;

To regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian tribes;

To establish a uniform rule of naturalization, and uniform laws on the subject of bankruptcies throughout the United States;

To coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coin, and fix the standard of weights and measures;

To provide for the punishment of counterfeiting the securities and current coin of the United States;

To establish post offices and post roads;

To promote the progress of sciences and useful arts, by securing, for limited times, to authors and inventors, the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries;

To constitute tribunals inferior to the Supreme Court;

To define and punish piracies and felonies committed on the high seas, and offenses against the law of nations;

To declare war, grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water;

To raise and support armies, but no appropriation of money to that use shall be for a longer term than two years;

To provide and maintain a navy;

To make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces;

To provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections, and repel invasions;

To provide for organizing, arming and disciplining the militia, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the service of the United States, reserving to the states respectively the appointment of the officers, and the authority of training the militia according to the discipline prescribed by Congress;

To exercise legislation in all cases whatsoever over such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by cession of particular states, and the acceptance of Congress, become the seat of the government of the United States, and to exercise like authority over all places purchased by the consent of the Legislature of the state in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dock yards, and other needful buildings; and

To make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers, and all other powers vested by this Constitution in the government of the United States, or in any department or officer thereof.

SEC. 9. The migration or importation of such persons as any of the states now existing shall think proper to admit, shall not be prohibited by the Congress prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight, but a tax or duty may be imposed on such importation, not exceeding ten dollars for each person.

The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless when in cases of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require it.

No bill of attainder or ex post facto law shall be passed.

No capitation or other direct tax shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census or enumeration hereinbefore directed to be taken.

No tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any state.

No preference shall be given by any regulation of commerce or revenue to the ports of one state over those of another; nor shall vessels bound to or from one state be obliged to enter, clear, or pay duties in another.

No money shall be drawn from the Treasury, but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time.

No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States: and no person holding any office of profit or trust under them, shall, without the consent of the Congress, accept of any present, emolument, office, or title of any kind whatever, from any king, prince, or foreign state.

SEC. 10. No state shall enter into any treaty, alliance, or confederation; grant letters of marque and reprisal; coin money; emit bills of credit; make anything but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts; pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, or grant any title of nobility.

No state shall, without the consent of the Congress, lay any imposts or duties on imports or exports, except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws, and the net produce of all duties and imposts laid by any state on imports or exports, shall be for the use of the Treasury of the United States; and all such laws shall be subject to the revision and control of the Congress.

No state shall, without the consent of Congress, lay any duty on tonnage, keep troops or ships of war in time of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another state, or with a foreign power, or engage in war, unless actually invaded, or in such imminent danger as will not admit of delay.

ARTICLE II.

SECTION 1. The Executive power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and, together with the Vice-President chosen for the same term, be elected as follows:

Each state shall appoint, in such manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a number of Electors, equal to the whole number of Senators and Representatives to which the state may be entitled in the Congress; but no Senator or Representative, or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States, shall be appointed an Elector.

[*The Electors shall meet in their respective states, and vote by ballot for two persons, of whom one at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves. And they shall make a list of all the persons voted for, and of the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit, sealed, to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate. The President of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be the President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of Electors appointed; and if there be more than one who have such majority, and have an equal number of votes, then the House of Representatives shall immediately choose by ballot one of them for President; and if no person have a majority, then from the five highest on the list the said House shall in like manner choose the President. But in choosing the President, the vote shall be taken by states, the representation from each state having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the states, and a majority of all the states shall be necessary to a choice. In every case, after the choice of the President,

* This clause between brackets has been superseded and annulled by the Twelfth amendment. †

the person having the greatest number of votes of the Electors shall be the Vice-President. But if there should remain two or more who have equal votes, the Senate shall choose from them by ballot the Vice-President.]

The Congress may determine the time of choosing the Electors, and the day on which they shall give their votes; which day shall be the same throughout the United States.

No person except a natural born citizen, or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this Constitution, shall be eligible to the office of President; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained the age of thirty-five years, and been fourteen years a resident within the United States.

In case of the removal of the President from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the Vice-President, and the Congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation, or inability, both of the President and Vice-President, declaring what officer shall then act as President, and such officer shall act accordingly, until the disability be removed, or a President shall be elected.

The President shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected, and he shall not receive within that period any other emolument from the United States or any of them.

Before he enters on the execution of his office, he shall take the following oath or affirmation:

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States."

SEC. 2. The President shall be commander in chief of the army and navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several states, when called into the actual service of the United States; he may require the opinion, in writing, of the principal officer in each of the executive departments, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices, and he shall have power to grant reprieves and pardon for offenses against the United States, except in cases of impeachment.

He shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the Senators present concur; and he shall nominate, and by and with the advice of the Senate, shall appoint ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, judges of the Supreme Court, and all other officers of the United States whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by law; but the Congress may by law vest the appointment of such inferior officers as they think proper in the President alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of departments.

The President shall have power to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the Senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session.

SEC. 3. He shall from time to time give to the Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient; he may on extraordinary occasions convene both houses, or either of them, and in case of disagreement between them, with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper; he shall receive ambassadors and other public ministers; he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and shall commission all the officers of the United States.

SEC. 4. The President, Vice-President, and all civil officers of the United States, shall be removed from office on impeachment for, and conviction of, treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors.

ARTICLE III.

SECTION I. The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one Supreme Court, and such inferior courts as the Congress may from time to time ordain and establish. The Judges, both of the Supreme and inferior courts, shall hold their offices during good behavior, and shall, at stated times, receive for their services a compensation, which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office.

SEC. 2. The judicial power shall extend to all cases, in law and equity, arising under this Constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties made, or which shall be made, under their authority; to all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers, and consuls; to all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction; to controversies to which the United States shall be a party; to controversies between two or more states; between a state and citizens of another state; between citizens of different states; between citizens of the same state claiming lands under grants of different states, and between a state or the citizens thereof, and foreign states, citizens, or subjects.

In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers, and consuls, and those in which a state shall be a party, the Supreme Court shall have original jurisdiction.

In all the other cases before mentioned, the Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, with such exceptions and under such regulations as the Congress shall make.

The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury; and such trial shall be held in the state where the said crimes shall have been committed; but when not committed within any state, the trial shall be at such place or places as the Congress may by law have directed.

SEC. 3. Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

The Congress shall have power to declare the punishment of treason, but no attainder of treason shall work corruption of blood, or forfeiture, except during the life of the person attainted.

ARTICLE IV.

SECTION 1. Full faith and credit shall be given in each state to the public acts, records, and judicial proceedings of every other state. And the Congress may, by general laws, prescribe the manner in which such acts, records, and proceedings shall be proved, and the effect thereof.

SEC. 2. The citizens of each state shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several states.

A person charged in any state with treason, felony, or other crime, who shall flee from justice and be found in another state, shall, on demand of the executive authority of the state from which he fled, be delivered up, to be removed to the state having jurisdiction of the crime.

No person held to service or labor in one state, under the laws thereof, escaping into another, shall, in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service or labor, but shall be delivered up on the claim of the party to whom such service or labor may be due.

SEC. 3. New states may be admitted by the Congress into this Union; but no new state shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other state; nor any state be formed by the junction of two or more states, or parts of states, without the consent of the Legislatures of the states concerned, as well as of the Congress.

The Congress shall have power to dispose of and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this Constitution shall be so construed as to prejudice any claims of the United States or of any particular state.

SEC. 4. The United States shall guarantee to every state in this Union a republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion, and on application of the Legislature, or of the Executive (when the Legislature can not be convened), against domestic violence.

ARTICLE V.

The Congress, whenever two-thirds of both houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this Constitution, or, on the application of the Legislatures of two-thirds of the several states, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which, in either case, shall be valid to all intents and purposes as part of this Constitution, when ratified by the Legislatures of three-fourths of the several states, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the Congress. Provided that no amendment which may be made prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight shall in any manner affect the first and fourth clauses in the ninth section of the first article; and that no state, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the Senate.

ARTICLE VI.

All debts contracted and engagements entered into before the adoption of this Constitution shall be as valid against the United States under this Constitution as under the Confederation.

This Constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof, and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land; and the Judges in every state shall be bound thereby, anything in the Constitution or laws of any state to the contrary notwithstanding.

The Senators and Representatives before mentioned, and the members of the several state Legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several states, shall be bound by oath or affirmation to support this Constitution; but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States.

ARTICLE VII.

The ratification of the Conventions of nine states shall be sufficient for the establishment of this Constitution between the states so ratifying the same.

Done in convention by the unanimous consent of the states present, the seventeenth day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty-seven, and of the independence of the United States of America the twelfth. In witness whereof we have hereunto subscribed our names.

ARTICLES IN ADDITION TO AND AMENDATORY OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

Proposed by Congress and ratified by the Legislatures of the several states, pursuant to the fifth article of the original Constitution.

ARTICLE I.

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

ARTICLE II.

A well regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.

ARTICLE III.

No soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner, nor in time of war but in a manner to be prescribed by law.

ARTICLE IV.

The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated; and no warrants shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched and the persons or things to be seized.

ARTICLE V.

No person shall be held to answer for a capital or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a Grand Jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia when in actual service in time of war or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.

ARTICLE VI.

In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the state and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor; and to have the assistance of counsel for his defense.

ARTICLE VII.

In suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved, and no fact tried by a jury shall be otherwise re-examined in any court of the United States than according to the rules of the common law.

ARTICLE VIII.

Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.

ARTICLE IX.

The enumeration, in the Constitution, of certain rights, shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people.

ARTICLE X.

The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states respectively, or to the people.

ARTICLE XI.

The judicial power of the United States shall not be construed to extend to any suit in law or equity commenced or prosecuted against one of the United States by citizens of another state, or by citizens or subjects of any foreign state.

ARTICLE XII.

The Electors shall meet in their respective states and vote by ballot for President and Vice-President, one of whom, at least, shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves; they shall name in their ballots the person to be voted for as president, and in distinct ballots the person voted for as Vice-President, and they shall make distinct lists of all persons voted for as President, and of all persons voted for as Vice-President, and of the number of votes for each, which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate. The President of the Senate shall, in presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes for President shall be the President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of Electors appointed; and if no person have such majority, then from the persons having the highest number not exceeding three on the list of those voted for as President, the House of Representatives shall choose immediately, by ballot, the President. But in choosing the President, the votes shall be taken by States, the representation from each state having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the states, and a majority of all the states shall be necessary to a choice. And if the House of Representatives shall not choose a President whenever the right of choice shall devolve upon them, before the fourth day of March next following, then the Vice-President shall act as President, as in the case of the death or other constitutional disability of the President. The person having the greatest number of votes as Vice-President, shall be the Vice-President, if such number be the majority of the whole number of electors appointed, and if no person have a majority, then from the two highest numbers on the list, the Senate shall choose the Vice-President; a quorum for the purpose shall consist of two-thirds of the whole number of Senators, and a majority of the whole number shall be necessary to a choice. But no person constitutionally ineligible to the office of President shall be eligible to that of Vice-President of the United States.

ARTICLE XIII.

SECTION 1. Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction.

SEC. 2. Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

ARTICLE XIV.

SECTION 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States, and of the state wherein they reside. No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

SEC. 2. Representatives shall be appointed among the several states according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each state, excluding Indians not taxed; but when the right to vote at any election for the choice of Electors for President and Vice-President of the United States, Representatives in Congress, the executive and judicial officers of a state, or the members of the Legislature thereof, is denied to any of the male inhabitants of such state, being twenty-one years of age and citizens of the United States, or in any way abridged except for participation in rebellion or other crimes, the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens twenty-one years of age in such state.

SEC. 3. No person shall be a Senator or Representative in Congress, or Elector of President and Vice-President, or hold any office, civil or military, under the United States, or under any state, who, having previously taken an oath as a Member of Congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any state Legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any state to support the Constitution of the United States, shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same, or given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof. But Congress may, by a vote of two-thirds of each house, remove such disability.

SEC. 4. The validity of the public debt of the United States authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned. But neither the United States nor any state shall pay any debt or obligation incurred in the aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any loss or emancipation of any slave, but such debts, obligations, and claims shall be held illegal and void.

SEC. 5. The Congress shall have power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this act.

ARTICLE XV.

SECTION 1. The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States, or by any state, on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

SEC. 2. Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY OF ILLINOIS IN 1873 — HENRY COUNTY.

BY HON. JAMES SHAW.

GEOLOGICAL FORMATIONS.

These consist of the usual Quarternary deposits, the lower Coal Measure series, and some low outcrops of the Hamilton and Niagara limestones. The geology of the county at first thought appears quite simple; but the paucity of stone quarries, and workable outcrops, over most of the county, makes the problem more difficult than one would at first imagine. The best section I can construct will give the formations about as follows:

Alluvial deposits and Drift clays.....	50 to 100 feet.
Lower Coal Measures.....	250 to 300 "
Hamilton (Devonian) limestone.....	20 "
Niagara or Le Clair limestone.....	15 "

In this section a very marked hiatus of Illinois rocks will be observed between the Hamilton limestone and the Coal Measures.

Niagara Limestone.—In the bed of Rock River, where it first touches the northwestern boundaries of Henry County, and from thence about half way to Cleveland, the soft, fine-grained, yellowish Le Clair limestone shows itself, and is quarried during low stages of the river, at one place to a considerable extent. The Coal Measures at Aldrich's, and Johnson & Kent's coal mines, rest directly upon this member of the Niagara limestone. Except this limited outcrop in the banks and bed of Rock River, this formation can not be said to be developed in the county. At ordinary stages of water in that stream, the outcrop would hardly be detected. With the exception of a few encrinite stems, no fossils were noticed in it.

Hamilton Group.—On descending Rock River from the Niagara outcrops, just mentioned, the lower division of the Hamilton limestone is next discovered, commencing in the bed of the river about a mile and a half above Cleveland, and continuing as the river flows to the west line of the county, and thence west at intervals across Rock Island County. A short distance above Cleveland, and two or three times below it, in a distance of three miles, a short axis of upheaval appears to extend from the river almost south across Rock River bottom, which is here three-fourths of a mile in width, and runs under the bluff line. At these places the Hamilton limestone comes to the surface of the ground, where the rains or little streams have removed a few feet of the top soil. These axes, or undulations, rise twenty-five or thirty feet above the low bottom land of Rock River. Between are depressions or troughs, filled with Coal Measure deposits. The heavy seam of coal, worked so extensively at Cleveland, rests in one of these basins, and extends half way across Rock River, resting almost directly on the Hamilton limestone. The top of the axis spoken of above, east and west of the coal basin, is higher by several feet than the coal seam. Southward, however, the Coal Measures continue uninterrupted under the bluffs to Coal Valley, and the Minersville mines.

These natural outcrops of the Hamilton limestone are massive and solid in their structure. The stone breaks with a smooth conchoidal fracture, almost resembling polished marble. On fresh fractures the color is a beautiful bluish-white or pale dove color. A semi-transparent, splintery, horny appearance was noticed in some cases, on breaking a rock to pieces, with smart blows of the hammer. No fossils were observed. Indeed, the lower portion of this rock is almost devoid of organic remains.

While making these observations, parties were engaged in boring an artesian well, two miles above Cleveland. Prospecting for petroleum and coal was the object of the boring. Any practical geologist could have told the proprietors that their hopes would not be realized, and that their labor and money was being foolishly expended. In connection, however, with the geology of this part of the county, they made an interesting hole in the ground, of which the following is the best section I could obtain:

1. Black earth, alluvial deposit.....	12 feet.
2. Black and dark colored shales and slate.....	18 "
3. Dark limestone, cap rock of Cleveland coal.....	3 "
4. Limestone (probably Hamilton and Niagara).....	398 "
5. Soft shale (probably Cincinnati group).....	77 "

At this depth the drill struck a sharp, hard rock with sandy grit in it. How much deeper this well was put down I have not ascertained. Another artesian well was put down, just north of Kewanee, to a depth of six hundred feet, in search of water, I believe. No accurate record of strata bored through was kept. Three hundred and fifty or four hundred feet of the bottom penetrated a hard light-colored limestone, being perhaps the same formations passed through in the lower part of the Cleveland well. This, however, is only conjecture.

COAL MEASURES.

With the exception of the formations just described, the whole county is underlain, below the usual drift deposits, by the lower Coal Measures. It is quite difficult to obtain a correct knowledge of the local extent of particular deposits, on account of the scarcity of outcrops. In other counties the railroads and the streams nearly always expose the upper rock formations, and give, in their cuts and banks, well marked outcrops. In Henry County, the railroads only afford a few clay cuts, not once exposing any rock formation. The river banks of Green and the Edwards, are, if possible, still more unfavorable for geological examinations. Not once, so far as I know, do the banks or bends of these streams afford good outcrops of even the sandstones and limestones of the Coal Measures. Large portions of the county are utterly without stone quarries of any kind. In a few places fragmentary outcrops of rotten sandstone, or defective shaly limestone, occur; and in a very few localities limestone or sandstone is quarried in abundance. I shall first speak of these outcrops, before attempting to describe and trace the coal seams.

Sandstone.—Overlying the lower coal and its roof of black shales and dark limestone, is a heavy deposit of coarse-grained sandstone. The rock is gritty, not very hard, of a creamy-brown or dirty-whitish color, and greatly resembles the sandstone deposit north of Morrison, except that the soapstone seams are wanting. Three miles below Cleveland, in the face of the river bluffs, but near their base, and at several places below or farther down the river, the outcrop is conspicuous, and has been quarried for local uses. The outcrops are partly hidden by talus; but the sandstone at these localities seems to be from twenty to thirty feet thick. The same sandstone, on a line westward, outcrops heavily at Camden, at Hampton, and opposite the latter place in Iowa. At the latter place, some fine specimens of Lepidodendron were found some years ago. The principal outcrops about Cleveland are on Sections 20 and 35 of Township 17,

Major JAMES M. ALLAN,
Geneseo.

Range 1 East. At Moline it also outcrops, and at Hampton, it covers a thin coal seam or trace of coal.* At Camden, the coal seems to be above the heaviest body of sandstone. At Hickory Grove there is a light sandstone outcrop, not very thick; stone poor quality; quarried by neighboring farmers. In the valley of Green River, up the latter valley, and into the bluffs of Mineral Creek about Minersville, the same bed of sandstone shows itself in several places. The outcrops here run from seven to twelve and twenty feet thick. On Section 3 in the Township of Munson, and not far from Cambridge, some poor sandstones are quarried. In the shaft of the Platt Coal Company, just east of Kewanee, thirty feet of heavy sandstone was struck immediately overlaying the coal seam at the bottom of the shaft, but this bed is about a hundred feet below the surface.† In the vicinity of Red Oak Grove, a thin, rotten carboniferous sandstone has been quarried by the farmers, and used for farm purposes. One well was walled with this material. The wall decayed or rotted down, and the well caved in after it had been in use for a series of years. On Section 20 on Spring Creek, in the Township of Atkinson, there is a small stone quarry, but my notes on its characteristics have been misplaced or lost.

These are the best tracings I have been able to make of this bed of sandstone. Its place in the geological section of the county seems to be above the heavy, lower, workable seam of coal, some times separated therefrom by shales and limestone, and some times appearing to rest almost directly on the coal. Its position is by no means constant, however. It is also almost unfossiliferous. A few tracings of Calamites and Lepidodendron were the only organic remains I could find in this deposit.

Limestone of the Lower Coal.—The "cap rock" over some of the coal mines is a dark-colored, almost black, and some times shaly limestone, in which is frequently found a small and beautiful Productus. The coal seam at Aldrich's mine is overlaid by a thin stratum of shale, which is capped by a hard, blue, shelly limestone. This limestone is quarried in small quantities here, and sold at a high price to neighboring farmers. At Cleveland the coal seam is stripped of its superficial covering over several acres in extent. The limestone is more massive here, not quite so dark in color, and rests almost directly upon the coal. Hundreds of cords of it are stripped from the coal. The deposit is from one to two feet thick, and great quantities are sold at remunerative prices. Large numbers of the heavier stones thus quarried are to be used in the railroad bridge to be built across Rock River at this place. Immense slabs, more than a foot in thickness, obtained at the lower opening, are piled over an open space, ready to be transferred to the piers in the river. Some of these show signs of crumbling round the edges, as if the tooth of time had gnawed into their surface. We doubt whether they will prove entirely satisfactory for railroad masonry. Above this massive strata, and separated from it by from four to seven feet of shales and black, hardened carbonaceous mud, is another strata of lighter-colored, thin-bedded, shaly limestone, which is also corded up and sold for lighter masonry. The supply of stone thus obtained at these coal mines is very considerable. About Minersville the same limestone is found in connection with the coal seam, and a section here would be very similar to the Coal Valley section, except the sandstone above spoken of.

Along the banks of Geneseo creek, a little south-west of the city of Geneseo, there is a very curious outcrop of stone, which has been worked to some extent in former years. The top of the stratum is a sandstone for about two feet in depth. It then gradually changes into a blue, compact, or dark-colored limestone, having a nodular or concretionary appearance. The whole rests on several feet of compact, hardened carbonaceous mud. But the most curious deposit in this interesting locality is a thin stratum of "cone in cone," outcropping in the yellow clay, several feet above the top of the sandstone. The stratum is from two to four inches thick, has a woody or fibrous texture, the grain running vertical to the plane of stratification; on being dug from the ground it falls into small blocks, having the appearance of wood split from a thin section of a large tree. In one or two of the low, rain-washed hills in that vicinity, I noticed this same outcrop, with no signs of the underlying rocks. Large quantities of this "cone in cone" have been gathered up for cabinets. Its resemblance to petrifications of wood is very complete.

*We think Mr. Shaw has here confounded two distinct beds of sandstone, that at Camden being below the main coal seam, instead of above it. The sandstone above the coal is a much more durable, and is generally a harder rock than the bed below. A. H. W.

†This sandstone overlies coal 5 or 6 and is at least one hundred and fifty feet above either of the beds outcropping in the vicinity of Camden, Moline or Carbon Cliff. A. H. W.

The Coal Seams.—In the northwestern part of the county there is one heavy coal seam, well developed, and worked to a large extent. In the southeastern part of the county, and extending up through its central portion, there are two seams, the lower of which is largely mined. Commencing with the former, and at the outcrop highest up Rock River, within the county limits, we find ourselves at Aldrich's mine, on Section 24, Township 18, Range 2 east. The coal is here about four feet six inches thick. It is overlaid by a few inches of dark shale, and this is in turn capped by the thin stratum of black limestone, spoken of above. A bed of ordinary fire clay lies under the coal. The mine is opened into the point of a hill, up a wooded, romantic ravine, about one-half mile from Rock River, which here washes the base of the bluffs. A steam engine pumps out the water, and draws the coal cars up an inclined plane. The drift extends toward the south at a heavy dip near its opening. The mine has been worked for many years. The coal is a bright, moderately hard, thin-seamed coal, with carbonaceous clod between the seams, and vertical markings of carbonate of lime in the perpendicular openings. The following analysis shows its composition:

This analysis was made for the state by Mr. Pratten, I believe, and gives the general character of the coal in the northwestern part of the county. An approximate section at this coal mine gives about the following figures:

Drift clays of bluffs, light color.....	50 to 70 feet.
Dark, shelly limestone.....	2 "
Shale and black slate.....	6 inches.
Coal (No. 1).....	4½ feet.
Fire clay.....	10 "

All above the water level of the river.

Half a mile below Aldrich's mine is the drift of Messrs. Johnson & Kent. The upper part and outer edges of the seam here pass into a very solid, shining cannel coal, with smooth surface and conchoidal fracture. Messrs. Johnson & Kent believe the seam is not identical with the one worked at Aldrich's mine. The roof is of soapstone and shale, and there are some indications of two seams, ten or twelve feet apart, but approaching each other under the hill. There is, evidently, some local displacement here, and probably a local separation of the seam, such as is witnessed occasionally in working the Coal Valley seam.

The next important workable locality is at Cleveland. Here, most of the coal is quarried, not mined. The surface deposits are stripped off, exposing the seam, which is from four and a half to five and a half feet thick. The quality of the coal is similar to that at Coal Valley, except that it is a little better. The ash is not so red, in fact it is almost white, and this is probably the better steam coal.

Three or four mines are being worked in close proximity to each other. Taylor Williams has a steam engine in operation, and he both strips the seam and runs slanting drifts into it. Mr. Stokes and Mr. Jefferson Taylor also mine to some extent. The basin or hollow, between the two uplifts of the Hamilton limestone, in which this Cleveland coal seam is found, is narrow at the place where the mines are worked, being only a few hundred rods wide, and coming to almost a point in the bed of Rock River. The coal seam widens out towards the south, but becomes thin where it runs under the river bluffs. Still farther south, and about two and a half miles from the Cleveland coal quarries, is the Green River Valley, which intersects the Rock River Valley a few miles below. This Green River Valley, for several miles round Colona, is all underlaid by the Cleveland coal seam. The south slope of the bluff range between Rock River and Green River at this place, where prospected by borings, also shows the seam or traces of it, at many places. The same seam outcrops and is mined extensively on Mineral Creek farther south, and at Coal Valley, southwest a few miles. On the Green River bottom—the underlying rock—the cap of the coal seam is from seventeen to twenty feet below the surface. The seam at Cleveland furnishes one ton and a half of coal to the superficial square yard of its surface. The section there made will give a general idea of the Coal Measures on Mineral Creek, farther south, and for the rest of the northwestern part of the county. No two sections, of course, would be exactly alike; but the resemblance would be very marked.

The superficial extent of coal lands, underlaid by this coal seam, extending from Cleveland around by Mineral Creek, Minersville, Coal Valley, and Green River Valley, so far as now prospected, contains perhaps some forty thousand acres. On a railroad and coal land map, made by the chief engineer of the railroad about to be built along Rock River, some fourteen sections and parts of sections, are marked as underlaid by coal in Township 17, Range 2 East; in Township 17, Range 1 East, some twenty-two sections and parts of sections are similarly marked; in Township 17, Range 1 West, some ten sections and parts of sections, are marked as containing coal underneath; in Township 16, Range 1 West, five or six sections are similarly marked; in the same township and range east, three sections are coal lands; in Township 18, Range 2 East, some ten more sections are supposed to be underlaid partially by coal. These east ranges are in Henry County; the west ones are in Rock Island County. The Cleveland mines are in Township 18, Range 2 East. Other sections will, no doubt, be found containing coal in this vicinity. Of course, all the above marked coal lands are not underlaid by heavy coal deposits. Wherever coal or its traces were detected by the engineer in charge — Mr. J. C. Abbott, to whom I am under many obligations, for favors extended — the same was marked coal lands on the map. My own personal examinations confirm the general correctness of this map.

The following worked mines in this coal field should not be passed over without notice. On or between Sections 17 and 18, Township 17, Range 2 East, Mr. Shepherd is successfully operating several shafts; on Section 22, Township 17, Range 1 East, Perry's mine is also now in successful operation; Glen's mine, on Section 20, in the same town and range, and some mines on Section 21, Township 17, Range 1 East, now are or have been successfully worked. The seam is from four to six feet thick in this group of mines. It has an easterly dip, and appears to be lower at Shepherd's mines than at the mines of Mr. Perry.

In one of these mines, where a drift is driven into the seam, the coal is separated into two bodies, the upper three feet thick, the lower two feet, separated at the outcrop by seven feet of clay parting. These two parts of the seam approach each other under the hill, and unite in a distance of about six hundred feet.

Shepherd's mines are located about two miles south of Green River Station, on the railroad. He is operating two shafts, and driving one drift mine. The shafts are sunk near the base of Mineral Creek bluffs. The roof here is stone, same as at Cleveland. The shafts are about sixty feet deep. The coal seam is thickest on bottom or low land, and thins when followed under the hills, same as at Cleveland. One shaft is operated by a steam engine, one by a gin; both have what the miners call a "sump" in the bottom, for convenience in lifting water out of the mines. The drift is an inclined plane, extending from the surface to the level of the coal. The heavy, overlaying sandstone is higher above the coal than at Cleveland. The shafts and drifts both extend into the same seam. The coal is supposed to be stronger and duller in color than that mined at Cleveland. In Shepherd's mines there is a black shale in places below the coal.

At Minersville, the mining was all done by driving drifts into the seam from and near its outcrops. These mines are well worked out. Others may be found, when the demand for coal becomes greater. The competition, at the present time, between Cleveland and Minersville coal on the one hand, and Coal Valley coal on the other, is spirited. The latter has a little, and but little advantage, in the item of transportation to market.

Perry's mines, almost adjoining the latter mines, still furnishes coal in paying quantities. This mine is also reached by drifting into the coal seam. The most noticeable feature here is the basins or "horsebacks," filled with a conglomeration of nodular masses of clay and sulphuret of iron, which are characteristic of this mine. Some of them are several yards in extent.

The seam under Green River and its valley, in the townships above named, contains a great deal of coal; but the roof is poor. This has prevented its being strongly worked.

From what has been said, it will now be seen that there is a large supply of coal stored away in the northwestern part of Henry County, for the present and for future generations. The mineral resources of this part of the county will not soon be exhausted, but will, as they now are, continue to be a source of wealth and material prosperity to the county.

Another heavy coal deposit lies in the southeastern part of the county about Galva and Kewanee. Between this and the Cleveland and Mineral Creek mines, and over a diagonal strip across the county from the northwest to the southeast corner, which averages from ten to fifteen miles in width, coal has been found in many places. The seams, however, are thinner than at the two corners. Some of the shafts have been abandoned, and some never were worked at all. I propose to briefly notice some of the coal mines discovered in this portion of the county, before describing the important coal mines about Galva and Kewanee.

About one and a half miles northwest of Geneseo, there is an abandoned shaft, where a coal seam from one and a half to three feet thick was found at a depth of about sixty feet. This, I believe, is the old Allen's mine. Indurated clay, limestone and sandstone were all penetrated in sinking the shaft. The coal was of good quality; bright iridescent in color; hard, even fracture, and rhomboidal cleavage. The seam was considered too thin for profitable working.

At Atkinson, the next station east of Geneseo, on the Rock Island and Chicago Railroad, the well dug to supply the large steam mill standing near the depot, passed through a seam of coal three feet thick, and twenty feet below the surface. One-half mile east of this well there is a shaft still worked, out of which has been taken about ten thousand bushels of coal. The seam is here three and one-half feet thick, and twenty-two feet below the surface, and is operated by a horse gin. There is in this locality a good slate roof over the coal, ten feet thick, and it is underlaid by a bed of fire clay.

About four miles northwest of Cambridge, in the Township of Oscoe, Mr. A. A. Crane has put down a coal shaft, striking a seam from thirty-two to thirty-six inches thick, at a depth of eighty-seven feet. The seam appears to thin out towards the north and thicken towards the south.

On the farm of Samuel Dixon, in Munson Township, eight miles east of Cambridge, coal is mined to some extent, the seam being the same as at Atkinson, and twenty-four feet below the surface. Two miles south of Cambridge, a shaft was being put down, when I was there. A boring previously made was reported to have indicated coal, at a depth which I do not now remember.

Coal is mined in this vicinity about Round Grove, equally distant east from Cambridge and north from Galva, and in considerable quantities. It is hauled in wagons to Cambridge and over the surrounding prairies, and thus finds a ready market at the mines.

In a few more places over this broad strip of country between Cleveland and Kewanee, coal has been discovered; but sufficient has been said to indicate the general character of the seams here mined. I come now to the most extensively worked locality in the county, and perhaps the heaviest deposit of coal within its limits. Galva and Kewanee, both in the southeastern corner of the county, but a few miles apart, are widely known as coal-mining localities; but at the latter place the mines are worked to much the greatest extent. Five or six shafts are put down at Galva, known as the shafts of Messrs. Knox & Co., Cummings, Johnson, Lindsey and Barnum. The following section, made at one of them, illustrates the character of all. They are in a group, within a radius of a mile or two, and are as much alike as coal shafts usually are, penetrating the same seam, and put down near together through essentially the same formations and superficial deposits.

The coal here is of good quality, and similar to the Kewanee coal. The seam is probably identical with coal No. 6, of the general section of the Illinois Coal Measures. At Galva the clay and shale partings are not so well marked as at other points, and at some of the shafts indications of cannel coal may be seen along the top of the seam.

At Kewanee, much capital is employed in the coal mining business. During the past year (1867) fifty-three thousand tons were raised here, of which thirty-two thousand were shipped on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad to various points, fourteen thousand were used by the railroad company, and seven thousand were used for home consumption in Kewanee and neighborhood. The revenue thence derived, amounted, during the year, to over one hundred and forty thousand dollars. The productive mines are within a radius of three miles north and east of the town. Within this small area, some eight shafts have been put down, and twenty drifts driven in. The shafts are sunk from the general level or face of the country; the drifts are driven upon the outcrops in some deep ravines, passing up from a good-sized brook three or four miles north of the town. The face of the country, among these mines, is rough, and covered with a scattering growth of barren oak timber.

The shafts are operated by the following companies and individuals: The Platt Coal Company, Messrs. Walker & Co., Breckens & King, McCartey & Kirby, K. Murchison, J. C. Bowerman, H. Martin, W. S. Carnly, and one or two others of less note. Of these the Platt Coal Mining Company, whose mine embraces about one thousand acres of land, located one mile east of the village, does by far the largest business, and by some arrangement handles and markets all the coal dug in all the mines in this vicinity. Their shaft is near the railroad track, and they have a very convenient mode of loading the coal into the cars. At the depot, there is also a large elevator-shaped building, used for the purpose of feeding passing locomotives with their supplies of coal. A section of these mines, made at the Platt Coal Company's shaft, is as follows:

1. Soil, subsoil and yellow clay	5 feet.
2. Oily looking quicksand	20 "
3. Soapstone, light and dark color	25 "
4. Upper coal seam No. 7	2½ "
5. Fire clay	10 "
6. Soapstone	? "
7. Sandstone, same as at Galva	30 "
8. Middle coal seam No. 6	4½ "
9. Alternating soapstone and sandstone	80 "
10. Carbonaceous shales and coal traces (No. 4?)	A few inches.

The four and a half foot vein is the same as the Galva seam, and is, probably, identical with the upper seam at La Salle, and with coal No. 6 of the general section of the State. The upper seam, some forty-two and a half feet above the lower, is perhaps No. 7 of the same section. The lower eighty feet of the foregoing section was prospected by boring an artesian well in the bottom of the Coal Company's shaft, and ought to be regarded with some doubt as to whether it shows correctly the indications of coal in the bottom. The bed of quicksand or shifting sand, No. 2 of above section, was struck near the depot, in a shaft now abandoned.

The supply of coal at Kewanee and vicinity is very large, and will not become exhausted for many years. Newly discovered mines will replace those worked out, and the revenue derived from this deposit of mineral wealth will build Kewanee into a place of consequence.

In Norwood's report upon Illinois coal, I find a description and analysis of cannel and bituminous coal, taken from the same seam, at a place then called "Serrell's Mine," which it may be well to insert, in this place, for convenience of reference:

SERRELL'S MINE, KEWANEE.

"Thickness of the bituminous portion of the bed, four feet, underlaid with fire clay. Coal bright and dull in alternating layers; hard, compact fracture tolerably even. Contains thick seams of carbonate of lime, which cross each other at nearly right angles, causing the coal to break into slightly irregular cubes. Has sulphuret of iron disposed both horizontally and vertically. The layers of coal are thick and separated with carbonaceous clod. Coke very bright and good, but swells in coking.

CANNEL COAL IN SAME SEAM.

Thickness of the bed from eight inches to one foot; overlaid with black slate; underlaid with four feet of bituminous coal. No analysis of this coal has yet been made; but judging from its texture and general appearance, it does not differ from the Wataga cannel coal. The coal is dull, hard, compact; fracture slightly conchoidal; layers thick; contains bright, yellow, vertical plates of sulphuret of iron."

NOTE.—While engaged during the past Spring in examining the coal deposits of Rock Island, I was induced to extend my examinations into Henry County, in part to confirm observations previously made in adjoining territory, and partly to satisfy myself as to the general development of our workable coal seams along the northwestern confines of the Illinois coal field.

Commencing at the northwest corner of the county, coal No. 1 of the Illinois River section is opened and worked at various points in the bluffs of Rock and Green Rivers, as at Cleveland and near Colona, as shown by Mr. Shaw, in the sections given on the preceding pages, and it presents the same general characters here as at Carbon Cliff, Coal Valley, and other points in Rock Island County. It is overlaid by a peculiar dark-gray siliceous limestone, and its accompanying band of flint or chert, that enables any one to identify it without difficulty. This seam is worked by the Messrs. Perry, at Briar Bluff, near Green River, in Henry County, by a tunnel driven into the hill side. The coal is somewhat variable in thickness, and is sometimes cut off altogether by what the miners term a "horse-back." About forty feet below the coal the shaly limestones of the Hamilton group outcrop but a short distance to the northward of the mines. A curious phenomenon was observed at these mines in a remarkable geode-like cavern or pocket, occurring partly in the coal, and extending into the fire clay beneath. The cavity was ovate in shape, and about ten feet long by five feet in width and two or three feet in depth, and surrounded by a solid crust. The inclosed cavity was filled with water and gas, and when the pick broke through the crust an explosion followed like the firing of a blast. On breaking into the cavity it was found to be thickly set with magnificent crystals of dogtooth calcite, from six to eighteen inches in length, the points all directed towards the center of the cavity like the crystals on the inner surface of a geode. Unfortunately many of these fine crystals were broken up and destroyed in removing them; but a few were preserved, and I was fortunate in securing some of them for the State Cabinet.

On the S. W. q. of Sec. 21, T. 17, R. 1, coal seam No. 2 has been opened near the top of the bluff and immediately under the boulder clay. The coal is 18 inches thick, and is overlaid by four or five feet of clay shale, forming out a poor roof. This was the first exposure of No. 2 that we met with in Henry County. The coal was underlaid by a few feet of fire clay and clay shale, and not sufficiently exposed to be accurately measured, which was followed by a bed of bluish-gray septaria two or three feet thick, exactly like that found below the Colchester coal in McDonough County. This coal appeared to be from 35 to forty feet above No. 1 at this point.

At the Mineral Creek mines I found coal No. 1 worked in a shaft sixty feet in depth, and sunk in the valley of a small creek, and about one hundred and fifty yards southeast of the shaft the same coal outcrops seventy-five feet above its level in the shaft. In a boring made at this point below the coal they reported 7 feet of fire clay and 40 feet of shales, partly blue and partly gray, with a streak of coal from two to four inches thick about half way to the bottom. Some layers of sandstone, and one or more thin bands of iron ore, were passed through towards the bottom of the boring.

At the Blanch-Chunck mines, about six miles west of Geneseo, coal No. 1 is worked just above the level of the creek by tunneling into the hill along its outcrop. It is here much thinner than it usually occurs in this part of the county, being reported as varying in thickness from two feet to three feet six inches. No. 2 is found here outcropping about forty feet above No. 1. A tunnel has been run into it, and considerable coal taken out, though the seam is here only from twelve to fifteen inches in thickness.

At Geneseo a coal seam crops out along the little run on the west side of the town, and is worked by Mr. Maynard in a shaft sunk from a higher level near the outcrop. The beds passed through in this shaft give the following section:

	Ft.	In.
No. 1—Soil and drift clay.....	20
No. 2—Hard rock, (probably limestone).....	0	3
No. 3—Sandstone.....	5
No. 4—Blue shale.....	3
No. 5—Coal.....	0	3
No. 6—Hard dark shale.....	6
No. 7—Hard rock (concretion?).....	0	4
No. 8—Clay shale, or fire clay.....	1	3
No. 9—Blue shale.....	10
No. 10—Black shale.....	0	6
No. 11—Coal.....	3	8

This seam has a parting of dark shale of variable thickness, and I am inclined to regard it as No. 2, which is frequently separated by a shale parting. The coal is also a rather soft and light coal, more like No. 2 than any other, though it contains more pyrite here than is usually found in it at more southern localities.

At Atkinson a coal seam about three feet in thickness has been opened on the eastern borders of the town, where it lies about fifteen feet below the surface, and from this point in a southwesterly direction it outcrops along the bluffs of Spring Creek for a distance of about seven miles. Mowbray, Weatherspoon, Welch, Morrow, Shearer and Torpenning's mines are all on this outcrop. The coal averages about three feet in thickness, and has an excellent roof of hard, black slaty shale, passing upward into a blue clay shale containing nodules of ironstone, and blue limestone. The roof shales are locally filled with Aviculopecten rectolateralis and Productus muricatus. The nodules of limestone and clay ironstone contain Productus Prattianus, Pleuronomaria percarinata, P. Montfortianus, Macrocheilus, and a minute spiral shell like Polyphemopsis. I have no hesitation in referring this coal to No. 3 of the Illinois River section, and it shows a regularity in the Superficial Deposits.—The drift clays of Henry County run from ten to fifty or sixty feet in thickness. These are the common yellow and blue clays underlying the soil over most of our northern prairies. No fossils of any note have been discovered in these clays, so far as I know. No beds of coarse gravel were noticed; no drift copper or galena has been picked up in the county, as in some of the counties farther north. Few boulders were observed lying over the prairies. In the valley of Green River, near its mouth, and in some of the ravines, an occasional boulder may be found washed out of the denuded soil and clay. Indeed the Edwards and Green Rivers, in much of their courses, hardly show even fine pebbles along their banks.

The alluvial deposits, however, are very marked in the Green River swamp lands, and in certain curious sand ridges and hills in the northeastern part of the county. No regular peat beds seem to exist in these swamps; but the tough sward of many grasses and sedges scarcely prevent one from sinking into the oozy muck and black vegetable mud covering these fresh-water marshes. For some cause the peat mosses have not flourished here as in the Whiteside County sloughs; but a good illustration of the origin of the prairies, according to Professor Lesquereux's theory, may be seen almost anywhere along these Green River swamp lands. The sand hills of this swampy region present a more curious phenomenon still. Chains and curious-shaped round hills, fashioned into shapes fantastic, and gathered and piled up by the roving winds, extend in ridges and groups from Rock River to and among the Winnebago swamps proper, in Bureau and Lee Counties, and touch the northeastern portion of Henry. In the reports upon these latter counties more will be said upon these shifting and roving hills and chains of sand.

ECONOMICAL GEOLOGY.

Coal.—From the foregoing pages a good idea will be obtained of the extent, quality, and accessibility of the coal deposits in this county. The supply of this useful mineral is not likely to soon become exhausted. As opened mines are worked out, new ones will be discovered. But a small portion of the productive coal seams underlying so large a part of the county, diagonally from its northwest to its southeast corner, has been properly or thoroughly prospected. Sources of wealth hidden away from the eyes of man are yet to be developed, and the coal of Henry County, for a long time to come, will furnish abundant supplies for home consumption, and a still more abundant supply for neighboring markets. Such minerals as coal, iron, lime, and the like, which minister so largely to the economies, utilities and conveniences of life, are not only desirable in and of themselves, but become sources of wealth and the highest material prosperity. Coal is second only to iron in every quality that can make it desirable. Especially in the prairie counties of Illinois, where fuel is scarce, coal, in even ordinary workable quantities, becomes of more than ordinary interest and value. As a steam producer for the lower Rock River valley, when all its manufacturing and milling facilities shall be developed, these coal fields bordering on the stream will obtain a new value. They will then be sought after eagerly and developed to their full extent.

Stone.—The supply of building stone, as will have already been surmised, development of our workable coals along the northwestern borders of the coal field that could hardly have been expected. The coal obtained from this seam has a tendency to split into thin layers, with partings of charcoal, and is a harder coal than that obtained from No. 2, and quite unlike that from either of the lower seams.

On Mud Creek, a few miles further east, another coal is said to outcrop, which is probably No. 4 of the general section, and at Sheffield, Kewanee and Galva, No. 6 with its characteristic parting of clay shale, is found, thus completing the range of our most valuable coals, and showing their full development within the limits of Henry County. The general trend of their outcrop is from northeast to southwest, and the dip of the strata is to the southeastward, but at a very slight angle. In closing these brief notes on Henry County, I desire to acknowledge my obligations to A. W. Perry, Esq., of Geneseo, who placed himself and whatever conveyance was required at my disposal, and kindly acted as both guide and commissary during my stay in the county.

is quite limited. The cap rock over the Cleveland coal seam will furnish plenty of stone for cellars, wells, and ordinary mason work in that part of the county. Stone of a better quality can there also be quarried from the Hamilton limestone in and near the river. The supply of limestone at Aldrich's coal mine is small, but of good quality. The sandstone outcrops below Cleveland and on Mineral creek can also be made to furnish abundance of a sandstone that will be useful for many purposes. The other outcrops and stone quarries in the county furnish only limited amounts of rather poor building stone. All the railroad towns now draw their supplies of stone from the quarries at Athens, Joliet, and other places in their vicinity, and will continue so to obtain them.

Clays.—Great abundance of the usual drift clays can everywhere be obtained. These, with proper treatment, burn into a good article of common brick.

Agriculture.—But the distinguished characteristics of this county are its coal deposits and agricultural resources. In the latter respect Henry County ranks among the best counties in the State. Its surface is mostly a high, rolling prairie; its soil is good. The staple crops of Northern Illinois give abundant annual returns. Its population, its wealth, and its material resources are rapidly increasing. As a fruit county it also ranks among the first in this part of the State. The orchards around some of the older settled towns seem to do well; but fruit growing in the county has not received the attention its importance demands. Fruit growing and timber raising should both be looked after by the farmers of Henry County.

HISTORY OF HENRY COUNTY.

Speculation in Illinois lands got fairly under way in 1835. It was in that year that Henry County was first visited by persons authorized to purchase large tracts of land for the benefit of certain companies. The county was then without an organization. The southern boundary was on the parallel 13 north of the base line, and its western boundary was upon the 4th principal meridian. It extended five townships, or thirty miles, east, and north it reached to the 18th parallel north of the base line. Rock River entered the county on the north about midway from east to west, and formed its boundary on the northwest for about twenty miles, leaving it about midway of the fourth tier of townships. These boundaries have been retained ever since. It extends over no less than twenty-one entire townships of six miles square each, and four fractional townships aggregating a little less than three entire townships. The square miles foot up to about eight hundred and thirty, and the acres to nearly or quite 530,000. Of this number there were probably about 70,000 acres of timber land. Exclusive of the timber on Rock and Green Rivers there were a dozen distinct groves, besides a few clusters of trees dignified sometimes as groves.

Red Oak, White Oak, Round Hickory, Sugar Tree, Big Barren, Richland, and a few smaller groves, were found in the southern portion of the county; Shabane or Shabbona, Crocker's, Trading House, Eight Mile, and several other small groves, as well as the timber on the Green and Rock Rivers, in the northern. It will be remembered that a large share of what was called timber lands contained only here and there a tree. The northeastern part of the county contained swamp lands, which were at that time undesirable as an investment. The balance of the prairie, excepting a few hilly quarters, was of the most desirable quality for farming purposes. This was then the inviting prospect held up to the poor man looking for land for "actual settlement," and to the capitalist for hypothetical settlement.

Unfortunately for the growth and prosperity of the county, the latter class of settlers were the most numerous, very large portions of the best land in the county being taken up by them, and the poor man, the actual settler, was compelled to look elsewhere for a location. Many would not locate close to the colonies, on account of reports that the organization intended to swallow all outsiders who settled close to them.

In the early settlement of this county, William Roberts, who afterwards lived at Andover, and moved thence to Texas and there died, resided near Quincy, in Adams County. One night a prospector, who had been through this county, put up with Roberts. He said he couldn't stop in Henry County ; 'twas too full of colonies. Of course there was much misapprehension as to the character of those colonies. Henry County seems to have furnished remarkable attraction for them — Andover, Wethersfield, Geneseo, Morristown, La Grange, in an earlier day, thus originated, and Bishop Hill in a later. This last, however, differed from the others fundamentally. It required no accession from outsiders for support. The first mentioned five colonies had educational projects in view ; and three of them, viz. : Andover, Geneseo and Wethersfield, aimed at the dissemination of religious truth. The last named, or Bishop Hill Colony, was strictly a religious organization, the members of it coming directly from Sweden, and was the only one that obtained a legal existence. The modes by which the other colonies endeavored to build up their educational and religious establishments, though not differing much one from another, will be delineated when treating of them separately. For the present it is sufficient to say that all of them had public property, the proceeds of which, in some form, were to be used to build their schools or colleges. These five settlements began their existence nearly at the same time, Andover having precedence chronologically ; then followed Geneseo, Morristown, Wethersfield, La Grange.

Before the commencement of any of these colonies, Dayton, near Rock River, had commenced. This is known as "Brandenburg's settlement," George Brandenburg being one of the earliest settlers. He laid off the town, and for a long time his house was the whole of Dayton. In those days there was a great amount of travel to the land office at Dixon, and some from Knoxville to Albany, on the Mississippi. Dayton was at the crossing of those roads, and Brandenburg's hotel was a central point of great interest. The popularity of the "Judge" attracted a host of customers, and out of pure regard for their comfort he erected another cabin by the side of the first, leaving a space for a hall between them, and covered the whole with one roof. That was then the most commodious house of entertainment in all this region ; and an additional supply of furniture in the shape of beds, bedding and benches, with some other luxuries for the repose of the weary, made it a desideratum with travelers to reach that commodious "tavern."

About the time the Judge had got fairly under way, Caleb Pillsbury, brother of George and Levi Pillsbury, at Andover, opened a public house, which contained one room below and a loft above.

THE FIRST ENTRY

Of land made in this county was on June 8, 1835, N. $\frac{1}{2}$ 34, 18, 2, now Hanna Township, by Giles Williams. He is believed to have been a speculator, from the number of lots entered in his name in the following year. July 7, 1835, Jas. W. Stephenson entered N. E. N. W. 10, 17, 1. Later in the same year many thousands of acres were entered, the New York Company alone entering some thirty thousand acres. Dr. Thomas Baker has the credit, generally, of building the first house in the county ; but that is a mistake, as James Glenn erected the first house. Dr. Baker's was the first family in the county. It is a little remarkable that a man of his temperament should have become a pioneer. He is said to have loved his ease exceedingly. Passing near a man who was making rails one warm day, he begged him to stop his work till he could get by, as it hurt his feelings to see a man work in warm weather. He moved to Rock Island County some years ago, and thence to Missouri, and died there.

In April, 1835, James Glenn settled on Section 20, in what is now Colona township, and erected a house thereon in the same month, and still resides on the same farm. At this time Dr. Baker and family, heretofore mentioned, were living near him in a wagon. The next house was built at White Oak Grove by a man named Butler, who was bought out by the New York Company. The house is believed to have been the Company House, and if so, is still standing near the residence of Dan Moore. Butler is said to have been the first white man who planted and raised corn in the county. He sold out in the Fall of 1835, and is believed to have moved to Kansas. Washburne, an early settler and well known in the county, sowed the first wheat; others, however, sowed wheat the same Fall. The first mill was at Andover, built in 1836-7, and the first "grist" for which toll was taken, after the bolt was put in, belonged to this same Washburne. He says that before the mill was running they got their samp by grating corn upon an old tin pail with holes punched in it, and meal in much the same way. This provender answered a good purpose where only "corn bread and common doings" were gotten up, unless too liberally supplied with blood from knuckles barked during the process of grating. Wheat bread and "chicken fixins" could be found more frequently in the cabins after the mill got into operation. In that day many early settlers began going to Spoon River, in Knox County, to get their meal.

ORGANIZATION OF HENRY COUNTY.

Henry County was under the jurisdiction of Knox County till its separate organization in 1837. The Legislature then met at Vandalia. Major James M. Allan took a horseback ride from Brandenburg's to Vandalia, via Knoxville, Peoria, Tremont and Springfield, a distance of some two hundred and fifty miles, for the purpose of getting an act passed organizing the county, in accordance with the wishes of its inhabitants.

As the population increased the people demanded the organization of their county, and an enabling act was passed March 2, 1837, when commissioners were appointed to locate and name a county seat. They were Francis Voris, of Peoria County; Jonas Rawalt, of Fulton County, and Isaac Murphy, of Warren County.

THE FIRST ELECTION

Was held June 19th, 1837, at the house of George Brandenburg. There were to be elected three County Commissioners, Sheriff, Coroner, Surveyor, and Recorder. John P. Hanna, Charles Atkinson and R. R. Stewart were judges of election; James M. Allan and Arba M. Seymour clerks. As this was the first election we have no doubt but it will be of interest to many of our readers to know the names of all the candidates, and we here insert them, with the number of votes for each:

We will give the entire LIST OF VOTERS in the order in which they voted: George Brandenburg, Samuel Sullivan, David Wiley, Washington B. Colbert, Samuel Withrow, John L. Smith, Thos. R. Saunders, Smith Bennett, John McLinn, Henry Sullivan, Jas. Withrow, Neely Withrow, George A. Colbert, Edward C. Hall, Preston Browning, Alfred Beck, George Tyler, George Goyer, Edward A. Mix, Thos. Miller, William Hite, Elisha Cone, Cromwell K. Bartlett, Wm. C. Bartlett, Wm. H. Hubbard, John Sullivan, Henry G. Little, Ithamar Pillsbury, Eben Townsend, Albert Jagger, Wm. S. Woolsey, Adrian Van Winkle, Alfred Ball, Thos. Glenn, Earl P. Aldridge, Stephen Marshall, Anthony Hunt, Solomon Penny, Caleb Pillsbury, Jesse Woolsey, Wm. Potts, Samuel Clark, Jerome Brittain, Ebenezer Walters, Joshua Browning, Geo. McHenry, Robt. McCullough, Jas. P. Dodge, Wm. McNevin, Philip K. Hanna, Joshua Harper, Rufus Hubbard, John P. Hanna, Chas. Atkinson, Roderick R. Stewart, Jas. M. Allan, Arba M. Seymour, Reuben Cone. Many of the gentlemen whose names appear in the foregoing list have figured somewhat prominently in the history of the county—not all officers, but before the public in some capacity. Philip K. Hanna and Geo. A. Colbert will be remembered as the earliest Methodist ministers in the county. Ithamar Pillsbury, the Christian gentleman and energetic agent, was the first Presbyterian minister. Jas. M. Allan has been one of the most prominent men in the history of Henry County. He was the first clerk of the county, and in all political, social, military and county seat matters of early days, he was the most prominent figure, and in later days is known as an energetic, esteemed and valuable citizen. Geo. Brandenburg figured as the first landlord of the county, and has been well and favorably known. Eben Townsend, an aged gentleman of large experience and observation, of will imperious, strong affections, manners blunt or bland, as circumstances seemed to require, figured in the affairs of Andover for many years, and was well known to most of the early settlers. R. R. Stewart, the impartial magistrate, an exact public officer, long controlled the first and best public house in Geneseo. Henry G. Little has been called to serve his country in many positions of honor and trust. Jesse

Woolsey, the unobtrusive home man, and as the upright and trusty landlord at Andover, he is known to a large share of the gentlemen who attended the early courts at Cambridge. Joshua Harper, the mild and courteous gentleman, correct business man and faithful legislator. We might go on in this style, but limits must be set. Indeed, not a few of the gentlemen whose names are recorded at that first election, have histories belonging to the county, which will appear as we progress.

As before stated, the county was organized 19th June, 1837. On the 27th of the same month the Commissioners met in Dayton at the house of Geo. Brandenburg, and after being duly qualified, the first County Commissioners' Court for Henry County was opened. Jas. M. Allan was appointed Clerk. Robert McCullough was his security in the sum of $1,000. Ithamar Pillsbury (one of the Commissioners) administered the oath of office to Mr. Allan, and the court was ready for business. Chas. Atkinson was appointed Treasurer, took the oath, and gave bonds according to law. Records do not state who his sureties were. The clerks and treasurers of counties up to this time were appointed by the Commissioners, but by an act of the legislature, 7th February, 1837, those offices were made elective from and after the August election of 1837. Accordingly at that election (August 7, 1837), the people returned Mr. Allan to the Clerkship, and Mr. Atkinson was elected Treasurer. At the September term of the Commissioners' Court (September 4, 1837), the Clerk gave bond in same amount as before, with Robt. McCullough and John P. Hanna as sureties. No record is discovered of treasurer's bond or surety.

The first recorded order of the court was on June 27, 1837, authorizing Charles Atkinson, John P. Hanna and Geo. Tyler to keep a ferry on Rock River at Cleveland. The second ordered that the tax on the above mentioned ferry be fixed at one dollar and fifty cents. The Commissioners doubtless had an eye to a revenue when they charged that dollar and a half. June 4, 1838, this "tax" was raised to five dollars, and the party was authorized to work it out on the road under the direction of the Supervisor. One-half of one per cent. was fixed as the rate of taxation upon pleasure carriages, horses, cattle of every description, watches, wagons, hogs, sheep. Mules, clocks, and other property that might be mentioned, went "scot-free" it seems. A road tax of one dollar and twenty cents was placed upon each taxable quarter section of land. At a term of the Commissioners' Court, held March 5, 1838, every legally able-bodied man was required to work on the road five days in a year. On application for a license to sell goods being handed in, George Brandenburg, for the snug little sum of five dollars, was permitted to merchandise in Dayton. Later in the day, on a similar application, Geo. Tyler was authorized to run an opposition establishment in Cleveland. These were the beginnings of the commercial enterprise of the county. On the second day of the court the county was divided into five road districts.

Supervisor of 1st District, John P. Hanna; 2d, Albert Jagger; 3d, John F. Willard; 4th, John C. Ward; 5th, Neely Withrow. Here was a great extent of country for a hundred voters or thereabouts to supply with roads. Those now living in the localities mentioned can perceive at a glance the probable character of the roads then constructed. The sparseness of the population, however, made it unnecessary to go in direct lines as we do now, and advantage was taken of the lay of the ground, and thus ridges were followed and sloughs headed, which rendered the construction of many bridges, now needed, unnecessary. It must not be understood that road-viewers and surveyors laid out the roads on such circuitous routes. The truth is, the roads were "run" more directly from point to point, but the "travel" had to make the circuit in order to avoid the sloughs that no labor which could then be spared could make passable, and thus the proverb "the longest way round is the shortest way there," was literally verified. The first road ordered surveyed by the county was from Andover to Geneseo, thence to Rock River road at or near Joshua Browning's. C. K. Bartlett, A. M. Seymour and Joshua Browning were appointed viewers, and the road was to be laid without cost to the county. That rule was observed till June 6, 1838, when an order for the location of a road from Andover Mills in the direction of Peoria, was made at the expense of the county. The first appropriation for building was $50, to apply in part on a bridge across Green River, on road from Cleveland via Dayton to Andover, and in part on a bridge across same stream on the road from Geneseo to the junction of "Big Slough" with Rock River; this was made March 5, 1838. The second appropriation was made June 4, 1838, of $10, for a bridge on Camp Creek on the road from Andover to Cleveland. The first road from Andover to Wethersfield was declared to be such, June 4, 1838. It is probable that most persons acquainted with the streams mentioned will know how such small sums could be of essential service in constructing bridges over them; it is very doubtful if such small appropriations were really economical. Larger expenditures would undoubtedly have secured more durable structures; but the problem was, Where was the money to come from? The justices' districts and the election precincts were each five in number, and the limits the same as the road districts. The increase of population, however, soon required alteration in all of them. By order of the court, on the second day of the first term, 28th June, the town of Dayton was designated as the place for holding elections in first district. From this it is to be supposed that the house of George Brandenburg was the town of Dayton. In the second district the Company House was selected for holding elections; in the third the house of Henry G. Little; in the fourth the house of John C. Ward; and in the fifth the house of Joshua Browning. Before adjourning, the court ordered that the courts be held in the town of Dayton until the permanent seat of justice could be located, and proper buildings erected therein for their accommodation.

In accordance with the Militia Law of the state, an election was held on the 12th of August, 1837, for the choice of an officer to take command of the Henry County battalion. James M. Allan was elected Major, and commissioned accordingly by the governor.

At the regular term of the court, Sept. 4, 1837, after the qualifying of the clerk and treasurer, an order was passed authorizing the clerk to employ the surveyor to run the line between Henry and Rock Island counties, to ascertain if a certain man who had perished of cold near the line of the counties in March, 1837, had really died in Rock Island County or in Henry. The man had some money and no known heirs, and Rock Island County claimed jurisdiction in the case and appropriated the money. The man really died in Henry County. A lengthy litigation ensued, but all efforts to compel Rock Island to refund the money proved unavailing. The first writ of ad quod damnum—damages for locating a dam—was issued in behalf of Charles Oakley, through Joshua Harper, to enable said Oakley to build a dam across Green River on E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. E. 12, 17, 1, later known as Green River Mills, and burned in 1874. The second writ of ad quod damnum was also issued at this term of the court. It was to enable Ithamar Pillsbury to build a dam across the south fork of Edwards River on N.W. 18, 14, 3. A sawmill was soon after erected there. These were not the first mills in the county; those at Andover were in operation a couple of years before. It was at the close of this session of the court the first jurors were selected. But as there was no circuit court till the Spring of 1839, there was some change made in the list, and, indeed, upon examining the records of the circuit court, it was found that very few of those selected by the county court were empaneled.

COUNTY SEAT.

When the County of Henry was to have a seat of justice located, those possessing eligible points for such location did not fail to urge the great advantages of their several positions. The county seat of Henry County has been thrice located, and not once was there an approximation to unanimity of views and feelings in regard to the site. Twice were Commissioners appointed to locate a seat of justice, and once, upon petition, the legislature designated the point. The first location was unquestionably a tolerably wise one, if prospective considerations were to prevail in the decision. If the limits of the county were to be preserved intact, and the "swamp lands" were to be drained so as to make them inhabitable, the Commissioners could not resist the conclusion that the site selected would be but little north of the center of population after a lapse of from twenty-five to fifty years. It was not far from the geographical center. The second location was made by a larger bonus being given by the owners of the town to the county than was offered at any other point.

That selection was within six miles of the west line of the county, and but three miles from Rock River, the northwestern boundary of the county. The third point selected was designated by the legislature on petition of a majority of the voters of the county; it is about four miles south and one mile west of the first location. As has been stated, the enabling act to organize the county appointed Commissioners to locate the county seat. The oath qualifying them to act, was administered October 3, 1837, by William McMurtry, of Henderson, Knox County, an acting Justice of the Peace and afterwards Lieutenant Governor of the state. Andover had just sprung into vigorous existence under the auspices of capitalists in New York, and was a prominent candidate. Geneseo, having claims as to position, delightful situation and well-to-do citizens, was also in the field. Morristown, situated in a beautiful prairie, and having backing in the shape of wealth, put in her claim. A little place on Spring Creek, southeast from Geneseo a few miles, known as Ford Town, asked to be noticed in the race for distinction. In the Summer of 1836, James M. Allan, being wide awake, saw at a glance that there must not only be a county seat, but that it ought to be located no great distance from the center. To ascertain how nearly in the center an eligible situation could be obtained, he rode down to an established "corner," designated by a government tree in Spring Creek, and from that point, guided by a pocket compass, rode due west and counted the steps of his horse as he proceeded till he reached, as he supposed, section 17, 16, 3, some four or five miles from the starting point, in the midst of as beautiful prairie as nature has furnished. His figures did not deceive him. He afterwards bought S. E. 17, staked out a town, named it Richmond, and entered the lists for the seat of justice.

The law required the Commissioners to meet at the house of Dr. Baker and thence proceed to select a site. Another requirement of the law was that government land should be selected if equally eligible. At that time four-fifths of the land in the county was in the hands of the government. The Commissioners met as required, accompanied by a delegation from Andover. At Brandenburg's they met Major Allan who accompanied them to Geneseo. His point was well considered, the arguments pro and con. heard, and the party went out into the open prairie to Richmond, on nearly the highest ground in the vicinity, with no house within five miles or a tree within three miles. The site commanded an extended view of a splendid though nearly entirely unoccupied country. Upon examining a map of the county this point was seen, as before stated, near the geographical center, and what was there in the nature of the soil of the county to prevent its becoming the center of population? Nothing, except the swamps in the northern part, and they would be drained and populated with inhabitants other than frogs in the course of fifty years. Allan offered 120 acres of the site to the county, and Richmond was the county seat. This decision of the Commissioners disappointed the calculations of Geneseo and Andover more perhaps than those of the other towns, for those places had been fairly under way, and it was supposed would soon have a heavy settlement around them.

Andover certainly had no claims on the score of position, as it is just seven miles from the west line of the county, and but ten miles from the south line. Geneseo was more favorably situated as to geographical position, as the town is centrally located from east to west, though but nine miles from the northern boundary and six from Rock River, but it was clear if the county was to remain intact, she would be considerably north, not only of the geographical center, but of the center of population. This latter fact probably determined the action of the Commissioners.

In all counties not bounding upon navigable streams it was usually supposed, at that early day, that the county town had a far better prospect for population and wealth than other towns. Hence the great struggle for location. But since the introduction of railroads eligible points for towns along their lines have led all other towns in the counties in the race for population and wealth, whether seats of justice or not. The great struggle among holders of town property has since been for railroads. Without them but little, with them a great deal, may be accomplished.

To return to the Commissioners: they lodged at Andover that night, made out their bills against the county, presented them for payment, and left for their respective homes. They were qualified on the 3d, and presented their bills on the 6th of October. Voris charged, for twelve days, $36.00; Raywalt charged, for ten days, $30.00; Murphy charged, for seven days, $21.00.

It seems that Major Allan had a partner in this town speculation, for we find a deed made to the County Commissioners for land above specified by James M. Allan and Gilbert C. R. Mitchell, October 16, 1837. Allan and Mitchell made a deed for 120 acres on S. E. 17, 16, 3, to County Commissioners 16th of October, 1837. The day following, Commissioners met to determine the plans and measures necessary to be adopted in relation to the county seat. The surveyor was directed to lay out and make plat of town, for which he was to have forty dollars. The entire quarter section was laid out, 40 acres for the Allan party, 120 for county, in lots 4 by 8 rods, with streets mostly six rods wide. Each party had a public square. "Three choice lots" were donated to George Harris, upon condition that he should build a public house sufficient for the accommodation of company by the first day of June next. He was also to have three other choice lots to be paid for in work. He put up the house with tolerable promptitude, but it will be seen in the sequel that it went down more promptly, and without his help. Sale of lots to come Wednesday in June, was advertised in Peoria and Chicago, Canton and Galena papers. In the interval first-class lots were ordered to be sold for fifty dollars, second-class for twenty-five dollars; one-third in hand, balance in six months. It was ordered that propositions for building a temporary court-house be received at the December term of this court—size 18 by 24 feet, story and a half high. There are no records to show that "propositions" were made, but at that term, December, 1837, the clerk was directed to let the job to the lowest bidder. George Harris got the job, and in part built that and his own public house during the ensuing year. The latter was a frame, 36 by 40 feet, or about that size, two stories high, the best in the county at that time. At the June term, 1838, the Commissioners pledged the faith of the county that money received on sale of lots should be returned if the county seat should be moved. Sales were not numerous, and the clerk was authorized to sell to the best advantage he could for the interests of the county. In August, 1838, the term of office of the first Commissioners elected expired, and Marcus B. Osborn, Sylvester Blish and John P. Hanna were elected to succeed them. The legislature had passed an act during the preceding Winter requiring the boards to be elected in August, to draw lots which member should serve for three, which for two, and which for one year. Upon the lots being drawn, Osborn retained the office three years, Blish two, and Hanna one. At a special term of the court, 23d of October, 1838, George Brandenburg was allowed $12 for furnishing court-room one year. At the regular term, December 3, it was ordered that hereafter in all county elections the people shall assemble at the county seat to vote. The Commissioners, it would seem, were determined to have the people come to the county seat occasionally, at least. The voters in Richmond, at the August election, 1838, amounted to just seven, and perhaps the Commissioners hoped to cover up the feeble condition of the seat of justice by compelling the people to vote at this point only. This order was repealed 17th of June following. It was during this term of the Court that it was ordered that the representative from this district be requested to inform the state legislature that this community, and Henry County particularly, has suffered very materially in consequence of there not being any circuit court held since its organization. It will be perceived at once that Henry County did suffer materially on that account, when we state that at the court held the Spring following there were just ten cases on the docket. One of them, however, was a criminal case, the principal in which, a counterfeiter, had to be guarded day and night, or else sent to another county to prison. In view of such cases it was ordered that propositions to build a jail be received January 1, 1839. On that day the proposals were all too high, and the court adjourned without making a contract. The next day, however, a bargain was struck with Geo. W. Harris, who was to have it completed by September following. It was never built. Circuit court was held in April, 1839; Thos. Ford, Judge; James M. Allan, Clerk. The prisoner above referred to took a change of venue to Ogle County. Soon after the adjournment of court, while this and another prisoner were being kindly cared for at Mr. Harris' public house, by having their ankles ornamented with iron, and a keen lookout for them kept by the family, the house caught fire and was soon in a blaze beyond control. The court-house was in close proximity, and the fire reaching it, the two buildings were destroyed. Soon after the alarm, the two prisoners went to the wood-pile, and with the ax relieved each other of their ornaments, and then bent all their energies to saving the movables in the house. Porter, the counterfeiter, who was a small man, attempted to take down the coats hanging in the bar-room. One of them, belonging to Abram Miller (of the Geneseo House now), he found he could not get off the hook without tearing the loop. This he thought was a pity to do, and ran out to get a stool to stand on, so as to reach the hook. When he returned the coat was in a blaze. He succeeded, however, in carrying to a place of safety a small stand, in the drawer in which was the complimentary document which afterwards enabled a jury of twelve men to order him cared for at public expense in Alton for the term of one year. Neither prisoner tried to escape. The court-house was not yet completed, and Harris wanted his pay as far as he had gone with it. This the Commissioners hesitated to grant, but ordered an election to be held upon that and other matters, so as to decide what was to be done. The result of the election was that Harris got $30 in addition to what he had received, and gave up the contracts for building both court-house and jail. The election took place July 9th, and the arrangement with the County Commissioners the day following.

The town of Richmond, with the exception of the stable, having been reduced to ashes and "thin air," immediate steps for reconstructing the public buildings seemed imperative. All parties agreed as to the necessity of getting up new buildings, but the point at which they were to be erected was at once the subject of earnest dispute. Meetings were called at different points to discuss this, at that time, all-absorbing question. At a meeting held at a school-house on Rock River it was resolved that we are in favor of removing the county seat from its present location. Then followed petition to the Commissioners' Court asking for a convention of the people to take action on this momentous affair. The entire document is brief and to the point, and the insertion of the last resolution entire will doubtless be tolerated here, as it indicates the existence of a very strong conservative and anti-progressive policy (to use no harsh terms) among the citizens of Rock River. It reads:

"It is further resolved at this meeting, by an unanimous vote, that we concur with the majority of legal voters of the county (when they shall be taken) for the re-location of the county seat of said county; and we further disapprove of the minority REMONSTRATING against any location that may be made by the majority.

[Signed]

Saturday, June 1, 1839.

GEO. COLBERT, Chairman.

GEO. TYLER, Secretary."

A meeting called at Andover, June 13th, to consider the same topic, memorialized the Commissioners to call a convention of the people to take the sense of the county on several topics of importance, among which are: 1st. The Revenue Law. 2d. The Internal Improvement System of this State. 3d. Adjusting the accounts of Geo. W. Harris. 4th. The removal of the county seat. On the last named subject we suggest the following considerations in favor of a removal: 1st. There have been strong objections from the first to the present location; that it is remote from timber; that it is destitute of water power, of facilities for steam power; that it is not on the direct route of travel; the difficulty of obtaining suitable persons to hold office at the town of Richmond. This memorial was signed by fifteen citizens, among whom appear the names of I. Pillsbury, Wm. Ayers, Joseph Tillson, and others.

The memorials were presented at the June term of the court, and an order passed recommending the people to convene at Geneseo "to compare views and consult on such matters of immediate importance to the county as may be then and there proposed." As stated before, the convention met 9th July. The court, on the 10th, passed an order for the settlement with Harris, as before noticed. The terms of the court subsequent to the June term were held at Geneseo because houses were more plenty. The inhabitants of Richmond had been under the necessity of lodging in the stable, and the court held one session in the same building. At the December term, 1839, the court petitioned the legislature to legalize acts during the sessions at Geneseo, that officers might be permitted to hold their offices at their own houses to January 1, 1841, and that the courts might be directed to sit at Geneseo. At the session of the legislature of 1839-40, an act was passed re-locating the seat of justice for the County of Henry, and Alexander Turnbull of Warren County, M. W. Conway of Rock Island County, and Harmon Brown of Knox County, were appointed Commissioners to locate and name the town. This matter was postponed by the Commissioners till after the August election of 1840, and then summarily disposed of. Andover does not appear to have struggled a second time for the location; Geneseo and Morristown were the principal, if not the only, competitors. The population of the former place, no less than its location, pointed to it as the inevitable seat of justice. This led to more confidence than liberality, if the opposite party can be relied upon, and Morristown overbid her largely for the coveted honor. Geneseo, it is stated, offered the county a respectable portion of the village, as a bonus, while Morristown, or Charles Oakley and Joshua Harper, who represented that interest, offered an entire quarter section, sixteen town lots and one thousand dollars in cash. This settled the matter, and Morristown was a seat of justice. The Geneseo party claim to have made a more liberal offer than did Oakley & Co., but the offer came after the Commissioners had made their decision.

MARRIAGES.

The first marriage within the present limits of Henry County was that of James P. Dodge and Samantha Colbert, daughter of Rev. George A. Colbert, before the county was organized, Feb. 7, 1836. The license was issued from Knox County, where the record is also entered.

The first recorded marriage in the county was that of Mr. Louis Hurd and Miss Caroline W. Little, of Wethersfield, August 22, 1837, Rev. Ithamar Pillsbury officiating. That notable event seemed to inspire the reverend gentleman, for we find his marriage with Miss Caroline E. Miller of Andover, December 18, 1837, Rev. Enoch Mead officiating. December 24, just six days after the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Pillsbury's marriage, Wm. B. Goss of Savannah, Jo Daviess County, was married by the aforesaid Rev. Ithamar Pillsbury, to Miss Ellen Baldwin of Cleveland. During the year 1838, there were five marriages in the County; in 1839 six marriages are recorded. This year Geneseo witnessed the first wedding within her limits: James M. Allan and Susannah D. Stewart were married by the Rev. Jairus Wilcox, March 6, 1839. In 1840 there were ten couples united. In this year Morristown enjoyed her first wedding in the persons of Mahlon Lloyd, Esq., and Miss Amelia L. Davenport, December 30. During 1841 there seemed to be a very sudden increase of marriages, there being twenty-two recorded, of whom James Knox, afterwards representative to Congress, found a wife in the person of Miss P. H. Blish of Wethersfield, January 20, 1841. In 1842 there were twenty-three marriages; in 1843 fifteen; in 1844 eighteen; in 1845 twenty-one; in 1846 twenty-five; in 1847 twenty-three; and they gradually increased till 1851, when there were sixty-three marriages in the county.

PHYSICIANS.

The first physician was also the first settler, it is believed — Dr. Baker, who settled on Rock River in 1835. We have no extensive record of his Æsculapian performances. The presumption is, his well known lack of adipose material was a constitutional bar to active practice, and he was not much known as a physician. Dr. Maxwell, who settled on Rock River in what is now Phenix township, in the Winter 1836-7, is said to have been a man of another cast, possessing a great deal of activity and promptness; he has been represented as an eminent physician, very complaisant and agreeable in personal address. Dr. Pomeroy came in 1837. He had a very extensive practice, and is still residing in Geneseo, an active and highly respected citizen. In 1845 Dr. S. T. Hume made his debut as physician of Henry County in Geneseo; he is still a practicing physician in that place. About the year 1840, Dr. Geo. Shipman, a Homœopathist, settled at Andover and built the house afterwards owned by Mr. Ayres; he soon moved to Chicago.

LAWYERS.

Fortunately for the people of all new countries, lawyers find little encouragement at first to settle among them. Henry County was no exception. We have no data for an account of lawyers at an earlier date than 1845, unless we include an early settler of LaGrange, who has since practiced in the courts of California, but who left no record of his legal performances—if there were any—in this region. Nearly all who are now in the county have either moved into it since 1850, or have been admitted to the bar since that time. Our earliest information of attorneys in the county is connected with two brothers, Wm. H. and Samuel P. Brainard. They were young men of promise; Samuel P. holding at one time the clerkship of the county and circuit courts. Neither the law nor the offices, singly or jointly, afforded that gentleman an income sufficient to satisfy him immediately or prospectively, and upon the breaking out of the gold fever in 1848-9, he suffered from a lingering attack of it and appointed a deputy to fill his post, while he went to California for gold which he never got. Wm. H. also filled the office of clerk of the circuit court, and was ex-officio recorder. He was also school commissioner at a time when most of the school lands were sold, and sold for a large price, from which office he reaped a rich harvest. It is not possible to follow up the attorneys of the county individually and expect a narrative of them.

MORRISTOWN.

Among the provisions for the settlement of Morristown was one that a public house should be built out of the general fund, and that within a certain time (one year), each of the colonists should erect a dwelling-house upon his land. A very "considerable" building for those times was erected out of the funds proposed to be applied in that way, and a few, very few (three or four), dwelling-houses were built as per contract. The town plat was just one mile square; large enough in all conscience, and if it could have been peopled the county would have been much the gainer. In the center of the plat was a public ground of 440 feet square. The lots were 45 feet front and varying in length from 155 to 270 feet.

When the settlement first commenced the prospect seemed very fair for a rapid increase of population; this was anticipated by a Mr. Crocker, who, just before the Morristown entry, had entered what is known as Crocker's Grove (sometimes called Brown's), as well as a large tract of prairie, all of which was near by the lands soon after entered by the New York Company and named Morristown. He had bought for the purpose of farming with an abundance of elbow room, and expressed his regrets that range for his cattle would so soon be limited by the improvements of that company. It turned out, however, that little or no improvement, beyond the few farms at first commenced, was made.

This, then, was the extent of the improvements in and about Morristown when it was the county seat. It was in better condition to accommodate courts, etc., than was Richmond at its inauguration as seat of justice for the county, and the public could look for better accommodations than at the last named point. But dissatisfaction with the location grew apace, and it was soon a fixed fact that a contest for the removal and a re-location of the county seat was unavoidable. In fact it began as soon as the decision of the Commissioners was known. As Geneseo was the only point that competed with Morristown for the honor conferred, it is natural to suppose that that was the point at which the great body of the disaffected would endeavor to establish their county town. But it was soon ascertained that there were several candidates for that honor. General dissatisfaction prevailed on account of the location as it then stood; four men out of five probably being anxious to remove it on account of the great distance to which they had to travel to attend courts. The site itself was delightful, and those principally interested in its property were enterprising, intelligent and popular. Other sites, however, equally as eligible for beauty and salubrity, and much more central, could be picked out of every third section in any of the more central townships; and to one of these points the people determined to take it.

The county courts were held at Geneseo till the Summer or Fall of 1841. The first circuit court held in Morristown was in May, 1842, the last in May, 1844. As stated before, the legislature authorized the holding of courts in Geneseo till suitable accommodations could be prepared at the county seat. The public house at Morristown was conveyed to the county, and a contract for "improving" it was made with David Gove and Nathaniel Walters, an order for seventy dollars being issued for their benefit December 9, 1840. On June 28, 1841, a contract was made with Thos. W. Corey and George Brandenburg, for the erection of the commodious court-house, 18 by 24 feet, one and a half stories high, and also for the building of a jail, according to specifications and contract made with another party for building one at Richmond. The public house, now (then) the county house, was rented to Corey and Brandenburg for two years for the sum of one hundred dollars, they to furnish a suitable courtroom for the use of all courts of the county during the two years, in which time they were to complete the public buildings. The court-house was built. The jail was a mere structure on paper; the uncertainty of there being any use for it in that place causing the court to postpone its erection.

The dissatisfaction with Morristown as the county town was so extreme that some of those who had been most determined to honor Geneseo with it, expressed a willingness to have it located at some other point than that of their choice, even at Sugar Tree Grove, rather than have it remain at Morristown. Commissioners had twice been appointed by the Legislature to locate a seat of justice for the county, and were sworn to study the interests, immediate and prospective, of the population in determining the site. The first selection it seems was a judicious one. But the people were dissatisfied with it, and a change was effected. The second was judicious or not, just as the parties might think. We can imagine no good reason for the choice save the liberal donation for the county. That it was liberal is certainly true, but the loss to which the citizens of the county would have been yearly subjected on account of the remoteness of the site from the center would have counterbalanced, four times over, the extra liberality of the enterprising proprietors of Morristown. This the people knew, and while determined to effect the removal of the county capital, they were very generally determined to designate the point at which it should be located. It is believed that this feeling of distrust in Commissioners possessed nearly every citizen of the county, and during the greater part of the agitation of the question no one proposed a resort to the old process; the reasonableness of the demand for a removal was acquiesced in by the citizens of Morristown themselves. Indeed, Joshua Harper, one of the donors of the county, and principally interested in the prosperity of Morristown, was, in 1842, a candidate for the legislature, and if he had shown the least disposition to oppose the wishes of the people he could have got no support. He distinctly stated that if elected representative, and a majority of the voters of the county sent a petition for the county seat to be removed into the Winnebago swamps, into the swamps it should go. At least his influence should not prevent it. He was elected, and no man was ever more faithful to the interests of his constituents.

Geneseo was the point to which the majority in the northern part of the county wished the seat of justice removed. A point near Sugar Tree Grove was selected by the southern. Some manœuvering was resorted to to get an admission from opponents that a site on Section 7, 15, 3, was an eligible point for the location. All that was done, however, in the way of manœuver was to get the admission before the name of the owner of the property should be known. The owner was Rev. Ithamar Pillsbury, of Andover. He was active in his efforts to secure the first location at Andover, but the position of J. M. Allan was too strong for him up to that time, and after there was feud between the two points Andover and Geneseo, and it was thought best by the Pillsbury party that he should not be known in the transaction till suitable admissions had been made by the other party. We have said the "Pillsbury party," but the prime mover, the great laborer in behalf of the point near Sugar Tree Grove was Joseph Tillson, Esq. The "Judge," as he is usually called, was an early settler, and an active man in some important matters of the county. Canvassing for signatures to a petition locating the town near Sugar Tree Grove—at what is now Cambridge—progressed steadily, though with very variable results, as different localities were entered. The petition was drawn up in Wethersfield, by Col. Wells it is believed. John Kilvington circulated it at Wethersfield, about Barren Grove, on Spring Creek, and obtained a few signatures in Geneseo, after which the Judge took charge of it. When it was ascertained that a majority of the voters of the county had signed the petition to have the county seat located on Section 7, 15, 3, a remonstrance was got up at Geneseo against the location, with a petition added that Commissioners be again appointed to locate a county seat. It is believed J. M. Allan, whose home was then at Geneseo, was the most active man in behalf of his locality. The contest was warm. The Judge sent the petition north of Green River for signatures, and it was returned with a single additional name affixed. He took it himself, went over the same ground, and obtained forty signatures, Brandenburg leading off. He also re-canvassed the settlement at Andover.

JOSEPH A. SAWYER,
Geneseo.

The petition was sent to Oxford, where a friend promised to circulate and return it. The time for its reception arrived, but no petition came; the Judge was in a flurry; time was getting precious; Wm. A. Ayers volunteered to look up the missing paper, and get such signatures as had not been appended; he found it shut up in a chest, where it had been placed for safe keeping, with a very few additional names on it. Mr. A. pushed the matter along, and without difficulty obtained the signature of every man he met in that locality. It was extensively signed throughout the southern part of the county. A few residents on Spring Creek who signed the petition to locate at Cambridge, it is known, afterwards signed the remonstrance.

The petition to have Cambridge the new seat of government of the county was forwarded to Colonel John Buford, of Rock Island, who then represented this district in the Senate. A bill was brought before the Senate re-locating the county seat of Henry County. It passed both houses on petition of a majority of the citizens of the county.

The bill locating the county seat of Henry County was approved by the Governor February 21, 1843. It provided that the courts should be held at Morristown till accommodations should be provided at the new location. It also required the re-conveyance of all property that had been deeded to the county at Morristown, and the refunding of money donated.

The difficulty of pleasing the citizens of Henry County in the location of their county town was a matter well known outside. The truth is, there was very little in the immediate vicinity of the location except a fine grove of timber to demonstrate the wisdom of fixing the seat of justice at that point. There was no house north of Sugar Tree Grove nearer than those immediately about Geneseo. West there were but two or three until within a mile of Andover. In the grove, and at the "East End," a settlement had fairly commenced. South of what is now the Town of Cambridge, Red Oak, nearly six miles distant, was the nearest settlement. There was no Bishop Hill Colony, no Galva, and no one in that township but James Bonham, at Hickory Grove, and two or three in the northeast corner of the town. A good settlement existed at Wethersfield and along Barren Grove in the southeast corner of the county; but at Wethersfield an anti-Cambridge feeling existed to a small extent, which grew out of a desire of those malcontents, or the most of them, to be annexed to the County of Stark. At Oxford, in the southeast corner of the county, and about Richland Grove, west of Andover, a few families had collected. The settlement at Andover was one of the most flourishing in the county. Ten miles northwest was a cluster of three or four houses, and a respectable settlement a few miles further, on Rock River. All the settlements in the southern part of the county (except the slightest opposition at Wethersfield), favored the location, but how was a town to be built? Men and money were required. There was but little immigration to the county or state, and where were numbers and dollars to be obtained, was the question of the hour.

MORRISTOWN COLONY.

In the Winter of 1835-'6, a notice was inserted in several of the New York city daily papers, calling a meeting of persons interested in Western colonization. This was held in Congress Hall, and at a subsequent meeting to further consider this matter, a colony was formed and organized under the name of the New York Colony. At these meetings some forty or fifty persons became members of the colony. Charles Oakley, Esq. (now deceased), once Fund Commissioner of the State of Illinois, took a leading part in all these transactions. He had been prospecting out West, and gave a glowing description of the wonderful "prairie country." At the close of these meetings an agreement was drawn up and signed by the colonists, authorizing Charles Oakley and C. C. Wilcox (now of Chicago) as trustees, to proceed to Illinois and locate about a township of land in such part of the state as they might think for the best interest of the members of the colony; the intention being to enter land somewhere near the Illinois River. But other parties having preceded them to the designed location, which was probably in Bureau County, near or upon the ground now occupied by the Providence Colony, they proceeded into Henry County, and selected their land in Townships 16 and 17—some 30 sections, nearly 20,000 acres. Every individual of the colony bound himself to erect within two years a house or building to cost some specified sum, about $200, on his land, and in case of neglect the land was to revert to the colonists, with, however, this unfortunate condition attached: That the colonists, through their trustees, had the privilege of taking the land from those parties failing to fulfill their part of the contract, and paying three dollars per acre for the same, or double the cost of their land. The result proved that four-fifths of the members preferred the hundred per cent. advance to the hardships of Western life, and did not build; and ere two years passed the panic of 1837-'8 rendered the other parties unwilling or unable to fulfill their part. Oakley and Wilcox were to receive for their services twenty-five cents per acre for locating these lands, and for surveys and incidental expenses. When surveyed and the town laid out on some eligible spot near the center of the location, the lands and lots were to be put up at auction, and the colonists were to select their property—eight lots in town being distributed with each quarter section. The colonists were to bid for the preference or choice of lands and lots. At this distribution, which was in the Summer or Autumn of 1836 (the lands were entered in June of that year), only a few persons were present. The majority of the colonists acted through their agents. There was paid as "preference money," for the choice of these lands, some $6,000 or $7,000, some paying as high as $400 for the choice of a quarter section. After the selection, the balance were distributed by the trustees at their discretion, each member getting the number of acres for which he had paid. This preference money was to be held as trust, and appropriated for the benefit of the colonists as follows: First, to have a colony house built, in which the colonists could live until their residences could be erected; this was to cost some $3,000. Second, to build a mill and school-house, or to be appropriated as the colonists might desire, or distributed among members.

Few came that season. Messrs. Oakley and C. C. Williams remained but a short time. The colony lands were surveyed by Arba M. Seymour, the County Surveyor. A log house was erected in Morristown, and a colony house contracted for, and afterwards built. This was a fine large building two stories high, and well finished, the latter being done by R. R. Stewart, Esq., of Geneseo. This building was erected upon a lot owned by Chas. Oakley, Esq. It was afterwards sold by Col. Oakley to Joel Wells, whose widow now occupies it. A mill was also built upon Green River upon land owned by Charles Oakley. In the Fall of the year 1836 speculation was still high. Pre-emptions on farms on Rock River with small improvements were valued at $15 to $25 per acre. These prices were for lands in the vicinity of the timber, as prairie land was considered worthless by western men.

Joshua Harper, N. W. Washburne, Luke C. Sheldon, Chas. W. Davenport, Jr. and — Tompkins were all of the original colonists that were here in 1836. In 1837, John Appleton and Chas. W. Davenport, Sr. and family came, and with them the venerable father of Mrs. Davenport and Thos. Fitch, who died at Morristown a few years after at the advanced age of 80 years. These people, with a few others, comprising in all about ten families, scattered over some ten miles of prairie, which constituted the settlement for some twelve or fourteen years. After that time, a new exodus from the East again sent an army westward of good, substantial citizens—a considerable number of whom settled on Morristown prairie, and made it what it now is—one of the best settlements in Henry County.

THE WETHERSFIELD COLONY.

The direct settlement of Henry County is largely attributed to the location of colonies. These were mainly from New England, and brought with them all their New England foresight, energy, and frugal thrift; and to the Wethersfield colony, possessing all these attributes, the present prosperity of this portion of the county may be traced.

As has been noticed in these pages, Mr. Pillsbury, and his associates, Slaughter and Pike, were commissioned by the New York Association, in 1835, to select a location for the "Andover Colony." Upon the return of Mr. Pillsbury in the Fall of that year, he was written to by the Rev. Dr. Caleb J. Tenney, of Wethersfield, Connecticut, concerning the location of another colony in the region of country in which the lands of the Andover Colony were situated, and an interview requested. The result of this interview led the Doctor to project another colony, to be styled the "Wethersfield Colony," and to be located near the former. Dr. Tenney was an eminent divine, and well acquainted with the prominent men of that day who would be likely to favor an enterprise by which religion and free education might be successfully planted in the great Mississippi Valley, and he addressed many of them in relation to this matter. These efforts led to a meeting in the Congregational Church at Wethersfield, some time in the Autumn of 1835, the exact date of which can not now be obtained. Here the enterprise assumed a tangible shape, and at a subsequent meeting an organization was effected. As the names of the projectors of this enterprise will be of interest to many of the citizens of the county, and valuable as an item of history, they are here given. They were: Dr. Caleb J. Tenney, Selden Miner, Roger Wells, Martin Kellogg, John Francis, Chancey Coleman, Weltha Willard, Rev. John Marsh, Joshua Goodrich, George Wells, Horace Blaine, Henry Robbins, Col. Sylvester Blish, Rev. Samuel Redel, William Butler, Rev. Ithamar Pillsbury, Miles Adams, Elizur Goodrich, Samuel Galpin, E. Porter, Rev. Horace Hooker, William Tenney, George P. Shipman, Russell H.

Nevins, Timothy Stillman, Allen Talcott, Rev. Geo. A. Calhoun, Francis Loomis, Edward Payson, D.D., Rev. Geo. Stebbins, Rev. John Woodbridge, Gersham Buckley, Geo. Buckley, Gardner Spring, D.D., Merritt Butler, Osmond Harrison, Rev. Harvey Tolcott, Jeduthan and Jonathan Hubbard, Sullivan Howard, Geo. Richards, Jasper Gilbert, Rev. Alpha Miller, Nathan DeWolf, J. L. Belden, Nathan Kelley, Stephen Topliff, Dr. A. Welch, Geo. B. Holley, Rev. Chancey Booth, Richard T. Haines, Rev. Ralph Emerson, Robert Gipson, and a few others whose names cannot now be obtained.

This Company was styled the "Connecticut Association." The stockholders resided at different points from Maine to New York, some of whom were quite wealthy, and others were very prominent in the religious world. The great temperance agent will be recognized in Rev. John Marsh. Dr. Payson was a distinguished Christian minister, and Rev. Gardner Spring was an eminent divine at the head of one of the most aristocratic Presbyterian churches in the nation.

The stock of the company was fixed at $250 per share, and entitled each shareholder to one hundred and sixty acres of prairie land, twenty acres of timber, and a town lot. During the winter of 1835-'6 one hundred shares were taken, and $25,000 paid into the treasury. In February, 1836, a "committee of purchase" was appointed, consisting of Rev. Ichamar Pillsbury, Col. Sylvester Blish and Elizur Goodrich. The first of these was selected on account of his having some experience in matters of this kind; the second, on account of his energy and prompt business habits, and the third because he was a competent surveyor.

The route of this committee was through Baltimore; over the mountains to Wheeling; down the Ohio River by steamboat to its junction with the Mississippi; thence up that stream to the Illinois River; up that to Peoria, and thence to Knoxville, Henderson Grove and Andover, at which latter place was a house or two, but no inhabitants, nor did any arrive until July following. Arriving here, neither feed nor horses could be obtained, and they were compelled to walk some twenty miles, over to "Barren Grove"—with only a deserted cabin on the way, in Sugar Tree Grove—along the south side of which they commenced to select the Company's land. Rev. Pillsbury and Col. Blish were sanguine of the future of Illinois, and, owing to the previous knowledge of the former, were not long in finding the "desired haven." The surveyor did not partake of their unbounded confidence, and trudged around locating the selections they made, until they had, at different times, succeeded in selecting and entering ninety-nine quarter sections of land, in Townships 14, R. 5 and 15, R. 5—the first entry being made May 7, 1836.

The purchase was made from the Government in the name of Goodrich and Blish, who deeded the land in trust, for the purposes of the association, to Chester Bulkley, secretary and treasurer, who afterwards deeded to individual members, or to those who purchased of the company.

The following Spring, March, 1837, an additional quarter section was added, making the entries a round hundred. This committee returning, another, consisting of Rev. Joseph Goodrich, John F. Willard and Henry G. Little, was appointed to survey and lay out a town plat, and to divide the timber land into twenty-acre lots. On November 11, 1836, Mr. Willard and Mr. Little reached the lands purchased by the company, with the intention to at once lay out the town and the timber lots. They found in the grove, one and one-half miles northeast of the purchase, a cabin, and the family of Mr. John Kilvington, of whom mention is made in the early history of Kewanee. This afforded a home for the party. An effort was at once made to obtain the services of the county surveyor, who lived thirty miles distant, to perform the task, but the attempt proved fruitless, as he could not accomplish it until the following Spring. They returned to French Grove, in Peoria County, where Mr. Little had taken a cabin, and secured the services of Surveyor Nelson Simons, well known to many citizens of this county. The returning party consisted of John F. Willard, H. G. Little, Nelson Simons, William Wheeler, W. T. Little, Sullivan Howard and Simeon B. Stoddard, who reached, on foot, the purchase, on the evening of November 16, 1836. The two following days were spent in surveying and locating the tracts. Toward the close of the second day the party, with the exception of Willard, who remained to build a cabin, started for "Fraker's Grove," twelve miles distant. As it was very misty the night was intensely dark, and they lost their way. By removing the glass from the face of their compass, so they could feel the hands on the face, they with great difficulty regained their course, and reached their destination about midnight. Awakening "Old Man Dunbar," as he was called, from his slumbers, they were given food and shelter in the only cabin in this vicinity.

Willard worked two weeks at his cabin, boarding at Mr. Kilvington's, some two miles distant. When he had completed it, in company with N. Butler and Joseph Goodrich, he "bached" it through the Winter. He hauled his hay from where Sheffield now stands, and obtained the greater portion of his corn in Peoria County.

During the Spring of 1837, the services of the County Surveyor were obtained, the timber divided into twenty-acre lots, and the town of Wethersfield laid out. "In the month of April," as now appears on the county records, the streets were laid out at right angles, and were six rods—ninety-nine feet—in width. The blocks contained four lots of two and one-half acres each, except those immediately on the public square designed for business lots, and containing one-fourth acre each. One block was set apart for a public square, and one for Academy and College purposes, but the former of these only appears on the town plat. Two lots, one on the east and one on the west, were set apart for cemetery purposes. It will be noticed this village was a counterpart of that of Andover. Counting from north to south the streets bore the names of North, Mill, Church, North Main, South Main, College and South streets. Running east and west they were named East, Edwards, Dwight, Willard, Tenney, Hollis, Payson and West streets. It will also be observed the names of divines entered largely into this list, Edwards and Dwight being in their day presidents of Yale College, and Tenney and Payson having a national reputation.

John F. Willard, as has been stated, erected the first cabin on the colony purchase. Sullivan Howard built a cottonwood board "shanty" in February, 1837. He wintered in French Grove, Peoria County, and hauled his lumber from Ellisville on Spoon river, seventy miles distant. Henry G. Little, now living in Iowa, "raised" a cabin in March. William T. Little built another soon after. This latter was just eighteen by twenty feet in dimensions, and, for some time, accommodated the family of his father, Abner B. Little, the two families comprising nine members. In June, the first birth in this colony occurred in this cabin, a daughter being born to William T. She lived to maturity, married, and removed to Vermont.

Elisha R. Wolcott, and Caleb J. T. Little arrived in April, Evan Wheaton came in June, and C. B. Miner in July. In August, Colonel Sylvester Blish and his son William arrived with their families. They were better prepared than most settlers, and were the first to come through from Connecticut with teams. They stopped with H. G. Little on their arrival, and with his family rather filled his cabin. Shortly after this the first election was held in this precinct after its organization, the place of voting being Mr. Little's house. Selden Miner came in August. Luther C. Sleight some time that season. In the Summer of 1838 Francis Loomis came. John H. Wells and David Potter, whose family became somewhat prominent in the colony, came in October. This latter gentleman planted the first orchard in the settlement, and raised the first fruit crop. Champlin Lester moved in the Spring of 1839, Deacon Zenas Hotchkiss in the Summer. William T. Little, before mentioned, turned the first furrow on these prairies where now C. C. Blish resides. He was soon followed by others, and that season—1837—quite a "sod crop" was raised.—and mostly eaten by cattle. The project of building a steam grist and saw mill was agitated the first year of the settlement, and in 1837 decisive steps were taken toward the accomplishment of this most necessary of conveniences.

Abner B. Little, father of H. G. and C. J. T., came to Wethersfield in April, 1837. He was born at New Salem, N. H., in 1774, and married Nancy Tenney, of Hollis, N. H., Jan. 20, 1802. Thirteen children were born to them, ten of whom came to this county, and whose names appear elsewhere. Mrs Little died July 7, 1847, aged 66 years. Mr. Little, Sept. 8, 1863, aged 89 years.

The food of the colonists was exceedingly coarse and rather scanty. Coffee, cornbread and pork—pork, cornbread and coffee, constituted the chief variety; but what was lacking in quality was made up most abundantly in the amount consumed. The appetite of the frontiersman is not generally so dainty as voracious. Excellent air and abundant exercise atoned for all tastes. The mill proved disastrous financially to the colony, involving it some $4,000 in debt, besides the amount paid on its completion.—$5,000. No one could be found to purchase such an incumbrance, and after various changes, it was sold to Jeduthan Hubbard for $2,000, thereby making a clear loss of $7,000. It had been most beneficial, however, in supplying a dire necessity to all this country. A most interesting incident occurred in its erection and continuance, which the reader will find recorded in these pages in the chapter headed "Interesting Events."

As the indebtedness of the colony had to be met, but little more than eighty acres of prairie land was given to each stockholder in addition to the town lot and timber land.

Out of the nearly sixty members of the association only four came personally to aid in the organization. These were Col. Blish, Francis Loomis, Sullivan Howard, and Charles Richards. Selden Miner was represented by two sons, and Gardner Spring, D.D., by one son. Rev. Ithamar Pillsbury was already at the head of the Andover colony, where for many years he was the most prominent man in it. He was married here, Dec. 18, 1837, to Miss Caroline Miller. On August 22 previous he performed the first marriage ceremony in the colony (also the first in the county), being the nuptials of Lewis Hurd and Caroline W. Little, a sister of Henry G. and W. T. Little. They are still residents of Wethersfield. James E. Carson opened a temporary store in the Winter of 1839-'40, but suspended operations in less than one year. In the Spring of 1845, Garey E. Smith opened the first store proper. He was followed by Daniel McClure, who established his trade in 1849. The following year William Blish opened a stock of goods, and was followed by others in quick succession, when the advent of the railroad and the consequent opening of Kewanee, caused a general removal of all such commodities to that locality.

The earliest school was taught by Parmelia Stewart, daughter of R. R. Stewart, of Geneseo. She is now Mrs. Dr. Hume of that city. She taught in what is properly known as the "Old Log Church." Afterwards a school-house was built a little south of this latter building, and school was held there for a few years. The next move in this direction was the purchase of the old Baptist Church, which is still used. About ten or twelve years ago, a new edifice was constructed, and is now used in connection with the former, for educational purposes.

THE CHURCHES.

The Congregational Church. Although a number of the colonists were members of this religious faith in their former homes, it was not till October, 19, 1839, that they organized the church here. Previous to this time, however, Rev. Ithamar Pillsbury, of Andover, was employed to preach to them one fourth of his time, through a part of 1837, and to about November, 1838. He often walked from one charge to the other, and when the reader will recollect the entire absence of bridges, compelling him to wade or swim the streams, he will properly judge the labors of this man, and of his indefatigable industry. Rev. W. F. Vaill was sent here by the Connecticut Home Missionary Society, arriving at Wethersfield November 21, 1838. The following year, at the date mentioned, the church was organized at the house of Col. John H. Wells, with fifteen members. They were: Rev. Joseph and Mrs. Goodrich, Rev. William Vaill, Nancy T. Little, Mrs. Rhoda Blish, John H. Wells, Mrs. Julia Wells, L. C. Sleight, Hosea and Mrs. Buckley, Deacon Zenas Hotchkiss and wife, Norman Butler and wife, and Francis Loomis. Rev. Vaill remained pastor some eight years. As has been stated, the meetings were held for some time in private residences; Col. Blish's being the largest, was often used for this purpose. Mrs. Blish is now the only one of the original fifteen who comprised the first members, now living in this vicinity. In the Summer of 1838, a log church was erected, and used until the year 1849, when a frame structure was built, which is yet standing. In 1851, a good parsonage was erected. On the organization of the Congregational Church in Kewanee, many of the members from Wethersfield united there, it being a more convenient location. Gradually almost all went there, until now but a small number remain, and no regular service is maintained. Following the Rev. Vaill was Rev. Samuel Ordway, who remained about three years. He was succeeded by Rev. Darius Gore, who was pastor about the same length of time, when R. S. Thrall came, who preached one and a half years. Rev. W. T. Bartle was the next pastor, and preached for two years. After him was Rev. Thomas Snell, who remained one and a half years, and was succeeded by Rev. Robert Rudd, who filled the pulpit one year. The next was Rev. B. B. Parsons, who was installed pastor August 17, 1859, and remained in charge some time. He was followed by Rev. L. D. Pomeroy, whose pastorate extended over four years, and was succeeded by Rev. Rider, who preached some two years. Rev. W. T. Bartle was again called, and preached for them one year. From that time the church began to decline, owing to the members uniting at Kewanee, and has sustained no regular ministry since.

The Methodist Episcopal Church was organized in 1841. The meetings were held for some time in residences, and at other times in the school-house, until the year 1853. In 1851, a commodious house of worship was commenced, but not completed and occupied until 1853. The formation of the society in Kewanee, with which many of this church united, caused a decline in the church here, and it was finally abandoned.

The Baptist Church was organized at a council held September 23, 1843, by eight persons, viz: Elder Edward Otis, Charles B. Miner, Mary G. Miner, Edward Otis, Merrill Otis, Hileman Otis, and Hannah and Sarah Otis, united. The first three of these were from Connecticut, the remainder from Ohio. It was not until two years afterward that preaching was secured. During this time, Elders Otis, Jonathan Miner and others officiated. During the Summer of 1845, Elder Charles E. Tinker was secured to preach one Sunday in each month, and so continued for five years. The meetings were sometimes held on the north side of Barren Grove, and at other times at the west end, in school-houses, and often in the open air. For the last two years of this man's labors the meetings were not held at Wethersfield, and this church ultimately became the Baptist Church at Annawan. Another church was established at Wethersfield, May 17, 1851, with eleven members. They were: Ezekiel Cole, Mrs. Maria Cole, John Ewing, Mrs. Keziah Ewing, Mrs. Jane White, Mrs. Susan Ellenwood, Mrs. Caroline Purviance, Mrs. Maria F. Miner, Charles B. Miner, Mrs. Mary A. Miner, and Austin Sykes. Of these, the last three named are members.

In July, 1852, Elder J. M. Stickney commenced to preach for this charge, remaining but a short time. He was succeeded by J. S. Mahan, from Galesburg. They now numbered only nine members, but in 1854 were greatly increased, over fifty uniting. Elder Mahan resigned in 1855, and was followed by Dr. J. M. Winn, who was succeeded the same year by Elder S. P. Ives. The following Summer, the members, by a majority vote, decided to remove their place of worship to Kewanee, and sold their unfinished brick church to the School Trustees of Wethersfield. From that time the congregation assumed the name of the First Baptist Church of Kewanee. Other churches were established in this colony, but they are now extinct, or the members are so few that no regular organization is sustained. As the colony is the source from which all the affluence, position and wealth of Kewanee were obtained, this extended sketch is given it. Many pages could be filled with incidents connected with the early life of these people, but space forbids their insertion, save a few, which the reader will find in a chapter already referred to.

BISHOP HILL COLONY.

The founder of the colony at Bishop Hill was Mr. Eric Jansen, a man about thirty-five or forty years of age, and a native of Sweden. He was possessed of strong religious convictions, large social affections, and an active vigorous mind. He abjured the Lutheran faith, the almost universal religion of his native country, and one which bore much the same relation to Sweden that the Established Church of England does to that kingdom. By precept and preaching he gathered about him some eleven hundred adherents to his belief.

These met with great opposition from the Lutheran House of Bishops, and Mr. Jansen and some of his more prominent followers were at times imprisoned. During one of his confinements in that place he was visited by two physicians, who would have adjudged him insane, had not an influential merchant been present and threatened them with full process of the law for this most unjust act. This merchant was a member of the Lutheran Church, but a man of large, liberal views, and possessed with a strong love of liberty.

Mr. Jansen persisted in his work for some three years or longer, when, the opposition becoming too strong, it was decided to emigrate to that land of liberty, America; there to establish a colony and worship their God in their own way, and in their own belief. One of the principal tenets of their religion was that all things should be in common, so that no poor would go unprovided, or none suffer for lack of means. Among the first converts to this belief were a Mr. Hedine and a Mr. Olson, men of property, who gave freely of their wealth to aid those who were needy.

A delegation of them visited King Oscar I, to obtain passports, having been refused these necessary papers by the proper authorities. The King told them he could not conflict with the authority of the House of Bishops, save to grant them the privilege of leaving the country should they desire. He gave the orders, and procuring the passports, the colony, numbering some eleven hundred persons, set sail in the Summer of 1846. They arrived in New York in October of that year, and the same month about seven hundred of them reached Bishop Hill, Henry County, Illinois, the remaining four hundred having gone to other localities. Many of this latter number were deceivers and impostors, having joined the colony for no other purpose than to get their passage paid; the fund for this object having been a common one, and some had had their debts paid before leaving Fatherland.

In order that Mr. Jansen could come to America (he had preceded the colonists), he was compelled to escape into Norway, where, obtaining a passport under an assumed name, he succeeded in embarking on a vessel whose destination was New York.

The year previous to the landing of the colony, a few persons had been sent to America for the purpose of finding them a home. These had selected the present site of Bishop Hill, and when the emigrants arrived in New York they were met by Mr. Jansen, their acknowledged leader, and at once came to their new home.

A brother of the Mr. Olson—Olef Olson—had been one of the party sent out the year previous, and had made a pretty thorough prospecting tour throughout the West, in the Spring of 1846, including the states of Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin. He had written to many of his friends in Sweden advising them of the feasibility of the coming of the colony, and of the ease with which a home could be secured in the then western wilds. He purchased of the elder Piatt a farm at the east end of Red Oak Grove; this being the first of any connected with the colony.

After Mr. Jansen reached the United States, he sent word to the friends in Sweden to print, or get printed, some hymn books and other religious works for the use of the colony. This printing was very difficult to obtain, as no printer would risk the fine attendant on such publications. To obviate this difficulty a press was purchased, and with the aid of a practical printer, they did their own printing.

Of the eleven hundred colonists who came in 1846, many sold their estates at a sacrifice, and were compelled to send an agent in after years to collect even this.

The colonists settled at first along the south bank of the South Edward Creek, a small, sluggish stream. The site was a most beautiful one, being sparsely covered with a small growth of oaks. Having neither material for building nor money with which to purchase it, they erected tents for their immediate protection. These proving inadequate, caves were excavated in the hillside, and in these rude habitations many of the colonists passed their first Winter in America. These were damp and unwholesome, and much of the mortality prevailing was due to them. While erecting tents for their own immediate accommodation, they were not forgetful of the worship of Almighty God, and erected a very large tent in which their meetings and Sabbath-schools were held. The hardships that followed the immediate settlement were more than many of the members had resolution to endure, and they left singly and in squads as their lack of faith and pressing wants seemed to require. On reaching their new home the funds of the society were nearly exhausted, and they had no credit. Notwithstanding this, provisions must be had for the year's consumption. Not a man, save a sailor, who had picked up a little English, could speak a word of that language. John Olson, who was gifted with the faculty of making intelligible signs, undertook to provide food, and succeeded tolerably well while the money lasted. They were expecting funds in the Spring in sufficient amounts to relieve all pressing and immediate wants. Mud caves soon gave place to houses constructed of unbaked brick and an occasional frame, but these residences were very inferior till 1849, when a four-story brick was erected, about 100 feet in length and 45 in breadth. The basement was intended for a dining-room and the upper part divided into rooms for families. In 1851 the building was extended 100 feet in length. It is still occupied by families of new comers, or by those unable to provide their own homes.

A large frame building, the upper part designed for a church and the basement for families, was erected as early as 1849, the religious zeal of the colonists causing them to look after a house of worship before securing their personal comfort. This edifice is still occupied for the purposes for which it was erected.

To the credit of the people it must be stated that they established an English school as early as January, 1847. A Presbyterian clergyman, Rev. Talbot, taught some thirty-five scholars in a mud cave, from January to July. At times he was assisted by his daughter, Mrs. Pollock, afterwards the wife of Eric Jansen, and now his widow. Talbot taught the second school, and Nelson Simons, M. D., was employed about one year as their third schoolmaster.

While the improvements in general were going on the colonists were not neglectful of orchards and the planting of the smaller fruits; but it cannot be said that the yield of fruits so far has equaled their expectations. Among the earlier branches of industry a brewery, for the manufacture of small beer, was erected. This beverage is a common drink among the Swedes, and the manufacture commenced at an early day. About the year 1851 they erected a commodious brick brewery from which they manufactured some ten barrels of beer a day while in operation.

The progress of improvement was steady, and a grist-mill on a small scale was soon in operation on the Edwards Creek, at the Hill. Two saw-mills were also soon under way on the same stream. One of them they purchased. The construction of a steam grist-mill was commenced in 1849, under the direction of Eric Jansen, but not completed till after his death.

The correct conduct of these people soon convinced those living nearest them that nothing was to be apprehended from them, as their creed was essentially harmless to all outsiders. And in the hour of need, the colonists found fast friends in the majority of those near them. By the year 1851 they had grown and strengthened, and had built a first-class steam flouring-mill, which turned out a large surplus of flour beyond the wants of the colony.

They had opportunities of securing large quantities of wheat, receiving sometimes one-third and at others one-half the crop for taking care of the balance. Flax was a staple with them for several years. From the crop of 1847 they manufactured 12,000 yards of linen or thereabouts, and sold the entire amount, as they had two or three years' supply of clothing on hand. In 1849 they sold 12,454 yards of linen and 4,129 yards of carpeting. In 1850 they sold the crop of 1849: linen, 9,323 yards; carpeting, 3,618 yards. In 1851 crop of 1850: linen, 28,322 yards; carpeting, 3,237 yards. This was the largest product in any one year, and the amount gradually grew less till the year 1857, when they manufactured but little for sale. The aggregate amount of linen sold to 1857 was 130,309 yards; of carpeting, 22,569 yards. The carpeting was all coarse, being known as "rag" carpeting. The linen was much of it quite fine; but the coarser kinds were the most in demand, and after the first year or two but little fine linen, except in the shape of table-cloths, was manufactured. These goods were sold for cash, or traded for other goods in demand at the Hill, as opportunity offered; large quantities being peddled out over the country.

The spinning and weaving is done almost exclusively by the women, children of both sexes assisting at spooling, etc. In the early years, as looms and rooms in which to place them were scarce, the weavers were divided into squads or gangs, and the looms kept running night and day. Not a little of the prosperity of the colony is due to the bone and muscle of the women who labored through the summer in the fields as industriously as the men, and in the winter at the wheels—looms and other work carried on in doors.

From living in such poor habitations at first, and from being unaccustomed to the climate, great numbers sickened and died. Especially among the children was the mortality fearful. During the great cholera scourge of the years 1849, '50, '51 and '52, men would go to their work in the morning in good health, and die before the going down of the sun.

From this cause, and the leaving of those in fear of the disease, the colony was at one time reduced to 414 souls. These survived the plague, and had the hardihood to remain. At the time Mr. Jansen was murdered, in May, 1850 (an account of which is given elsewhere), they were suffering from sickness, desertion, and death, and the fact that these had the fortitude to remain amid such a multiplicity of discouragements, was proof conclusive of the earnestness of their conviction that they were called to suffer, and, if need be, to die in demonstrating the true method of Christian fellowship. In erecting the large buildings for dwellings; in the manufacture of cloth; in the erection of large mills; in their frugal industry, and in their honest endeavors to promote their welfare spiritually and temporally, during all these trials of poverty, sickness, death, desertion, and strangers in a strange land, a lesson of commendable zeal may be learned, and an example of fortitude which has few equals in the history of Henry County.

By the year 1853 or '54 affairs were brightening, and prospects grew better. Other emigrants came, other buildings were erected, and the hopes of the early colonists began to be realized.

Brick buildings, capable of accommodating from eight to double that number of families, were at times erected. In these each family had one or more rooms. All worked together, and at meal time repaired to the large dining-rooms and partook of food provided for all. Each one was required to labor, and after receiving sufficient clothing and food from the products, the remainder were used to purchase more land or build additional buildings. Human nature is the same in all ages and among all people, and here, as well as elsewhere, were those who would not perform their share of the labor, or provide for the common good. By the year 1860, it was found that the theories of Mr. Jansen would not prevail in practical life, and a division occurred.

By this year all the large brick buildings spoken of were erected. At this time they were divided into two parties, known as the Johnson (Jansen) and Olson parties. The former, being more numerous, obtained about two-thirds of the property; the latter, the remainder. No serious difficulties arose from this division, and the individual affairs were conducted on the same plan heretofore pursued.

The following year, the Olson party were divided into three divisions or parts, and the Johnson party made an individual distribution of their lands and town property.

By this time it had been clearly demonstrated that it was better by far for all to be thrown upon an individual responsibility, and a distribution on the following plan was made of all property belonging to this party:

To every person, male or female, that had attained the age of 35 years a full share of all lands, timber and town lots, and personal property was given. A full share consisted of 22 acres of land, one timber lot—nearly two acres—one town lot, and an equal part in all barns, horses, cattle, hogs, sheep or other domestic animals, and all farming implements and household utensils. All under this age received a share corresponding in amount and value to the age of the individual, no discrimination being shown to either sex. The smallest share was about eight acres of land, a correspondingly small town and timber lot, and part of the personal property. Thus a man over 35 years of age, having a wife that age or over, and several children, would receive many acres of land and considerable property to manage. He held that of the wife and children simply in trust, the deeds to all the property being made in the name of the head of the family.

This division is still maintained, and as a result of this, and thereby each being thrown upon his own resources, active industry at once prevailed, the result of which may now be seen in well-tilled farms and commodious dwellings.

This same year, in April, the town was laid out by the trustees, Olef Johnson, Jonas Erickson, Swan Swanson, Jonas Olson, Jonas Kronberg, Olef Stenberg, and Jacob Jacobson. In 1861, the Olson party, being divided into three factions, continued to prosecute their labors under the colony system. One year's trial, however, convinced them of the results. These factions were known as Olson, Stenberg, and (Martin) Johnson divisions, which, at the close of the year 1861, divided their property to the individuals comprising each faction on the basis adopted by the Johnson party in 1860. The shares were, however, not quite so large. The large brick buildings are now principally owned by the old settlers.

After the establishment of the colony the school-room was removed from the cave to any vacant room which could be utilized for that purpose. The school-room was therefore constantly changing until the erection of the large frame building spoken of, when the upper room in it was occupied for a number of years. In the year 1858 or '59 the present school-house was erected. It contains four rooms for school purposes, and a library. Two teachers are now employed, who have been raised in the colony, and all exercises have always been conducted in the English language, showing the colony came to America to become her citizens.

In the Fall of 1848, an adventurer named Root, the son of a wealthy Swede, of Stockholm, made his appearance at Bishop Hill, having been, as he asserted, just discharged from the army that had been operating in Mexico. Subsequent developments however indicated his having been a fugitive from justice. Upon his arrival at Bishop Hill he expressed a desire to become one of the fraternity, and as there seemed to be no reasonable objection, he was duly admitted.

He soon after made a marriage contract with a cousin of Eric Jansen, the consummation of which was under special contract, to wit: that if Root should afterwards decide to leave the colony, he should go alone, leaving the wife to enjoy in the colony all the rights and immunities of the establishment.

He soon earned the reputation of being constitutionally opposed to labor of any kind, spending most of his time with a gun on his shoulder in the woods, and even this soon getting tiresome, he shortly left for parts unknown. His tyrannical treatment of his wife had, however, pretty thoroughly destroyed her affection for him, and she bore the separation with feelings more of joy than sorrow.

After an absence of several months, during which time his wife gave birth to a son, he returned to the colony. It was some time before he called to see his wife, notwithstanding he was informed a son was waiting to greet him. Soon after taking up quarters with his wife, he proposed to have her leave the colony with him, to which she strongly objected, while he as persistently insisted upon her going. Jansen sustained the objections, which exasperated Root to such an extent he exhibited to his wife a revolver and bowie knife, swearing vengeance on Jansen, and at other times threatening to use them on her or the babe.

Matters proceeded in this manner some time, when, being unable to persuade her to accompany him peaceably, he determined on carrying off his wife by force, which he endeavored with the assistance of outside friends to accomplish in the following manner: Obtaining the services of a young man named Stanley, who belonged in Cambridge, he stationed him with a horse and buggy at a convenient distance from Mrs. Root's room, and while the community were at dinner, Root compelled her to enter the buggy, and the trio drove rapidly away from the Hill, Mrs. Root being seated in the bottom of the buggy and covered up. Their proceedings being observed, they were soon hotly pursued and overtaken within two miles of their starting point, by a dozen of the brethren, who ordered them to stop. They were told distinctly if the woman wanted to leave, she could do so unmolested; but if she wished to stay, they proposed to take her back.

Root and Stanley, both being armed, kept their pursuers at bay, the woman meantime making manifest her desire to return by an effort to release herself from the coverings thrown over her. Root laid his pistol on the seat behind him, and endeavored to hold her down; meanwhile one of the attacking party rushed up, and, seizing the weapon, carried it off. Stanley, seeing the six-shooter in the wrong hands, and his own being only a single-barrel, concluded it best to surrender, and the woman was allowed to leave the buggy and go with her friends. At this point Stanley disappears from public notice, except in a single instance some time after, when he distinguished himself by figuring as one of two parties (the other being the lady with whom he boarded) of whom a choice bit of scandal arose, which was finally settled by the infuriated husband of the aforesaid lady. Thwarted in his purpose, Root had Jansen and others arrested for restraining the liberty of his wife. She was subpoenaed as a witness, and the officer insisting on her accompanying him at once, she assented with the belief she would soon have justice done her in the courts. The officer, however, had no legal authority to take this step; but was carrying out a deeply-laid scheme of Root's to get possession of the woman, and succeeded in taking her to Cambridge, where she was confined in a room and denied all communication with her friends. Mr.

S. P. Brainard, the Clerk of the Circuit and County Courts, took a most active part in excluding the friends, and much to their disgust, as to them was he indebted for his election to office.

A day later Root succeeded in abducting his wife the second time, and, taking her in a buggy, despite her screams, drove to the Roek River settlement, and put up at the house of P. K. Hanna.

From here Root took her to Davenport, thence to Chicago, where she had a sister living, who, knowing of Root's brutal treatment of his wife, soon communicated with the colonists, and they, in turn, offered the woman safe transit to her home in the colony if she desired it. Mrs. Root signifying her wish to return, was sent for by a party, who, with a team, took her back to Bishop Hill, which place she reached in safety; thence she went to St. Louis, where she remained until all danger was past, when she returned to the colony, where she still lives.

At the May term of court in 1850, Root, being greatly exasperated at Jansen for his repeated efforts to induce his (Root's) wife to remain in the colony, shot Jansen in the court-house, just at the hour of adjournment for dinner. Mr. Jansen expired in a few hours. Root was at once taken into custody, tried for murder, receiving a sentence of two or three years in the State Prison. He died shortly after its expiration.

COUNTY COURTS.

The county seat was located at Richmond, Oct. 6, 1837. The first term of Circuit Court was held here by Hon. Thomas Ford, afterwards Governor of the state, on April 2, 1839. In the month of June following the small frame court-house was burned, also a two-story house erected by — Harris. Steps were at once taken to remove the seat of justice to a more convenient locality, the citizens of Geneseo being most active in this move wishing to secure the prize for their own town. In this they were defeated, as the site selected was the Morristown Colony purchase. One term of court was, however, held at Geneseo on April 6, 1840, and two the following year. Court was removed to Morristown, and the first session held there on May 16, 1842; afterwards, on Sept. 26; on May 15, 1843; on Sept. 25; and lastly, on May 24, 1844.

The county seat was located at Cambridge in the early part of 1843; but no provision being made for holding courts there, they continued to meet at Morristown, where the court-house, a small unfinished frame building, was located. The citizens of Cambridge, desiring to make certain of the seat of justice within their own limits, obtained permission from the county officers to remove this building to their town. It was granted, and the building removed in the Summer or Fall of 1843. Yet court did not come; still continuing the county business at Morristown two sessions in September and in May following. The court-house referred to was brought to Cambridge with ox teams, and placed on the southeast corner of what is now the College Square. Here courts were held until the erection of the present structure, which was completed and accepted July 8, 1845. It was erected by Sullivan Howard, one of the early settlers of Wethersfield, and cost about $3,000. The old wooden jail was begun in 1853, and completed the following year.

The present court-house, a very commodious and comfortable building in all its parts, was finished in 1866. In 1858 a small fire-proof building was erected immediately west of the court-house, costing about $10,000. It is used as the receptacle for all the county records, and as the offices of the county and circuit clerks, and that of the county treasurer. It is intended to erect, as soon as practicable, probably during the coming year, a court-house suitable to the needs of the county, and one which will be an ornament to the energy and taste of the citizens.

The first case tried in the Henry County Court before a jury, was an appeal case wherein Hiram Pearce was tried for "disturbing the peace and good order of a congregation assembled for divine worship, by profane language and disorderly and immoral conduct." He was found guilty and fined twenty dollars.

In the old court-house, accommodation could hardly be had for the officers of the court, when they had to find room for the jury. This body often retired to the shadow of a near tree, or hay-stack, and carried on their deliberations in commodious but rather undesirable quarters.

To find lodging at first in Cambridge was almost an impossibility, and tended greatly to lessen the growth of that place. The members of the bar would have to go to Andover, and to neighboring cabins for shelter and food. Pages could be filled with incidents illustrating the mode of administering justice which, though generally unhindered by legal forms, was sure. The first case in the present court-house was conducted by Judge Jos. Tillson, now a resident of Cambridge, and who has been closely identified with all her interests.

November, 1849, under the new constitution, a county judge (who was also probate) and two associates, styled county justices, were elected, to-wit: J. M. Allan, judge; Wm. Miller and John Piatt, associates. In 1850, Allan was elected Representative to the General Assembly, and a special election for judge to fill the vacancy occasioned by his resignation, resulted in the election of Joseph Tillson. In 1853, Stephen Palmer was elected judge, and Robert Getty and John Piatt, associates. In 1857, the township organization was effected, and the board of supervisors discharged the duties of the former court.

SHABBONA.

This celebrated Indian chief lived two years at Shabbona Grove, in this county. He was born at an Indian village on Kankakee River, about 1775. While young, he was made chief of the band and went to Shabbona Grove, now DeKalb Co., where they were found in the early settlement of this part of the state. During the War of 1812, Shabbona, with his warriors, joined Tecumseh; was by his side when he fell, at the battle of the Thames. Shabbona, in 1827, by visiting every lodge of the Pottawattamies, prevented them from participating in the Winnebago War. Shabbona was styled "the white man's friend" (through reproach) on account of his always being so friendly to the whites. In all the Indian wars of his day Shabbona exerted such influence that he prevented his own tribe and many other tribes from making or participating in wars against the whites, and often in times of war notified the settlers, and thereby saved their lives. The citizens of Ottawa bought him a tract of land above Seneca, Grundy Co., on Illinois River, on which they built a house and supplied him with means on which to live. He died July 17, 1859, in his 84th year, and was buried at Morris. His squaw, Pokanoka, was drowned Nov. 30, 1864, and was buried by his side.

KEWANEE.

The traveler in 1853, had he passed from Dixon to Wethersfield, would have found where now stands Kewanee, a modest and well-tilled farm, the property of M. B. and J. P. Potter, on the west, and a broad, undulating prairie on the east, the division line being then a township road, and now known as Main Street. The unpretentious farm-house, now the residence of Harry Thompson, may still be seen by the curious, standing directly north of the building known as "Phillips Block." The first settlers of the land comprised in the township were John Kilvington, Robert Coultis and Cornelius Bryan, who came in the Fall of 1836. In the month of February, previous, John King and ———— Pierce made the first entries. They were followed by Goodrich and Blish, whose entries bear date May 7, 1836, and in July by Henry Kemerling. This same year twenty-one sections—13,440 acres—were taken up by the Connecticut Association, and before 1850 almost every acre was entered.

The advent of the C. B. & Q. R. R. in 1853 (then called the Military Tract R. R.) decided the location of the village. Strenuous efforts were made by the citizens of Wethersfield, one mile south, to secure the passage of the railroad through their town. Owing to heavy grades and the crossing of a stream, involving a large extra expense, this was not acceded to by the company, and grading was commenced on the proposed route. Enterprising citizens of that day saw the result, and quickly took advantage of the location to secure a town on the railroad.

Nothing particularly noteworthy took place until the railroad depot was fixed on the northwest quarter of section 33. The company had at first decided to place it on the northeast quarter of section 32, but a defective title compelled a re-location. Matthew B. and J. P. Potter and Col. Blish owned the site. The former, after selling five acres of their quarter section to Geo. A. Morse and Silas Willard, traded the balance to Dwight Needham for his beautiful farm a little farther south. Mr. Needham at once sold to Capt. Sullivan Howard, Ralph A. Tenney—better known as "Ralph"—and Henry G. Little; and these gentlemen sold a quarter interest to Nelson Lay. Willard and Morse's tract lay on either side of the railroad, on Main street, and here they built a store and warehouse in 1853. This was known as the "Pioneer" store, and did a lucrative business for nearly twelve months without opposition. The building stood on the lot now occupied by the residence of Mr. Joseph O'Brien, and was, in 1863, destroyed by fire.

On May 1, 1854, the town was laid out by the following named gentlemen: Sullivan Howard, Nelson Lay, H. G. Little, R. A. Tenney, Geo. A. Morse, and Sylvester Blish, all of whom, excepting Col. Blish, are still living. At that time all was life and activity. Wethersfield, which was then quite a thriving village, suffered in a very short time a loss of nearly all of her business houses, which were one by one put on wheels and moved to Kewanee.

The survey was made by C. C. Blish, now President of the First National Bank. The streets were at right angles. The lots contained from one-quarter of an acre to four acres of land, according as they were more or less central. The streets were generally four rods wide, though Main street is one hundred feet in width. The first house erected on the town site was the Kewanee Hotel. It was kept for some time by Tenney & Hutchins. In February, 1856, the present proprietor, Mr. E. V. Bronson, whose portrait appears elsewhere, purchased the property of R. A. Tenney, and for twenty-two years has successfully supplied the gastronomical needs of the public.

It was probably the intention of the founders of the town, that Main street should be the street, and in fact it was for some time. "Phillips Block," the first store in the town proper was built thereon by Nelson Lay; J. D. Schriver erected the old "Philadelphia Store" there; Davenport & Robinson their grocery (now Miles & Minnick's); Dr. Pinney had his drug store where now stands the Freewill Baptist Church, and on the corner next south was the dry-goods establishment of Aaron Cooper. A few buildings only were built on Tremont street, which was in wet weather very little short of a canal as far as navigation was concerned. Yet the hotel and the depot slowly and surely drew the trade center westward. C. N. Cutter erected, very early, the building now occupied by Bennison Bros., and which for many years was known as "Cutter's Hall," and considered quite palatial in those days. Residences sprang up rapidly in all parts of the town, grain warehouses were built, and in eighteen months the town boasted of a population of 1,500, including Wethersfield.

Some of the early merchants were Fitch & Skinner, whose drug store occupied the site of the present T. H. Phillips' brick block; Joseph Montgomery, whose stock consisted of boots, shoes and clothing, and whose store occupied the site of that now used by James Barker; Mr. James S. Howard who erected the house now known as the McConnell House, and therein kept the first furniture store of Kewanee; and a hardware store which was built by Fred. Wild, the building now doing service as the shop of Mr. McConnell. All these were erected during the Summer and Autumn of 1854, or soon after. Contemporary with them was the residence of Mr. Dwight Needham, which is now the property of Mrs. Martha Pratt. It was the first building of that character erected on the town plat. This same Autumn a warehouse was constructed by the Pratt Brothers. Two years after, in 1857, it was set on fire by one William Whiteford, and totally destroyed. He received a term of nine years in the penitentiary for his nefariousness. An elevator was also built by the railroad company which is still used. When the town was laid out, the proprietors gave it the name of Berien, in compliment of Col. Berien, chief engineer of the railroad. He rather objected to this, however, and being asked to name the town, suggested "Kewanee," an Indian name, supposed to signify Prairie hen. This cognomen was readily accepted by the proprietors, and on Feb. 14, 1855, was legalized by a special act of the Legislature. The post-office was established in 1854, and given the name of Kewanee. Col. Blish was appointed as incumbent of the office, who occupied a portion of the store of Otis & Pinney for the discharge of his duties. It will be remembered this building occupied the site of the Freewill Baptist Church. In the Fall of 1855, Col. Blish died, and Mr. R. A. Tenney, who, among other enterprising acts, erected the first brick residence in town, now occupied by Dr. G. W. Fellows, succeeded him. Different administrations caused many changes to occur in this office. It is now held by Capt. N. H. Pratt, one of Kewanee's most estimable citizens, and the office ranks as third-class.

The business interests of town have grown remarkably well. It is almost twenty-three years since the Phillips Block was erected, and now there are a large number of stores of all kinds; shops of every description, and artisans of all trades, whose different articles of commerce find ready sale in the town and surrounding country, and in some cases to other localities.

The First National Bank was organized October 28, 1870, with a capital of $75,000. The surplus is now $18,000, and the average daily deposits are over $100,000. The officers are: Chas. C. Blish, President; S. W. Warner, Vice-President; and C. S. Wentworth, Cashier. Messrs. D. L. and W. F. Wiley, President and Cashier of the First National Bank, at Galva, on January 1st, 1876, established the People's Bank. It is a private affair, well managed, and abundantly supplied with capital. Mr. H. L. Kellogg is Cashier.

The success of any town depends largely on the manufacturing interests therein and the ability to keep employed its citizens, thereby causing money to freely circulate within its own borders. Kewanee is very well supplied in this respect, having within her limits the O'Brien Manufactory, the Haxton Steam Heater Company, the Kewanee Manufacturing Establishment, and that of H. H. Perkins. The first mentioned of these was established in 1858, in Princeville, Peoria County, for the manufacture of carriages and wagons. They remained here until 1865, when they removed to Kewanee and continued their manufacturing. January 1, 1874, a stock company, with a capital of $75,000, was formed, and the facilities greatly increased. The O'Brien brothers are largely interested here, and hold the offices of president, secretary and treasurer. Mr. Jas. O'Brien is the first named officer, W. F. O'Brien the second, and Joseph T. the third. They employ about fifty men, and make, on an average, per day, two wagons, two carriages, and 100 harrows. These latter find ready sale throughout the entire Northwest.

The second manufactory mentioned was organized in April, 1875, with a capital stock of $50,000. They make steam heaters, castings, and all classes of steam material. Their sales will aggregate $60,000 annually. About forty men are employed. W. E. Haxton is President, E. R. Kerr Secretary, and J. H. Pierce Treasurer.

The Kewanee Manufacturing Company was organized January 12, 1876, with a capital of $50,000. They are in good condition, capable of doing excellent work, and at reasonable prices. They employ constantly twenty-five hands, with a probable increase. Their specialties are: "Kewanee" windmills, "Orr's" sulky plow, and the "Centennial" harrow. In addition to these they do a large amount of extra job work. The officers are: C. C. Wilson, President, and Josiah Keeler, Secretary. Their implements find large sales through the West, and through some portions of Pennsylvania.

Mr. H. H. Perkins is at present making a new-formed riding cultivator. It has the quality of being capable of raising and lowering the shovels, of giving them a greater depth, and of a different slant, also of placing them nearly to, or far from the row of corn—all without stopping the team or leaving the seat.

Mr. H. H. Bryan, who opened the first wagon shop in Kewanee, is still in business. He commenced his trade in Wethersfield, in 1850, and when Kewanee was incorporated he removed his shop to its present location, where he has since carried on a successful business, employing now from ten to fifteen men, and enjoying a trade aggregating $15,000 annually.

Aside from these manufactories mentioned, the town supports a goodly number of shops of various kinds, whose products find a ready market in the immediate vicinity.

There are thirteen churches and five public school buildings, including the high school. In 1874 the citizens of the town erected the building known as Library Hall. The upper story is used for a public hall, in which concerts, readings and lectures are given. The lower story is occupied by the office of the Lathrop Coal and Mining Company (a notice of which is given in the geological description of the county), by the First National Bank, the office of the Express Company, and the office and rooms of the Library Association. This latter has a library of 1,300 volumes. It was opened to the public in the Spring of 1875. It is managed by a board of six directors, and is open to the public every evening, and on the afternoon of each Sunday.

THE COAL INTERESTS.

At Kewanee much capital is employed in the coal trade. The Lathrop Coal and Mining Company, whose principal banks are one and a half miles east of town, employ over 200 men, and ship annually large quantities of this mineral. The coal, which is of a superior quality, is reached at a depth of some 100 feet, and, by an ingenious contrivance, is easily loaded on the cars when brought to the surface.

This company was organized in 1869, and they now represent a capital of nearly $400,000. The president of the company is Hon. Sidney Bartlett, of Boston, Mass. In addition to the shafts operated by this company, there are many others owned by private parties.

Coal is found in paying quantities at almost any point between Galva and Kewanee, and is mined by many persons on their own property. The Geological Report of Henry County, made in 1873, by direction of the State Geologist, by Mr. James Shaw, contains many items of interest, and is well worth a careful perusal.

THE CHURCHES.

In Kewanee there are thirteen regularly organized churches. The oldest of these is the Congregational, whose organization was effected August 7, 1855, in a school house, now a grocery store. During the Winter previous, meetings were held in the Kewanee House and at a few private residences. The organizing council was presided over by Flavel Bascom, D.D. Forty-four persons united, many of whom had been members of the same religious body at Wethersfield. Their names were: Clarissa Bassett, Jane Botterill, Hosea Bulkley, Robert Cook, Martha R. Cook, Martha A. Cook, Mary A. Cook, Isabella Fell, Thomas D. Fitch, Harriet W. Fitch, J. Francis Goodrich, Sarah H. Goodrich, Elizabeth A. Hawks, Sullivan Howard, Elizabeth B. Howard, Horace M. Howard, Mary E. Howard, Harriet L. Howard, James S. Howard, Martha Howard, Martha A. Hooker, Nelson Lay, Mariette Lay, Frances Lay, Hiram T. Lay, Mary Jane Lay, Lemuel B. Leonard, Sarah Patrick, Olive Lincoln, Harvey W. Lincoln, Nancy E. Lincoln, Henry G. Little, Fidelia M. Little, Louisa S. Little, Mary M. Little, Francis Loomis, Fanny M. Loomis, Joseph R. Loomis, Ruth C. Pinney, Harriet N. Tenney, Joseph A. Talcott, Mary L. Talcott, Charlotte M. Talcott, Lucina Sykes. Of these persons, Sullivan Howard, Elizabeth Howard, Hiram T. Lay, Olive Lincoln, Nancy E. Lincoln (now Mrs. Dr. Day), Ruth C. Pinney, Joseph A., Mary L. and Charlotte M. Talcott (now Mrs. T. P. Pierce), and Lucina Sykes are still members here. The rest have removed or gone to their reward.

The church edifice was completed and dedicated March 11, 1858, having been built the year previous. It was very much enlarged and beautified in the year 1871. The Rev. Charles H. Pierce was preaching to the congregation at the time of organization, and remained until January, 1858. He was succeeded, as the next pastor, by Mr. Charles C. Salter, who was ordained and installed April 20, 1859, and was regularly dismissed March 11, 1861. Rev. James M. Van Wagner was called to the pastorate of the church in February, 1864, installed June 6. He remained until April 6, 1868. Rev. James Tompkins was called June 1, 1872, installed September 10, and is still filling the pulpit as pastor. During the intervals between any of these pastorates the pulpit was filled by supplies. The congregation is now in a good condition. The membership is 239. The Sunday-school (Mr. O. H. Loomis, Superintendent,) has an attendance of 341.

The Free Will Baptist Church was organized April 29, 1865, in the Protestant Methodist Church, with eleven members. The organization council consisted of Rev. S. Bartlett, Rev. H. J. Browne, and Rev. R. G. Broadfoot. The following is a list of the original membership: Rev. William Bonar, Mrs. Mary Ann Bonar, A. B. Palmer, Mrs. Mary Ann Palmer, D. W. Payne, Henry Malone, Mary Malone, S. W. Warner, A. B. Gurney, Caroline E. Gurney, and C. H. Gurney—eleven persons. Prior to the organization, services were held in the Swedish Methodist Church, in the southwest part of town, and next in the Protestant Methodist—now Free Methodist Church. They worshiped in this latter place until November, 1865, when they removed to Cutter's Hall, where they remained until January, 1866, when they again removed, this time to the Christian Church. This building is now a dwelling. Here they met for religious exercises until January 16, 1870, when they worshiped a few months again in Cutter's Hall. About May, 1869, they commenced the erection of their present church building. It was completed June 1, 1870, when they immediately occupied it. It is a very comfortable structure, and cost, including the lot, $6,800.

The pastors of this congregation have been the following named persons: Rev. William Bonar, from August 12, 1865, to March 7, 1867; Rev. O. D. Patch, from April 1, 1867, to March 1, 1874; Rev. J. J. Weage, from May 1, 1874, to May 1, 1875. At that time the present pastor, Rev. H. J. Browne, was called to the pastorate. The number of members is one hundred and two; the Sunday-school has an attendance of about sixty. The superintendent is Mr. H. Blanchard. Mr. A. B. Gurney, one of the original members, is clerk of the church.

The Free Methodist Church was organized in a private residence in Wethersfield about the year 1866 or 1867. Meetings had been held for some time previous in the residences of different persons, and in the Swedish Methodist house of worship. Also in a store-room in Wethersfield. About the year 1870, they purchased their present church edifice of the Protestant Methodists, and have since occupied it. At the organization, some five or six persons were admitted as members. They have, at different times, enjoyed good seasons of revival, and now number some twenty-four or five members. The first minister was Rev. Jonathan Dick; next, Rev. William Cooley, whose wife occasionally officiated at divine service. He was followed by J. G. Terrell, during whose ministry the church was purchased, at a cost of $1,000. Next, Rev. George Coffee, followed by Rev. W. W. Kelley; he by Rev. John Whiting; he by Rev. James Thaxter, when the present pastor, Rev. James Kelso, took charge. The Sunday-school, under the superintendence of Mrs. Robinson, numbers about twenty pupils.

The Presbyterian Church was organized in the Baptist Church by the Rock Island Presbytery, March 26, 1872. A preliminary meeting had been held to invite the Presbytery to this action in the house of S. M. Hurd, on February 21st previous.

At the organization the following persons were received as members: Daniel and Mrs. Eunice Baldwin, William E. and Mrs. Sarah A. Haxton, R. A. and Mrs. L. Little, Jacob W. and Mrs. Hannah Jones, S. M. and Mrs. Emily Hurd, N. H. and Mrs. Lura Blakely, Effie Blakely, Mrs. C. H. Graves, George H. Lincoln, George Kliner, Mrs. J. Powers, Mrs. P. Wright, Mrs. John Whiffen, Clark Bradish, William W. Winter, and Mrs. Virginia L. Winter, and — Shanahan.

During the Summer the church was erected. Including the lot it cost $5,000. The Rev. N. D. Graves was pastor of the church about three years. Rev. Josiah Milligan, of Princeton, preached for them for some time, when the present pastor, Rev. J. D. Howey, was called. He has occupied the pulpit over one year. There are now eighty-six members, and a Sunday-school of one hundred scholars.

The Baptist Church. On the 9th of May, 1853, it was decided by a vote of the members of the Baptist Church, at Wethersfield, to remove their place of holding services to Kewanee, a more desirable location. There were at that time over one hundred members. They worshipped for some time in different halls, and in some of the other churches. On December 21, 1865, a building committee was appointed, and steps taken towards the erection of a suitable church-edifice. This was completed and occupied July 7, 1867, and cost, including the site, over $3,000. There are now about two hundred and thirty-five members, and a Sunday-school of one hundred and fifteen scholars. The pastor is Rev. P. P. Shirley.

The following is a list of the pastors of this church and their terms of service: At the removal Rev. S. P. Ives was pastor; Rev. H. B. Fosskett, from December, 1857, to August, 1862; Rev. J. La Grange, from October, 1862, to September, 1863; Rev. A. D. Freeman, from March, 1864, to July same year; Rev. William Storrs, from November, 1864, to May, 1865; Rev. A. Jones, from December 1, 1865, to March, 1867; Rev. K. W. Benton, from July, 1867, to July, 1872; Rev. Carlos Swift, from November, 1872, to June, 1874; Rev. R. L. Colwell, from September, 1874, to February, 1876, when the present pastor, Rev. P. P. Shirley, was called. The church is now in a flourishing condition, and enjoying evident signs of prosperity.

The Methodist Episcopal Church at first met for some time in a school-house, about one mile east of Kewanee, in a hall over the store of J. D. Schriver, and in private houses. Some of the members had been connected with the same religious body in Wethersfield, but desirous of building up a church in Kewanee, came here to worship. They organized a class of thirty persons December 15, 1855, in the school-house referred to; being then under the pastoral care of Rev. J. O. Gilbert. The principal members were: A. Thornton, William King, J. Shipley, Erastus Johnson, W. S. Oliver, William Bowen, W. C. Kent, and John Schriver.

The corner stone of their church was laid October 23, 1856. The day was made "one of gladness" by the members. In the stone the following articles were deposited: A bible, hymn book, and description of the church; a paper on which the following was written: "John Morley, Presiding Elder of Kewanee District, Peoria Conference, Illinois; Joseph O. Gilbert, pastor of Kewanee; Arthur Thornton, William C. Kent, Erastus Johnson, Joshua Shipley, William S. Oliver, William Bowen and William King, Trustees. The first Methodist Church built in Kewanee, October 23, 1856. Number of inhabitants in town, 1,500." There were also placed in this stone two copies of the Kewanee Advertiser, one number of the Fourth of July preceding, which gave an account of a great celebration of that day; one number of the Henry County Dial; one number of the N. W. C. Advocate; a copy of the Missionary Advocate; a map of Kewanee, given by R. A. Tenney; one fifty cent piece in silver; one ten cent piece; one three cent piece, and one five cent piece.

This building has become old and inadequate to the growing demands of the congregation, and during the coming Summer a new one will be constructed which will cost $10,000. The parsonage was purchased in 1856. June following the organization of the church a Sunday-school was organized. There were sixty pupils in attendance.

The pastors of this church have been Rev. J. O. Gilbert, from organization until 1858; Rev. John Chandler, one year; Rev. E. Ransom, one year; Rev. J. S. Cummings, two years; Rev. W. P. Graves, one year. During his ministry the congregation became self-supporting. Rev. U. J. Giddings was next, remaining two years; Rev. W. J. Beck, two years; Rev. Benj. Applebee, two years; Rev. John P. Brooks, one year; Rev. M. P. Armstrong, one year; Rev. G. W. Arnold, two years; Rev. B. C. Dennis, two years; and Rev. G. W. Arnold, again two years, when the present pastor, Rev. M. Spurlock, was assigned to the pulpit, and is now serving his first year. There are now three hundred and twenty members, and a Sunday-school of two hundred and fifty scholars. During the month of January, 1877, over eighty persons united with this church.

The Protestant Episcopal—St. John's—Church. On Sunday, May 13, 1855, a Protestant Episcopal Sunday-school was organized in the Kewanee House. This was the first religious organization in Kewanee, and the school met the following Sunday for the first time at Odd Fellows Hall. There were twenty scholars, and R. P. Parrish was Superintendent. The first full Episcopal service, with sermon, was in the Summer following, by Rev. Porter, of Jubilee College. In October, Bishop Whitehouse made a visitation, and held two services in the unfinished Methodist Protestant Church. During the Summer and Autumn of 1856, Rev. Philander Chase officiated occasionally in the same church. On the 13th of July, 1856, the church was organized, with the name of St. John's. The officers were R. P. Parrish, Senior Warden; George A. Morse, Junior Warden; James B. Morse, J. H. Howe, H. L. Sloan, Geo. W. Foote, and E. V. Bronson, Vestrymen; and L. D. Bishop, Clerk. The first rector was Rev. George E. Peters, who commenced his labors in 1857, and remained two years. A church edifice of the early English Gothic style of architecture was constructed in the Summer of 1857, finished in the Fall, and consecrated by Bishop Whitehouse, November 15, of the same year. It is quite a neat church, and cost about $5,000. The first church-bell of the town was rung from the belfry of St. John's.

The Primitive Methodist. The persons adhering to this faith met for some time, prior to their organization into a church, in Cutter's Hall and in the Methodist Episcopal Church. The organization was made in the Spring of 1865, and two years later, in the Autumn of 1867, the first board of trustees was chosen. The principal members then were Joseph Garland, John Bennison, John Bradbury, John Bamford, Moses Jones, William Bennison, and J. Breckon. The church edifice was erected in 1873, at a cost of $2,000. The pastors of this church and their terms of service are as follows: Rev. J. Hewitt, May, 1865 to May, 1867; Rev. Chas. Dawson, 1867 to 1871; Rev. Thos. Butterwick, 1871 to 1873; Rev. William Jacks, Jr., 1873 to 1876, when the present pastor, Rev. Chas. Dawson, again assumed charge. There are now eighty members and a Sunday-school of eighty-seven scholars.

The United Evangelical—St. Paul's—German Church. About ten years since, some of the German people living in this vicinity and professing belief in the doctrines of this religious body, organized a church. For a short time they met in a school-house, but at once commenced the erection of their present edifice. Nineteen persons united at the organization—the pastor being Rev. Hilmer, who remained about one year. Their church cost some $2,500. They also own a very comfortable parsonage. Rev. Hilmer was succeeded by Rev. Rein, who remained five years, when the present pastor, Rev. G. W. Reiger, was installed. The majority of the members—now about fifty—live in the country. The Sunday-school numbers some forty scholars. About one year ago another church was organized in the country, three miles northeast of Kewanee. It is for the accommodation of those living in that locality, has about thirty-five members, fifty Sunday-school scholars, and is under the pastorate of Rev. Reiger, who preaches there each alternate Sunday.

The Church of the Latter Day Saints. The first meetings of this church were held at Amboy in 1859. An organization was effected here of probably one hundred members. From this place they were sent out to preach, and in 1862 effected the establishment of the church here. In 1868, they erected their present church edifice, locating it nearly one mile north of town. Regular services are maintained here, the membership being one hundred and eighteen, with an average attendance of sixty at the Sunday-school. They are in no way connected with the Mormon doctrine, and do not believe in or practice its teachings. The presiding elder of this branch is Thomas Charles.

The Swedish Lutheran Church. Before their organization in 1869, the members composing this church met in private residences and in the Methodist Episcopal Church. The organization was made in September of that year, with about sixteen persons. In the Autumn of the following year they erected their present church-edifice, at a cost of nearly $3,000. There are now fifty-five members. The Sunday-school contains about twenty-five scholars. The first minister to this church was Rev. Lendholm, who remained but a short time. He was followed by Rev. N. Neurgren, who was pastor two years. The Rev. John Wingstrom, of Princeton, is the present pastor, having succeeded Rev. Neurgren.

The Swedish Methodist Church was organized at an early day in the history of Kewanee. It is now, however, quite small, and does not sustain regular preaching.

The Catholic—St. Mary's—Church was organized at the house of Matthew Joyce, then occupying the site of the present church-building, in the early part of 1854. About thirty-five heads of families were admitted to membership at this time. Some of the more prominent ones were Lawrence Hunt, Patrick Cavanaugh, Matthew Joyce, James Hunt (now deceased), James Gallagher, Thomas Caton, and Edward Hunt (now deceased). The following year a church, eighteen by twenty-four feet in dimensions, was erected. It has since been remodeled and enlarged. The pastors of this church have been as follows: Fathers Lynch, O'Gara, Powers, Dulhanty, Duggan, Hannigan, Kilkernny, J. M. Ryan, and the present priest, Rev. John Ryan. The membership is now nearly eight hundred, but the reader will bear in mind that all members of a family in this church are counted as members of the church from their earliest infancy.

THE SCHOOLS.

The first school in Kewanee was taught in a small frame building, built by George A. Morse, and donated by him for educational purposes. It stood north of the railroad tracks, on Main Street. School was held here for a year or two, when this structure was removed farther into town, and placed on the lot now occupied by the east school-house, and afterwards removed to that now occupied by Parker & Merritt's store. The growth of the town demanding more room, the trustees rented a building of Mr. Austin Sykes, and a room in the upper story of Mr. Schriver's store. These were occupied till about 1858, when the building known as the East School-house was erected. This was occupied during the Winter of 1858. It contained two commodious rooms, and was ample for the demands at that time. The pioneer school-room was sold, and for some time was used as the office of the Henry County Dial; afterwards removed, and occupied as a Christian Church, and is now a dwelling. In the year 1865, the East School-house having become entirely inadequate, steps were taken for the enlargement of this building and the erection of two others. During the vacation of 1866, the east building was enlarged to double its former capacity, and the two brick structures, known as the North and West Schools, were determined upon. They were erected in 1867, and occupied January 1, 1868. Each contains two rooms. The schools were thoroughly re-graded in 1866 by the superintendent, S. M. Etter, now State Superintendent of Public Instruction. Mr. Etter was principal here about three years, and laid the foundations of the grading of the schools now so successfully carried out by Mr. W. H. Russell, present superintendent.

The brick buildings were erected by William C. Loomis, and cost the city about $6,000. In addition to these, the High School building, erected in 1856, and a one-room building, are occupied. This latter is called the Northville School.

There are now six hundred and eighty pupils enrolled. The average daily attendance for January, 1877, was six hundred and twenty-one. They require the services of fourteen teachers, including the superintendent. Their names and positions are as follows :

Mr. W. H. Russell, Superintendent.

High School — Mr. E. S. Martin, Principal ; Miss Lillian D. Riley, Assistant.

Grammar School — 1st room, Miss Anna Kellar ; 2d, Miss L. A. Searle.

East Building — Intermediate, Miss A. A. Johnson, Miss Alice Barker ; 2d Primary, Miss Esther Loomis ; 1st Primary, Florence Gamble.

West Building — 2d Primary, Miss Lizzie Lewis ; 1st Primary, Miss Frank Rockwell.

North Building — 2d Primary, Miss S. Folsom ; 1st Primary, Miss Jennie Halline.

Northville — Miss Mary Bradbury.

The Board of Education consists of the following named gentlemen : S. T. Miles, President ; Adolph Maul, Secretary ; W. H. Day, W. W. Stevens, M. H. Hinsdale, Jas. C. Blish.

The annual aggregate expense of the schools amounts to $10,000, which is abundantly repaid in the elevated tone of society, and the good morals attendant upon such an outlay of money. The appended sketch of the High School is from the pen of one of the pupils now connected therewith :

"The High School was established in 1856. It grew out of a desire for a higher grade of education than the village schools afforded at that day. After some exertion on behalf of each of the villages of Kewanee and Wethersfield, in the endeavor to secure its location in their midst, the matter was settled by locating the building on the dividing line between them. Mr. James Elliott donated two and a half acres for that purpose, and on this site the present building was erected. Only the upper story was completed ready for school purposes, the lower being used for lectures, lyceums, and a public hall. Among the prominent persons who lectured here were John B. Gough and Horace Greeley. School was opened under the principalship of Rev. Mr. Waldo, who was assisted by Miss Atwood. At that time the school was furnished with rude pine desks and benches, reaching half across the room, making but three aisles. The oldest pupils occupied the rear row. Among the young ladies were : Laura Pratt, now Mrs. Northrop ; Lillie Bruns, now Mrs. Raymond ; Nellie Little, now Mrs. George Perkins ; Libbie Cutter, Helen and Lucy

Lyle, Fannie Lay, Ella Way, Addie Cheany, Lottie Talcott — the latter now Mrs. T. P. Pierce.

"There being no sidewalks in earlier years, it was almost impossible in the winter to get to the school-house, and a large wagon was the general conveyance for the scholars.

"At the close of the second year Mr. Waldo resigned. His successor was Mr. Blodgett, who was assisted by Miss Stocking. During his administration an exhibition was held, and from the fund raised the school-room was properly furnished.

"Mr. Blodgett was succeeded by Mr. McPheran, who was succeeded by Mr. Bradford. Greek and Latin were among the higher studies of the school at this time, and pupils were fitted for college. Mr. James K. Blish, a lawyer of the town, went from this school to Ann Arbor. Mr. E. B. Wight, the Washington correspondent for a Chicago paper, went from the academy to Chicago University.

"Mr. Bradford was succeeded by Mr. Tabor, who first graded the school, and arranged a course of study which he had printed. He was followed by Mr. Beckington, and he by Mr. Etter, present State Superintendent of Public Instruction. Mr. Etter was succeeded by Mr. Russell, the present superintendent. During Mr. Etter's administration eighty-three dollars had been raised at a school entertainment, with which to purchase books for a library. This fund was increased during Mr. Russell's time in a similar manner. With this fund a library has been purchased. In September, 1870, the town of Kewanee purchased the interest of Wethersfield in the academy, and has since had entire control. Mr. Russell served a year or two as principal of the schools at Moline. During this interval Mr. Gray and a Mr. Carver acted as principals. Upon the latter's resignation Mr. Russell was again called, and is now superintendent of the Kewanee schools. Mr. E. S. Martin, in 1875, was appointed principal of the High School, which position he still retains. He is assisted by Miss Lillian D. Riley."

THE PRESS.

The first paper issued in Kewanee was the Henry County Dial. The citizens saw the necessity of a paper in their midst, and through the influence of some of the more prominent ones, among whom were R. A. Tenney, H. G. Little, Nelson Lay, Geo. A. Morse and others, a subscription was raised, and the above mentioned paper purchased.

It was brought to the town Friday, August 15, 1855, its advent being signaled by the firing of guns and the cheers of the populace. Mr. J. H. Howe had been secured as editor for one year.

The buildings occupied for some time were the Phillips Block and the old school-house, the latter now a residence. It was continued until September 13, when Mr. C. Bassett, present editor of the Kewanee Independent, who had come hither at the solicitation of some of his friends, purchased the entire stock and fixtures. He was a practical printer, and assumed the business control, Mr. Howe remaining editor for the balance of the year. It was conducted in this way until June 12, 1856, when Mr. Bassett sold the office to Mr. Howe and Mr. H. M. Patrick. These gentlemen conducted the paper until November 13, when Mr. Howe sold his interest to his partner, who associated Mr. O. White with himself as editor, and under this management the paper was printed till January 8 following, when Mr. White retired. Mr. Patrick carried on the paper about one year, when he sold the office to L. D. Bishop, who published the paper two or three years. J. E. Wheeler, one of the original founders of the Chicago Tribune, had charge of the Dial from 1858 or 1859 till December 8, 1866—the longest term of any one editor. He was a most estimable man, and one highly respected by the citizens of Kewanee. He was considered one of the ablest editors connected with the Dial, and died at his post. He purchased it, and leased the office to Mr. O. White, who again became editor. He also published a paper at Toulon, Stark County. He was succeeded in the editorial chair by Hiram Wyatt, who associated with himself Mr. Shurtleff during the campaign of 1868. Mr. Shurtleff was succeeded in a few months by Geo. W. Wilson, who purchased the office, thereby becoming editor and proprietor. He almost immediately sold to N. W. Fuller, who changed the name to the Kewanee Radical. He continued until May or June, 1870, when he failed, and the paper was discontinued. On July 1 following, the entire office and outfits were purchased by Mr. C. Bassett, who again entered the sanctum. He started a weekly paper, calling it the Kewanee Advertiser. After six months he changed the latter name to Independent, and as such still issues an excellent county paper. He is the oldest editor in Kewanee, and has been a printer forty-four years.

On January 1, 1856, Tenney, Hardy & Co. issued a monthly, called Tenney, Hardy & Co.'s Advertiser,—published it one year and sold it to Mr. C. Bassett, who issued it as a monthly until December 13, 1863. The first copy of this paper is in possession of Mr. R. A. Tenney, now a resident of Chicago.

July 4, previous to his discontinuing the Advertiser, Mr. Bassett commenced the publication of a weekly paper, called the Union Democrat. This he continued to publish until November 24, 1864, when he discontinued it. April 26, 1866, he issued the first number of his weekly, called the Kewanee Advertiser, which he published until November 23, 1867.

The Public School Messenger, a small, sprightly paper, was commenced in January, 1870, under the immediate control of the Superintendent of Schools, Mr. W. H. Russell, as editor. This was issued about two years, being published by Mr. Fuller one year, and C. Bassett the remainder of the time.

The Kewanee Courier was established March 22, 1876, by Mr. C. N. Whitney, who brought the material for the office from Princeton, Bureau County, where he had published the Herald for nearly five years preceding. Although established less than a year, the Courier has grown into a wide circulation, and is filled with advertising patronage. The Courier office is the only steam printing establishment in the county, and is well equipped with machinery and material. It is an eight-column quarto, and takes a leading position in local journalism in this part of the State.

GALVA.

The idea of building a town upon this site was first entertained in the year 1853. While Messrs. J. M. and Wm. L. Wiley were traveling from Peoria County to Rock Island in the Spring of that year, they were attracted by the beauty of the surrounding country, and halted their team on the ground that now forms College Park, across which the old trail led. Standing in their buggy and looking out upon the scene, one of them remarked to the other: "Let us buy the land and lay out a town." At this time there were only two or three buildings to be seen from that point, and the country around was one vast sea of prairie, over which the deer were still roaming at will. The land was shortly purchased by them, and, after negotiating with the C. B. & Q. Railroad Company a full year, they finally secured the location of a depot upon their purchase by donating the land now owned and occupied by the company in the center of the town. In the Fall of the year succeeding its purchase (1854), and about the time that the arrangement with the railroad company was effected, the town was laid out in its present shape, by the gentlemen mentioned. The cars commenced running in December of the same year.

After the depot was located the Messrs. Wiley purchased about fifty acres of land, on the south side of the town, from George Farr, and subsequently sold an undivided interest in a certain number of lots to the Bishop Hill Swedish Colony, then in their most prosperous days, and afterwards a large number of lots to Jacob Emery. Both of these parties gave their money and influence to forward the interests of the new town.

Owing to the large purchases of the Swedish Colony in the new town, they were granted the privilege of being its sponsors in baptism and bestowing upon it the name which it was to bear. Olof Johnson, one of the earliest settlers, accordingly christened it Gefle, the name of a populous town in Sweden. This name was afterward corrupted or anglicised to Galva, a name new and unheard of but corresponding as nearly as possible to the Swedish name in pronunciation.

The first house of the new town was built in the Fall of 1854, and is a part of the one formerly belonging to John I. Bennett, and which is now owned by A. J. Rockafellow and occupied by Mr. E. A. Lynd; it was built by the Bishop Hill Colony and was used as a boarding house or hotel. The first store was built during the first Fall, and is the one now occupied by C. F. Bodinson as a grocery, between the two railroads and just south of and adjoining Smith & Smalley's Agricultural Warehouse. It was then occupied by George Farr, the Bishop Hill Colony and the Post-office.

Col. E. Fuller was the first station agent appointed by the railroad company, and he continued to hold that position up to the time of his death, or very nearly.

The Winter of 1854-5, following the completion of the railroad, was unusually mild and open, allowing out-of-door work to go on without interruption until 21st of January, when there occurred the severest snow storm ever known in this region, accompanied by a terrific wind. This resulted in blocking up the railroad and preventing the running of any trains for over two weeks. It was during this time, when the inhabitants of the new town were shut off from communication with the outside world, that the first child was born. Mr. and Mrs. David Emery were the happy parents, and they exclaimed: "Unto us a child is born, a girl is given, whose name shall be called Galva."

The town having been laid out and a depot established in 1854, the following season witnessed a rapid growth and quite an influx of population, no less than seventy-five men having settled here before the great fire which occurred in November, 1855. Although the settlement of the town took place only about a score of years ago, the larger part of this number are gone—not dead, but, moved by the same restless spirit which impelled them to take up their abode here when the place was new, they have emigrated to other and newer towns. Only twenty-six of the original seventy-five still remain here—about one-third—while thirty-seven, or nearly one-half of them, are living in other localities. The list of dead numbers twelve, or about one-sixth of the pioneers of Galva. A part of these, however, removed before their death, so that but a small fraction of the original settlers have found their long home in the quiet cemetery to the south of the town.

When Dr. A. D. Babcock arrived here on the 5th of May, 1855, there were already sixteen buildings in the place, twelve of which were dwelling-houses; when Mr. Seeley arrived, on the 26th of September, the number of buildings had increased to thirty, and carpenters were in great demand and all busily employed.

It was during this season that the old brick warehouse, on Exchange Street, so recently devoted to the purpose of a new manufacturing company, was built by the Bishop Hill Colony, and used for the storage of grain, pork, and broom-corn. The first hotel was also built then, by Mr. J. E. Wolever, occupying a portion of the lot where Mr. A. W. Albro now resides, on the corner of Main and Locust Streets. It was known as the "Galva House."

The first surgical operation which Dr. Babcock was called upon to perform was for Augustus C. Bergman who was injured while working on the railroad; the first death was that of Mr. O. P. Bigelow, who died on the 12th of September, 1855. The first male child born in the place was a son of Absalom Wood. The first fire occurred on or about the 8th of November, 1855, and originated in Dr. Babcock's drug store. It was caused by carrying a lighted lamp too near a barrel from which varnish had been drawn and which had been spilled upon the floor.

The whole business portion of the new town was laid in ashes by this disaster, no less than six business firms being burned out. They were, first: Dr. A. D. Babcock, whose stock consisted of drugs, groceries, paints, oils, liquors and cigars; second: A. M. Black, shoe shop and its contents; third: Hamlin, Beecher & Davis, dealers in hardware; fourth: A. J. Curtis, dealer in furniture; fifth: Babcock & Clark, who do not appear to have had any stock of goods in the building at the time; and sixth: Hurd & Driscoll, whose stock of dry goods were still in the boxes as received, not yet unpacked, and therefore easily saved by rolling them into the street. With this exception the building and its contents were a total loss, as there was no insurance upon either.

At the time that the fire broke out, most of the citizens were in attendance at a railroad meeting then in progress at the school-house.

Mr. D. E. Jacobs was then living in the house now occupied by Mr. H. L. Dickenson, and which was the third dwelling-house built in Galva. His mother perceived the fire by the glow of light which shone in at the window, from the burning building, when her candle was accidentally put out, and sent him to apprise the citizens at the school-house. He rushed to the door and informed them that the Wiley House was on fire, and in two minutes' time the speaker was left to talk to empty benches.

On the night of the 20th of November, 1875, occurred the great fire which devastated the town, and laid almost all the business places, as well as many private residences, in ashes, inflicting almost as great a comparative injury upon Galva as the great fire in Chicago. More than forty places of business, with their contents, were swept away, and many citizens turned homeless and houseless out into the night. The morning following was the gloomiest that had ever dawned upon the town, and men might well have been disheartened by seeing the fruits of years of toil blotted out of existence in a few hours. The fire was discovered a little after midnight, having originated in the Post-office, which was then kept in a wooden building just north of S. P. Johnson's store, on the site of his present tailor shop, or between the two buildings, which is a disputed question. If, as some allege, it was the work of an incendiary, he must have had the spirit of a fiend of the pit to have looked with satisfaction upon the work he did that night. A strong southerly wind prevailed at the time, and the flames soon caught upon the Mansard roof of Beck's block, upon the opposite side of Exchange Street, and then leaped across to the north side of Main Street, leaving only charred ruins in its track. The three-story building of Mr. Beck's had just been newly roofed, and Music Hall, which occupied its upper story, furnished the finest assembly rooms between Galesburg and Chicago.

THE BUSINESS AND SOCIAL INTERESTS.

Galva is situated at the crossing of the Peoria, Rock Island and C.B. & Q.R.R., and contains a population of about thirty-five hundred. The business of the town is chiefly trade with the surrounding people, there being but two manufacturing establishments in the place. The older of these was established about the year 1848 by Thomas S. Guthrie, and is now carried on by his sons, William and Thomas. They are founders, and deal especially in engine and boiler material. A manufacturing company now occupy the brick building erected in the early life of Galva, and are engaged principally in making windmills and farm machinery.

The town supports a large number of stores, all well fitted up, and bearing a very neat appearance.

The first bank was started by Claudius Jones about 1858 or '59. In 1862 he sold to L. W. Beck, a merchant who carried on an exchange business until the First National Bank was organized in 1865. He was Cashier of this bank about nine months. Two or three years later he started another bank—a private institution. This he owned until the Spring of 1876, when he sold to the present proprietors, E. A. Lynd and L. M. Yoeum, who are now engaged in a most successful business. The First National Bank was organized in 1865, the Wiley family, so early identified with the history of Galva, being the principal projectors. It has a capital of $50,000, and a surplus of $30,000. Mr. D. L. Wiley is President, and W. F. Wiley, Cashier.

The town is now entirely temperate, no license for the sale of spirituous liquors being given, and saloons are not allowed.

THE SCHOOLS.

The schools are in an excellent condition, are held in two buildings known as the North and South buildings, and are under the able superintendence of Mr. E. E. Fitch.

The first school-house was built by the founders of the town, Messrs. J. M. and Wm. L. Wiley, near where Dr. A. C. Balcock now resides, and was 12x20 feet in size. This building was also used as a church, and it was here that the first Baptist Church of Galva was formed, consisting of seven members. Mrs. Thomas Getty and Mr. Wm. L. Wiley being constituent members. The Congregational and Methodist Churches were also organized during the same year, 1855, and met in the same building. The Congregational Church was organized on the fifteenth of September, with thirteen members.

The original school building on the north side of the railroad, known as the North School, was commenced during the Autumn of 1855, and was soon completed, the money being borrowed for that purpose, all in gold, J. M. Wiley, William L. Wiley and Geo. Farr giving a joint note therefor until a tax was levied and collected for the amount required. The building contained two rooms. These were afterwards divided into two rooms each, and in this manner the building was used until 1876. That year it was enlarged and remodeled, three rooms being added making a very commodious seven-room building.

The South School building was erected in 1865. It originally consisted of one room, but that soon proving inadequate, in 1867 it was enlarged and remodeled and made a building of four rooms, and as such is still used.

In the Galva schools there are now employed, including the Superintendent, thirteen teachers, whose names and stations are as follows: E. E. Fitch, Superintendent; North School: Mrs. E. B. Humphreys, Principal; Miss Lucy Magu, Grammar; Miss Rebecca Watson, Intermediate; Miss Frankie Smith, First Prim.; Miss Mary Maddox, Miss Anna Gladding, Primary. South School: Miss S. B. Littlefield, Principal; Miss Matilda Watson, Intermediate; Miss Anna E. Ayres, First Primary; Mrs. Emma J. Day, Miss Jennie Dyson, Primary. There are about 260 pupils in the North School, and nearly 200 in the South, and a regular attendance of over 400. The annual outlay for educational purposes in the city is about $10,000.

THE CHURCHES.

There are six congregations of religious worshipers. These occupy neat, commodious churches, and are in a very prosperous condition.

The oldest religious organization in Galva is that of the Methodist Episcopal. It was organized June 26, 1855, in the school-house. Meetings had been held here to complete the organization, and for some time after. At this time the first Board of Trustees were elected. This Board consisted of the following persons: Isaac M. Witter, John T. Carran, Isaac E. Dennis, Amos Dennis, William Pierce, John B. Nixon, and Norman E. Pomeroy. They were the most active members then in the church, which in addition to these men, possessed but few members. In 1857 they erected their present house of worship, costing $3,000. Among the prominent ministers of the church have been the following divines: Rev. John Morey, who called the meeting held to organize; Rev. W. P. Graves, Rev. A. D. McCool, Rev. A. H. Hepperley, Rev. G. W. Arnold and others. The present pastor, Rev. B. C. Dennis, is now serving his third year. The church is in a prosperous condition. The membership is over 200, and an attendance of more than 100 scholars is regularly maintained in the Sunday-school.

The Congregational Church was organized in the school-house, Sept. 15, 1855. The constituent members were the following persons: George Farr, Rebecca Farr, Charlotte M. Cholette, George Fairlamb, William H. Fairlamb, Henry H. Parker, Mary Fairlamb, Hannah Carrigan, Thomas Harrison, M. E. Harrison, Elizabeth J. Hill, and George Hill, Jr.

Rev. S. G. Wright was soon called to the pastorate of this congregation, serving one-half his time. He remained until April, 1864, when he resigned. In November following Rev. R. B. Guild, the present pastor, was installed. From a membership of twelve, the church has grown to one hundred and fifty, and sustains a Sunday-school of nearly the same number of scholars. The congregation erected a church-edifice in the Autumn of 1856. In 1866 this was sold to the Free Methodist Church, and the present commodious building erected. This latter was dedicated May 29, 1869, and cost about $12,000.

The Swedish Methodist Episcopal Church was organized on the fifth of January, 1866, with fifteen members. Two years afterwards, they erected their present house of worship, costing $3,000.

Their pastors have been as follows: Rev. A. J. Anderson, three years; O. C. Simpson, one year; A. P. Wigren, one year; H. W. Eklund, one year; C. A. Wiren, two years; and A. T. Westergren, two years. Charles A. Stenholm is the present pastor. There are now 87 members, 47 probationers, and 100 Sunday-school children.

The Free Methodist Church. In the Autumn of 1866, seventeen persons, principally from the M. E. Church, formed themselves into a separate body, under the care of this church. For some time they met for worship at Mr. D. P. Reed's, one of the main members, and often at the residences of other members desirous of promoting the welfare of the church. In 1866, they purchased the Congregational Church, and have since occupied it. The membership is now about 20, sustaining a Sunday-school of 30 scholars.

The first pastor of this church was Rev. D. W. Drake, who remained two years. He has been succeeded by Rev. William Cooley, Rev. J. T. Terry, Rev. G. C. Coffee, Rev. W. W. Kelley, Rev. J. Whitney, Rev. James Thaxter, and the present pastor, Rev. James Kelso, who is also pastor at Kewanee.

The Swedish Lutheran Church. The people professing this faith held meetings several years before effecting a regular church organization. This was accomplished in December, 1869, with forty-four members. In 1873 they erected their present house of worship, a comfortable brick building, costing about $3,000. At present there are over 90 members, and a Sunday-school of about 40 scholars.

The Rev. P. M. Sandquist was the first pastor here. He was followed by Rev. N. Nordgren, who remained about one year, and he by Rev. A.

Lindholm, the present pastor. This latter lives at Altona, and is not often in Galva, the pulpit being generally supplied by students from the College at Rock Island.

The First Baptist Church of Galva. The earliest meetings were held in the school-house. The first meeting for the transaction of business was held in the school-house June 28, 1855, at which time the preliminary steps were taken to organize a Baptist church. The church was organized Aug. 14, 1855, the meeting being held in the school-house. The original members were: Wm. L. Wiley, and Mrs. Louise Wiley, from the Baptist Church, Saxton's River, Vt.; H. D. Ward and Mrs. Angelina Ward, from Canton, Ill.; J. M. Corson and Mrs. Ann D. Corson, from Brimfield, Ill.; Mrs. Margaret Bushnell, from LaFayette, Ill.; Mrs. Dorothy Getty, from Brimfield, Ill.; Henry H. Clark, from Alden, N. Y.; O. P. Bigelow, from Boston, Mass.

The first church building was erected in 1856. It was located near the business center of the town, and cost about $2,000. The second building, and the one which the church now occupy, was built 1867 and 1868. It is located on the east side of, and fronting, College Park, and cost, carpets and bell included, about $25,000. The bell in the tower of the present church building was also used in the old church, and rung for public service the first time January 24, 1864.

First pastor was Rev. M. H. Negus, from organization until December, 1856; second, Rev. A. Gross, between two and three years; third, Rev. J. T. Westover, between two and three years; fourth, Rev. J. D. Cole, D.D., about three years; fifth, Rev. L. D. Gowan, five years; sixth, Rev. C. W. Clark, three years; seventh, Rev. J. M. Coon, now in his third year.

The present membership is a little over two hundred.

Sabbath-school was organized in 1856; the number of scholars is about one hundred and fifty.

The church is now free from debt, and expects to remain so, and is in a flourishing condition.

The Church of the Holy Communion (Episcopal). The first religious meetings held in Galva were in a room in Union Block, 1866. About that time the Ladies' Church Aid Society was formed, and through their efforts a small church was built, called the "Holy Communion" (Episcopal). The building and lot cost a little over $800, and was erected on the northeast corner of Railroad Square, in the year 1868. Mr. and Mrs. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Whipple, S. M. Etter and wife, Mrs. Somers, Mrs. Trowbridge, Mrs. McKane, C. J. Whipple, Mrs. Rednell, Mrs. Hoyt, L. P. Edson, were among the original members. Its pastors were Rev. Mr. Tifford, Rev. Dr. Floyd, Rev. Dr. S. Chase; also Rev. Mr. Russell, who officiated over two years; C. J. Whipple, now rector at Manville, R. I.; and S. M. Etter, superintendent of the State Schools, were both prominent in the religious affairs and doings of the church. The present membership is fourteen; Sabbath-school scholars, twenty.

THE PRESS.

In 1857 a paper called the Galva Watchman was started. This was published but a year or two, and probably discontinued. The Galva Union was started Dec. 5, 1862 by B. W. Seaton. Some time afterwards it was controlled by Capt. Erick Johnson, and after that by John I. Bennett, proprietor, and J. M. Edson, editor. It was changed to the Galva Republican, the first number of which was issued about October 1, 1867. At the same time the Illinois Swede was in circulation, being printed by the proprietors of the Republican, and suspended about the same time. On the 9th of February, 1872, the present paper, the Journal, was started by W. J. Ward, editor and proprietor. In April of 1873, he sold to his brother, F. P. Ward, who conducted the paper until March 20, 1874, when he sold the one half interest to J. J. Balch. In September, the latter's interest was purchased by the present editor, H. W. Young, who on the 20th of February, 1876, purchased the share of F. P. Ward, and thus became sole owner. Mr. Young is now conducting a paper which is a credit to any town, having enlarged the Journal, and added many important features.

CAMBRIDGE.

The land on which the town of Cambridge now stands was, prior to the year 1843, the property of Rev. Ithamar Pillsbury, so well known in the early history of the New York and New England Colonies finding homes in Henry County. As soon as the site received legislative sanction—the act having passed that body February 21, 1843,—he deeded to the Board of County Commissioners, at a special meeting held on April 19, 1843, the fractional parts of two forty-acre lots. These were at once accepted, and steps taken to lay out a town. A contract had been made between the county and Geo. Brandenburg and — Corey for constructing a jail and court-house at Morristown. A small frame court-house was already built, but at this time was still unfinished, and but little work had been done on the jail. By consent of these parties this contract was annulled, the settlement being left to Marcus B. Oshorn, N. W. Washburn and Luke C. Sheldon, as referees. They gave their decision at the regular term of the court, held on the 6th of June following. This was to pay the contractors $127.26, and keep the building. A day or two after the court met again, at the cabin commenced by J. Tillson and finished by A. H. Showers, in Sugar Tree Grove, for the transaction of any business relating to the new town.

On June 9th the Court proceeded to lay out the town of Cambridge—a name suggested by Judge Tillson—and ordered a sale of lots to take place on the 26th of the same month; to which date it was adjourned. The town is laid out on two fractional quarters, N. W. and S. W. 7, 15, 3, some 36 acres on each. It has two public squares, which, including the streets, extend the breadth of the town from east to west. They were recorded as Court Square (west) 20 by 40 rods, and College Square (east) 20 rods square. The lots facing the squares were 10 by 20 rods, the others were 20 rods square, save two on the north end of town, which are 20 by 36, and the cemetery, which is 16 by 20 rods.

On the 28th of June the Court met and “appropriated fourteen dollars to Charles C. Blish for surveying town of Cambridge, one dollar and fifty cents for services rendered at same time, and two dollars to Sullivan Howard for specifications and plan of a court-house."

It was ordered that the Court proceed forthwith to the sale of lots in Cambridge, on the following terms: One-third to be paid in six months after date of sale; one-third in twelve months, and the remainder in eighteen months; and that purchasers have the privilege of paying in building materials, on or before the 1st day of the September following. George McHenry, being in his place as auctioneer, a full board, and a good attendance of citizens, the sale proceeded. Twenty lots were sold on that occasion, aggregating the sum of $558. For the benefit of those interested, the list of purchasers and number of lot, and amount of sale, in the order in which they appear on record, are given: Joseph Tillson, 1, $20; John Russell, 4, $23; Joseph L. Perry, 7, $21; Jas. Roe, 12, $25; Albert Jagger, 3, $26; Wm. H. Lockwood, 14, $40; Lennan Thurston, 13, $39; Thos. K. Thompson, 10, $26; Wm. A. Ayers, 18, $23; Jos. Tillson, 9, $15; Wm. H. Lockwood, 16, $39; Alex. Qua, 17, $33; Wm. H. Lockwood, 16, $31; Jas. Montgomery, 15, $35; Thos. K. Thompson, 21, $15; Wm. Dawson, 5, $30; James M. Allan, 20, $40; John Jones, 11, $30; Alexander Qua, 8, $21. There were thirteen purchasers, and out of that number but few are known to be living in the county or in the state. Qua lost his life in a stone quarry, one-half mile northeast of Cambridge, where he was crushed by a bank he had undermined.

The growth of the town was not at all in proportion to the necessities of some of the purchasers, and instead of paying for their lots, either in materials or money, as the payments became due, several of them begged off, and their lots went back to the county.

To effect a healthy growth in the new town, roads must be opened, post routes established through it, and a post-office in it, and public buildings had to be erected and population invited. The sequel will show that many opposed to the growth of the place scarcely ceased to underrate the locality and its facilities for a healthy growth, and the idea of settling in it or about it was often derided. A mail route leading from Wethersfield to Geneseo was established through the place, and for a while the few inhabitants enjoyed the luxury of a semi-weekly mail from Peoria. By some means the route was altered so as to leave Cambridge out. Previous to the change of route by the department, the carrier refused to go to Cambridge, but would throw out a bag of mail matter put up at Wethersfield expressly for Cambridge, at the "Corners," ten miles east of town. No office being there, a boy employed for the purpose would proceed at his leisure, pick up the bag and take it to its destination. More than once mail matter has been sent from Cambridge for the east and returned at the end of the week with other matter designed for Cambridge. Those who had important business to transact were afraid to mail their letters at the county town, because of the delays to which its mail was subjected. Many and unsuccessful were the efforts to have that route re-established through the village, nor till 1856 had the tardy justice of a tri-weekly mail from Geneseo to Kewanee been accorded to the county town. A weekly mail from Princeton, in Bureau County, to Millersburg or New Boston, on the Mississippi River, was the only one from which, for several years, news from the east could be obtained. A weekly mail running from Rock Island to Cambridge was also established for the particular benefit of the settlements between the two places. For a short time, about the year 1853, a route was established from a point on the Illinois River, known as Lancaster, to Cambridge; but it afforded no conveniences for any office on the route, and was soon discontinued. The mail to Rock Island was carried for many years by a Mr. Robinson, familiarly known as "Uncle Bobby." He was a very honest, trusty man, and made more money by attending to errands at Rock Island for his neighbors than by carrying the mail.

The growth of the town was remarkable only for its slowness. The impression that the county seat would certainly and speedily be removed gave way with great difficulty. People were afraid to venture in, and but little improvement was made for several years. The county had a court-house, but it was unfinished and in Morristown. At that place courts were to be held till suitable arrangements could be made for their accommodation in Cambridge. They were then being held in the dwelling-house made over to the county by the proprietors of Morristown. It was argued by many citizens about Cambridge, among whom are found the names of Stackhouse, Hanan, Mascall, Cady, Osborn, Malcolm, and others, that the unfinished house might be moved to where it was wanted. These gentlemen made a proposition to the Court to the effect that if it would give them the house outright they would move it to Cambridge, finish it off, and furnish room in it for the use of the courts till the new court-house should be built.

On the 5th of September, 1843, the Court contracted with them to move the house to Cambridge, and to finish it, giving them ten dollars and the use of the house for schools and other public purposes when not wanted for courts, for the term of three years. The building was placed upon runners, and in two days hauled or moved, by ox teams, to Cambridge, a distance of more than twelve miles, and placed on southeast corner of College Square. Several terms of the county court and two terms of the circuit court were held in it—the first term of the latter in September, 1844. It was afterwards sold to the Messrs. Gaines, who put a small addition to it, and placing their families and a stock of dry goods and groceries in it, did a good business on a small scale for several years.

On June 18, 1844, notice was given that a contract for building a court-house, according to a plan and specifications, drawn by John G. Wilcox (for which the Court paid him $22), would be let on the 29th of July following. A contract was made with Sullivan Howard, September 3, 1844, and the building was completed and accepted July 28, 1845. From that time, at least for several years, the court-house was open for schools, lectures, debating societies, stump speeches, three-penny shows, class meetings, prayer meetings, Masonic meetings, singing and dancing schools (the benches were movable) and preaching. Presbyterians, Congregationalists, Methodists, Baptists and Universalists all worshiped there, often three of them in one day, at different hours.

The first building erected in the new county seat was a small unhewn log house, put up by John Russell—commonly known as "Lord John"—and was used by him for a blacksmith shop. For a short time after its completion, he occupied it as a dwelling, until he could erect a cabin for his family. This small structure was covered with "shakes"— clap-boards—held down by weight poles, and stood on the site now occupied by Medbury's grocery; his dwelling occupied the site of Mr. S. D. Alfred's present residence.

Judge Tillson erected the second house in the town. It was a hewn log building, and many additions were made to it, as his wants required and means allowed.

A log cabin was erected almost opposite the stable connected with the Cambridge House, by W. Augustus Ayres, the following Summer—1844. Here the Indian, known as John, was confined for the murder of a half-breed by name of Jim. "John" escaped from this insecure "jail" and joined his tribe, the Pottawattomies at Shabbona Grove. He was immediately followed by the officers, who, on coming to the camp, and addressing the chief, who was none other than the noted personage Shabbona, inquired for "John" who killed "Jim." He was at once pointed out by Shabbona (this name was pronounced Shah-pan-nee, or Shá-pá-nee, by the Pottawattomies), and again taken into custody. At the preliminary examination before Justice Tillson, he was committed for trial before the circuit court; but the grand jury, failing to find a bill (they stood eleven for and (?) against), he was set at liberty.

The first hotel built in town was erected by A. H. Showers, about the year 1848. He kept it for some time, and rented to others until it was finally converted into a residence, and as such is now the property of Michael McFadden. Mr. Showers, several years after, erected the present Cambridge House, which in 1856 he sold to A. and N. B. Gould, who added the third story. They kept it five years, and sold to James M. Wier, who in turn sold to Joshua Bushnell, about February, 1864. He enlarged it to its present capacity, and in February, 1876, sold to the present proprietor, J. W. Hartzell. Mr. M. W. Thatcher was connected with this house about eight years as landlord. The Central House was built about 1857, by A. M. Randall.

No manufactures exist in town, and not until the completion of the railway in 1871, did the town grow in a thriving manner. From that time good stores were erected, and a fine trade with the surrounding farmers at once sprang into life.

The project of having railroad connection with the eastern and western markets was agitated by the more prominent citizens as early as 1863. The object was again discussed in 1866, and more definite steps were taken. The Rock Island Railroad was opened in 1856 to the coal fields, and the citizens of Cambridge began an earnest effort to secure the continuance of the road through their town. In 1867, Mr. Orin E. Page was sent by the citizens to procure a charter for the road, under the name of the Peoria and Rock Island Railway. This was accomplished, and subscription-books were immediately opened in the city of Peoria, in Galva, Cambridge, and at Osco and Weston. The city of Peoria subscribed $100,000, and the county the same amount. The township of Galva, $50,000; Galva, $25,000; Cambridge, $50,000; and Osco and Weston, $30,000 each. By these figures, aggregating $385,000, it will be observed that the road was built mainly by municipal subscriptions. For all this outlay, the corporations were abundantly repaid in the increase of wealth and rapid development of the towns. Cambridge, from a population of between four and five hundred in 1871, has grown to four times that number, and, as a showing of the increase in trade, the following exhibit of the number of car loads of produce shipped from this station during each month in 1876 is given:

These tables only include shipments in carload lots. The shipments in smaller lots, if footed up, would swell the amounts of some sorts of produce considerably. A good many barrels of apples and bales of broom-corn have been shipped in lots less than car-loads, and some small lots of other items. The shipments of poultry by freight, in boxes and barrels, during the month of December, amount to 15,866 pounds; while large quantities have also been sent by express. Butter and eggs are also shipped by both freight and express, and butter especially is sent off in large quantities by express.

Comparing the shipments of the past year with those of previous years, reducing all to a uniform basis—the first three years ending Nov. 30, and the last two ending Dec. 31, 1876—the following is given:

Prior to the completion of the railroad, Cambridge was considered a small inland town, with but little trade and few advantages. The sudden increase of population, and the increase in wealth and in trade has dispelled that idea, and to-day Cambridge bids fair to rival any town in the county. There are a number of fine brick business houses, one bank—a private institution, organized in November 1871: two or three good hotels, two weekly newspapers, excellent graded schools and six regularly organized churches, all of which have good houses of worship.

THE PRESS.

The first paper started in Cambridge, and the first in Henry County, issued its first number on Feb. 13, 1853. It was called the Henry County Gazette, and was edited by J. W. Eystra. This paper and all the material connected with the office were afterwards sold to the citizens of Kewanee, and removed to that place, where the name was changed to the Henry County Dial. The editor, Mr. Hyatt, soon after went to Geneseo, where he established the Geneseo Republic. About November, 1857, the press and materials in the Galva Watchman office were purchased and removed to Cambridge by Judge Tillson, Dr. A. A. Dunn, V. M. Ayres, and H. W. Wells. Dr. Dunn was established as editor, and the name changed to the Chronicle. He remained until 1860 in this place. That year, Patten and Denison leased the office and fixtures from the company, and continued Dr. Dunn as editor for one year, when Mr. Patten purchased Mr. Denison's interest, and (Dr. Dunn going to the army), assumed entire editorial control. He kept charge until 1866, when he was succeeded by Everett & Casson, who, on May 16, 1867, sold to the present editor and proprietor, Mr. George C. Smithe. He has now entire control, having purchased the office and all the material, and issues a paper which fully merits its name.

The Prairie Chief was started in Galva in April, 1868, and for a time printed in the office of the Galva Union. In September of that year, Mr. F. B. Seaton purchased the office of the Stark County Democrat at Toulon, and removed to that place. He changed the name to Prairie Chief, and remained there till December, 1871, when he rented the office of the Cambridge Democrat, and removed to that place. This paper had been started and conducted by one Rock, who proved a most disreputable character. Immediately on Mr. Seaton taking charge, a change was made, and an excellent weekly paper started. He changed the name to Prairie Chief, and although in a county largely Republican in politics, the paper has a large circulation.

CAMBRIDGE DEMOCRAT.

In the Spring of 1869, feeling the need of a Democratic paper centrally located in the county, S. P. Cady and I. G. Ayers commenced a correspondence with Mr. J. L. Rock of Chicago, commercial editor of the Chicago Times, with a view of establishing a Democratic paper in Cambridge, which resulted in receiving a proposition from Mr. Rock that if $1,500 was raised to purchase presses and material he would furnish an equal amount, and would come and take charge of the paper, with the understanding that at the expiration of the year he was to have the material by refunding the $1,500 and 10 per cent. A meeting was called at the court-house, which was largely attended by the Democrats of this vicinity, and the proposition met with general favor. At this meeting $800 was subscribed, and a committee appointed to raise the balance, which they succeeded in doing very soon. A committee was then sent to Chicago to superintend the purchase and shipment of presses, type, etc. In due time the material arrived, and was set up in the room over the harness shop of H. P. Hart, and July 28, 1869, the first issue of the Cambridge Democrat made its appearance, greatly to the satisfaction of its god-parents. The paper remained under the management of Mr. Rock but a short time. The 20th of November of the same year found him in such straitened circumstances that he was forced to dispose of the paper to Morrison Francis and R. Heber Hinman, who employed Mr. I. G. Ayers, then a law student with Mr. W. H. Shepard, to take charge of the editorial and financial management. Mr. Ayers continued the editor until Nov. 29, 1871, at which time Messrs. Francis & Hinman rented the office to Mr. B. W. Seaton, who removed the Prairie Chief from Toulon, Stark County, to this place, commenced and continues its issue here.

THE CHURCHES.

The Baptist Church was organized July 8, 1854, in the court-house. Prior to the organization, they met in this house for some time for religious exercises, and for a short time after. At the organization thirteen persons united, whose names are as follows: William Talbott, Mary Talbott, Aaron Talbott, Phebe Talbott, James M. Woodmansee, Clarrissa M. Woodmansee, John McFarland, Hanna McFarland, Emma Blackman, Laura Bishop, Harriett Daggett, Electa Davenport, and Eliza Ayers. This congregation purchased the old school-house, which they used for a house of worship until the erection of their present commodious church. It cost about $10,000. They have in addition to this just completed a very comfortable parsonage, worth $2,100.

The earliest pastor was Rev. F. Ketchman, who remained about one year. He was followed by Rev. W. W. Smith, who was pastor fourteen months. Then followed Rev. R. Edwards, one year; Rev. G. D. Simmons, eighteen months; Rev. A. Edison, two years and four months; Rev. J. Shephard, six years; Rev. W. A. Velsher, two and one-half years, when the present pastor, Rev. J. Cairns, was installed. The membership is now 107, and the attendance at Sunday-school 130. The superintendent is William Talbott.

The Disciples of Christ held meetings for some time in the court-house, in the Baptist Church, and in the school-house. About December 18, 1859, they met at the court-house and effected an organization. At this meeting the following persons united: Samuel and Mrs. Ellen Horn, Mrs. A. E. Matthews, Ada B. Lobingier, Geo. Lobingier, G. W. Sroupe, William and Mrs. Martha McFarland, and William Kirkland.

On the 23d of January following, a permanent organization was made, with William Kirkland and G. W. Sroupe as elders, William Mc-

BRONSON ETHEL V. son of Virtue and Nancy (McNeil) Bronson; was born in Canadaigua, Ontario Co. N.Y. Feb. 1, 1813, being the youngest of seven children, who have all passed away with the exception of one sister. When five years old, his parents moved to Richmond, near Allen's Hill, N.Y. In 1820, they moved on a farm in Sheldon, Genesee Co. N.Y., where his father died. When he died the family was left poor, and the children were compelled to work for a living. Mr. B. has worked many a day for 10 cents and a shilling per day. Walked, when a boy, two miles to school in the Winter, working during the Summer to earn sufficient to clothe himself. When 15 years of age, worked in a store for his clothes and board, afterwards getting five dollars per month. A small advance in his wages was made at different times; he always managed to save some thing every year, and engaged in business for himself as dry goods merchant, first in Warsaw, N.Y. then in North Java, Wyoming Co. N.Y.; in 1846 he returned to Warsaw, and carried on mercantile business until the Spring of 1848, when he moved to Cuylerville, N.Y. where he engaged in the manufacture of stoves and farming implements and also did a general hardware business; sold out in 1854, and came to Rockford, Ill. in the Fall of the same year; spent the Winter there, and in March, 1855, came to Kewanee, and purchased the Kewanee House, which he still owns and conducts; he is a strong temperance man; has kept hotel about 20 years, and never sold liquor; he owns two farms adjacent to the village, which, with village and other property, is valued at about $40,000. For nine years he was Town Road Commissioner; has always taken an active part in politics; was a strong Jackson man, and voted for Hayes and Wheeler in 1876; he was sent by the people to Springfield in the year 1869, to procure a charter for the Muscatine, Kewanee and Eastern Railway; his efforts were successful; he was an active worker in perfecting the organization, and was chosen President; also took an active part in procuring the charter and organizing the Continental Railway, which has for its object a continuous railway route from New York to Council Bluffs; a large amount of money has been expended in grading and procuring the right of way. Mr. B. was one of the first to assist in the organization of the Episcopal Church in Kewanee, contributing $1,500 and always donating liberally to the other church societies to aid in the construction of houses of worship, etc.; he has always been a Low Churchman; he is a member of the Board of Governors of the Woman's Hospital of the State of Illinois, also member of the Kewanee Blue Lodge and Chapter; he was married to Sarah A. Weller, Oct. 29, 1844; she was born in the town of York, Livingston Co. N.Y., April 9, 1817; they have had two children, Wilford G., born in Warsaw, N.Y., Aug. 11, 1845; he died May 15, 1861, and William Henry, born in Cuylerville, N.Y., Dec. 25, 1851; he died Jan. 5, 1852; they have an adopted daughter living, Lida P., who was born Oct. 6, 1858.

Almeron Reed; she died May 22, 1874; Capt. Howard was first Justice of the Peace in Wethersfield Twp; before coming to Illinois Capt. Howard built a goodly share of Mason Village, N.H.; was Military Captain there; there were but about twenty inhabitants in Henry County when he settled here; for a great many years he was the principal carpenter in the county; built the first court house at Cambridge, in 1844, when there were but three cabins in the village; the court house is the same now used by the county; was associated with Ralph A. Tenney in the publication of the first newspaper published in Kewanee, about the year 1855; the Capt. bought the farm where Kewanee is now located, and, associating two other gentlemen with him, laid out the town originally; built and owned the Kewanee House in 1854, before the railroad was built; for several years was engaged in general merchandising, lumber, and grain business; retired from that business in 1861, and devoted his attention to farming, stock buying, and feeding, being the owner of large tracts of land in this vicinity; in consequence of ill health he was compelled to retire from active labor in 1873; he is now a Director of the First National Bank of Kewanee; has been identified with the bank in that capacity since its first organization.

HOWE EDWD. E. Kewanee; telegraph operator; Rep; Ind; born Ashtabula, Ohio, 1847.

HOWE JULIA A. widow of Gen. John H. Howe, Kewanee; Cong; born Ashtabula, Ohio.

HOWE Gen. JOHN H. (deceased) whose picture appears on another page of this volume, was born at Riga, Monroe Co. N.Y., on the 12th day of Sept. 1822. In 1832, his father removed to Conneautville, Pa. and proceeded to clear a farm in that densely timbered region. After assisting his father to make the clearing he obtained work on the Erie Canal to procure money to attend school at Western Reserve College, at Austenberg, Ohio, at which place he remained some time, finishing at Kingsville, Ohio. He then commenced the study of the law with E. B. Woodbury, Esq. at Monroe, Ohio, and was admitted to the bar in June, 1845. Benj. F. Wade and Joshua R. Giddings being his examiners. March 27, 1845, a short time previous to his admission to the bar, he was married to Miss Julia A. Castle. For ten years Gen. Howe followed his profession in the counties of Ashtabula, Lake and Geauga, living for a short time at Unionville, Lake Co. In 1855, he resolved to come west, his first objective point being Kansas, but owing to the then unsettled condition of affairs, he finally concluded to stop at Kewanee, Ill. The change was opportune. He continued the practice of the law, with marked success, until 1860, when he was elected Circuit Judge for the sixth district of Illinois, to fill the unexpired term of Judge Drury. In 1862, his judicial term having expired, Judge Howe enlisted in the War of the Rebellion, and aided in raising two companies for the 124th Ill. Vol. and upon the organization of the regiment he was elected Lieutenant Colonel. He remained with the regiment during the war, acting for nearly the whole period as Colonel, owing to the sickness and absence of Col. Sloan. He was twice promoted during service, bearing at the time of his discharge the rank of Brigadier General. His regiment saw much active service, having marched over 4,100 miles, and having been engaged in fourteen skirmishes, ten battles and two sieges, and having been under the fire of the enemy eighty-two days and sixty nights. Throughout all of this leaden hail the life of the brave General was spared, but the close of the war found him, from exposure and anxiety, broken in health, and believing that a change of climate might prove beneficial, he obtained an appointment as Chief Justice of Wyoming Ter. April 3, 1869. Shortly after his arrival, female suffrage was established in Wyoming, and Judge Howe presided over the first jury, of which females were a component part, ever impaneled in this country or any other so far as known.

After three years service upon the bench, during which time he discharged his duties with signal ability, his health again failed him, and he returned to his home in Kewanee and resumed the practice of law. His health not improving, his physician and friends advised him to go south, and he succeeded in obtaining an appointment as one of the Mexican Border Commissioners, then about to start south to confer with a like commission from the Mexican Government concerning the border difficulties. He left Kewanee, accompanied by his wife, and after six weeks' work with the commission, fell seriously ill at Laredo, Texas, and lingering twenty-three days, died April 3, 1873. His remains were embalmed and his heroic wife started and brought them across the country three hundred miles to San Antonio, that being the nearest railroad station. Mrs. Howe arrived at Kewanee, April 19, 1873, and the remains were interred with Masonic honors the day following.

Such, briefly, are the outlines of the life of one of Kewanee's most worthy and honored citizens, a man who filled a large place in the hearts of the people of Henry Co. and whose influence will long be felt in the community of which he was a member.

Coming to Kewanee while the town was in its infancy, he at once entered zealously into all of its public improvements. He aided and encouraged the establishment of schools, churches, lyceums and libraries, and all that might contribute to the moral, intellectual or material welfare of the community received from Judge Howe encouragement and support.

He was the friend of the poor, and always sought their welfare, as many now living will testify. As a lawyer and judge he stood deservedly high, always advising a peaceable adjustment of difficulties, rather than litigation, where it could be done without a sacrifice of rights. As an advocate he was the acknowledged leader of this bar, often rising to bursts of genuine eloquence. In disposition he was genial and social, outspoken and frank to all, be they friend or foe. While only 50 years of age at his death, he had accomplished much more than many older men. Generous, almost to a fault, he did not accumulate as much property as a man of more sordid disposition would have done with the same opportunities. The vast throng who attended his funeral was an ovation, attesting the high estimation in which he was held by the people of Henry and adjoining counties. A true friend, a kind husband and father, an upright judge and citizen, an able lawyer, a faithful and heroic soldier, such was Judge Howe, whose memory will ever be green in the hearts of all who knew him.

LILLEY WILLIAM, Sec. 26, P.O. Kewanee. The subject of this sketch was born of respectable and well-to-do parents, at Oldham, England, Jan. 22, 1817, and baptized at St. Peter's, May 15, 1817; his mother was related to the well-known, wealthy, and aristocratic English families—Radcliffs, Mayalls, and Duckworths, of Mosley and Oldham; his parents sailed from London on board the ship Susannah, of London, July 11, 1818, for St. John, New Brunswick, and from there to Boston, Mass. arriving in Boston Sept. 8, 1818; his father, after living in Mass. for a short time, formed a stock company, built and managed the first cotton mill in Mass. at Andover [this mill is still standing, but not used for anything, and fast decaying]; he was married Nov. 1, 1843, at Albany, N.Y. to Miss Harriet Huntley; his wife Harriet was born at Stanstead, Canada, Feb. 28, 1821; her ancestors were some of those numbered on board the Mayflower, her great grandfather being the first white child born in New England—born the second day after the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers—and, owing to the wanderings of this band, he was named "Peregrine"—Peregrine White. [Among other curiosities shown the visitor at Plymouth, Mass. is the rude cradle used for this man when a child.] Mr. Wm. Lilley and wife moved from Lowell, Mass. to Henry Co. December 15, 1843, where they since have lived; they have been blessed with five children, Hellen, born Jan. 6, 1845, and now married; George, born Feb. 7, 1850; John, born Feb. 8, 1852; Charles, born Aug. 4, 1854; Laura, born Feb. 8, 1855; of these all are living except Laura, who was taken away by death, Feb. 24, 1868. "Laura was seldom from home, as she was all her natural life an afflicted child; hence they feel their loss the more. But Laura has gone before—not lost."—Henry Co. Dial. Mr. Lilley has, by perseverance, industry, and labor, accumulated a large property, his home farm consisting of 417 acres of very rich farming land, the surface valued at $100 per acre; it has a good coal vein, 4 ft. thick, and 120 ft. below the surface; the coal is leased, for a period of twenty-five years, to the Lathrop Coal and Mining Co. office Kewanee, Ill. "Our coal is superior in quality and cleanliness, burning freely, and leaving little or no soot, which is so objectionable in most Illinois coals. Our facilities for mining and shipping are unequaled by any coal operators in this vicinity." A. B. Ashley, Supt; E. C. Cheever, Cashier. Each cubic foot of coal will weigh fifteen pounds, or 2,700 pounds for every square yard, which, multiplied by 4,840 (the number of square yards in an acre), gives 6,534 tons per acre; and this, multiplied by the number of acres (417), gives the enormous amount of 2,724,678 tons; this, again multiplied by 12½ cents (the amount paid by the Co. for royalty on every ton of coal mined), will amount to $340,584 75. The mine, when in full operation, is capable of mining and raising 300 tons of coal daily, which, multiplied by 12½ cents, gives, at the rate of $37 per day, $962 per month, and $11,144 per annum, royalty. He also has another farm in Henry County, consisting of 120 acres of very rich and productive soil.

Mr. Lilley has been eminently successful in obtaining his share of this world's goods—thus are his patience, industry, and fortitude rewarded; coming, as he did, to Henry Co. one of the earliest settlers, when all was a wide, vast, unbroken, and wild prairie, he has contributed his best talent and judgment to the advancement of his county, and made it what it is, one of the foremost in the state. He has seen his county in the possession of the wild beasts of the field, and now it is possessed by a cultivated and intelligent people, churches, and schools. Thus is he rewarded. "By their fruits ye shall know them."

LITTLE HENRY G. Kewanee. The following biographical sketch was furnished for this work by an old settler of Henry County, and intimate friend of its subject:

Henry G. Little was born in Gofftown, N. H. March 31, 1813; in March, 1835, he left the rugged New England hills to seek his fortune on the fertile prairies of Illinois, and settled temporarily in Peoria. March 1, 1836, he married Fidelity M. Stoddard, a daughter of the Puritans, a descendant of the redoubtable Gen. Miles Standish, and brought his young wife from the comforts and refinements of her pleasant home in the staid old town of Newington, Conn. to endure, uncomplainingly, patiently, and cheerfully the privations and dangers of frontier life. They came to Henry County in November of the same year, and the following Spring set up their household gods in a log cabin, near the present home of C. C. Blish, Esq. of Kewanee, and commenced farming on the lands now owned by Dr. Lewis Hurd and Asa Cole. Three months later (June 19, 1837), Mr. Little, accompanied by his brother, C. J. T. Little, rode thirty miles across the trackless prairie, utterly destitute of road, bridge, or dwelling, to the house of George Brandenburg, where he took part in the organization of Henry County.

The first election in Wethersfield Precinct was held at Mr. Little's house, in August of the same year. The single room, sixteen feet by eighteen, which the dwelling contained, was at that time the residence of three families, Col. S. Blish and Mr. W. H. Blish having just arrived from Connecticut and taken up temporary quarters with Mr. Little. There were also two men, W. H. Blish and Hazelton Page, lying sick of fever in the same room. When election day arrived, even Mr. Little himself, who always dwells with a sort of regretful pleasure upon the enjoyments of those early days, and finds it difficult to remember anything worthy of being termed "hardship," admits that they were "a little crowded." Sullivan Howard, H. G. Little, and Norman Butler acted as judges of election. Sullivan Howard and H. G. Little were elected Justices of the Peace, an office which Mr. Little held for more than fifteen years in the county.

As a farmer, Mr. Little shared to the full all the labors and inconveniences inseparable from that calling during the settlement of the county, and, in addition, was often called to occupy posts of trust and responsibility involving public interests. In 1850, he was elected Sheriff and Collector of the county, and for two years performed the duties of those offices. Though there was no jail in the county and he sometimes was obliged to keep prisoners for weeks in his own house, chaining them at night to the cooking stove, no prisoner ever escaped from his hands. Though there was neither safe nor bank in the county, not a dollar of the revenue of those years was ever lost. All taxes were paid in gold and silver, and the coin was deposited with trusted friends in various parts of the county. Mrs. Francis Loomis was for months the keeper of two shot-bags of gold, hidden in a rag-bag hanging from the rafters of a chamber, with hired men sleeping near. Mr. Little tells thrilling stories of long rides across the wild prairies with no companion but a desperate thief or murderer chained and manacled by his side, whom he was conveying to the penitentiary at Alton; or bearing the scarcely less dangerous charge of a carpet-bag of gold to be deposited with the State Treasurer at Springfield.

Having been all his life a Whig, and in earnest sympathy with the anti-slavery cause, Mr. Little naturally became identified with the Republican party from its organization, and as a Republican, represented the three counties of Mercer, Rock Island and Henry, with a population of over 50,000, in the exceedingly busy and laborious session of the Illinois Legislature of 1856-7. At this time he formed the acquaintance of Abraham Lincoln, John A. Logan and others who were afterward distinguished in the state and the nation. Among the acts passed by this Legislature were those for the removal of the county-seat of Mercer Co. from Keithsburg to Aledo; for enlarging the city limits of Rock Island; and for the incorporation of the town of Kewanee.

Mr. Little was from its organization an active member of the Henry County Agricultural Society; was elected President the second year of its existence, and again in 1866. He has been an extensive land-holder in the county, entering from the government in 1850 and 1851 a large body of land, besides purchasing from other parties. For many years he dealt largely in lands, and the records show that few men have passed through their hands so large a portion of Henry County.

Kewanee owes much to the energy and public spirit of Henry G. Little. He was one of the four original proprietors of that town, as he was also of the neighboring town of Neponset. More than one pleasant residence in Kewanee and many a spreading tree bear witness to his enterprise and taste. The dwelling now owned and occupied by Dr. Hiram Nance was built by him, and was for some years his home. During his residence in the town, he was identified with all efforts for the material, educational and religious improvement of the place, giving liberally of his time, his strength and his means for the benefit of town and school and church; and the same was true of him while living in Wethersfield. The early settlers of this county would not have been true to their Puritan ancestry had they made less thorough provision for the fostering and culture of intelligence and morality, and no one labored more earnestly, or made more cheerful sacrifices for those ends than the subject of this article. The love of learning and Christian culture, whose foundations he and his collaborators laid broad and deep while yet the wilderness looked wondering on, have risen into fair and stately structures all over the land; and the graduation records of many a college and seminary bear the names of those who have entered into the labors of these early toilers.

A sketch of the life of Henry G. Little, however brief, would be incomplete without at least a reference to the genial and generous hospitality always seen in his home. Equally in the log-cabin of one room and in the spacious comfortable home of later years friends and strangers were always sure of cordial welcome, and guests were rarely wanting. For religious meetings, for benevolent organizations, for the entertainment of ministers and others whose calling or circumstances appealed to their sympathies, Mr. and Mrs. Little held always an open door. Their house was often called "the ministers' hotel," and to their ungrudging hospitality to strangers they owe many a valued friendship whose end is not yet.

All of Mr. Little's children were born in Henry County. Two of them died in infancy, and one son, Frank H., in 1863, at the age of sixteen. Of the five remaining, Louise S. married Henry S. Viels, of Oberlin, Ohio, now in business in Grinnell, Iowa; Mary Maude married Prin. Jesse Macy, of Iowa College, Grinnell; Elizabeth H. married J. P. Lyman, a lawyer of Grinnell; Fannie R. and Henrietta G. reside with their parents. In 1867, the whole family removed to Grinnell, Iowa, where they still remain. Mr. Little has been for four successive years elected Mayor of that city. His efforts in laying out and beautifying the Grinnell cemetery, in promoting various improvements in the town, and in building his present substantial home, show that he did not lose his taste and energy in crossing the Mississippi.

Though for ten years past residents of another state, he and his wife have not lost their affection for, and interest in the scenes of their early toils and sacrifices. They return often to visit the dear old friends and stand by the graves of their children.

BLISH SYLVESTER COL. Deceased, was the son of Dea. Thomas Blish, and was born Dec. 31st, 1790, in the town of Glastenbury, State of Connecticut; was married to Rhoda Cheney, Jan. 1, 1811. From private in the Connecticut State Militia, he attained the respective positions of Lieut., Capt., Major, Lieut. Colonel and Colonel, positions secured through merit, military pursuits being naturally congenial to him. He was a member of the Connecticut Legislature in 1833, always being a man of prominence in politics and matters pertaining to the general interests of the people. In the Winter of 1836 he was appointed one of the purchasing committee for the Wethersfield colony, came to Illinois as one of the committee, and purchased the land in Henry county, and returned home in August of that year. In the month of June 1837, he started with his family in wagons for Henry county, Ill., and arrived there about the first of August, and settled on the N. W. ¼ of section four (4), in Wethersfield township, Henry county, Ill., where he opened a farm and resided until his death Oct. 8, 1855. He was appointed postmaster at Wethersfield, Ill., in 1838, which office he held until 1849, it being the first and only post-office opened in this part of Henry county up to that time. He was a prominent man in the early history of Henry county, and his house was the general stopping place in that vicinity for many years. He was also one of the original proprietors of the town of Kewanee, and the first postmaster in the town, which office he held until his death. His body was the second interment made in the Kewanee cemetery, which grounds he gave to the town of Kewanee for burial purposes.

WILLARD JOHN F. Deceased; one of the pioneers of Henry Co; was a resident of Wethersfield for 38 years; he was the eldest son of Wm. and Hannah Willard, of Wethersfield, Conn. and was born in that place June 18, 1805; converted under the labors of the Rev. Dr. Nettleton at the age of 14, he devoted several years of study with a view to the ministry; this he was obliged to relinquish, too close application to his studies impairing his health; Feb. 17, 1836 he married Mary A., daughter of Dea. Origen Wells, of Newington, Conn., and in Oct. of the same year he came to the West, being one of the first three of the "Old Wethersfield Colony," to make a home on this (then) desert prairie; during the month of Nov. he cut the first set of cabin logs, solitary and alone, on the premises now occupied by Mr. C. C. Blish; this, as far as the colony was concerned, was the first work done; two others of the colonists soon joined him, and these three spent a long and dreary winter in their cabin, making preparations for the coming season. There are few who have experienced more of the vicissitudes and hardships of pioneer life than did Mr. Willard during a number of years following. Possessed of great energy and perseverance, and having the welfare of the colony at heart, he was one of the leading spirits among them, and did much to make its establishment a success. In September of the next year Mr. Willard and some others of the colonists were gladdened by the arrival of their families from the East. He soon after selected as his future home the place occupied by him during his life. In 1846 he established there what was known as the "Henry County Nurseries," and devoted himself to the cultivation of the useful and beautiful trees, plants and flowers with which this section is now so abundantly supplied; and during his later life one of his greatest pleasures was in the fact that his hand had done so much in making this dreary wilderness "bud and blossom as the rose." During his early pioneer life he devoted much of his time to the establishment of religious services in the colony, and by a long life devoted to that work, he aided much in the development of that moral and religious sentiment which has at this day so amply provided for the educational wants, and still more abundantly supplied with religious organizations the wants of all. In politics he was a Republican from the earliest formation of that party. A member, and Deacon for many years, of the old Wethersfield Church, by his energy and wise counsel he was instrumental in doing much for the cause he so much loved. Having lived a useful and honored life, he died, respected and loved and lamented by all who knew him. Sept. 23, 1874.

Farland and Jno. M. Evans, deacons, and Geo. Lobingier, clerk. At this latter date, Hannah and Elizabeth Kirkland, Mrs. Mary E. Evans, Mary Busenback, Mary L. Cahon, John, Hannah B., and Melinda McFarland, Mary Hazle, Miranda M. Noel, and Nathaniel C. Whitney, united with the church.

On January 1, 1871, the congregation purchased the Baptist Church (the old school-house), and removed it to its present location, where they still continue to worship. They have now 50 members, and a Sunday-school of about 35 scholars.

This church was organized at first by Rev. James E. Gaston, who remained about one year. For about three years the pulpit was filled with "supplies," when the Rev. John W. Errett was called, and remained until January, 1868. In January, 1869, elder G. W. Sroupe was engaged to preach to them, and remained until March, 1872. On October 1, 1873, Rev. James Seaton was called, and remained until March, 1875. Since then no regular pastor has filled the pulpit. The congregation is now in good condition, and expect, as soon as they are able, to erect a commodious and comfortable church.

The Swedish Lutheran Church. The people constituting this religious body met for some time prior to their organization in the court-house, and in the Christian Church. They were organized in the first mentioned house on May 30, 1875, with 52 members. The organization was made by Rev. L. Carlson, of Andover. They soon after purchased the house of worship owned by the Congregationalists, which they still occupy. Rev. Carlson is yet pastor; the membership having increased to 69. About 35 scholars attend the Sunday-school.

The Congregationalists are the oldest religious organization in Cambridge. The church was composed of members from the different colonies surrounding the town. In February, 1837, a few persons professing this faith met together, and on the 9th day of that month the First Congregational Church was formed, with a membership of eleven, as follows: Nelson Garne and wife, Henry G. and Mrs. Fidelia Little, H. G. and Mrs. Elizabeth Griffin, Joseph and Mrs. Julia A. Tillson, C. W. Davenport, Mrs. Margaret Attwater, and Mrs. Ruth Moore. Of these, Judge Tillson, Mr. and Mrs. Griffin, and Mrs. Attwater are now members. The organization was effected by Rev. L. H. Parker, of Galesburg, and Rev. William F. Vaill, of Wethersfield, so well known to the early settlers of the county.

The congregation continued to occupy the court-house in company with the Methodists and Baptists for several years. By the year 1854 they had increased to 24 members, and in May of that year decided to erect a church. This was accomplished the ensuing Summer and Autumn, and was dedicated January 12, 1856. It was occupied until the year 1875, when it was sold to the Swedish Lutherans, and the building of the present fine and commodious edifice commenced. It is almost completed, and will cost about $12,000. The membership is now about 100.

Father Vaill, as he was called, remained preaching for the congregation about one year, and was succeeded in the pastorate by the Rev. Joseph D. Baker, whose pastorate is the longest of any—seventeen years. Rev. L. H. Parker was then called, who remained one year. The next was Rev. Joel Grant, three years, and following him was Rev. Thomas Douglas, about two years. The Rev. S. F. Dickenson, the present pastor, has had charge only a few months. The congregation is in a prosperous condition, and expects to occupy its new house of worship in a short time.

This church furnished a full quota of men for the late war, and on one fine Sabbath morning, without any previous notice, raised at a single collection over $1,000 for the Sanitary Commission.

The Methodist Episcopal Church. In common with other religious bodies the early members of this church met in the old court-house at first, where, in 1850, they were organized into a church. At that date there were about 20 persons united, under the labors of Rev. — Harding, a missionary of the M. E. Church through the West. Some of the principal members were John and Mary Russell, S. P. and Mrs. L. Cady, Michael Grant, A. S. Ebright, A. M. Comstock and wife, Elias Morse (known as "Father Morse," and for twenty-five years a class-leader), and his wife, equally well known for her hospitality.

At that time, the Cambridge Mission comprised Cambridge, Spring Creek (now Atkinson), Geneseo, Deanington (now Orion), Red Oak and Berlin (now Swedonia). In 1855 the congregation erected their first church. It was a plain unpretentious brick structure, and was dedicated two years later by Rev. Silas Boules, of Chicago. It was re-modeled in 1865, and re-opened by Dr. Eddy, of the same city. Becoming unsafe, it was taken down in 1874, and the same year replaced by the present safe and comfortable house, which has cost the society $8,000. It was dedicated by Bishop Andrews.

The following ministers have had charge of this church : Rev. Harding, one or two years ; H. J. Humphrey, two years ; C. M. Wright, one year ; G. W. Brown, two years ; D. A. Falkenburg, two years ; Geo. C. Woodruff, two years ; J. J. Fleeharty, two years ; G. M. Morey, two years ; W. B. Frezell, three years ; J. D. Smith, two years ; William Leber, one year ; and Geo. I. Bailey, three years.

The present pastor is Rev. C. M. Morey, who is now preaching his second time to this church.

At present the membership is 135 ; the Sunday-school, nearly 100 ; and both church and school are in a prosperous condition.

The Protestant Episcopal (Trinity) Church. This is a mission, established under the care of the Grace Church Parish, whose permanent head-quarters are at the church of the latter, about five miles northwest of Cambridge.

Their very convenient and comfortable church edifice was erected in 1876, costing $5,000. The membership is now about 30, with a Sunday-school of the same number. The pastor is Rev. J. S. Chamberlain, rector of Grace Parish, who resides in Cambridge. He ministers every Sabbath in both places, devoting the afternoon of that day to the Trinity Church.

THE SCHOOLS.

The first school in Cambridge was taught in the year 1845 or 1846 by Miss Sarah Francis Little, sister of Henry G. Little. The building occupied was the old court-house, which served for various uses until sold to the Gaines Brothers. In the year 1850, the building now used as the Christian Church, was erected. This was used until the year 1856, when the brick structure in College Square was built. During the Winter of 1856-'7 the school was divided into two departments, and in addition to the frame school-house, the basement of the old M. E. Church was used, the brick school-house being incomplete. This was the first grading or division of the schools into more than one department. The Principal was Dr. R. C. Raymond, now a practicing physician of Cambridge. He was assisted by Miss Fanny Sould and Miss Lucy Brooks. As there were but two departments, it is probable one resigned during the year, and was succeeded by the other. The following year the school was held in the brick house, with Henry P. Sumner as Principal with one assistant. Dr. Raymond came again in 1858. He was succeeded by the following persons as Principals: A. B. Converse, William Wight, ——— Thorpe, and Miss Sarah B. Dnnn. These occupied the position till 1863, when Ira D. Marston assumed charge, and remained until 1866. During all these years but one assistant teacher was needed, the building containing but two rooms and two recitation rooms capable of accommodating the juvenile population of the town. In the Autumn of 1866, B. F. Barge, present County Superintendent of Schools, was secured as Principal, and remained in charge until 1872. At first he had but one assistant; but in 1868, the frame building occupying the same lot, was completed, and two additional departments added. In 1872 one more was also added to these, making four in all. At the close of the session of 1871-'2, Mr. Barge went to Geneseo, and Mr. C. J. Gruey, the present Principal, was placed in charge. At that time the enrollment was 288. In 1873 he established the present High School course of study, and in 1875 graduated the first class from that course. He also graduated a class the following year. The enrollment is now 450, and the attendance close upon that number. These are divided into five departments, requiring the services of six teachers, one, Mrs. Gruey, assisting in the High School. The frame building was enlarged to six rooms during the Summer of 1876, and is now sufficiently large to accommodate the school. Should the growth of the town continue as it has since 1871, additional room will be needed to keep the educational facilities of Cambridge to the present high standard.

GENESEO.

In population, wealth and business importance, this is the chief town of Henry County. It is situated on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad, twenty-six miles east from Rock Island, and one hundred and fifty-nine miles west by south from Chicago, in one of the richest agricultural sections of the Prairie State. The surrounding country is thickly populated and highly cultivated, presenting in every direction a succession of well-improved farms, farm houses, and orchards, which bespeak the enterprise, thrift and wealth of the inhabitants.

EARLY HISTORY.

The early history of this particular section of country dates back a little over forty years, when the advance wave of emigration in the shape of a colony from western New York began to roll over these prairies.

That colony consisted of seven members, viz: Messrs. Cromwell K. Bartlett, Culver Bartlett, Elisha Cone, Reuben Cone, Henry Manville, and John C. Ward, of Bergen, Genesee County, New York, and Roderick R. Stewart, of the adjacent town of Geneseo. The colony appointed three of its members, Messrs. Stewart, Ward and Bartlett, a committee to select and purchase their lands. Arriving at Chicago in June, 1836, they were advised by Governor Ford to secure this tract of land without delay. At Brandenburg's they found Mr. James M. Allan, who assisted them in locating the site of the colony, where now stands the thriving young city. They bought this section of land at one dollar and a quarter per acre, selected the best of it for the village plat of forty acres, set apart the cemetery, a block for the school and the church, the beautiful public square, and the "gospel lot," which in 1865 received its commodious parsonage. At first the plan and the practice was to give every respectable man a village lot if he would build upon it. The committee returned and made their report to the proprietors, who determined to make the removal that Fall.

On the 17th of September, five families of the colony — those of the two Cones, the two Bartletts and R. R. Stewart — numbering forty persons, in their own wagons, entered upon the journey. The families of Messrs. Ward and Manville remained behind, to follow the next Spring. The route chosen by the company was across Canada, southern Michigan and northern Indiana, via Princeton, Ill. The journey required nine weeks.

Near Ypsilanti, Michigan, the roads were so bad that they made only seven miles in six days, their wagon boxes sometimes dipping mud. The stage-coach, keeping them company for a time, was once upset in their sight, almost literally burying a woman and her child in the miry soil, while the other passengers, on foot, prepared for any momentary emergency, carried along the traditional rail.

The company attended religious services wherever an opportunity offered, and when denied that privilege, held praise meetings at their camp, in the true Puritan spirit. They arrived at their destination early in the Winter, and as many as could came at once to the colony purchase.

The committee entered about 2,000 acres of land. A portion of the company halted at Providence colony during the Winter; the rest came on and erected cabins. C. K. Bartlett built the first one; it stood on the creek south of where the city now stands, and near the spot selected for the saw-mill, which was built early in 1839. Culver Bartlett built near by; Stewart, fearing the malaria of the creek bottom, pitched his cabin upon the upland prairie, a wise precaution which was readily followed by the other settlers, after a brief experience of chills and fever.

The part of the company left at Providence colony attempted to come on in December, under the guidance of Mr. E. M. Stewart. A warm rain had converted the snow into a soft slush, but the wind suddenly changed to the northwest, with such a rapid reduction of temperature, that in a very short time the surface of the slush was frozen hard enough to bear a man's weight. The party were obliged to return. So intense was the cold that, in spite of all efforts at self-protection, many were frozen, and one so badly as to be mutilated for life.

At the time of which we are writing the great prairies of this portion of the West presented a very different appearance from that which is now offered to the view of the traveler. On the west, twenty-six miles distant, there was the fort on Rock Island, with the small settlement then called Stephenson, in its vicinity; on the south, the little colony of Wethersfield had just started, while a few miles west of the present town of Cambridge was the still earlier colony of Andover; at Henderson's Grove, forty miles away, in Knox County, was an old "Sucker" settlement, with the Galesburg colony hovering under the border of its forest in the famous "Log City;" on the east was the village of Princeton, settled in 1831 by a colony from Northampton, Mass.; towards the north, three families had just settled on Rock River; here and there were a few families on these prairies, such as the Brandenburgs, Hannas, and Gordons, on Green River, and the Crooks and Seelys, at Prophetstown — all like solitary ships on the ocean.

Messrs. Ward and Manville came with their families in the Spring of 1837. During the following Summer the town was laid out by the Trustees, John C. Ward, Cromwell K. Bartlett and R. R. Stewart. It contained four blocks of twenty-four rods square; in depth north and south, three blocks, and east and west five blocks, with the public square in the center. The streets were ninety-nine feet wide, except North and South Streets, which were sixty-six feet in width. Spring and Creek Alleys were thirty-three feet wide. The town was named Geneseo by Mr. Stewart, from his own town of the same name in New York. Surveyor Seymour's certificate to the town plat bears date Dec. 13, 1837.

Mr. S. D. Bacon, long and favorably known as a teacher of vocal music, and a few others, joined their fortunes with the colony before the lots were divided. The method of division was to make choice by casting lots: and the proceeds of the remainder were to be applied to the building of a seminary.

Of great and small, the colony at the outset numbered about fifty souls. C. K. Bartlett and Elisha Cone are dead, as are also three of the younger members. Culver Bartlett lives near Aledo, Ill.; John C. Ward sold out and returned East; R. R. Stewart died in Geneseo in 1860. The remainder of the older colonists, including the widows of Messrs. Bartlett and Cone, are now residing in Geneseo, and all in easy circumstances.

Elisha Cone built the first cabin in the town, and J. C. Ward the first frame house. The latter also opened the first store. The demand for lots was moderate, and the town made slow progress for many years. One of its chief beauties, however, was inaugurated by the early settlers in the planting of the fine shade trees which ornament all parts of the original plat, and which has been an example worthily followed in the newer portions of the city.

The Spring of 1837 witnessed the planting of the first crop in the colony. Like pioneers generally, they lived for many years on homely fare — corn bread and pork, chiefly. The nearest markets were at Peoria, Rock Island and Chicago. Many of the colonists preferred to go to the latter city, as goods could be purchased cheaper there than farther west. For three years most of their mail matter was obtained at Andover, but in 1839, they obtained a post-office. James M. Allan was appointed postmaster. Postage on letters at that period was twenty-five cents, and many were the devices resorted to to obtain that amount, to enable a person to get a letter out of the office.

In the Winter of 1836-7, James M. Allan went to Vandalia and secured a separate organization of Henry County, it having been before that time under the jurisdiction of Knox County. At the first county election, in June, 1837, thirty-seven votes were polled.

Distance from market at this early period kept prices down, so that for several years corn was worth only ten or twelve cents a bushel; wheat thirty to fifty; pork a dollar and a half per hundred; and cows ten or twelve dollars each. This was the period of the great financial depression of 1837-8. Yet, struggling with adversity, the community made progress. Other families of like sympathy were attracted to the settlement, and they are deserving of almost equal credit with the original colonists. Some of these were the households of Marcus B. Osborne, Lyman Snow, the first blacksmith, Philo Ward, Dr. Enos Pomeroy, Mr. Gilmore and Mr. Richards. The town grew but slowly, and for several years before the railroad was built was almost at a stand-still. But that great thoroughfare brought the place out into the world and gave it a new impulse towards that business and commercial status which it has attained.

The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad was surveyed in 1850, and completed through the county in 1854. At this latter date the population of Geneseo was hardly 500, and the trade of the place chiefly with the farming community around it. But no sooner had the railroad become a reality than an active change was manifest in the town. What before had been a dead town in many respects at once sprang into active busy life. That portion of land comprising at present the business part of the city was the property of Mr. Merritt Munson, who had it surveyed and laid out in 1853 and '54. He at once offered good inducements to any who would erect business houses upon it.

The first brick business house in the town was built in the Summer of 1854, by the Perry Brothers. It is now the furniture manufactory of A. H. & M. Green. The property owners of the old town made strenuous efforts to retain the trade in the old places, and although they succeeded for a time, it was ultimately of no avail, for the railroad gradually and surely drew the center of trade and business towards the depot. Until the erection of the Perry Brothers' store, in 1854, all trade was carried on in wooden buildings, and, indeed, there were but few of any kind. Now the increasing trade demanded larger and better buildings, and soon other brick structures appeared. The Methodist Episcopal Church was founded about this time, and erected their first house of worship, now Tentonia Hall. Prior to this there had been but one church in the place, and that occupied the upper story of the Seminary building. But the increase of population strengthened other denominations, so that soon churches of different orders were formed. So, also, of the public schools: an impulse was given to them which soon absorbed all special attempts at education, and the Seminary was converted into the principal building for the graded school system.

In an article contributed to the Geneseo Republic, of December 15, 1865, by Mr. Merritt Munson, one of the prominent citizens and early settlers, showing the standing of the town in 1853, the following statement is made:

" Number of families within the corporation, - - -	45

Increase in thirteen years. 14 to 1."

The article further says :

" At the time mentioned (Jan. 1, 1853), there was no church edifice in town (the Congregational Church used for a place of worship the upper story of the Seminary building); there were two lawyers, two doctors, one tavern, two shoe shops, three stores, one tin shop, one harness shop, two blacksmiths, one tailor, one cooper shop, which, together with some half dozen carpenters, joiners and masons, constituted the business force of the town.

The lawyers were : James M. Allan and W. Sanford ; the doctors, Enos Pomeroy and R. J. Stough ; the merchants, Henry G. Sleight, Perry Brothers, and G. H. King ; the shoemakers, E. Bryant and John Gustus ; the landlord, George Richards ; tinner, John Anderson ; harness-maker, Josiah Stewart ; blacksmiths, Lyman Snow and Hiram Deyo ; cooper, S. Howard, and tailor, James Young."

In June, 1855, the editor of the Rock Islander visited Geneseo. An article from his pen was published in the Henry County Dial, of June 21, from which a good idea of the growth and trade of the town at that period may be obtained. He says :

" During the year 1854, there were one hundred new buildings erected in Geneseo, and thus far in the present year (1855), there have been about seventy built. * * * Four hotels are well supported, and doing a good trade. * * * Several new mercantile buildings have been and are still being erected. That of the Perry Brothers is thirty-five by sixty-five feet, and three stories high. Sleight Brothers are also erecting a good mercantile house opposite the southwest corner of the park. * * * The Methodist Episcopal Church, now under the care of Rev. H. J. Humphreys, is to have the first large church bell in the county. It will cost $300. * * *

The professions are well represented in the village. There are three lawyers, a half a dozen or more physicians, and five ministers—some of whom are retired. The town has three drug stores, three groceries, two furniture stores, three shoe stores, two stove and hardware stores, two tin shops, eight dry-goods stores, one clothing store, three lumber yards, four blacksmith shops, one saddler shop, two livery stables, one bakery, one banking house, two carriage factories, one jewelry store, one meat market, four joiner shops, three forwarding houses, one of which does a business of 2,500 bushels of corn daily."

A great part of this trade had come to Geneseo after the year 1853, and this advance in business has kept steadily on, until this number of business houses is in nearly all cases doubled, and many others added.

On February 14, 1855, Geneseo was incorporated as a town, and remained under that form of government until February 16, 1865, when, by a special act of legislature, it was incorporated as a city.

The cabin of R. R. Stewart was the first hotel in town. He sold this to Mr. A. Miller, in the year 1854, who removed the cabin, and erected a frame structure in its place. This he enlarged at various times, and occupied until 1864, when it was destroyed by fire. He at once began the erection of the present fine structure, capable of accommodating over one hundred guests, which was opened to the public in June, 1866.

The building of mills was commenced in 1855, when the first one was erected near the railroad. In a few years after another was added, and again a few years later, a third. All are in successful operation at present.

The number of fine business houses and palatial residences show wealth and taste, and evince that Geneseo will keep pace in the march of improvement with the beautiful and well tilled country around her.

VILLAGE CORPORATION.

Geneseo was incorporated as a village under a board of trustees, by special act of the General Assembly, approved February 14, 1855. The following were the charter members of the board: Merritt Munson, Enos Pomeroy, Robert Getty, John Willshire, Alfred W. Perry.

The election boards were as follows: First election, April 2, 1855: seventy-six votes polled—Merritt Munson, President, O. A. Turner, A. W. Curtis, J. F. Dresser, Luther C. Sleight.

Second election, April 7, 1856. James M. Allan, President, H. McArthur, T. D. Crook, O. P. Beebe, O. A. Turner.

Third election, April 6, 1857. F. P. Brown, President, Robert Getty, H. A. Ainsworth, J. B. Hagin, J. D. K. Sleight.

Fourth Election, April 5, 1858. Robert Getty, President, F. P. Brown, Solon Fleming, J. M. Hosford, Liberty Crosset.

Fifth election, April 4, 1859. Joshua Harper, President, J. P. Long, Joseph Hammond, Cyrus Kinsey, Enos Pomeroy.

Sixth election, April 2, 1860. Joseph Hammond, President, Cyrus Kinsey, J. P. Long, Elisha M. Stewart, W. P. Blackiston.

Seventh election, April 1, 1861. George Richards, President, David L. Perry, P. H. Sniff, Albert McCurdy, J. B. Byers.

Eighth election, April 7, 1862. James McBroom, President, A. B. Kinsey, E. M. Stewart, J. F. Dresser, Solon Kendall.

Ninth election, April 6, 1863. James McBroom, President, Solon Kendall, E. A. Wood, J. J. Town, P. H. Beveridge.

Tenth election, April 4, 1864. I. N. Wilson, President, P. H. Beveridge, E. A. Wood, Albert McCurdy, Peter Worrall.

Village Clerks. William T. Allan, 1855 to 1859. R. F. Steele, 1859 to 1862. J. F. Dresser, 1862 to 1863. Solon Kendall, 1863 to 1864. James McBroom, 1864 to 1865.

CITY CORPORATION.

The act of the Legislature incorporating Geneseo as a city was approved February 16, 1865. It provides for a city government consisting of a Mayor, elected annually, and a Board of Aldermen, two of whom are elected from each ward, and hold their office two years. The city is at present divided into two wards. The names of the original incorporators are: Isaac N. Wilson, Andrew Crawford and Joseph A. Sawyer. The following is a list of the Mayors of the city since the adoption of the charter of 1865.

Mayors. George E. Wait, 1865 to 1867. Joseph Hammond, 1867 to 1870. John D. Grant, 1870 to 1871. Warren P. Cook, 1871 to 1874. Robert F. Steele, 1874 to 1877.

Aldermen. 1865.—James Bradley, I. N. Stewart, Joseph Hammond, E. A. Wood.

1866.—I. N. Stewart, Joseph Hammond, E. M. Stewart, Alexander White.

1867.—E. M. Stewart, S. S. Throop, Isaac N. Wilson, Alexander White.

1870.—Albert H. Wood, William Leach, Daniel Jones, Warren P. Cook.

1871.—Isaac N. Wilson, George A. Brown, A. Perry Fisk, William Leach.

1872.—George A. Brown, George Turner, Isaac N. Wilson, A. Perry Fisk.

1874.—James Morton, Simon Ott, Lorenzo Hitchcock, William Smith.

1875.—William Smith, Lorenzo Hitchcock, H. V. Fisher, Philip S. Schnabele.

1876.—J. N. Green, George G. Mowry, H. V. Fisher, Philip S. Schnabele.

City Clerks. William T. Allan, 1865 to 1866. R. F. Steele, 1866 to 1872. Thomas R. Harker, 1872 to 1873. L. C. Campbell, 1873 to 1874. Charles Morton, 1874 to 1875. William H. Owen, 1875 to 1877.

Police Magistrates. J. A. McConnell, 1865 to ——. L. C. Campbell, 1868 to 1873. F. H. McArthur, 1873 to 1877.

THE PRESS.

In August, 1855, James Bowie commenced the publication of the Geneseo Democratic Standard, which was the first newspaper started here. It was established in the interests of large land-holders on the North Side, and to build up that part of the town. At the end of about a year and a half the enterprise was abandoned, and the proprietor went to New Orleans. He returned in 1857, revived the Standard as a Democratic party paper, published it about a year, when its light went out forever. It was, the last time, printed in the building now owned and occupied by McBroom & Wilson as a grain warehouse. Bowie died here in 1859.

In June, 1856, I. S. Hyatt issued the first number of the Geneseo Republic from the building on Main Street, occupied by I. S. Hutchins as a furniture store, and now by Charles Sweney. Ill fortune attending the publication of it, Hyatt failed, and the paper passed into the hands of assignees—J. M. Allan and O. A. Turner—in February, 1858, of whom it was purchased within a month, by Merritt Munson. In December, 1858, the paper was bought by Hobbs & Lewis, of Mr. Munson. In November, 1863, Hobbs acquired the interest of Lewis; at the same time Adam Lieberknecht purchased the Advocate of James M. Hosford, and on the 18th of that month the Republic and Advocate were consolidated, and for more than thirteen years have been published under the name of The Geneseo Republic, of which the senior partner has been the editor for nearly nineteen years. It is Republican in politics.

In August, 1858, Merritt Munson began the publication of a monthly, called The Christian Philosopher, and continued it one year. The name fairly indicated its aims and objects. It was ably conducted, and well sustained.

Early in the campaign of 1860 an association of Republicans started a paper called the Journal. It was printed at the Republic office. Its editors were, in their order, James Ireland, George W. Shaw, William Smith, and lastly, George A. Hobbs. It died with the close of the campaign, too many cooks having hastened its demise.

In early Summer, 1862, Major James M. Hosford, of the old "Henry County Regiment," commenced the publication of the Union Advocate, in rooms in the bank building, on Main Street, and continued the same until November, 1863. Being at the front during these years, fighting the battles of his country, the paper suffered for want of his personal attention, and on his return, finding better business, he sold out to Mr. Lieberknecht, who disposed of it as before mentioned. It was a first-class Republican journal.

On January 16, 1874, Belvel & Fisher issued the first number of The Henry County News, and published it four weeks, when Mr. Fisher sold his interest to Henry L. Kiner. The firm was Belvel & Kiner until June 5, 1874, when Belvel sold to John Christian, and since that date the paper has been published by John Christian and Henry L. Kiner, under the firm name of Christian & Kiner. It is neutral in politics. By reason of its thorough attention to the interests of the county, it has acquired a good and influential circulation. It maintains local reporters, and correspondents in nearly all the villages and towns of the county. Its editor is Henry L. Kiner.

THE SCHOOLS.

The present excellent public schools of Geneseo have grown up gradually from a very small beginning in a rude cabin erected on the public square in 1837. Hence the first educational efforts are coeval with the existence of the place, and have grown as it has advanced in population and importance.

To Miss Susannah Stewart, now Mrs. James M. Allan, of Geneseo, belongs the honor of having first taught the young idea how to shoot within the precincts of this city. She taught in the cabin aforesaid, on the public square, in 1837. For the interest some of the "old settlers" will take in the matter, we here introduce the roll of her pupils, sixteen in number: Emily Ward, now Mrs. Olmstead, of Galesburg, Ill.; Orlo Manville, now living in Kansas; Roderick S. Manville, deceased; Newton Manville, residing in Iowa; Harriet Cone, now Mrs. Wm. Miller, of Geneseo; Clara Cone, now Mrs. E. M. Stewart, of Geneseo; Alonzo Cone, deceased; LaFayette Stewart, removed to Wichita, Kansas; Josiah T. Stewart, deceased; Geo. W. Stewart, Wichita, Kansas; Mary Bartlett, at present Mrs. Hiram Cady, of Geneseo; George Bartlett, deceased; Amanda Bartlett, now Mrs. Taylor, residing in California; Orin Bartlett, Mercer Co., Ill.; Augustus Bartlett, deceased; and Sarah Ann Bartlett, at present residing in Mercer Co., Ill.

It will be seen that only three of the above are now living in Geneseo, and that five of the number are dead.

While Miss Susannah Stewart was managing the first school in the canvas-covered cabin in Geneseo in 1837, two of her sisters were teaching elsewhere in the county, viz.: Narcissa, afterwards Mrs. Wells, taught in the vicinity of George Brandenburgh's, probably at the house of P. K. Hanna; and Parmelia, now Mrs. Dr. Hume, of Geneseo, taught at Wethersfield. The Stewarts were therefore the pioneer teachers in Henry County.

In the Summer of 1838 a frame building was erected on the site of the present Congregational Church, which was used both for school and church purposes, till the seminary was built, in 1846. Narcissa Stewart taught here in 1838. During 1839, a young Mr. Holmes, who had been sent by Rev. Jason Chapin, taught. In the Spring of 1840 Mr. Chapin came, with his family, and in June he commenced teaching, and continued as teacher till he was removed by death, in September, 1846.

One of the earliest provisions in the sale of town lots was, that the proceeds of a certain number should be applied to the erection of a seminary of higher learning.

Rarely has a more noteworthy self-denial been exhibited than that which prosecuted the building of the brick seminary. In the poverty of the people they subscribed labor. They worked in the brick-yard; they worked upon the building, tending masons. Some young men, just coming of age, subscribed two hundred dollars, to be worked out. Then, just as the walls were up, a storm blew down the sides, which were immediately rebuilt. The building was opened for school in the Autumn of 1846.

The institution was chartered by the Legislature of Illinois as the Geneseo Manual Labor High School; this name was afterward, by the same authority, changed to Geneseo Seminary. Rufus Hubbard, the first president of the board of trustees, E. Cone and Jairus Wilcox were the incorporators.

Following Mr. Chapin, for seven years, the seminary was under the care of Rev. A. Lyman, who by teaching, by persistent efforts, at home and abroad, to raise funds for the completion of the seminary, getting three thousand dollars from the East, and by preaching a part of the time for the church, performed a prodigious amount of laborious and self-denying service. Miss Pomeroy (now Mrs. F. Bascom), Miss Hooker, Miss Foster and Miss Earl were his accomplished assistants.

Rev. S. H. Waldo was for a few months in temporary charge of the institution. Then Mr. M. S. Crosswell, just from Amherst College, followed, for a short time. He enlisted in the army, and came out from a four years' service as lieutenant colonel, and is now in the ministry in California. He was succeeded by a Mr. Bartlett, who was assisted by Miss Sarah Andrews and Miss Hume. After accomplishing a great deal of good, the seminary found itself competing with the increasingly popular system of graded schools, and the place too small to sustain both. Having a considerable amount of accumulated indebtedness, the trustees at last sold the brick seminary building and grounds to the city, to be used as the High School of the public system : and so in a new form it is serving the cause of higher education.

The present system of graded schools was instituted in 1856. At that time the Central School-house was built. This was one year previous to the purchase of the Seminary building by the school authorities ; and this latter, together with the former building, then containing four rooms, gave ample accommodations to all who desired the advantages afforded for an education. Prof. Abbott was Superintendent. A few changes in this office brought it down to the administration of Prof. G. G. Alvord, now in charge of the public schools of the city of Cairo, Ill. ; after whom Prof. E. P. Burlingham was Superintendent.

By the year 1866 the increase in the growth of the city demanded more room, and the building on the north side of the railroad was erected. It at first contained but four rooms, but two more were added in 1871. The basement of the Unitarian Church, also, has been procured, at a rental of $200 a year, and fitted up for a school-room.

At present there are three school-houses in the district, and the value of the school property is about $20,000. The amount expended for school purposes during the year 1876 was $8,191.03. Fifteen teachers were employed, as follows : three in the High School, three in the Grammar Schools, four in the Intermediate and five in the Primary Departments. The number of pupils enrolled during the year was 1,021 ; average attendance, 711. The district is out of debt, and the schools are all in a prosperous condition. The number in attendance at the High School was 121 ; in the Grammar Schools 136 ; Intermediate Departments, 346 ; Primary Departments, 418.

THE CHURCHES.

The city contains thirteen regularly organized churches, the oldest of which is the Congregationalist. It was organized by an ecclesiastical council in Bergen, Genesee County, New York, September 13, 1836. Rev. Messrs. Wilcox, Hull and Bridgman acted in the council. The two Messrs. Cone, C. K. Bartlett, J. C. Ward, and Harry Manville, with their wives and the three children, Mary E. and Amanda E. Bartlett, and Harriet Cone, constituted the church of thirteen members. Elisha Cone and J. C. Ward were chosen and ordained as deacons. A sermon was preached from that beautifully appropriate text : "He that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing precious seed, shall doubtless come again with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him."

The little church was now ready to go forth to the place assigned it by the colony, whither it arrived in due time. At first religious services were held in the cabins of the settlers ; but as soon as the rude schoolhouse was erected on the public square, it was used also as a house of worship.

The first communion was held in the house of Deacon Ward, April 18, 1838. It was a day well remembered, by a hail storm, which broke nearly all the windows in the settlement. The officiating minister was Rev. Ithamar Pillsbury, of Andover. The noted edifice on the square was used by the congregation but one Summer. In 1838 another school building was erected, which was subsequently removed to the site of the present Congregational Church. This was used for church purposes till 1848, when the seminary building was completed, and was thenceforward used as a house of worship till the erection of the church, in 1855. The church was dedicated on the 28th of May, 1856, the sermon being preached by the pastor, Rev. S. H. Waldo. The occasion was one of great rejoicing by the people. The church was the one still occupied by the Congregational body of this city. At the time it was built it was considered the finest church building west of Chicago. For a while lay services were conducted. The first regular pastor was Rev. Jairus Wilcox, who in May, 1838, came to the colony with his family, and in June was elected pastor, upon a salary of four hundred dollars. In the seminary at Yale he had promised Flavel Bascom that he would go West. It was in response to Mr. Bascom's continued solicitations that he came. Arrived at Chicago, after ten days upon the lakes, his family was met by C. K. Bartlett and Anson M. Hubbard, who moved them in. Having been drawn through many sloughs with chains, they came to Green River, where there was neither bridge, nor ferry, nor ford. Finding Mrs. Gordon at her home, upon the bank, it took but a word to interest her in the new family. She said she would set them over; and so, instructing them to swim the horses over by the side of the canoe, she had the wheels of each wagon set into two canoes, and so ferried them over.

Going first into Deacon Ward's cabin, Mr. Wilcox built a log shanty on his place, north of the village, and covered it with hay. There they lived nine months. A traveling clergyman, upon being invited to spend the night with them, declined, saying that his health and life were too valuable to be thus exposed. Mr. Wilcox had a business tact, which made him useful to the secularities of the place. It has been said that the community is not a little indebted to his taste and enterprise for the ornamenting of the public square and the streets of the town with trees. He was also greatly interested in the seminary, making two trips to the East in its behalf, and looking up the first two principals of the institution — Revs. Jason Chapin and Addison Lyman. Indeed he took up the entire interest of the colony into his aspiration, and accomplished great good as the pioneer missionary. In 1845 he closed his labors here and removed to Chicago, to take charge of the Seamen's Bethel, in which service he was engaged until called to his reward, leaving his family to grow up in that city into a sphere of influence and usefulness. After him Rev. William T. Allan supplied the pulpit six or eight months.

The next minister was Rev. Addison Lyman, from Torrington, Connecticut, who began his services here on the 6th of October, 1845. In this capacity he served for two years, until he entered upon the principalship of the seminary, continuing, however, to supply the desk for some months, till a pastor was secured. Rev. C. S. Cady served the church one year from the 1st of October, 1848. Rev. A. J. Copeland then served the church, from the 1st of December, 1849, to February, 1852. The church then called Rev. H. Ward; but having already accepted a call at Lyndon, he declined. His most acceptable ministry there was soon cut short by a casualty that ended his life. Rev. J. W. North occupied the pulpit for one year, from November, 1852. The next pastor was Rev. S. H. Waldo, who labored three years, from January, 1855, to January, 1858. Under his pastorate this house of worship was erected, forming a new era in the history of the church. Next comes the pastorate of Rev. Milo N. Miles, during the two years of 1858 and 1859. Then that of Rev. B. C. Ward for one year and a half. Rev. J. T. Cook, now a resident physician, two years, those of 1862 and 1863. During the year 1864, Rev. M. N. Miles served as supply. In May, 1865, Rev. Harry Brickett began his labors and remained seven years. He resigned in 1872, and was succeeded by H. G. McArthur, who occupied the pulpit two years, and was followed by Rev. T. C. Jerome one year. At the expiration of that time the present pastor, Rev. O. W. Fay, was called. There are now 275 members.

The Sabbath-school was commenced in the rude tabernacle upon the square, in 1837, and has been continued through Summer and Winter. Its first superintendent was Deacon Ward, who continued in this office until his removal from the place, in 1855, except that Rev. John T. Pierce held this office during 1852 and 1853. After him Mr. John G. Walker served as superintendent two or three years; then Deacon Huntington, and then Mr. A. M. Hubbard. Mr. H. Thomas, in 1856, was installed in this office, and remained in it till 1871, with the exception of the year and a half of the efficient service of J. T. K. Sleight, himself a child of the Sabbath-school. Under Mr. Thomas the monthly Sabbath-school concert was introduced, and has been continued with increasing interest and profit. During the last ten years the number of scholars has increased from eighty-five to two hundred and fifty.

Baptist Church. In March, 1860, Rev. W. G. Johnson visited this place on his way from Rock Island to Princeton, Bureau Co. On the 20th of that month a meeting was held at the Seminary Hall, which was the initial movement to the organization of the Baptist Church of Geneseo. April 14, the organization was effected by the union in church covenant of twenty-three persons, whose names are as follows:

Rev. and Mrs. W. G. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Topping, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. McCartney, Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Like, Mr. H. Like, Mr. R. V. Amsden, Miss Laura Ann Amsden, John and Matilda Vernon, Delia Frank, Emeline Goss, Sarah Lynch, F. McHose, C. L. Ainsworth, W. B. Johnson, Emma Taylor and Sarah Caulkins.

The pastor, Rev. W. G. Johnson, remained some time, and was succeeded by Rev. E. D. Dickerson. Others who have filled the pulpit are Rev. W. P. Pattison, Rev. A. R. Newton and Rev. Mr. Sharpe. Rev. L. J. Langridge is the present pastor.

The meeting for organization was held in the M. E. Church; afterwards they occupied the Seminary Hall till the present church was completed in 1864. The building cost $4,000. The present membership is about 120, and the average attendance at the Sunday-school, 75.

The Presbyterian Church. This congregation, which now numbers seventy-five members, and one hundred Sunday scholars, was organized Nov. 3, 1863, with fifteen members. They were: A. McClain and wife, G. W. Goshorn and wife, M. S. Boice and wife, J. W. McCracken and wife, Charles W. Long and wife, Mrs. Morton, Mrs. Bracken, Mrs. Crawford, F. W. Gale and George Richards. The committee to organize, Rev. S. T. Wilson and Rev. David Kelley, of Rock Island, were appointed by the Rock River Presbytery. The earliest meetings of this congregation were held in a small frame building on North Street, now occupied by the Swede Methodists. In 1866, they erected their present commodious house of worship which they now occupy. It cost the church $9,000. October 20, 1864, Rev. J. C. Barr was called to the pastorate, and remained until Sept. 2, 1871. Nov. 1 of that year, Rev. E. H. Curtis was called, and occupied the pulpit until April, 1873. The present pastor, Rev. A. J. Stead, commenced his labors Sept. 1, 1874.

Protestant Episcopal (Trinity) Church. About the year 1856, meetings were held by persons embracing this faith, and in the following year the parish was organized. The first wardens were: Perry Ransom and George Condish, and the vestrymen, John T. Young, Benj. Graham, William Saunders and John Huestes. Divine services were held in various places until the year 1863, when the present house of worship was constructed, after the English style of architecture, costing $2,500.

The names of the successive clergymen are as follows: Rev. Alanson Welton, Rev. Samuel Goodale, Rev. William Greene, Rev. P. B. Morrison, Rev. Geo. C. Griswold, Rev. Dr. Walker, and Rev. F. B. Nash. The present rector, Rev. T. N. Benedict, took charge of the parish, Nov. 25, 1873. The membership is now about 45, and the attendance at Sunday-school 40.

The Unitarian Church. The members comprising this religious society, met at first for divine worship in Sawyer's Hall, where in the month of November, 1868, they were organized into a church. They continued to meet in this hall until 1874, when they erected their present house of worship, costing about $6,000.

Rev. M. J. Miller, who is still pastor, presided at the organization, when eighteen members were admitted. There are now nearly 100, and a Sunday-school which enrolls 125 pupils.

German M. E. Church. In 1860, in January, the first meetings of the Germans belonging to the M. E. Church, were held in private houses. Shortly after they were organized into an ecclesiastical body by Rev. William Kammermeyer, and twenty-three persons united. The same year the church and parsonage were erected. The church was used until 1874, when the present comfortable structure was finished and occupied. The parsonage is yet used. Rev. Kammermeyer remained two years, when Rev. Charles Schneider was called, who preached three years. Since then the succession of pastors has been as follows: Rev. Henry Withorn, two years; Rev. William Winter, three years; Rev. W. Zappen, one year; Rev. Gustav Zolman, one year; Rev. Frederick Arensperger, two years; Rev. William Bulke, three years; Rev. William Schoerig, one year; when the present pastor, Rev. Louis Kunz was called. The number of members is now forty-two, and the number of Sunday-school scholars forty.

The Catholic Church. Movements to organize a Catholic Church in Geneseo were begun by laymen, prominent among whom were James Bradley and Patrick O'Connell. Meetings were held in private houses and in a room over Mr. Bradley's store, when, in 1863, the church was organized. At that date it comprised about forty families, and for some time was ministered to by priests from Rock Island. The congregation is in the Diocese of Chicago, of which the Rt. Rev. Thomas Foley is Bishop. In the Spring of the same year they were organized; they erected their church at a cost of nearly $8,000. The Rev. Thomas Ackley, preached to them during the years 1866-7. Rev. Frederick Smith followed him in 1867. Rev. H. O. Gara McShane commenced his labors in 1874, and continues in charge. The number of families is now about 400. The attendance at Sunday-school is about 50.

German Lutheran Church. The proper title is the Evangelical Lutheran German. This church was organized in 1863, when the following named persons became members: A. Eichhorn, W. Kittenzer, G. Wiegand, A. Wiele, J. Young, L. Hilmer, M. Schuh, J. Hitzer.

The church building was erected in 1864, and cost $1,500. The following, in the order named, have officiated as pastors: E. Sunfstueck, C. W. Ernst, S. Hamm, and P. Hanson.

Zion's Church of the Evangelical Association. The members comprising this church were organized into an ecclesiastical body in the Spring of 1857. At this time about fifteen persons united, and until the erection of their first church edifice in 1860, held divine service in the houses of the members. This year they erected a house of worship, costing $1,000. This they occupied ten years, when, the growth of the congregation demanding more room, the church was sold and the present larger and more commodious house was erected. This latter cost nearly $6,000.

The Rev. Conrad Speilmann presided at the organization, and occasionally preached here, the charge being until 1870 a mission. After him the following ministers have successively filled the pulpit; Rev. John Dengel, Rev. Amos Gackly, Rev. Enoch V. Freeden, Rev. John Dengel, Rev. S. E. Heilmann; Rev. Conrad Speilmann, Rev. John Kurz, Rev. Enoch V. Freeden, Rev. Michael Heyl, and the present pastor, Rev. Martin Stamm. The membership is now 154, and the attendance at the Sunday-school, 150.

The services are held in the German language, almost the entire congregation being of that nationality.

The Swedish Lutheran Church was organized at the house of John Gustus, June 27, 1856, with twelve members. Meetings for religious exercises were held in private houses until the church was erected. This was completed and occupied about the year 1859, at a cost of $700. In 1874 it was remodeled and enlarged, at an expense of $800, and is now a very comfortable structure. The first regular pastor was Rev. Nils Anderson, who came in 1865, and remained till 1869. The following year, the Rev. C. J. Malmberg was called, who filled the pulpit six years. At present the congregation is without a settled minister.

The membership is 214. The attendance at Sunday-school is about 40; the children only of this denomination attending.

The Swede Methodist. Organized in 1864, by Rev. B. Witing. Services were held at that time in the German Church, and the next year at Moderwell's Hall, on Main Street. Rev. A. L. Erickson was pastor. In 1866, the present church was built, the lot costing $600. The following have officiated as pastors: Rev. O. Gunderson, two years; Rev. A. L. Erickson, one year; Rev. John Lind, three years; Rev. John Wigren, two years; Rev. H. W. Ekland is the present pastor.

Methodist Episcopal Church. The earliest meetings of this church in Geneseo were held in the old Seminary. The first class was organized by Rev. H. J. Humphrey about 1854, and consisted of six members. The first quarterly conference was held at the house of Rev. H. J. Humphrey, on the 3d of November, 1856; Rev. R. N. Morse, presiding elder; Rev. H. J. Humphrey, preacher in charge; Caleb Rauson, recording steward; Rev. G. C. Woodruff, secretary. The presiding elder's claim was at $60; the preacher's at $436. The names of the original members were as follows: Rev. H. Van Order, Levi Hamilton, G. A. Luvin, D. B. Brown, S. S. Throop, J. A. McConnell.

The first church was built on the west side of South State Street, and is now known as Teutonia Hall. The second church was built on the east side of North State Street. It was commenced under the pastorate of Rev. H. Ritchie, in 1865, completed under the administration of Rev. S. G. J. Worthington, and dedicated by Bishop T. Bowman, in September, 1872. Its cost was about $22,000. Rev. H. G. Humphrey, the first pastor, served one year. He was followed by Rev. A. D. McCool, one year; Mr. McCool's successors were Rev. J. Soul, two years; Rev. E. Ranson, two years; Rev. N. C. Lewis, one year; Rev. E. Wasmuth, three years; Rev. H. Richie, two years; Rev. A. P. Crist, two years; Rev. S. G. J. Worthington, three years; Rev. W. P. Graves, two years; Rev. M. Spurlock, two years. The present pastor is Rev. G. W. Arnold. The membership of the church at present (1877) is 200, with the attendance of an equal number in the Sunday-school.

ORION

Is situated in the western part of the county, near the junction of the R., R. I. & St. L., and Rockport, Peoria & R. I. Railroads, and contains about five hundred inhabitants. It was laid out December 26, 1853, by Charles W. Dean, and was for some time called Deanington. The change of the name was made in 1867.

The earliest settler in the township was Mahlon B. Lloyd, who located in 1837, and has always been most favorably known. He labored hard in the interest of the railroads through this part of the county, and devoted much time and considerable of his wealth to their furtherance. In 1852 he brought the first reaper into the township. His son Charles was the first white male child born within its limits. Mrs. Mary Ann Jordan, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth K. Blackfan, was the first white female child born in the township.

In 1840 Dr. Alfred Trego commenced the practice of medicine here. He, and two horses he drove, were universally known to the early residents. The Blackfan families came about 1841. Mrs. Elizabeth K. Blackfan, wife of William Blackfan, who died in 1843, kept the first post-office in this locality. She was appointed to the office November 12, 1850, then called Orion, and held the position until after the location of Orion in 1853. The office was called La Grange, having been established at that colony purchase. This being abandoned, the office was removed to Mrs. Blackfan's house. This woman, though early left with a family to support, succeeded in gaining considerable property, and was always an earnest worker for the moral growth of the town, and aided as much as any settler in its material prosperity.

Some of the first educators in the township were Charles Trego, who taught the first select school; Miss M. E. Laird, who was similarly employed seven years, and Sarah B. Lewis, who taught the first district school. This was held in 1847. The deficiency heretofore in educational facilities was supplied by these select schools. That of Miss Laird gained considerable notoriety, pupils from other states attending.

The marriage of Edward Blackfan to Susan Trego, in 1844, was the first celebrated in Western Township. As these persons professed the Quaker belief, they obtained their letters of permission from the society in Pennsylvania. Four years after H. B. Engle and Sarah B. Elwell were the first married by a minister. She was for thirteen years secretary of the Lyceum, so favorably known and so well maintained here. It was organized in 1846, in the house of Edward Blackfan, under the name of La Grange Lyceum, and until the erection of the first school-house in the township, in 1853, was held in private houses. That year it was held in this building. It is now changed to a historical society, which meets annually.

No regular religious services were held until 1853, when a Methodist minister, Rev. Murch, preached in the school-house.

As soon as Mr. Dean had laid out the town, he erected a store building, in which he opened the first grocery of the village. In 1856 a saloon was opened by Stephen McCarty, and not long after five resolute ladies went in a body to his saloon and emptied his liquors in the street. The enraged saloon-keeper had them arrested, but in the trial they were acquitted.

Until the completion of the railroad but little trade was carried on at this point, but two or three stores were open, and a few shops of various kinds supplied the needs of the community. The first railroad train came into the village in October, 1870, and was received with universal greeting by the citizens of Orion. The railroads at once awakened new enterprises. Buildings were immediately erected, additional stores and shops were built, and the town began to show signs of an active business. Since that time the population has more than trebled, and trade and commerce have kept pace. Owing to the absence of a bank all exchange is carried on through the money order department of the post-office. This amounted during the year 1876 to $30,000.

There are at present nine or ten stores, as many shops, two grain houses and two hotels.

The village and township have an excellent war record. A large portion of Capt. J. A. Jordan's men of Company B, 37th Ill. Volunteer Infantry, were from this locality. It was this company that was promoted to Company A by an order given on the streets of St. Louis when passing in review towards Gen. Fremont's headquarters. They were on their way to aid Gen. Mulligan at Lexington, and received this sudden promotion on account of superior drill and skill in military tactics.

The village is situated on a beautiful rolling prairie; a healthful location, and commanding a fine view of surrounding prairie lands, which, though tenantless forty years ago, are now covered with well tilled farms.

THE SCHOOLS.

In 1852 there were but five families living in Western Township. But knowing that "knowledge is power," they voted a tax upon themselves and the land speculators, and proceeded to erect a school building. These persons were Mr. Lloyd, H. B. Engle, Edward Blackfan, George Anderson and Elizabeth Blackfan. The school-house stood a short distance northwest of Mr. Lloyd's farm-house, almost within the present limits of the corporation of Orion. The building was erected by Charles Dean, who charged $140 for his services. In 1854 it was moved to Deanington (now Orion), and in 1855 the first school was opened by Charles Moon. In time the population grew to such an extent that it was found necessary to erect a more commodious edifice. It was built at a cost of $5,900 in 1873. There are now enrolled 125 pupils. The school is divided into three departments; the course of study embracing nine years.

THE CHURCHES.

The Methodist Episcopal Church was organized in 1853, in the district school-house near the village of Orion. The following persons were among its first members: John McHenry, Mary McHenry, Henry Kyle, Mary Kyle and Eliza J. McWhinney. The exact membership is not known. The first regular appointed minister to this class was Rev. G. W. Brown; then came H. J. Humphrey, James Sheldon, J. N. Bartells, John Grundy, J. W. Odell, G. M. Morey, T. Hoagland, T. Head, P. Warner, H. C. King, J. Q. Adams and E. N. Bentley, present pastor. They held their meetings in the school-house until the year 1867, when they erected a church costing about $3,500. The membership has increased to about sixty. The Sabbath-school numbers nearly seventy scholars.

The following persons are trustees, and have held their position since its first regular organization: J. A. Jordan, H. J. Jordan, Edmond Bell, John McHenry, Henry Kyle and Clawson States.

The Rev. F. M. Chaffee is the first resident presiding elder of the M. E. Church of Henry County, residing in the district parsonage built at Orion in 1873, and valued at $3,000.

The Mt. Pleasant Baptist Church was organized November 21, 1843, at the house of V. W. Washburn, in Colona Township. This was the first Baptist Church organized in the county, and was the result of the missionary labors of Rev. Thomas Powell. At its organization the following persons united: Luke C. and Mrs. Mary A. Sheldon, from the Baptist Church of Sheffield, Connecticut, V. W. and Mrs. Elizabeth W. Washburn from the Baptist Church of Springfield, Mass. These four persons constituted the charge. Until 1856 the pastors were Rev. O. Adams, E. Fisher, J. W. Dennison, Robert Jordan, F. Ketchum and A. G. Eberhart. In 1856 Rev. William Talbott, from Cambridge, preached one-fourth of the time in the school-house about four miles northwest of Orion. Nine years after they commenced to hold services in Orion in the school-house. Rev. A. Edson was pastor. He was succeeded by Revs. T. Sheppard, C. T. Emmerson and the present pastor, Rev. J. C. Lewis. One year after coming to Orion they erected a house of worship, at a cost of $5,000. There are now about fifty members. The Sunday-school was organized about twenty years ago, and now enrolls about eighty scholars.

The United Brethren (Eden) Church is located on section 16, in Western Township, and was organized in the year 1867. Meetings, however, had been held about a year previous under the charge of the Rev. St. Clair Ross and the Rev. D. F. Bair. At the organization twenty-eight persons united, and from these A. Norman, H. D. Keel and W. M. Cessna were chosen trustees.

Shortly after the organization they erected their church at an expense of $2,000. Services are held here each alternate Sabbath. The names of the pastors of this congregation are as follows: Revs. St. Clair Ross, E. Godfrey, P. R. Adams, W. B. Shiun; Rev. S. P. Davis is the present pastor. The circuit of this minister includes this church and those of Plainfield, Swedona and a class at Oak Ridge.

The Swedish Lutheran Church was organized May 26, 1870, with a membership of thirty persons, among whom were W. C. Snider, Jonas P. Petterson, A. P. Larson, Andrew Petterson, A. Rost, C. Ericson, C. M. Lindwall, J. P. Carlson, J. A. Petterson, G. Haglund, and others. Rev. Victor Setterdahl has been located here as pastor since its commencement. They now number two hundred and seventy-five communicants. They held their meetings in the Baptist Church until 1871, when they erected a commodious house costing $4,500. The Sabbath-school is generally well attended.

This congregation, in addition to their church, own a parsonage and church-yard.

ANDOVER.

The first white settler in what is now Andover, was a Dr. Baker, who built a log-house in the edge of White Oak Grove, just south of the Captain Mix place. Either the locality did not people fast enough to suit the doctor, or the situation was too healthy for business, for he shortly removed to the more congenial latitude of Green River. The first permanent settlement was in June, 1835, when Rev. Pillsbury, Slaughter, and Pike came as a committee of the New York Association to locate lands for a colony. They entered a large quantity of land, and laid the foundations of a city by platting a section of land into streets and squares, and lots and blocks; and to indicate that it was to be the center of intelligence and learning, they christened it Andover. They located the present Andover mill site, and erected a mill. Nat Huntoon, deceased, was the first miller, and his customers came 75 to 80 miles, glad to find a mill so near. After several years' grinding and sawing, a freshet carried away the dam and left the mill upside down. When the building of the mill was commenced the committee bought a bill of goods in St. Louis to pay hands with, as these could be more easily obtained than money, and, supplying the actual necessities of the times, were preferable. As an example of the business done at this mill, and the mode of keeping accounts, the following bill on record in the County Clerk's office is given. It is indorsed "J. Jacobs' Return," and is an account of business at Andover mill, thirty-six years ago :

Wm. S. and Jesse Woolsey came out with the committee in 1835, but spent the ensuing Winter at Richland Grove. The nearest post-office was Knoxville, and early in the spring Wm. S. Woolsey started for the post-office after mail, but was compelled to turn back by the depth of water covering the flat prairies in the present Clover Township. Shortly after Eben Townsend succeeded in getting a mail route established with a post-office at Andover—not in the village, but in the residence where the venerable Aunty Miller now lives, near Wm. Bolténstern's. Letters cost 25 cents a piece, and when postage was reduced to 10 cents, they were considered a luxury which every one could enjoy.

The town was laid out by Eben Townsend, E. A. Mix, and Ithamar Pillsbury, trustees of the colony, on Dec. 29, 1841.

The first marriage in Andover was that of Rev. Ithamar Pillsbury and Caroline Miller, daughter of Deacon Miller. This occurred in 1837. The first child born in the colony was Mary E. Woolsey, daughter of Jesse Woolsey, now the wife of Edmund Buck, living near the village.

The settlers hauled wheat to Chicago and sold it at 37½ cents per bushel, camping out on the month's trip and carrying their provisions with them. Dressed pork was taken to Peoria and sold at one dollar per cwt., pay being taken chiefly in dry goods. Groceries could only be had for money, and those who were deprived of that article, went without—often the much-needed groceries. Cabins were constructed generally with only one room. The bed was made by placing one strong post in a certain position adjacent one corner, and by boring holes in the sides of it, and in a log in the wall corresponding in height with the hole in the post; two strong pieces of wood were fitted into these places, and slats laid from these poles to the wall. On this rude, strong structure the bed was placed, and to save space a bunk was constructed immediately over this, in which the younger members of the family were placed.

Sven Nelson was the first Swede settler in Andover or Henry County, coming with Capt. Thompson in 1840. His, however, was an isolated case, bringing no family, and it was not till 1847 that the Swedish emigration, with an advance guard of four families, commenced. In 1849, several more arrived in New York, in charge of Rev. L. P. Esbjom, a Lutheran preacher of much learning and ability. They were met by a committee of the association in New York and induced to change their plan of going to Knox County, and settle in Andover, by the donation of two lots for a church site. The present magnificent church of that denomination is the result of that settlement; and from that time to the present the Swedish settlement in and around Andover has steadily augmented by immigration from fatherland, until that nationality greatly predominates. The visitations of cholera in 1849-'52-'54, carried off great numbers of the Swedish settlers, who from their circumstances and habits of life, were poorly prepared to contend with such a scourge.

With the advent of the Swedish people, Americans, instead of settling in Andover, would go to other localities where the foreign element did not predominate. Another reason tended to cause persons coming to the West in quest of homes to "go by" Andover. The committee to purchase these lands represented $40,000 capital, and had entered twenty-two sections—14,080 acres—and held this large tract at too high a figure. Land was cheap at that date; the settler was generally more hardy than wealthy, and instead of buying of this colony, who had hoped to build up a large city, would purchase elsewhere, thereby giving the neighboring localities the start, which Andover has never been able to regain. The blocks comprise ten acres each, and, had the wishes of the founders of the colony, the New York Association, been fulfilled, a city equal to or greater than Galesburg, would now be seen. Andover is now largely owned by Swedes, who are a slow, pains-taking people, are mostly engaged in farming and gardening, and live a most careful, frugal life. Several are from Bishop Hill colony, and have become quite wealthy.

SCHOOLS.

About the year 1842 or '43, a small house for school purposes was built on the south side of the grove, about one mile and a half from the village. To this all the youth of Andover, and for several miles around, were sent until the year 1847. At that time the village was quite prosperous and a school was needed there. A small frame house was erected, which was used until the year 1862 or '63, when the present one was built. It contains two school-rooms and two recitation rooms. Two teachers are employed, and the attendance—nearly all Swedish children—whose parents, to their credit, always have their children instructed in the English language—is about 100.

THE CHURCHES.

The village contains three churches, the oldest of which is the Presbyterian. The meeting to organize was held on Sabbath, Dec. 10, 1837. This was held at the house of Rev. Ithamar Pillsbury, and eighteen persons united with the church, twelve of whom brought letters from other churches and three united on profession. The names of the fifteen were: James S. and Mrs. Abigail Miller, Erastus and Mrs. Esther Buck, Asa and Mrs. Clarissa Wisner, Thomas and Mrs. Wealthy Ann Blish, Albert Jagger, John S. Gardner, William L. Collier, Marcus B. Osborn, Austin R. Gould, Mrs. Hannah Hoyt, and Mrs. Freeloze Woolsey. Those uniting by profession were: Mrs. Eliza Osborn, Vincent S. Terry, and Edmund Buck. James S. Miller, Erastus Buck, and Marcus B. Osborn were elected elders, the two former also as deacons. Until the year 1856 they met for public worship in the school-houses and the residences of the members, generally using the house of Rev. Pillsbury. In the Spring of 1856, they erected a very comfortable house of worship, which is yet used. It cost about $3,000.

The congregation, by the year 1841, were able to call a pastor, and did so unanimously, choosing their founder, and he was installed April 12, and remained until Sept. 5, 1849, when he was dismissed at his own request. On May 10, 1854, the Rev. Thomas S. Denning was installed pastor, and was pastor until June 1, 1855. Rev. G. S. Inglis was sent as a stated supply, and preached till 1860. The Rev. Pillsbury was again called that year to the pastorate. During the eleven years of his absence, he had been five in Princeton, Bureau County, where he organized the present large congregation of Presbyterians. Six years he had passed at Macomb, part as President of the College there, and part as pastor of the church. He remained at Andover, the scene of his early western labors, until his death, which occurred on April 20, 1865. For three years the pulpit was filled by supplies, when Rev. R. L. Adams was called in Jan., 1869, and remained until Feb., 1874. He was succeeded by the present pastor, Rev. D. B. Fleming. The membership at one time was over 100, but owing to removals and other causes there are now only half that number. The Sunday-school has an attendance of about 40 scholars.

The Rev. Pillsbury, so often referred to in the early history of the county, was a man of unbounded energy and enterprise, and possessed of the largest Christian liberality. He was born at Dracut, Mass., Aug. 22, 1794. He was the youngest of a large family, the children of Joshua and Elizabeth Pillsbury. When 18 years old he enlisted in the army, and served some time in the War of 1812. He was licensed to preach in 1825, and remained for several years in the Eastern States. During the early part of the year 1835, he came through the West on a prospecting tour, and on his return to New York, organized the New York Association for the purpose of buying western lands, and locating colonies. The accounts of this latter work are fully given elsewhere, and to these Henry County owes much of her prosperity. Rev. Pillsbury organized fourteen churches in the West, the first at Burlington, Iowa, Aug. 27, 1836, and the last at Dixon, Ill., Jan. 29, 1852. He was married twice. Ten children blessed the second union, many of whom are now living in the county. Mrs. Pillsbury is now in Macomb. Rev. Pillsbury returned in 1860 to Andover, where he labored till death came; and he now lies buried in the little village church-yard near the scene of his early western labors.

The Swedish Evangelical Lutheran Church. The earliest meetings as well as the organization of this church took place at the house of H. A. Clementson, on the northeast corner of Sec. 18; but later services were held in a small school house in Andover, until 1852, when they occupied the basement of their first church, which was finished a few months later, at an expense of $2,000. The formal organization of the church was effected March 18, 1850, and among the communicants may be mentioned Rev. Lars P. Esbjorn and wife, Samuel Johnsson and wife, Jonas Anderson and wife, Anders Peter Larsson, Nils P. A. Peterson and wife and Olof Nordin.

In 1867-'69 they built a fine new brick church at a cost of $30,000. The pastors have been Rev. Lars P. Esbjorn, from 1849 to 1856; Jonas Swenson, 1858 to 1873, and Erland Carlsson, the present pastor, who has had charge since May 1, 1875. The present membership is 982, with a Sunday-school attendance of 150 children, and a Bible class of 60 persons.

ANNAWAN

Was laid out in 1853 by Charles Atkinson, now of Moline. It is a thriving little town on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad, 145 miles from Chicago, and 35 from Rock Island, and is quite a point for shipping grain and stock, the country around being a rich farming section.

Among the earliest settlers were Silas Morton, T. T., Josiah and Joseph L. Dow, the Messrs. Baker, Mesker, Barber, Rev. Asa Prescott, Congregational minister, and B. C. Sargent. The first building was erected by Silas Morton, for a store and dwelling, in 1853. B. C. Sargent purchased the place and became Mr. Morton's successor in the mercantile business.

The first school-house was built in 1853, and was also used to hold the first religious meetings in. Joseph L. Dow kept the first hotel. It was called the Union Hotel. Silas Morton officiated as the earliest Justice of the Peace and Postmaster, and was succeeded in the latter office by B. C. Sargent, who was Postmaster about four years.

INCORPORATION.

Pursuant to notice given Jan. 30, 1860, a meeting was called to consider the question of incorporating the village. F. H. Slater was chosen President, and G. W. Lewis, Clerk. The election was held on the 11th of February, 1860; sixty-one votes were polled, fifty-one for incorporation and ten against it. The following were the first

Board of Trustees—F. H. Slater, President; William W. Cole, Clerk; W. C. Carroll, Josiah Dow, D. L. Machesney.

E. A. Allen, principal of graded schools.

School Directors—S. L. Andrews, John L. Dow, J. P. Paine.

CHURCHES.

Congregational Church. This church was originally organized in the country, south of the village. Prior to 1866, they moved into town, and were supplied by Rev. Mr. Lyman, of Sheffield, who remained till the church was built in 1867, and was succeeded by Rev. Mr. Allen, who was followed by Rev. Mr. Howard, the preacher in charge at Atkinson. There was no regular pastor from that time till 1876, when Rev. John A. Griffin, of Atkinson, who still supplies the church, commenced preaching. The church is small, consisting of eleven members, and has no organized Sunday-school. It supports preaching in connection with the Atkinson Church.

The Annawan Baptist Church was organized in September, 1843, at Wethersfield, but was removed to its present location in 1854. Its original membership was eight, whose names were Rev. Edw. Otis, Hannah Otis, Edw. Otis, Merrill Otis, Hileman Otis, Sarah Otis, Chas. B. Miner and Mary G. Miner.

The present church was built in 1856, at a cost of $1,000. Its pastors have been Rev. Chas. E. Tinker, who served five years; Wm. McDermond, six years; R. Turner, two years; D. S. Dean, three years; R. Everts, one year; Wm. Storrs supplied six months; David Heagle, one year; J. D. Cromwell, supplied three months; Harvey Kingsbury, four years; G. A. Hogeboom supplied eight months; Edward Jones, one year; Wm. Archer one year.

G. W. Lewis, the present pastor, commenced his labors Nov. 12, 1876.

The present membership is 123, with a Sunday-school of 100.

The Church of the United Brethren in Christ. This church, now located three miles south of Annawan, at Fairview Chapel, was organized in the village of Annawan in May, 1854, by Almond Baker and others, with a total membership of eight persons. The first meetings were held in private houses and in unfinished or unoccupied buildings, and not until 1858 did the society build a church, which was dedicated by Rev. Wm. Rinekart, Dec. 15 of the same year, and cost, complete, nearly fourteen hundred dollars.

The following are the names of its pastors and their respective terms of service:

First services by Almond Baker, Julia Baker and Jared Sexton; William C. Romine preached one year; John Cabbage, two years; B. Wagner, two years; St. Clair Ross, two years; J. R. Evans, one year; David F. Bear, two years; M. Bonnet, one year; J. L. Condon, one year; David F. Bair, one year; Elisha Godfrey, one year; Amos Worman, one year; I. Kretzinger, one year; Seth Coats, two years; William Hankins and J. Edwards, one year; B. Wagner has served two years and is its present pastor.

The membership is one hundred and twenty-four, with a Sunday-school attendance of sixty.

The Congregational Church of South Grove was organized in May, 1854, at King's school-house, near the present residence of J. G. Heaps, at which place the earliest meetings had been held prior to organization.

The original membership was ten persons, as follows: Elijah Benedict, wife and son, Thomas J. Hunt and wife, Asa Prescott and wife, A. B. Noyes and wife and Mrs. J. McConney.

The society built their present church at Annawan in 1866, and has been under the charge of the following pastors: Rev. Asa Prescott, four years; Rev. A. Lyman, three years; Rev. Jno. Allen, one year; Rev. Alva Hurd, six months; Rev. O. Howard, one year; Rev. Jno. G. Griffin, present pastor, who has a membership of fifteen.

The Methodist Episcopal Church was organized in 1854, and held its earliest meetings at the old school-house in Annawan, and at the house of G. W. King. Among the first who composed its membership were John Hays, Jacob Hodges, Isaac Shelinberger, G. W. King, Almon Woodruff, Jno. P. Bassett, Wm. Benson, Solomon Minard, William Barber and their wives.

The church was built in 1858 at a cost of $2,000. The pastors who have officiated and their respective terms of service are the Revs. White, Pollard J. Moulton, Lynthecum, G. M. Morey, G. C. Woodruff, two years each; W. Odell, W. M. Sedore, one year each; G. W. Brown and R. L. W. Jameson, two years each; S. S. Gruber and W. E. Williamson, one year each, and A. E. Day, two years. Present pastor, G. C. Woodruff. Present membership forty-two, with an attendance of thirty at Sunday-school.

ATKINSON.

Situated on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad, thirty miles east of Rock Island, is a thriving grain and stock shipping town. It was laid out in 1858 by Charles Atkinson, one of the early settlers in the Rock River valley. Mr. Atkinson now resides at Moline, in Rock Island County.

Atkinson contains an excellent graded school, three churches, viz.: Congregational, Methodist and Catholic; two grain elevators, and a third in process of erection; one drug store, two dry goods stores, two groceries, one hardware, stove and tinware establishment, one agricultural implement warehouse, three blacksmith and two wagon and carriage shops.

The principal firms are as follows: Nowers Bros., dry goods, groceries and lumber; Edwin Everett, dry goods, drugs and groceries; John Stealey, hardware, stoves, etc.; D. O. Hunter, groceries; A. Bowhise, groceries; John H. Dear, grain dealer; Lawbaugh & Cameron, grain and lumber; Wells Ferrin, grain dealer.

INCORPORATION.

At a meeting of the legal voters held in the public school house, January 12, 1867, it was voted that the village of Atkinson be incorporated. Nineteen votes were cast—eleven for, and eight against incorporation. John Ashley, Jr., was chosen President of the meeting, and Luke Wells, Clerk.

The election for village officers was held at Nowers Bros.' Hall, January 19, 1867, and resulted in the choice of the following Board of Directors: Levi W. Carter, John Ashley, Jr., George R. Babbitt, John M. Brown, Thomas Nowers, Sen.

At a meeting of the Board held on the 19th of February, 1867, Thomas Nowers, Sen., was chosen President; John Ashley, Jr., Clerk and Treasurer; and William H. Evans, Corporation Constable. March 2, 1867, the Board defined the limits of the village to be one mile square.

Trustees for 1877. — John H. Dean, President; Thomas Nowers, Clerk and Treasurer; John W. Smith, Robert W. Milar, John James.

School Directors. — John Welch, E. Lawbaugh, D. O. Hunter.

CHURCHES.

Congregational Church. This church was organized in 1864. The same year the house of worship was erected at a cost of $2,700. The parsonage was built in 1868, and cost about $1,100. The members number about sixty. Pastor, Rev. John A. Griffin.

Methodist Episcopal Church. The first Methodist preaching in this place was by Father White, who resided near Kewanee. He came here and preached in the school-house as early as 1857. The first class was organized by Rev. D. M. Hill, who was followed by Rev. O. W. Pollard. Rev. Mr. Knowlton succeeded the last mentioned. Then came the following, in the order named: Rev. Mr. Sheldon, Rev. G. M. Morey, Rev. Ralph Kinney, Rev. G. C. Woodruff, Rev. A. C. Frick, Rev. M. D. Heckard, Rev. William Odell, Rev. J. J. Fleharty, Rev. M. A. Head, Rev. C. W. Swartz, Rev. G. C. Woodruff, Rev. A. Keller, and the present pastor, Rev. J. W. Otterman.

The church was built at a cost of $3,500, and dedicated June 22, 1868.

Roman Catholic Church. Organized in 1871, in which year the church was built, costing $1,200. The present pastor was settled over the church in 1875.

CLEVELAND

Is the oldest town in the county. It was laid out in April, 1836, on the south bank of Rock River, on Section 31, by George Charles, Surveyor of Knox County, for Charles Atkinson and James D. Tabor. It was located on the stage-route from Knoxville to Galena, and was one of the stopping places on that route. The first log cabins in the village were erected in the Summer following the survey, by George Brandenburg and Thos. Glenn, for George Tyler and Charles Atkinson—that of the latter being a double log house, one-half used for a dwelling and one-half for a store. Each of these buildings has been lately torn away to make room for other improvements. During that same season, the first temperance society of this region of country was formed in this double log cabin (this was then part of Knox County), and here the earliest election in Henry County was held. At that date, Whiteside County was included in this precinct, and at the election held for President—Martin Van Buren being elected—the whole number of votes, of the entire precinct, was seventy-two, three of which were Democratic.

E. N. Wells and Charles Atkinson erected the first frame houses in the county in Cleveland. They are yet standing and are now used as dwellings. In 1869, or '70, a grist mill was erected by the Cleveland Hydraulic Company. It is on the river bank, and uses water as the motive power. The town is mainly filled with a mining population, who find employment in the extensive coal mines about the town. The entire surface of the country here is underlaid with a rich vein of block coal, and many hundreds of car loads are annually brought from the hill bordering the town, and shipped to other points. Three or four stores, one hotel, four or five saloons, and several shops, constitute the business portion of the town. The number of inhabitants is about 250. District school has been maintained regularly in the village since its earliest days. In 1875, the number of pupils becoming too great for the accommodations, the present comfortable two-story school-house was erected, and two teachers are now employed. The attendance is now about one hundred.

The oldest religious society in the county was organized in Cleveland. It was effected in the house of Mr. P. K. Hanna, with few members. It grew slowly for many years, and much time elapsed ere the little band of worshipers were able to erect a house of worship. Now they are strong, and occupy a very commodious church.

THE TOWNSHIP OF OSCO.

The town of Osco was originally known by the governmental description of Town 16, North Range 26 East of the 4th P. M., and is situated west of the center of the county. It is almost exclusively prairie land, less than one per cent. of its surface being originally covered with timber. Its surface is beautifully undulating with just sufficient declination to make perfect drainage, and with no level, wet or marshy areas to mar its beauty or excellence. The soil is a rich, black alluvium of marvelous fertility, and varying from eighteen inches to two feet in depth. In the early days of its settlement it was noted for the luxuriance of the grass and other vegetation which grew upon its broad prairies.

Owing to the prevailing opinion among the early settlers that the open prairies were uninhabitable on account of the severe winds which then prevailed, the excessive cold of the winters, and the distance from timber (which was then the only fuel), the area which now comprises the town received but little attention. Thriving settlements had sprung up in various parts of the county, in the vicinity of streams and timber, but Osco remained unsettled, an uninviting, treeless plain. The first settlement within the limits of the town was made by Israel Crocker, on the north half of Section 3, at a place which was known in those days as Crocker's Grove. Here, according to the traditions of the early settlers, the elder Crocker located in the year 1838, and built a house of considerable size (which is now standing), and inclosed with a sod fence about 160 acres of land, and imported and placed on his farm a large flock of sheep, out of which he intended to amass a fortune. Ill success attended the venture, and after eight or ten years struggling with bad luck with his sheep, and poor health in his family, he finally succumbed to adverse circumstances and sold out to Ben Graham, who continued the business so inauspiciously begun by Mr. Crocker, with about the same results. After the settlement of Mr. Crocker in 1838, no further attempt was made until the year 1851, a lapse of thirteen years. In May of that year, Albert Melton moved upon the Crocker Grove farm, which had been purchased by F. P. Brown; in June, Willis Hinman settled in the south part of the township, and was soon followed by S. C. Welton and Benjamin Manning, Philip Emmert and John Weedlem. The next year came Francis Gerard and Hiram Woodward, followed soon after by A. A. and E. M. Crane, Jared H. Smith, Lester C. Welton, and others, who have, in the short space of twenty-five years, transformed the wild and uninhabitable prairie into a rich agricultural settlement, with not one acre of unclosed land within its limits.

On May 24, 1852, the first school district was organized, by a meeting called at the house of Willis Hinman, and comprised the whole township. In the Summer of 1853, the first school-house was built, upon the northeast corner of the southwest quarter of Section 26, and was for a long time known as the Hinman School-house.

In 1854, the district was divided, the north half being set off, and was known as District No. 2. In this district two school-houses were eventually built, one in the northeast corner of the town, known as the Van Order School-house, and one at Morristown, in the northwest corner. The division above mentioned remained with no permanent alteration, save the division of the north district, until the year 1859, when the town was divided into nine districts, each two miles square, which division, with some slight alterations, remains at this day. The first Board of School Trustees was elected in May, 1852, and consisted of Willis Hinman, Samuel Hamilton and S. C. Welton. The first Board of School Directors were elected in June, 1852, and consisted of the same persons.

In 1857, the school section (16) was sold, realizing the handsome sum of $12,586, which has been increased by subsequent additions, until now it amounts to $13,958. The total number of pupils attending the school at present, is 369, of whom 174 are males and 195 females.

In the Fall of 1856, the town voted in favor of adopting township organization, and in April, 1857, the first election was held at the house of Nathan Dunklebarger, and resulted in the election of Lester C. Welton, Supervisor; — Woodruff as Town Clerk; A. A. Crane, Assessor; R. H. Hinman, Collector; Willis Hinman, Ellis Blackwell, and A. McNaughton, Commissioners of Highways; A. Welton and A. Purviance, Justices of the Peace.

Osco is remarkable for the excellence of the stock raised by the farmers of this township, who sold this last year 5,205 head of hogs for $120,741; 1,285 head of cattle for $56,598; 99,660 bushels of corn, which brought $35,992. Also considerable broom corn, barley, oats, timothy and clover seed, butter and eggs. There is a healthful and good supply of water, at an average depth of 26 feet, the average supply being ten feet of water.

The present town officers are: R. H. Hinman, Supervisor; C. D. Cramer, Town Clerk; J. S. Showalter, Assessor; Charles Lindquist, Collector; H. Stoughton, D. H. Smith, S. P. Peterson, Commissioners of Highways; J. H. Smith, H. E. Stoughton, D. H. Smith, School Trustees; A. Purviance, E. Rogers, Justices of the Peace. The following named gentlemen have also held the office of Supervisor: Duke Wells, 1859; D. A. Ireland, 1860; R. H. Hinman, 1861-62; A. A. Crane, 1863; H. Woodward, 1864; E. M. Crane, 1865; J. H. Smith, 1866-69; Hiram Woodward again in 1870; J. S. Showalter, 1871; L. A. Hamilton, 1872, and the present Supervisor was elected again in 1873-76, and the following have held the position of Town Clerk after Geo. C. Woodruff in 1857: S. W. Morton was elected and held the office in 1858-60; Wm.

Hitchcock, 1861-64; Cyrus Kerr, 1865-66; J. R. Ammerman, 1867-68; John G. Brown, 1869; John Christiance, 1870-74, and the present Clerk was elected in 1875-76.

OSCO.

This village was laid out on Nov. 30, and Dec. 1, 2, 3, 1870, by Patterson, Holmes County Surveyor, on the S. E. N. E. Sec. 29—40 acres, then owned by Orion E. Page, who caused the same to be done. It originally contained 11 blocks laid off into 183 lots. The streets leading east and west as named from north to south, are North Street, North R. R. Street, Market Street and South R. R. Street, and two avenues, leading north and south; the west one is called Lincoln Avenue, and the other in the eastern part Washington Avenue. The first house was built in July, 1871, by G. P. Woodworth and Samuel Smith, the next by D. L. Purviance the same year. It now contains twelve dwellings, eight business houses and a blacksmith shop. There are about 80,000 bushels of corn and 90 to 100 cars of stock shipped annually from this place.

CHURCHES.

The Evangelical Lutheran Church is located at Morristown. The first meetings were held in the Fall of 1860, in Edford Township, in what is now known as Weidlein's school-house. The congregation was organized Feb. 9, 1861, with the following named members: Philip Emmert, Aleman Conrad, John Weidlein, F. W. Smith, S. S. Bjerrum, John J. Whiteline, Fred. Cook, Margaret Emmert, Elizabeth Conrad, Ellennora Weidlein, Caroline Smith, Mary Bjerrum, Doretha Emmert and Sophia Weidlein. F. W. Smith was elected Elder, and John Weidlein, Deacon. The present church building was erected in the Spring of 1863, at a cost of $1,650, and dedicated Sept. 20 of the same year. F. W. Smith and John Weidlein were the building committee. Rev. F. R. Scherer was the first pastor; he served from Feb. 9, 1861, to Feb., 1864; Rev. Eli Fair, from Feb., 1864 to Feb., 1865; Rev. A. M. Tanner, from April, 1866, to April, 1868; Rev. G. W. Schaeffer, from April, 1868, to April, 1869; Rev. R. B. Whitehill, from July 11, 1869, to March 10, 1872; Rev. E. S. Rees, from March 27, 1872, to July 6, 1873; Rev. Lloyd Knight, from July 6, 1873, to April 1, 1875; Rev. S. S. Lawson is the present pastor, having served since May 16, 1875.

Sixty-three is the highest number of members at any one time. The present church officers are George S. Emmert and Andrew Weidlein, Elders; F. W. Smith and J. J. Whiteline, Deacons. Philip Emmert has been Treasurer and Secretary since the organization of the church. The Sabbath-school is kept up constantly, has an average attendance of fifty scholars and teachers, and a library of about 300 vols. Connected with the church is a parsonage, built in the Fall of 1866, during the pastorate of Rev. A. M. Tanner, at a cost, including additions and repairs, of $1,050. The present pastor, Rev. S. S. Lawson, was born in York Co. Pa., Nov. 24, 1838; is the son of the late Rev. S. B. Lawson, and brother to Rev. J. Smith Lawson, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; was educated at Pennsylvania College, Gettysburg, Pa.; entered the ministry in 1860, at Massillon, Ohio; served in the army as chief clerk of the Adjutant General's Department of the 4th Army Corps, from Jan. 1, 1864, to the close of the war; resumed the ministry at Leesburg, Ohio, in 1866; came to Illinois in 1870, and served pastorates at Ottawa and Freeport, prior to his present charge.

The Protestant Episcopal Church of Osco Township (Grace Church) was organized Jan. 25, 1875, with a membership of twenty-two. Among those who were active in establishing this church are the names of J. H. Smith, Eben Coll, L. C. Welton, S. C. Welton, R. H. Hinman and W. W. Hinman.

Eben Coll and J. H. Smith were appointed Wardens, and L. C. Welton, Bela Andrews, Robert McClain, Jerry Hadley, R. H. Hinman, S. C. Welton, James M. Welton and George Poppleton, Vestrymen.

J. H. Smith was appointed Treasurer, and was efficient in organizing and maintaining this society. Bela Andrews was appointed Clerk. These gentlemen have all continued to discharge the duties of their respective positions up to the present time, excepting James M. Welton, in whose place W. W. Hinman was appointed, April 17, 1876.

Their earliest services were held in what is known as the Hinman school-house, in District No. 7. From 1856 to 1873, occasional services were held by Rev. A. Welton, of Cambridge; Rev. S. Goodale, of Geneseo; Rev. William Green, of Geneseo, in 1865; P. B. Morrison, of Geneseo, 1866; Rev. G. C. Griswold, the same year; Rev. J. B. Calhoun, of Osco, in 1869-70; Rev. F. Nash, of Geneseo, during 1871-73. At this time plans were devised, and location selected for a suitable meeting-house, the building of which was accomplished in the Fall of 1873, at a cost of $2,750, while Rev. J. H. Chamberlaine, the present pastor, was in charge.

This building is located on the northwest corner of the northeast quarter of Sec. 26. Regular services were held from this time to Jan. 25, 1875, when the church organization was finally consummated. These services have been continued in connection with a Sabbath-school. The membership of the church at present is forty-one. The present pastor, Rev. J. H. Chamberlaine, took charge Sept. 15, 1873.

The Sabbath-school was organized May 24, —, and now has a library of nearly 200 volumes, and is also supplied with suitable papers. The attendance at present, of teachers and scholars, is about forty, there being usually six or seven classes and as many teachers. Charles A. Coll is Superintendent.

The M. E. Church of Osco Township was established in Oct. 1859. Among those prominent in its organization were: William Hitchcock, Levi A. Hamilton, and Edmund Valentine. It was mostly through their influence that a minister was appointed in charge. Rev. H. J. Humphrey preached the first sermon. Mr. John Chanderler was at that time Presiding Elder; Wm. Hitchcock, Steward, and Levi A. Hamilton, Class Leader. The meetings of this church were held for several years in the Center School House, a small frame building located on the S. E. corner of Sec. 16. Rev. James Sheldon was appointed in charge, in Nov., 1861, and E. Ransom, Elder, Sept., 1860; Rev. J. M. Bartels, Sept., 1862; G. C. Woodruff, Elder, Sept., 1863; Rev. J. W. Odell, Sept. 1864; B. C. Swarts, Elder, Sept., 1864. At this time a meeting was held to devise means by which to provide a suitable meeting house, and A. A. Crane, Thomas Barnes, and H. Rivenburgh were appointed a Building Committee. During the Fall and Winter of 1865-6, the building of the proposed house was accomplished, at a cost of $2,500, obtained mostly by subscription in the township, and in June, 1866, the dedication services were held, and the sermon delivered by Rev. Dr. Raymond, of Evanston, Cook Co. This meeting house is located on the S. W. corner of Sec. 15.

Rev. John Grundy was appointed, in Sept., 1865; Rev. Geo. M. Morey, in Sept., 1866. At this time the church was unusually prosperous.

Subsequently there were appointed Rev. Theodore Hoagland, Sept., 1868; William H. Hunter, Elder, Sept. of the same year; Rev. Thomas Head, Sept., 1869; Rev. Wm. Sedore, Sept., 1870; Rev. Peter Warner, Sept., 1871; Rev. H. C. King, Sept., 1872; H. Ritchee, Elder, Sept., 1872; F. M. Chaffee, Elder, Sept., 1873; Rev. J. Q. Adams, Sept., 1874; and the present pastor, Rev. E. M. Bentley, Sept., 1876.

Mr. Hamilton has officiated as Class Leader much of the time since the organization of the church. David Hadley is also Class Leader, and has been since 1867. James Henderson and F. M. Barnes are now Stewards, and Mr. Crane is and has been Recording Steward for ten years. Levi A. Hamilton is Steward for the Rock Island District. The present membership of this church is sixty. The Sabbath School was organized with this church. The first Supt. was Wm. Hitchcock; the next, Levi A. Hamilton, followed by others, among whom are the names of Eben Woodward, Hiram Williamson, and David Hadley. The school as now constituted, was organized May 14, 1876, and the last-named gentleman appointed Supt.; F. M. Barnes, Asst. Supt.; David Smith and Alice Woodward, Secys. The school is divided into seven classes. The teacher of the first class — adults, fourteen — is F. M. Barnes; of the second — adults, seventeen — Robert Henderson; third — young ladies and gentlemen, eighteen — is Mrs. John Petteys; fourth — boys from 10 to 15 years of age, nine — James Henderson; fifth — girls from 10 to 15 years, six — Mrs. A. A. Crane; sixth — children from 8 to 10 years, ten in number — Mrs. James Henderson; seventh — infant class, eighteen scholars — is taught by Mrs. Hiram Williamson. No. of officers, four; teachers, seven; scholars, ninety-one. Total, 102.

A Presbyterian Church was organized in this Township by Rev. S. T. Wilson, Rev. J. C. Barr, Rev. David Kelly, and Ruling Elder Edmund Buck, of Andover, on Nov. 4, 1867, and Hiram Woodward and Charles Crabb were ordained Elders of the church.

The first sermon was preached by Rev. S. T. Wilson, of Rock Island. There were seventeen communicants, which subsequently increased to a membership of forty-two.

During the existence of this church there were ten baptisms. On June 5, 1870, William Sherrard and Johnson McLaughlin were ordained Elders. The services were held in Hinman's School House. Subsequently this church was dissolved, and a few of its members joined the present Presbyterian Church, of Munson.

There was also organized a Christian Church, on April 13, 1856, by Elders Levi Purviance and Hiram Petteys, composed of fourteen members. Rev. Levi Purviance preached the first sermon. The meetings were held in the school house, at Morristown. Rev. Hiram Like was the next regular minister. There was a Sabbath School in connection with this.

The Osco and Western Mutual Fire Insurance Company was organized March 15, 1876, under an act entitled, "An Act to Incorporate and Govern Mutual Fire Insurance Companies in Townships," approved April 3, 1872. The following officers were elected: A. McWhinney, Pres.; J. H. Smith, Treas.; A. A. Crane, Secy.; and R. H. Hinman, J. T. Petteys, Bela Andrews, A. McWhinney, J. H. Smith, H. E. Stoughton, D. L. Keleher, and M. B. Lloyd were elected Directors.

This company bids fair to be a grand success. The report of the Secy. shows the aggregate amount of policies issued to be $63,990; receipts, $81.00; amount of expense, $43.25; amount in the treasury, $37.75.

WOODHULL

Is the largest town in the southwestern part of the county. It was laid out by Maxwell Woodhull of New York City, September 30, 1857. The original town was platted east of Division Street, and in 1867, Mr. J. W. Horn, a resident of town, laid out the portion north of the railroad and west of that street, except so much as belonged to Hugh Russell, Esq., who had laid out his portion, the northwest part, six years earlier, and on his plat the first buildings were erected. In 1870, Mr. Horn laid out a second addition, which embraces that part south of the railroad, west of Division Street, and including his residence. The first house erected within the present limits of town was the Widney Hotel. It was built for a dwelling, but being purchased by Mr. E. A. Widney, was converted into a hotel. This branch of the C. B. & Q. R. R. was surveyed in 1847, but several years elapsed before the grading was finished. In 1868, it was sold to the C. B. & Q. R. R. and by that company completed and put in running order. Until that date it was known as the American Central Railroad. The buildings were at first erected on the west side of town (west of Division Street), except a few opposite the present post-office. By the time the cars commenced to run over the railroad, there were a half dozen stores, as many shops, and quite a number of carpenters and masons. The town has a growth peculiarly its own. Almost every other village or city in the county received a sudden impetus from the building of railroads, but this latter fact seemed to have but little effect on Woodhull. The town has maintained a steady growth from the erection of the first store and dwellings in the plat. Before the town was surveyed, a post-office called Heathland was kept at Mr. F. Heath's house, a short distance north of the village site. When the town was determined upon, it was thought to name the office and town Leoti, and was called by that name some time. In compliment to Mr. Woodhull, the present name was given them.

Shortly after the first store was opened by M. N. Hurd, it was destroyed by fire with all its contents. Again in 1871, a building owned by T. S. McConnell, and containing a stock of goods owned by a Mr. Wright, was wholly destroyed by the same element. At this time, the fire also consumed an unoccupied building near. These two have been the only serious fires the village has experienced.

Probably no town of the size of Woodhull has commanded the grain and stock trade in such dimensions. During the year 1876, more than a half million of dollars were received at this place in exchange for prod² nee, and in 1870-71 and '72 more broom corn was shipped from Woodhull, than from any point in the United States. In 1869, a good brick block was erected by J. D. Bell and Andrew Eason, and in 1876, a similar one was built, the upper story of which contains a good lecture hall and the office of the Enterprise, a good local weekly paper.

It was no uncommon affair, before the railroad was completed, to see wagon after wagon filled with grain pass through Woodhull to Oneida, and returning the owners would make all their purchases here. The firm of Elder & Skinner sold in one year over $80,000 worth of goods. This trade is yet undiminished; what is lacking in sales, is atoned for in purchases of the farm products.

There are now about one dozen stores, a few more shops, three large elevators, one lumber yard, three hotels, and a large number of mechanics. The town has never granted a license to saloons of any kind, and steadily maintains a firm temperance standing.

Woodhull was incorporated in 1870, and the following board of officers elected: B. Taylor, President; J. V. Kennagy, Clerk; W. O. Gamble, Treasurer, and Rev. W. C. Wagner and James Walton, Trustees. There are now seven trustees, instead of the original five elected. Their names appear elsewhere.

SCHOOLS.

Until about the year 1869, schools were held in the district school house. About that time they were graded, and the present building erected. It contains four rooms, three of which are occupied as school-rooms, the fourth as a recitation room. The report of the Principle, Mr. S. G. Mugrave, for January, 1877, shows 150 scholars enrolled, and an average attendance of 102.

CHURCHES.

The largest church here is the Swedish Lutheran. It was organized on Oct. 15, 1868, with thirteen members, whose names were as follows: G. Lagergron, Y. E. Carlson, E. Hawkinson, S. Hawkinson, T. M. Lindquist, C. Lindquist, S. T. Petterson, Y. Grenborg, Y. Clas, N. T. Hulstrom, M. Olson, T. Olson and O. Truedson. They were organized in the old Presbyterian Church, where they met for divine worship for some time. In 1869, they built a house of worship costing $2,000. It proving too small, they erected the present commodious house of worship in 1876, at an expense of $5,000. The pastor is Rev. T. M. Sandquist. The number of communicants is now 275. A good Sunday-school is regularly maintained.

The Catholic Church was organized about six years since, with six or eight families. They, with the aid of other churches of their denomination more wealthy, have just completed a very fine village church. The number of families has not greatly increased since the organization. Services are held here by priests from other places.

THE PRESS.

In December, 1875, the Reporter made its first appearance. It was published by Magner & Carlin, editors and proprietors. It was continued until December, 1876, when the office was purchased by J. J. McHose, who enlarged it from a three-column page paper to a seven-column folio, and the name changed to the Woodhull Enterprise. It is still continued with R. H. Magner and J. J. McHose as editors, and is issued weekly. It is an excellent local paper, and its name indicates.

It would be well to mention here before closing the history of Woodhull, that Gen. Schenek, late Minister to England, is largely interested in property here and at Nekoma, and pays these villages a visit nearly every other year.

MORRISTOWN.

In the Summer of 1852, Henry Selby built a store and laid out a town upon Sec. 6, in the northwest corner of the township, which was called Morristown. This formed a nucleus of a thriving settlement, having a post-office, blacksmith shops, two stores, a church, school-house, harness shops, etc., but the subsequent building of the railroad, and the location of the station at Osco, has taken much of the business away to Osco and other points. The village now contains twelve dwelling houses, two stores, one shoemaker shop, a meeting-house and a school-house.

DAYTON.

But five or six families reside on the original plat of Dayton. Among them is George Brandenburg, one of the earliest settlers, and whose hospitable mansion was once the only tavern in the county. It is one of the oldest towns, and was laid out October 31, 1836, by Mark M. Aiken. It was at one time the stopping place on the Chicago, Dixon and Rock Island stage route, and but for the rapid development of towns near it, and the railroads passing it by, might have been one of the largest towns within the county.

OPHEIM (formerly Edwardsville).

Is a small village a few miles north of Alpha, on the Chicago, Rock Island and St. Louis Railroad, containing about one hundred inhabitants. It has an excellent trade in grain and farm products. One good store, a few shops, an elevator and a lumber yard comprise the business interests.

CHURCHES.

The Swedish Methodists maintain a good church here. It has been organized but a few years, and does not yet support a regular minister.

OAKLEY (GREEN RIVER STATION)

Is a small town on the Chicago and Northwestern Railway, about one mile east of Colona. Prior to the crossing of the roads being established at this latter place, Oakley commanded a good grain trade. It was laid out August 11, 1865, by Thomas F. Davenport, and now contains about one hundred inhabitants. The town supports two or three stores, as many shops, one hotel and an elevator. The children are sent to the district school near, and the people attend church at Cleveland or Colona.

COLONA

Was laid out July 25, 1855, by Marcus Warren, and at present contains nearly two hundred inhabitants. The first building erected in town was the warehouse built by J. A. Sawyer in 1854, just at the completion of the railroad. Considerable trade in grain and wood is carried on here, and in the early days of the railroad Mr. M. Davis, the first inhabitant of the place, supplied almost all the wood used on this division of the railroad. This elevator was used until the tornado of May, 1859, occurred, which blew it down in common with many other buildings. It also destroyed the Rock River railroad bridge, 1,200 feet long, hurling it entire into the river below. Its course was to the east, and great ruin was occasioned by it. Owing to the intersection of the Chicago and Northwestern, and Rock Island and St. Louis Railroads, a good trade is maintained at Colona, supporting two or three good stores, several shops and an elevator.

SCHOOLS.

School was held, in what is now the Catholic Church, until about 1871, when the present comfortable three-room building was erected. Three departments are conducted, and each enjoys a good attendance.

CHURCHES.

There are three congregations in town—the Catholic, Methodist and Presbyterian; the latter, however, do not now sustain regular preaching, but maintain their Sunday-school.

ALPHA.

This village is situated in the southwest part of the county, at the junction of the Galva and Keithsburg Railroad with the Rockford, Rock Island and St. Louis. It was laid out by Anson Calkins, June 1, 1872, and at present contains about one hundred inhabitants. There are three or four stores, as many shops, a depot, and two hotels.

Prior to the building of these railroads, the town of Oxford, a few miles to the southwest, supplied the wants of the citizens of that locality. It was laid out by Daniel and James M. Briggs, February 25, 1858, on the west half of Section 30, town of Oxford. At this place, in 1860, existed the wildcat "Bank of the Mississippi Valley," whose assets were said to be one worthless iron safe, one cent—old fashioned copper—part of one lead pencil, a rusty steel pen and a half sheet of foolscap with figures on it.

The starting of the towns of Alpha and Windsor, in the county immediately west, both near to Oxford and on the railroad, caused a general removal of all houses to these places, and the town of Oxford is now extinct, the town plat being used for farming land. One church, the ————, still remains; the others being taken to Alpha and Windsor. Alpha bids fair to become a good business town, having the advantage of the railway crossing. There is no reason why a good town will not be seen here within a few years. The children are sent to the district school near, but in a short time it is expected to erect a commodious school-house in the village.

One church, the Baptist, now supports regular divine service. It was organized in September, 1876, with seven members. There are now thirty-six, and an attendance of ninety-five scholars at the Sunday-school. They occupy a very comfortable church, erected some two years ago. The pastor, Rev. J. C. Lewis has been with the congregation some three years, commencing his labors prior to the organization.

NEKOMA

Is a small village east of Woodhull. It was laid out by M. Z. V. Woodhull, of Washington City, July 21, 1869. It enjoys a good grain trade, and at one time was thought to be the commencement of a large town. It is, however, too close to Galva, Woodhull and towns south to expect to attain a great size. It contains two or three stores, as many shops, an elevator and several artisans.

CHURCHES OF HENRY COUNTY.

HANNA TOWNSHIP.

The first church organization in the Township of Hanna, also the first in the county, was at the house of P. K. Hanna, in the Fall of 1835, where the Methodist Society was organized. Rev. Colin D. James was the first pastor. Among the active workers of the church were: John P. Hanna, C. Renshaw, James Searle, Thomas Hill, William Shafer, as class leaders; P. K. Hanna, and Daniel Walsh, as local preachers. And also Henry Hand, who deserves to be mentioned as one of the most earnest supporters of the church.

In 1854, the society built a brick church at a cost of three thousand dollars, known as the "Rock River Chapel." This was used by the society until the Fall of 1875, when they built a much finer church in the village of Cleveland, at a cost of four thousand five hundred dollars. The board of trustees are P. K. Hanna, Henry Hand, Thomas Hill, Will Shafer, J. H. Sale, J. A. Sawyer, and Milton Hill. The present membership is eighty; Sabbath-school attendance, one hundred. Rev. P. K. Hanna and wife, Geo. A. Colbert and wife, Mrs. Sullivan and two daughters, were among the original members.

The Evangelical Church was organized March 25, 1873, in school-house No. 7, of Edford Township, in which place services had been held some time previous. The original membership was twenty-three persons, among whom were the following: Geo. Pobanz, Jno. Hintz, F. Pobanz, Wm. Pobanz, Jno. Neumann, Jno. Erdmann, Julius Parpat, Carl Nitz. Their present church-building was erected at a cost of $3,000, and is under the pastorate of Rev. Gustav A. Regier. The membership is now sixty-two, and the Sunday-school fifteen.

CORNWALL TOWNSHIP.

The Calvary Presbyterian Church of Rock River Presbytery, was organized Jan. 2, 1868, at 10 A. M., in the Methodist Episcopal Church, on the north line of Burns Township. The organization was effected by the following committee of Bureau Presbytery: Rev. J. C. Barr, Rev. J. Milligan, and Ruling Elders Alex. White, Charles M. Priestly, Rev. J. S. McClung, and Moses Thatcher. Rev. J. C. Barr preached a sermon from Isaiah xl., 31. John Fleming was at this meeting elected, ordained and installed as Ruling Elder of the church. Their earliest meetings were held in school-house No. 4, on Sec. 27.

In 1870-71, a church was built on Sec. 27, N.W. corner of S.W. $\frac{1}{4}$, at a cost of \$3,500. Rev. J. S. McClung was stated supply of the church from the date of its organization until March, 1871. The present pastor, Rev. F. I. Moffatt, served the church as stated supply from October, 1871, up to Dec. 10, 1872, when he was installed pastor, in which capacity he still officiates. The original members were: H. S. Rogers, Mrs. Phoebe Rogers, W. W. Winters, Mrs. Virginia Winters, Wm. Allen, Mrs. Margaret Allen, Thomas Rowland, Mrs. C. T. McClung, Mrs. A. C. Torence, John Fleming, Mrs. Mary A. Fleming, Mrs. Sarah A. Calender, A. E. Benedict, Mrs. Harriet T. Benedict, Gabriel Romig, James J. Dickey, Mrs. Caroline E. Dickey, Isaac Callender, James Orr, Alexander Walker, W. H. Torrence. The present membership is seventy-three; Sabbath-school attendance about forty.

COLONA TOWNSHIP.

United Presbyterian Church. The United Presbyterian Church of Colona was organized Dec. 22, 1866, in the Colona school-house, with twelve members, and were constituted a church by Rev. H. Wallace and Elder A. Blair, of Davenport, Iowa, committee from Presbytery, and Rev. J. Todd, missionary, in accordance with a petition drawn up by S. H. Weed, and signed by ten members and eighty adherents of the cause. By request, the U. P. Presbytery of Rock Island sent Rev. Henry Wallace, of Rock Island, to view the field, who preached in the school-house the latter part of June, 1865; this was the second sermon preached in the village of Colona. Two weeks later, Rev. William Cooke, of Homestead Church, preached. Rev. J. F. Martin came as missionary Sept. 15, 1865, and was succeeded by Rev. J. P. Finney, and he by Rev. S. H. Weed, Licentiate, July 15, 1866, and he by Rev. J. K. Blair, and Rev. John Todd. The earliest meetings were held in the Colona school-house; meetings were also held in private houses. The names of the original members are Andrew Stewart, Grace Moderwell, Christina Moderwell, Jos. Moderwell, Jane Moderwell, James Montgomery, Sr., Sarah Bell, William McGonagil, Sr., Elizabeth McGonagil, Mary Cochran, Barbara McFerran, and Margaret McCall. Joseph Moderwell and Andrew Stewart were elected and ordained ruling elders of the organization. Wm. McGonagil is at present a deacon.

September 30, 1867, the congregation chose S. H. Weed, J. J. Baum, and James Bell, building committee. A frame church, 32x50 feet, with belfry and spire, was built, and was opened for worship Oct. 18, 1868.

The cost was $2,108.33 in cash, and about $1,000 in work and material was donated. April 3, 1873, a bell was procured, costing $253.76.

Rev. S. H. Weed, having been ordained Nov. 23, 1867, labored as a missionary till June 15, 1869, when he was installed pastor, which office he held till April 30, 1876. At present the congregation has no pastor, but is under the care of Rev. J. A. Reynolds, of Rock Island, and Elders F. Ferguson and J. Caughey, of Homestead Church, by appointment of the Presbytery.

The total number of members is fifty-eight, two of whom died, three were suspended, and thirty-two have removed, leaving at present twenty-one persons in full membership, and fifty-four baptized non-communing members. The average attendance at Sabbath-school is about forty. Capt. J. E. Wilkins, Rev. S. H. Weed, James Bell, and Andrew Grass, have all been superintendents in the Sabbath-school. Elder Jos. Davis has removed to Nebraska. Capt. J. E. Wilkins, who served as deacon, has removed to Iowa.

EDFORD TOWNSHIP.

The Church of God was organized Sept. 16, 1876, at the "Howard School-house," where those interested in forming a church had been holding services since the 8th of April, previous. Among the original members were W. T. Harris and L. E. Harris. Preliminary steps have been taken for the erection of a house of worship at an early day. The pastors have been W. R. Coovert and M. S. Newbommer. They now have thirty-eight communicants, with an attendance of thirty-five in Sunday-school.

St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church. The earliest meetings of this body were held in the Central School-house in 1867, and the church organization was effected the same year, with a membership of about a dozen persons. This has been very materially augmented since, until they have gathered in about fifty families. The church building was erected in 1872, at a cost of $2,500. The present pastor is Rev. I. P. Guenther.

GRAND VIEW M. E. CHURCH.

Grand View M. E. Church. Rev. Mr. Colbert organized the first class in 1842. Among those who rendered valuable service to this church in its early history, were the following: Revs. Philip Hannah, William McHenry and N. Smith, as local preachers; and later, Rev. Zach Welch. Among the early pastors, Rev. Bart. Cartwright, Revs. Harvey and Burr. Rev. H. J. Humphrey, Rev. G. W. Brown, Rev. C. M. Wright, and Rev. Mr. Falkenbury.

The later pastors were Revs. G. M. Morey, Ralph Kinney, A. C. Friek, M. D. Heekard, J. W. Odell, J. J. Fluharty, C. M. Swartz, Lorin Webb, J. W. Megan, Ahab Keller, G. C. Woodruff, and the present pastor, Rev. J. W. Otterman.

The first organization worshiped for several years in the house of Mr. Southworth, and afterwards for many years in school-houses. The present church edifice was erected in 1871, under the labors and direction of Rev. C. W. Swartz.

BISHOP HILL.

Swedish M. E. Church. This church was organized in the Fall of 1864, with about twenty members. The principal ones were Eric Bengtson, Jonas Engstrom, Eric Soder, Jons Watstrom, George Erickson. The earliest meetings were held in the Bishop Hill School-house, also in private houses. Soon after the organization a wagon shop was purchased for $400; meetings were held in the second story of this house, until 1868, and in that year the congregation completed, ready for use, a very commodious house of worship, at a cost of $3,500. The following preachers have labored here: N. O. Westergreen, one year; Peter Challman, one year; A. J. Anderson, four years; Eric Shogren, three years; H. W. Eklund, one year; J. E. Bergren, three years.

The congregation now have one hundred and eighty-four members, and a Sabbath-school of eighty scholars. Jonas Engstrom, who acted as trustee in the church in its early days, is preaching in Kansas, having emigrated with several others from Bishop Hill to Kansas some years ago.

The Lutheran Church, Opheim. This church is a branch of the Swedona Lutheran Church, and has no regular organization of its own; Rev. A. Andreen preaches.

KEWANEE TOWNSHIP.

German Evangelical Church, Kewanee Township. Until the erection of their church edifice in 1866, the members of this congregation held their meetings for divine service in the school-house on Section 28. They were organized here about this time with twenty-eight members. Owing to a division in the church, and the forming of another church near, the membership is now sixteen. The attendance at Sunday-school is now twenty-seven.

The following ministers have successively held the pastorate here: Revs. Herman Lessner, G. F. Gruber, C. G. Haack, — Hilmer, — Rein, G. W. Regier and — Hantel. The Rev. William Meyer, pastor of the church at Princeton, Bureau County, is now pastor in charge, preaching once a month.

YORKTOWN TOWNSHIP.

Evangelical Association, section 27, Yorktown Township, was organized in 1851, at the house of Peter Luther, with seventeen members. They have increased to one hundred and seventy-five, and a Sunday-school of two hundred scholars. In 1867 they erected a church edifice at a cost of $3,000. Their pastors since 1854 have been as follows: Revs. William Kolb, John Schneider, J. C. Anthus, J. C. Spielman, John Dengel, R. Rothermund, A. Heilman, Joseph Schnee, M. Heyl, A. Gockley, P. Himmel, E. Freeden, M. Heyl, V. Forkel, A. Goetschel, A. Woehler and C. Gagstetter.

GALVA TOWNSHIP.

Pleasant View Church. This church is located four miles northeast of the Town of Galva, in Galva Township, and was built at a cost of $1,000; completed and dedicated Nov. 26, 1876. The members first met for religious meetings at the house of Daniel May, and were organized in the Fall of 1876, at the residence of Geo. Huffman, about a quarter of a mile west of where the church now stands.

Some of the original members were Daniel May, Geo. Huffman, R. D. Sprague, R. J. Huffman, Mahaly Sprague, J. Wilson, Mason Huffman, Margaret Wilson, Nancy Huffman, Hannah Huffman, Mary White, Lizza Huffman.

There are at present seventeen members who are under the ministerial care of Rev. Barnard Wagner. At present there is no Sabbath-school.

HENRY COUNTY INFIRMARY.

The liberal manner in which the Supervisors of Henry County have provided for the sustenance and comfort of her paupers is a matter of just pride on the part of her citizens. The building known as the "Henry County Infirmary" is an object of admiration to all who visit it, not only on account of its architectural design and its neat and beautiful surroundings, but for its complete and admirable arrangement for the health and comfort of its inmates. It is situated on the County Farm in Munson Township, near the center of the county, and about six miles south from Geneseo.

The Poor Farm consisted originally of one hundred and twenty acres, entered by the county at government price, in 1854. In 1875, the adjoining forty acres belonging to the same quarter-section, was added at a cost of $2,000.

Preparatory to the erection of the present building a tour of inspection was made in several adjoining counties of the state by a committee of the Board of Supervisors, consisting of Dr. R. R. Sales, of Colona; A. W. Perry, of Geneseo; Lewis Shearer, of Cornwall; O. E. Page and Richard Mascall, of Cambridge, to ascertain the manner of treating paupers, the kind of buildings in use for that purpose, and to decide upon some plan for an infirmary in Henry County that should equal, if not surpass, the best models examined. The result of this tour of inspection was the adoption of the plan for the present building, which was drawn up in a rough sketch by the committee before their return home and subsequently adopted by the Board.

A. W. Perry, Dr. R. R. Sales and John Blackburn were appointed the building committee; but owing to the remoteness of the other members, the chief oversight fell upon A. W. Perry, whose indefatigable labors, efficient management, and financial integrity justly entitle him to the credit which has been unanimously awarded him by his fellow citizens.

A. J. Kinney, architect, Chicago, furnished the plan and specifications, after the rough sketch which had been drawn and adopted by the committee. The contract was let to Archer & Frost, of Princeton, Ill., and the work began in 1871.

The building is in the French style of architecture. It consists of two wings with transverse gables, 33 by 86 feet, and connected together by a main building 60 feet long by 40 feet wide, and standing back so that the wings at each end form a projection of 23 feet from the front line of the main building. The whole length of the building, including both wings, is 126 feet. The roof of the main building, between the transverse gables, is Mansard, with ornamented attic windows, and presents a beautiful front view. The structure is of brick and Joliet stone, the latter composing the basement story. It is two stories in height, besides the attic, which affords about the same amount of room as the other floors. The corridors in the lower stories run through the interior of the building at right angles, but, to economize space, they are placed around the outside in the attic. It is well lighted and ventilated, flues for the latter purpose running through all the main walls of the building. It is heated by steam, and hot and cold water supplied to all parts of the house. The water is pumped up from wells and cisterns into a large reservoir in the attic. It is said to be the best building for the cost in the state, the whole cost, including heating apparatus, being about $50,000.

The center building is occupied by the warden and his family. The wings on either hand are for male and female paupers. Each wing contains 32 rooms for paupers, with bath-rooms and water-closets on each floor. The basement is occupied for cooking, culinary purposes, dining-rooms for officers and inmates, laundry, store-rooms, cellar, engine-room, etc. In the rear of the infirmary proper is a separate asylum or room for the more troublesome of the insane inmates, which has been fitted up from the old "poor house" in use before the present building was erected.

The grounds about the Infirmary are very tastefully laid out, and the building occupies an elevation from which drainage is easy. This has been taken advantage of to make the basement one of the most dry and airy apartments of the building. The whole presents a beautiful and attractive home for that class of unfortunates whom adversity or misfortune has compelled to seek a shelter within its friendly walls.

The first steam heating apparatus put in proved inefficient, and was replaced in 1874. This and other changes cost about $5,000.

L. J. Wilkinson was chosen Warden, and Mrs. L. J. Wilkinson Matron, and entered upon their duties May 1, 1872. Their eminent fitness for the place, and excellent management, have kept them in the office till the present time, and will probably keep them there for many years yet to come, should they not be called, as their talents and faithfulness deserve, to preside over some larger institution.

The report of the Board of Supervisors for 1875 shows the following

THE RAILROADS.

The Chicago and Rock Island Railroad, now Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad, was surveyed in 1850, and completed through Henry County, in February, 1854. The Central Military Tract Railroad, now Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad, was surveyed in the Fall of 1852, and was completed as far as Kewanee, in December, 1854, and to Galesburg shortly after. The American Central Railroad, now the New Boston Branch of the C. B. & Q. Railroad, was begun in 1847. It was afterwards sold to the latter company, and was completed in the Spring of 1868. The Peoria and Rock Island Railway was originated by Orrin E. Page, Esq., and Amos Gould, of Cambridge, who procured a charter in 1867. To their unremitting courage and labors in overcoming great obstacles, much of its completion is due. The first train passed over it July 8, 1871. The Rockford, Rock Island & St. Louis Railroad was completed later in the same year. Each side of this large county as well as its center having a railroad, all parts are within easy reach of produce markets, thus very nearly equalizing the value of real estate throughout the county. Had these roads all crossed each other at any given point, doubtless a large city would have grown up there, but as it is, the village population, though considerable, is divided among several good sized but thriving towns.

THE COUNTY SCHOOLS.

B. F. Barge, Superintendent, elected in 1873.

The whole number of persons under twenty-one years of age in the county is 18,518; whole number of school age, 12,379.

The number of school districts is 196; school-houses, 221 — frame, 190, brick, 31.

The number of pupils enrolled in 1876 was 11,206 — males, 5,181, females, 5,638.

Total number of teachers employed, 437 — males, 134, females, 303.

The whole number of months taught during the year was 1,770. The total principal of the Township Fund was $106,282.75. The highest amount ($13,958.60) was in Osco Township; the lowest ($1,200) in Cambridge Township.

Highest monthly wages paid to teachers in graded schools, $188.88; ungraded, $60. Highest monthly wages paid to female teachers in graded schools, $77.77; ungraded, $55. Lowest to male, $20; lowest to female, $16. Total amount received for the year, $156,430.81; total expended, $111,302.65; balance in treasury, $45,128.16.

The Agricultural Society at its late session appropriated $75 to be paid in Premiums for Educational Work at its coming Fair, and the County Superintendent, W. H. Russell, of Kewanee, and H. S. Comstock, of Colona, were appointed a committee to arrange a premium list and specifications for the work. In pursuance they have prepared the following “ PLAN FOR AN EXHIBIT FROM THE SCHOOLS OF HENRY COUNTY.

“ For purposes of the Exhibit the schools of the county shall be divided into three grades, as follows:

“ Grade A—Including all schools of six departments or more.

“ Grade B—Including all graded schools of less than six departments.

Kewanee Lodge, No. 159, A. F. and A. M.—Organized Oct. 2, 1854. Grand Lodge of Illinois granted a dispensation to Rev. Wm. White, as W. M., and, on the 31st of October, a Master Mason's Lodge was opened in Wethersfield, under the name of Wethersfield Lodge, U. D., William White, C. C. Blish, W. S. Charles, E. Pinney, Jas. Elliott, and Henry Sillon being present. Three petitions were received and referred.

On April 14, 1855, the Lodge was moved to Kewanee, where it has since remained.

Oct. 3, 1855, a Charter was granted by the Grand Lodge of Illinois to Wethersfield Lodge, No. 159.

In the Summer of 1867, the Lodge built a new hall, and incurred a heavy debt, which is now very nearly paid.

The line of the succession of the presiding officers is as follows: Wm. White, Chas. C. Blish, Matt. B. Potter, Hamp. Way, R. A. Tenney, Henry T. West, Chas. Trowbridge, Chas. S. Clapp, S. W. Warner, Wm. T. Cross, John B. Moffitt, Albert B. Ashley.

Oct. 4, 1876, permission was given to change the name from Wethersfield to Kewanee Lodge, No. 159.

The Lodge is now in a thrifty condition, in comfortable quarters, with a membership of seventy. Regular meetings on first and third Tuesdays of each month.

Kewanee Chapter, No. 47, R. A. M.—Organized Oct. 29, 1858. Under dispensation a Chapter was opened in Kewanec by Rev. G. E. Peters, H. P., assisted by several companions. One petition was received and referred.

In October, 1859, the Grand Chapter issued a Charter to Kewanee Chapter, No. 47, R. A. Masons.

The Chapter is in a thrifty condition, with a membership of fifty-seven. The presiding officers have been: G. E. Peters, C. Bassett, and Chas. Trowbridge, who was first installed Jan. 9, 1861. Regular meetings on first and third Wednesdays of each month.

Sherman Lodge, No. 535, A. F. and A. M., Orion.—Officers: Frederick Thompson, W. M.; E. J. O'Neil, S. W.; Wm. Lembke, J. W.; H. H. Parks, Secy.; J. H. McGovern, Treas.; H. W. Rishel, S. D.; S. J. Ickes, J. D.; L. H. Muman, T. C. Williams, Stewards; O. P. Wade, Tiler. Meets on Wednesday evening, on or before the full of the moon in each month.

HENRY COUNTY AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

On Wednesday, Feb. 16, 1853, a meeting of citizens of the county was held at Cambridge to organize an agricultural society. Col. Sylvester Blish presided at this meeting, and G. M. King acted as Secretary. A constitution was adopted, and the following officers elected: Frederick P. Brown, President; Sylvester Blish, Vice-president; Henry G. Griffin, second Vice-president; Thomas F. Davenport, Recording Secretary; Ben. Graham, Corresponding Secretary, and Alfred W. Perry, Treasurer. About forty persons joined the society at this meeting, the dues being fixed at one dollar each. It was decided to hold a fair on the 5th and 6th days of October following, and after appointing a meeting for the executive committee and officers to be held on April 4, this meeting adjourned. As was agreed upon, the first fair of this society was held in October, and considering the primitive condition of the county at that date, was a decided success. The fairs were held in the court-house yard two or three years after commencement, when the society purchased twenty acres from H. W. Wells. Quite a large tract of land, including this spot, was held by a Mr. James Wade, of Pennsylvania, under mortgage. He foreclosed this, and the entire tract was purchased at the sale by Amos Gould, who deeded to H. G. Little, J. C. Edwards and A. W. Perry as trustees, the same twenty acres to be used as the society's grounds as long as they should continue the fair, and for five years after its discontinuance, should that occur. This arrangement was continued until Feb. 17, 1875, when the society purchased the grounds from Mr. Gould through these trustees. That, in addition to ten acres purchased in August, 1869, gives accommodations for a large exhibit. The value of the property is now about $12,000, and the sum of $5,000 is yearly offered in premiums. The fairs are annually held in the Autumn, and are considered equal to any in the state.

When first organized and held in the court-house yard, members were admitted on the payment of one dollar annually, and for a few years no admission fees were charged. This was found to be impracticable, and life memberships were issued on the payment of $10 each. In 1871, the entire plan was changed. A stock company was formed, the citizens of the county favoring this plan, and investing very generally in it. Owing to the unsettled condition of the country during the late war no fairs were held during the years 1862 and '63; but with these exceptions, the exhibitions have been continuous since the commencement.

The present officers are: P. H. Beveridge, President, Cambridge; A. A. Crane, Vice-president, Osco; R. H. Hinman, Secretary, Cambridge; F. G. Welton, Assistant Secretary, Cambridge; William H. Shepard, Treasurer, Cambridge; J. C. Edwards, General Superintendent, Cambridge. One of the most important features added to the fair is the premium of $75 offered for the best educational exhibit. The plan and prizes offered are fully given in the chapter devoted to educational interests of the county.

THE OLD SETTLERS' SECOND ANNUAL MEETING.

(From the "HENRY COUNTY CHRONICLE," Thursday, Aug. 17, 1876.)

The second annual reunion of the old settlers of Henry County was held in the park, at Geneseo, last Friday, 11th. A large concourse of people assembled from all parts of the county, not less than three thousand persons being on the ground, and the organization inaugurated in a Hanna grove last year was perfected and made permanent. President James M. Allan called the meeting to order, and Rev. P. K. Hanna, the first Christian minister to settle in this county, offered prayer. Dr. Ira R. Wells, from the committee appointed last year to draft a constitution, read their report, which was unanimously adopted. The constitution adopts the name of "Old Settlers' Association of Henry County," and provides for a president, five vice-presidents, secretary and assistant, and a treasurer, to be chosen annually, except the secretary, who holds his office until removed by death, resignation, or two-thirds vote of the members present at a regular meeting. A committee of arrangements, of seven members, including the assistant secretary and the treasurer, and a committee of necrology, of seven members, including the secretary and the treasurer, are also among the annual officers. Conditions of membership are twenty years' residence before the preceding January, or being married to such a person, and the payment of one dollar. Under this constitution the signatures of over eighty members were secured.

A committee of one from each town was appointed to nominate officers, and recess was then taken for dinner. This was an exercise in which young settlers as well as old participated. The people of Geneseo had provided coffee in endless quantity, and the visitors had brought their lunch; and the maple-shaded park became a royal banquet hall.

After dinner the Chair proposed the question, Where shall our next meeting be held? Thomas F. Davenport invited the Association to meet at Cambridge, and it was unanimously decided by vote that Cambridge be the place, and Friday, August 10, 1877, the day, for the next annual meeting.

The committee on nominations then reported the following, and they were unanimously elected:

President — JOSEPH A. SAWYER.

Vice-Presidents — JAMES GLENN, JOHN PIATT, SR., RICHARD MASCALL, C. B. MINER, WM. T. CROZIER.

Secretary — THOMAS F. DAVENPORT.

Assistant Secretary — P. H. BEVERIDGE.

Treasurer — PHILIP K. HANNA.

Committee of Arrangements — P. H. BEVERIDGE and P. K. HANNA, ex-officio; R. H. HINMAN, A. W. PERRY, M. B. POTTER, M. B. LOYD, M. UNDERWOOD.

Committee of Necrology — T. F. DAVENPORT and P. K. HANNA, ex-officio; IRA R. WELLS, C. C. BLISH, THOMAS NOWERS, SR., LEVI HIGGINS, WM. T. CROZIER.

H. S. Comstock then read the following historical sketch of Colona:

The first settler in Henry County was Dr. Thomas Baker, who came to the county on the 6th day of May, 1835, from Adams County, and settled on Section 16, Colona Township—premises now occupied by George Kinkaid. Marinda Baker, a daughter of Dr. Baker, died in April, 1836, being then about 15 years of age, and was buried on the southeast corner of Section 16. There is now nothing to mark her last resting-place. This was the first death in Henry County.

The next oldest settlers were Thomas and James Glenn and Anthony Hunt, who came from Ohio, and whose nativity was Fayette County, Kentucky. This party settled on Section 20, on the 13th day of May, 1835. On the 15th day of May, James Glenn raised the first house in Henry County. It was built of logs hewn with the broad ax, and was 8x10 feet in size. The father of James Glenn planted a locust seed that was brought from the Ashland farm of Henry Clay at Lexington, Kentucky. This grew to be a large tree, and is now in a flourishing condition. It measures 12 feet in circumference at the base, and four feet from the ground measures 7 feet in circumference. Messrs. Glenn and Hunt broke and cultivated about 12 acres of ground that Summer. Indians, deer and prairie chickens were very numerous in these pioneer days—the former peaceable, the latter so tame that they often came into the yards with domestic animals. Thomas and James Glenn made the first plow ever made in Henry County—the mold-board of which is now to be seen at the residence of James Glenn, and is in a good state of preservation. It is made of burr oak, is four feet in length and sixteen inches in width. It was hewn out with an ax by Mr. Glenn himself. The first barn in Henry County was raised on New Year's day, 1836, by Thomas and James Glenn. This was also of hewn logs. Anthony Hunt settled on the southwest quarter of Section 20, built a log house; and brought his wife from St. Louis, in April, 1836.

The first coal found in Henry County was discovered by Dr. Baker, in the Fall of 1835, on Baker's Creek, which runs through Section 21. This has since been called the Minersville Bank, and was probably at one time the most extensive mine in the county. The vein varies from 4 to 6½ feet in depth.

Erskine Wilson established a ferry over Rock River at the mouth of Green River, in the Spring of 1836. This was the first ferry in Henry County, and was on the main route from Chicago to Rock Island, and travelers in all directions found it necessary to patronize this ferry.

The next settler in Colona Township was George Brandenburg, who settled on the southeast quarter of Section 1, on the 9th day of September, 1835, and built and opened a tavern, which was the first one in Henry County. Mr. Brandenburg was born in Frederick County, Maryland, in 1799.

Stephen Marshall settled on Section 30, in April, 1836, and commenced operations as a farmer.

Joshua Harper and James M. Allan next came to Colona Township, in May, 1836, and lived with George Brandenburg about a year.

Charles Oakley and a Mr. Wilcox, who were agents for the Morristown Colony, came to this vicinity in June, 1836, and lived with Mr. Brandenburg several months. They located the lands for the Morristown Colony, and laid out what was then known as the town of Morristown.

The agents of the Geneseo Colony arrived at the house of George Brandenburg, in July, 1836. They made their location where the city of Geneseo now stands.

In the Fall of 1836 three families came from Genesee County, N. Y., and stopped at Mr. Brandenburg's. James M. Allan, James Bennett, a Mr. Seymour, and Mr. Brandenburg went to where Geneseo now is, and raised the first house, near where the brewery now stands. They cut the logs and raised the house in one day. Thus Geneseo may be said to have been built in a day by Colona pioneers.

Nathan and Abisha Washburn and Luke C. Sheldon, members of the Morristown Colony, settled on Section 30.

Thomas Hodges came to Colona Township in the Spring of 1837, and located on Section 20. Mr. Hodges has been a successful farmer, and has lived to see the growth of the county around him.

The next farm was opened by Joshua Harper, in the Spring of 1837, on Section 17. Mr. Harper built the best log house in the county at that time. This farm was then the largest one in cultivation in the county. Mr. Harper lived a bachelor's life the first year or two—Joseph Turner being his chief cook.

A post-office was established at Dayton in the Fall of 1836, and called Green River post-office—Postmaster, George Brandenburg. This was a distributing office for Morristown and Geneseo. Settlers often came 15 and 20 miles on foot for mail.

The first election held in Henry County was held at the house of George Brandenburg, in June, 1837. Following is a minute of the election:

"At an election held at the house of George Brandenburg, on the 19th day of June, A.D. 1837, for the purpose of electing county officers for Henry County (in the State of Illinois), the following persons were elected: Philip K. Hanna, Joshua Browning, Ithamar Pillsbury, County Commissioners: Joshua Harper, Recorder; Abra M. Seymour, Surveyor, Robert McCullough, Sheriff; Roderick R. Stewart, Coroner; John P. Hanna, Charles Atkinson, Roderick R. Stewart, Judges of Election."

ABRA M. SEYMOUR, JAMES M. ALLAN, Clerks.

Frederick Olmstead then read the following historical sketch of Hanna:

MR. PRESIDENT AND CITIZENS:—Having been assigned the duty of preparing an historical account of the early settlement of the Township of Hanna for this occasion, we are indebted to P. K. Hanna, J. P. Hanna, George Brandenburg and others, for many of the facts incorporated in the address. Owing to other pressing duties and the short space of time allotted for its preparation, there will doubtless occur discrepancies and omissions, which, it is hoped, will meet with a generous criticism.

In the month of June, in the year 1835, a small party left Knoxville, Illinois, for the purpose of exploring the lands of Henry County, with the view of forming a settlement. The party consisted of Rev. Geo. A. Colbert, P. K. Hanna, J. P. Hanna, J. D. Tabor, Samuel and Neal Withrow. Journeying along on horse-back they traveled over nearly the entire territory now within the bounds of Henry County. At this time they found the family of Dr. Thomas Baker, living on Section 16, near the mouth of Green River, in what is now the Township of Colona, and at that time the only family in what is now Henry County. Here they rested a short time enjoying the hospitality of Dr. Baker. Leaving this point they followed what was known as the Black Hawk trail some twenty miles in a northeasterly direction, camping at what is now known as McHenry's Ditch, in the township of Phenix. This trail was nearly on the same ground on which the state road from Chicago, Dixon and Rock Island was afterward located. Leaving this point they returned to Knoxville, where they remained about two weeks. After replenishing their stock of provisions, P. K. and J. P. Hanna, accompanied by Robert Land, of Carmi, Illinois, returned to Henry County to finish their explorations, making their first camp at White Oak Grove, on Edwards River; where they found Mr. Butler and family on a claim which was afterward purchased by what was known as the Andover Colony. Leaving White Oak Grove they traveled north, arriving on the banks of Rock River in the month of July, 1835. Here they set their stakes on Section 32, 18 north 2 east of the 4th P.M., near the present site of the village of Cleveland, which was then occupied by Winnebago Indians. At this time they found Earl P. Aldrich, who had just settled with his family in what is now known as Phenix Township. From here the party once more returned to Knoxville, from whence P. K. Hanna started with his family for their new home in the woods, arriving August 13, on the claim staked out by him the month previous, which was forty-one years ago day after to-morrow, being the first family in Hanna Township, and the fourth in the county. On the 9th day of September of the same year, came George Brandenburg, from Ohio, and located on Section 6, in the Township of Hanna, on land now owned by Thomas Hill. Later in the same year he moved and settled on the southeast quarter of Section 1, in the Township of Colona, where in October, 1836, in company with Mark M. Atkinson, he laid out the Town of Dayton, where he yet resides. Here he erected a log house, into which he moved on Christmas day, 1835, and opened it to the public as a tavern, and which was for years after known throughout the entire state as "Brandenburg's Tavern," and an important stage station: and many a weary pioneer has received a hearty welcome, shelter, and Godspeed from the Judge and his good wife. This was the first public house opened in Henry County. Here was established the second post-office in the county (George Brandenburg, postmaster), where settlers came from nearly all parts of the county for their mail. Here on the 19th of June, 1837, the election for the organization of Henry County was held, and the first county officers were elected, consisting of three County Commissioners, namely: P. K. Hanna, Ithamar Pillsbury and Joshua Browning. Robert McCullough was elected Sheriff; Roderick R. Stewart, Coroner; Joshua Harper, Recorder; A. M. Seymour, County Surveyor.

As an instance of the moral status of the early settlers, we will state that in this election Thos. R. Sanders, the competitor of Joshua Harper, most certainly would have been elected but for the fact of its having been proved that said Sanders had purchased a pair of shoes on the Sabbath day, and to this alone Mr. Harper owes his election. Here, also, on the 27th day of June, was held the first term of the County Commissioners' Court, at which James M. Allan was appointed County Clerk, and Charles Atkinson, County Treasurer. The remaining business of the term consisted in granting a license to Charles Atkinson, John P. Hanna and Geo. Tyler, for a ferry at Cleveland—the ferrymen having to pay for this privilege one dollar and fifty cents. A store at Cleveland, and also one at Dayton, were licensed at this time. Several other terms of the Commissioners' Court were held at this place. Here, also in June, 1838, the first term of the circuit court was held, under Judge Stone.

As an instance of one of the real estate transactions of those days—George Brandenburg traded a one-half interest in the town of Dayton to Mark M. Atkinson, for 1,200 acres of Texas land. Later in the same year came George Albert and E. Walters, with families, and also Henry and Samuel Sullivan, with mother and two sisters, all of whom settled in Hanna Township. The necessary preparations for Winter were at once begun by erecting log cabins, building sheds, cutting hay, and preparing for Winter generally. All our supplies had to be transported from fifty to seventy-five miles with ox teams, which was no trifling matter. Early in the Winter, Collin D. James, a missionary from the Rock Island Mission, organized a religious society. Services were held in the log cabin of P. K. Hanna, being the first services and the first society organized in the county. Rev. James continued to preach to this little band of Evangelists until the Fall of 1836, when he was succeeded by Rev. Asa D. West. These were days of small things, yet of deep interest to the few scattered settlers. The population of the township was further increased in the Spring of 1836, by the arrival of J. D. Tabor, J. P. Hanna, Charles Atkinson and George Tyler, with families; making the entire population of the Township of Hanna, in the Spring of 1836, about forty-one souls.

The first marriage in the county was in Hanna Township, namely: James P. Doge to Miss Samantha Colbert, daughter of Rev. Geo. A. Colbert. This occurred on February 7, 1836, and before the organization of the county, consequently the license had to be procured from Knox County.

In April, 1836, the village of Cleveland was laid out, on the south bank of Rock River, on Section 31, by George Charles, county surveyor of Knox County, for Charles Atkinson and James D. Tabor, being the first town laid out in the county (and it has been laid out ever since). The first log buildings in Cleveland were built in 1836, by George Brandenburg and Thomas Glenn, for George Tyler and Charles Atkinson, the one for Atkinson being a double log house, one-half being used for a store and the other for a dwelling—both of which buildings can be seen to-day in a somewhat dilapidated condition. In the Fall of 1836, came a colony from New York, and stopped at the tavern of George Brandenburg, who with the other settlers of Hanna Township, went with them and helped them to erect their log cabins, which was the beginning of the city of Geneseo, and which colony came to Dayton for their mail for some time afterward. In this year William Paddleford bought land, and in the Fall of 1837, moved on it with his family, where he resided until 1838, when he moved on the farm now occupied by his son, James Paddleford, where Mrs. Paddleford still resides, in the 90th year of her age. The first frame buildings in the county were built at Cleveland, by Atkinson and Wells, in 1836, which can still be seen on the farm of John S. Hanna, in the village of Cleveland.

In 1836 a temperance meeting was held in the double log house of

Charles Atkinson, in Cleveland, by the settlers and people from the Geneseo Colony, and a society organized, it being the first ever held in Henry County. In this same building was held the Presidential election, in 1836, for Martin Van Buren, President, and R. M. Johnson, Vice-President—it being the first Presidential election ever held in the county. Whiteside County being in this precinct, the vote of that county was polled here with Henry. In this election there were 72 votes polled, three of which were democratic—those three were Thomas Glenn, Dr. Thomas Baker, and George Brandenburg, who has been a true democrat ever since, and expects to vote for Tilden this Fall. The returns of this election were made to Knox County, and taken there by George Brandenburg. The Judges of this election were P. K. Hanna, George Tyler, Thomas Glenn and Dr. Baker.

The first school in Hanna Township was organized in 1836, and taught by Narcessa Stewart, who afterward became Mrs. Huntington Wells, of Moline.

In 1836 the population was further increased by the arrival of Dr. Gawyer, a man thoroughly radical but a good citizen, of good moral character, who has since left our town. In the same year came Thomas and Anderson Miller, who settled in this township. In 1837 came Henry Hand, and settled and run the first chartered ferry on Rock River at Cleveland, and who has been a prominent citizen of the township until this day; also, in this year, came D. P. Grove, John Williams, John Searls, Columbia Aldrich, William and James Burnard, Rev. Woodruff and son, all of whom settled in Hanna Township. In the same year came—Stanbro and settled in the east part of town, where he lived to a good old age and was much respected at his death, leaving his son on the homestead, who still occupies it, and who has filled several positions of honor in the county and is now a Justice of the Peace.

As an evidence of the want of good markets in those early days, we state the following:

In 1839 the settlers collected their hogs and drove them to Chicago. It took about three weeks to make the trip. After camping out for this length of time they arrived at the market and sold their pork for from one dollar to two dollars and twenty cents per hundred.

In 1838 came Wm. Whitehead, Thomas Hill, Adrian Vanwinkle, and Wesley Hanna. In the years from 1838 to 1845 the town settled up quite rapidly. Among those coming in those years we will mention a few of the settlers: J. W. Taylor, Adam Hooker and family, also the Linnells, the Henningers, the Quillans, James Miller and Meads, with families, and many others that for want of space we are unable to mention.

James Searles, though a resident of Rock Island County, living on the bank of Rock River, has, from the early history of the town, always been so closely identified with the interests of Hanna, that it seems like one of the early settlers is left out without the mention of his name. He settled where his family now reside, nearly opposite Cleveland, and took a very active interest in schools, churches, and the improvement of our water power on this side of the river. Mr. Searles died only a few days ago, at the advanced age of 74 years, and his funeral was attended at the old settlers' church, in Cleveland, by a very large concourse of friends, and many of the old settlers of Rock Island and Henry Counties.

As an evidence of our growth in wealth and advancement in industrial pursuits since those early days of hard toil and little recompense, we have but to call your attention to our thrifty farmers and stock raisers, with their well-cultivated fields and well-filled granaries, our unexcelled water-power, with unequaled advantages, and extensive flouring mills, our railroad facilities and schools and churches, our ever yielding stone quarries and vast beds of coal, from which millions of bushels are taken annually. In order to substantiate these statements more fully we extend to all a cordial invitation to visit our township and the village of Cleveland, and spend a day on the pleasant banks of Rock River, exploring the labyrinths of our coal beds, and fishing.

Pleasant and interesting remarks were then had from Dr. Gregg, of Rock Island; M. B. Potter, J. M. Allan, William T. Allan, Lewis Shearer, M. B. Lloyd, and John Logan, of Whiteside. The latter announced that the old settlers' meeting of Whiteside County, would be held at Lyndon, on the last day of August.

The speakers elicited much merriment and applause, and their reminiscences were highly interesting. We regret that we can not report them in our limited space. The social features of the reunion were not the least delightful, and when the meeting broke up at about 5 o'clock, every one went away pleased, we are sure, with the occasion, the place, and the people. Especially did this editor, who bore away a token of Mrs. P. K. Hanna's distinguished consideration, in the shape of a beautiful bouquet.

is a small village a few miles southeast of Cambridge. It is the result of the railroad passing through that portion of the county, and was laid out by C. A. Morris, owner of the town site, June 5, 1873. There are a few stores, one or two shops, a railroad depot, and a grain elevator. The number of inhabitants is about fifty. The village at present contains no school, the youth being sent to the district school about one mile south of town. There is one church, the Methodist Episcopal. It was organized by the Rev. G. M. Morey, present pastor of Cambridge M. E. Church, on April 10, 1866. About thirty persons united in forming this church. They had met for divine worship in the Pleasant Valley school-house, where they continued to hold divine service until 1875, when they completed their present commodious church edifice, costing about $1,000. There are at present 88 members, and 40 scholars in the Sunday-school. The pastor is the Rev. H. K. Metcalf. The Rev. G. M. Morey, W. B. Frazell, and S. H. Humes have also labored here.

LYNN

was laid out by Malcom McKillop, Nov. 25, 1870. It is a small town, situated on the St. Louis, Chicago and Rock Island railroad, and contains about one hundred inhabitants. There are three stores, two or three shops of various kinds, and one hotel.

ONE HUNDRED AND TWELFTH REGIMENT, I.V.I.

The One Hundred and Twelfth Regiment, Illinois Volunteers, was mustered into the service of the United States on the 20th and 24th days of September, 1862, at Peoria, Illinois, and was ordered to report to Major General Wright, commanding the Department of the Ohio, at Cincinnati, Ohio. It moved from Peoria on the 8th day of October, 1862, by rail, and arrived at Cincinnati, Ohio, by midnight on the 10th of October, when it was immediately ordered over the Ohio River to report to Major General Gordon Granger at Covington, Kentucky. The regiment arrived at Cincinnati on the 11th of October, and was immediately ordered to prepare for the field. Having been brigaded with the 3d, 4th, Indiana, 70th, 97th, and 108th Illinois, under command of Col. Coburn, of the 33d Indiana, and having obtained transportation and supplies, it marched from Covington, Ky., on the 18th day of October, 1862, for Falmouth, Ky.; but on the 19th day of October it was detached from the brigade and ordered to guard a large supply train to Big Eagle, on the Lexington and Covington pike. The Regiment arrived at Big Eagle on the evening of the 21st of October, and under order marched to Georgetown, Ky., on the 23d, and to Lexington, Ky., on the 24th. It remained in camp at Lexington, Ky., until the 27th of October, when it was ordered to move to Danville, Ky., and arrived there on the 29th of October. On the 21st of March, 1863, the regiment moved for Danville, Ky., arriving there on the evening of the 22d, and at midnight on the 23d it was ordered back to Dick's River bridge, on the Lexington pike, with orders to guard the bridge and hold the opposite side of the river at all hazards. It remained at the bridge until the evening of the 24th, when it fell back to Hickman, at the mouth of the Kentucky River, with the rest of the army retreating before what was supposed to be a superior force of the enemy. From the Kentucky River it marched back to Nicholasville, and from there moved to the way of Camp Dick Robinson, Lancaster, and rab ran to the Cumberland River, where it was put in the pursuit of the enemy. On the 27th of April, 1863, the mounted infantry having overtaken and defeated the enemy at Dutton's Hill, near Somerset, and driven him across the Cumberland River, the regiment moved back to Stanford. In October, 1862, the regiment, on its arrival at Lexington, Ky., was brigaded with the 45th Ohio, and the 18th and 22d Michigan, under command of General Greene Clay Smith, of Kentucky; it remained in command until January, 1863, when Col. Boothell, of the 18th Michigan, took the command. At Stanford the regiment was again detached from the brigade, and ordered to move to Kentucky, where it was again detached from the brigade, and moved to Louisville, Ky., on the 26th of April, 1863, when the new brigade, consisting of the 45th Ohio, 32d Kentucky, and the 18th and 22d Michigan, under command of General P. Knuckle, of the 45th Ohio, marched for Somerset, Ky. At Somerset it joined other troops under the command of Brigadier General S. P. Carter, of Tennessee, and moved to Monticello, Ky., south of the Cumberland River, and aided in driving a body of Rebel troops under command of General Pegram from the place and out of Kentucky into Tennessee. There the regiment was under fire for the first time. From Monticello the regiment returned to Somerset, Ky., where it remained until July, 1863, and where detachments from it were sent to guard the river, and to guard the ferries, and to guard the boats, and to guard the gages, and to guard the locks, by night and by day, and in guarding ferries and ferries on the Cumberland River. While at Somerset, Ky., two hundred picked men from the regiment, under command of Capt. Dunn, of Co. D, with similar detachments from other regiments at Somerset, all under command of Major Dow, of the regiment, joined Colonel Sanders in his celebrated raid over the mountains into East Tennessee. For rapidity of movement, marching over mountains, swimming rivers, by day and night, and for successful execution, baffling the enemy, doing him a great amount of damage, and finally escaping from a vastly superior force, where every man was a hero, the raid was considered one of the most successful of the war. The detachment of the 112th lost eleven men captured, and five men drowned in swimming Clinch River at night. From Somerset, Ky., the regiment moved back to Danville, Ky. and in the month of July assisted in driving about 1,500 Rebels under command of Scott, across the Cumberland. It was four days and nights engaged in the pursuit of Scott, with but little or no rest or sleep, and for more than one hundred miles was skirmishing with the enemy. After capturing about 500 prisoners, and driving many others from the woods, and recovering most of the property stolen by these Rebels, the regiment finally drove the Cumberland River, and returned to Somerset, Ky. The regiment again returned to Danville, Ky., having had one man killed and six wounded in the pursuit, and began the work of preparing for a campaign into East Tennessee. From Danville, moved to Stanford; from Stanford to Crab Orchard, from which place, having completed the necessary preparations, the regiment marched for East Tennessee, with the army under General Burnside. Rebrigaded with the 1st East Tennessee Mounted Infantry, 8th Michigan Cavalry, and 45th Ohio Mounted Infantry, under command of Colonel Byrd, of the 1st East Tennessee Mounted Infantry, the regiment moved to Livingston, Tennessee, on the 1st of September. The regiment actively participated in all of the campaigns in East Tennessee, 1863, and up to February, 1864, in operations in East Tennessee were at Kingston, Post Oak Springs, Athens, Calhoun, Charleston, Cleveland, Sweetwater, Philadelphia, London, Campbell Station, Knoxville, Bean Station, Blaine's Cross Roads, Dandridge, Sevinville, Fair Gardens, Kelly's Ford, Flat Creek Gap, and other places, at many of which it was engaged in numerous skirmishes and battles, and being constantly in the presence of the enemy. At Cleveland one Captain was killed and several men wounded, and about twenty men captured in a skirmish. At Calhoun the 112th captured a large quantity of arms and ammunition, and on the 11th of February, 1864, the 112th brought up the rear; and for the manner in which it was done, holding the enemy in check and saving all the stores, it was complimented in for an official order. It had, however, twenty men captured and one Captain, who were guarding a ford on the Hiawassa, and were cut off at Philadelphia; it made a handsome charge and drove the enemy from the hill, for which it was cheered by other troops, and Major Dow, commanding, as well as the regiment, was highly complimented by General Saunders and other officers. In this charge one man was killed and several wounded. At Knoxville the regiment, with other mounted infantry and cavalry, was thrown out in front to hold Longstreet in check while the town was put in a defensible condition; and on the 18th of November, 1863, behaved most gallantly, and lost about one hundred killed and wounded, and about twenty men cut off and captured. At Bean Station, Dandridge, and Flat Creek, the regiment lost several in each engagement, killed and wounded. A Kell's Ford, on the 28th of January, 1864, the regiment had nineteen wounded, including four commissioned officers, and one man killed. After the fight at Kelly's Ford, the regiment moved to Marysville, Tenn., and from there to Knoxville, where it was dismounted and marched on foot over the mountains to Mount Sterling, Ky., a distance of about two hundred miles. Arrived there on the 23d of February, and remained until the 6th of April, where the regiment was permanently dismounted and moved to Camp Nelson, Kentucky, where, after retraining for the field as an infantry regiment, marched back again to East Tennessee and arrived at Knoxville on the 3d of May. From Knoxville, on the 8th day of May, the regiment moved by rail to Cleveland, Tennessee, and from thence marched to Tunnel Hill, Georgia, and reported to Major General Schofield, commanding 23d Army Corps. The regiment had been rebrigaded with the 100th Ohio, 104th Ohio, 11th and 16th Kentucky, under command of Colonel James W. Riley, of the 104th Ohio, and known as the 1st Brigade, 3d Division, under command of Brig. General Cox, 23d Army Corps. The regiment participated in the campaign of General Sherman against Atlanta. At Resaca, on the 14th day of May, it was actively engaged, and lost some fifty men, killed and wounded, among the latter the Colonel. At Utoy Creek, the regiment, on the 6th of August, 1863, with the brigade, made an unsuccessful assault on the enemy's works and lost seventy-one men, killed, wounded and missing. Among the wounded were the Lieut. Colonel, three Captains and one Lieutenant; three Sergeants and one Corporal were killed. The regiment was engaged in numerous other battles and skirmishes in this campaign. On the 8th of August, the regiment was again rebrigaded with the 63d, 120th, and 124th Indiana, and the 5th Tennessee, under command of Colonel Thos. J. Henderson, of the 112th Illinois. This brigade was known as the 3d Brigade, 3d Division, 23d Army Corps. On the 31st of August, after having cut loose from Atlanta and struck for the Macon railroad, General Cox ordered the 112th Illinois, under command of Major Dow, to report to him personally, when the regiment immediately pushed forward, drove the enemy back, and reached the Macon railroad just in time to cut off two or three long trains and commence the work of tearing up the track. After marching down to Newby, Georgia, and on to Lovejoy, the regiment returned with the army, and with the 23d Army Corps went into camp at Decatur, Georgia. Here the regiment remained from the 8th of September until the 10th of October, when Hood having recrossed the Chattahoochee, the regiment and brigade with Sherman's army moved in pursuit, and marched by indirect marches nearly four hundred miles, passing through Marietta and other towns back to Rome. Here the regiment, with the 23d Army Corps, was separated from General Sherman and sent back into East Tennessee to look after Hood. It accordingly marched to Dalton, Georgia, and from thence to Pulaski, Tenn.; remained in camp at Pulaski until the 2d of November, when it commenced retreating down to Nashville. During the retreat, in the battles of Columbia and Franklin, it lost some forty men, killed and wounded. The regiment also participated in the battle of Nashville, on the 15th and 16th of December. The regiment, with the 23d Army Corps, was then ordered to a new field of operations, and proceeded by steamboat to Cincinnati, and from that city by rail to Washington, D. C. From Alexandria it went by steamship to Port Fisher, North Carolina. The regiment then aided in the reduction of Fort Anderson in driving the enemy from his works at Towo Creek Bridge, and finally from Wilmington, which place was occupied. On the 22d of February, 1865, from Wilmington, the regiment marched to Kinston, N. C.; from Kinston to Goldsboro, from Goldsboro to Raleigh. At Raleigh, moved to Greensborough, where the regiment remained until the 20th of January, 1865, when it was mustered out of the service, and finally discharged on the 7th day of July, 1865, at Chicago, Ill., and on the 8th, at Geneseo, Ill., the regiment was formally dismissed and gratefully received and welcomed home again. The members of the regiment returned joyfully to their homes with the proud satisfaction of having nobly discharged their duty. The regiment was always in the Department of the Ohio, and served in the 23d Army Corps from its organization until the close of the war.

ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FOURTH REGIMENT, I.V.I.

The One Hundred and Twenty-fourth Illinois Volunteer Infantry was organized at Camp Butler, Illinois, in September, 1862, by Col. Thomas J. Sloan, and was mustered Sept. 10, by Lieut. D. E. Cowgery; moved from Camp Butler Oct. 6, arriving at Jackson, Tennessee, on the 9th; was assigned to the 3d Brigade, 1st Division, 13th Army Corps. Moved to Lagrange Nov. 4. On the 28th drove the enemy across the Tallahatchie and advanced to Yocoma River. The Regiment was in 1st Brigade 3d Division, Brig. Gen. John A. Logan, commanding, and 17th Army Corps, Major Gen. James B. McPherson commanding. On Dec. 24, arrived at Tallahatchie River, and January 7, 1863, at Lagrange. Brigadier General J. N. Harle took command of the brigade on the 23d of February, 1863; moved down the river from Memphis to Lake Providence on March 15. Colonel Sloan took command of the brigade on the 17th; went into camp at Berry's Landing, April 18; moved to Milliken's Bend on the 25th; commenced the campaign against Vicksburg on the 30th; crossed the river, sixty miles below Vicksburg, and May 1st was engaged at Thomson's Hill. The 124th was engaged in the battles of Raymond, May 12th; at Jackson, 14th; at Champion Hills 16th, and during the entire siege of Vicksburg, including the charge on the fortifications May 22d, and assault on Fort Hill June 26th. During the latter part of the siege Brigadier General M. D. Leggett commanded the brigade; on the 31st of August, went on campaign to Monroe, Louisiana, Brigadier General John D. Stephenson commanding; Oct. 14th, on McPherson's campaign to Brownsville, and was in battle at that place, Oct. 16th and 17th; on Nov. 7, moved camp to Black River; on the 25th of November the regiments of the 1st brigade, viz.: 20th, 29th, 31st, 45th, and 124th Illinois, and 23d Indiana, engaged in a prize drill, the 31st excelling in drill, and the 124th in picket duty, etc. But at a subsequent contest for a prize banner, offered by Brigadier General Leggett, commanding the division, the 124th received the banner, inscribed, "Excelsior Regiment, 3d Division, 17th Army Corps," from the hands of Major General McPherson, for excelling in soldierly appearance, discipline and drill. On Feb. 3, 1864, commenced the raid to Meridian; on the 14th, had a severe skirmish with the enemy at Chunky Station; returned to Vicksburg March 4. On May 4, under Brigadier General McArthur, moved towards Benton and Yazoo City; was engaged at Benton on the 7th and 10th, and returned on the 21st. From July 1 to 9, the regiment moved with General Sherman on his Jackson campaign, and was engaged in the sharp fights at Jackson Cross Roads, July 5 and 7. From Oct. 14 to 26, was in campaign to White River and Memphis. Remained at Vicksburg on provost duty until Feb. 25, 1865, when the regiment moved to New Orleans and was assigned to 3d Brigade, Col. James A. Geddis, 8th Iowa, commanding, 3d Division, Brigadier General E. A. Carr, commanding, and the 16th Corps, Major General A. J. Smith commanding. On March 12, embarked for Mobile; moved to Dauphin Island and up Fish River, and commenced siege of Spanish Fort March 29. The regiment was the extreme left of the investing line, and with one-half deployed as skirmishers, drove the enemy within their fortifications. The brigade consisted of the 8th Iowa, 81st, 109th, and 124th Illinois; was engaged until the surrender of the fort. On the 13th of April, started for Montgomery; on July 17, 1865, started home for muster out. Arrived at Chicago, Ill., August 3, and was mustered out Aug. 15, 1865, by Capt. George W. Hill, U.S.A.

FIFTY-SEVENTH REGIMENT, I.V.I.

The Fifty-seventh Infantry, Illinois Volunteers, was organized at Chicago, Illinois, in December, 1861, by Col. Silas D. Baldwin, and mustered into United States service December 26, 1861. February 8, 1862 ordered to Cairo, Illinois, moved by steamer to Fort Donelson, and was engaged in the siege of that place February 13, 14, and 15. From there moved to Pittsburgh Landing and was engaged in the battle of Shiloh April 6 and 7. Participated in the siege of Corinth May, 1862, and was engaged in the battle of Corinth October 3 and 4, 1862. December 18 moved to Lexington, Tennessee, marched from there toward Trenton and to Henderson Station, on the Mobile & Ohio Railroad, and afterwards moved to Corinth, forming a part of its garrison. Marched from Corinth to Pulaski, Tenn., and thence to Chattanooga, and there joined Sherman's army for the sea. Was in all the battles participated in by 4th Div., 16th A. C., from Chattanooga to Atlanta, Savannah, and the Carolinas. Was in the grand review at Washington. Mustered out July 7, 1865, at Louisville, Kentucky, and arrived at Chicago July 9, 1865, for final payment and discharge.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Captain Robert H. Graham's Independent Company of Cavalry.

In the Summer of 1861, an Independent Company of Cavalry was raised in Rock Island and Henry Counties, chiefly through the efforts of Captain R. H. Graham of Moline and Lieutenant Frank Curtiss of Geneseo. The company did efficient service for about three months, until captured at the siege of Lexington, Mo., and paroled. After that event, nearly all the officers and men enlisted in other organizations. Lieut. Frank Curtiss became Capt. of Co. "H," 8th Kansas Infantry. The soldiers whose names are here recorded all belonged in Henry County.

First Lieut. Frank Curtiss, was promoted to Capt. of Co. H, 8th Kansas Infantry.

Scattering.

Men belonging to Henry County, who enlisted in various regiments outside, and are not credited to Henry County. Very few of these joined any one organization, and as records do not credit Henry County with them, we have to take their names, and here print as we find them recorded in Henry County records:

Adams F. C. e. Oct. 10, 1862, m.o. July 3, 1865, Sergeant, capt. Aug. 3, 1863, in Andersonville 7 months; escaped Feb. 28, 1865, and wandered in the woods until May 8, 1865, when he reached the Union lines; he was in most of the engagements of his regiments up to the day of his capture.

GALVA TOWNSHIP.

JOHNSON OLOF, deceased, whose portrait appears in this work, was born in the parish of Soderala and Rosenwall, department of Gefle, Sweden, Jan. 30, 1820. He was the son of John and Martha Johnson. He came to America with a company, under the leadership of Eric Jansen, and assisted in the establishment of Bishop Hill Colony, Henry Co. Ill. in 1853. He was one of seven Trustees and business manager and financier. In 1861 he removed with his family to Galva, which he named "Gefle," after his native place in Sweden; but it was never properly pronounced in English, and finally the orthography was changed to Galva. Here he engaged in farming, real estate and grain dealing. He was a liberal, charitable and public spirited man. During the war he contributed liberally of his ample means to support the soldiers, and visited in the field a company raised at Bishop Hill with supplies. He returned to Sweden in 1849, and raised over $6,000 for Bishop Hill Colony. He was a man of great executive ability and business energy, and highly respected by citizens of his adopted country as well as his own countrymen. He was married Nov. 3, 1843, to Christine Johnson. Their first three children died in infancy; three daughters living: Oliva, Christine, and Lillie Valnora. After a life of marked usefulness and integrity, he died July 18, 1870.

BOLING THOS. Painter, Galva; born in Putnam Co. Ind., March 30, 1848; came to this Co. in 1874; Rep; Lib. Mr. Boling is one of our most excellent painters in the county, having followed the trade for 16 years, and gained a reputation unequaled by any. He solicits the patronage of the public. During the war he served in the 146th Reg. Co. I. under Capt. G. W. Baker, and fought successfully in 37 battles. His discharge is worthy of consideration. Was married to Mary McKibbin the 23d day of June, 1869; has four children, all living.
