THE CHINESE THEATRE

WITH ORIENTAL ACROBATS AND ACTORS

White City Amusement Park, 63rd Street and South Parkway, Chicago, IL (1905)

Typical of the flowery kingdom is the little Chinese Theater, located just south of the Peristyle on the west side of the "Board Walk." This is imported direct from China entertainments are exactly the same as the shows given there by their own theatrical companies.

Each member of the cast has been brought to this country direct from the Flowery Kingdom, and has appeared in his native land as an actor. The scenery has been used in one of the theaters in Peking, and is most beautiful, being a good example of the scenic work of Chinese artists.

The little-footed women who appear in the plays presented are some of the very few Chinese women in this country, and visitors to White City should not fail to see this most interesting and educating show.

The principal play which this Oriental company presents is typical of their country, and is of the regulation length. Many of these Chinese people are seeing the first view of America, coming directly to Chicago after they landed in New York.

The company will remain at White City during the summer and will probably delight thousands of Chicagoans with their performances.
