Womac, Illinois

Womac, Illinois was located in Macoupin County just five miles east of Carlinville, Illinois. Founded in 1870 and named in 1876, it was a station stop on the Chicago and North Western Railroad.

The Womac post office was established in 1888, and remained in operation until it was closed in 1910. The community was named for John J. Womac (born in 1820), a shop keeper and local landowner. There is still a road called Womac.
